PARENTS GROUP OPPOSES SEX EDUCATION PROGRAM

Diocesan 'Family Life' Series Draws Opposition

By JACK WITTENMEIER

The Diocese of Columbus will introduce a Family Life series into six elementary schools this September on a pilot basis.

Part of the program will be devoted to sex information.

As has been the case in other cities and in other schools when sex education has been introduced into the curriculum, the Diocesan program is not without opposition.

The opposition to the Diocesan program comes from the Catholic Parents of Columbus, whose executive secretary, Mrs. Bruce Clark, claims active membership of about 800 families.

CPC, organized about five years ago to "keep objectionable religion books from getting into the schools," finds the Family Life series as its biggest challenge.

"Before this (Family Life series), things were too nebulous. Now we've got something in black and white to point to and say 'This is wrong,' " says Mrs. Clark.

On Sunday, Mar. 19, CPC distributed 10,000 flyers at some 40 Columbus-area Catholic churches, outlining the group's objections to the Family Life program.

The purpose of the four-page, printed flyer, according to Mrs. Clark, was "a hope that once parents see the detailed sex, the intrusion into private family affairs, and the dangerous psychological probing of young children's minds, the majority of people will petition the Bishop to keep the program out of the schools."

According to Father David Sorohan, Diocesan Superintendent of Schools, the CPC opposition represents the only sustained resistence to the Family Life program he's encountered.

Obviously reluctant to speak disparagingly of CPC, Fr. Sorohan's only comment on CPC-circulated materials was that most of the program examples were taken from the teacher's manual portion of the program--intended only as a guide in student presentations.

Four Columbus area schools (Immaculate Conception, Saint Aloysius, Saint Augustine and Saint Timothy) and parochial elementaries in Lancaster and New Philadelphia have been selected as "pilot schools."

Evaluation of the program is scheduled for December, 1972 and January, 1973. The evaluation, according to Fr. Sorohan, will "attempt to measure the attitudes of students, teachers and parents" to the program.

The results of the mid-school year evaluation will help determine whether the program will be implemented into all Diocesan schools in the near future, according to Fr. Sorohan.

"Our biggest problem," says Fr. Sorohan, "has been an apparent lack of credibility about this program being a voluntary program.

"Each of the pilot schools chose to be included and any parent, having examined the program, is free to exempt his child if he wishes," the Diocesan superintendent added.

The Diocese, in fact, appears to have taken great pains to involve parents in the Family Life program.

For example, no school may begin a program unless it holds a prior parents' meeting at which all elements of the program are set forth are explained.

The program guidelines further stipulate that "the parent, as primary teacher, is to be fully informed and as involved as possible in fostering the goals of the program."

A special handbook for parents (which corresponds to the teacher's manual) provides "each parent with every opportunity to foresee and complement the presentation made by the school."

Mrs. Clark strongly disagrees that parents have been involved in the program.

"There was never any kind of a poll or survey taken of parents in the Diocese", she claims. "It was all decided for us and the last step was to inform parents that the Diocese had adopted the program."

"It can't be a voluntary type of thing. If children are taking these kinds of courses and a child is taken out of the class, he's going to find out pretty darn fast what happened or was discussed in that classroom," Mrs. Clark says.

Mrs. Clark also suggests that children excluded from the course by their parents would be subjected to "pressure and a certain amount of ridicule."Children who have been pulled out of religion classes have had to sit and write an essay on something. That's a means of pressure, a type of punishment."

The program is designed to be taught to boys and girls together, although Fr.Sorohan admitted this type of integrated presentation can be optional.

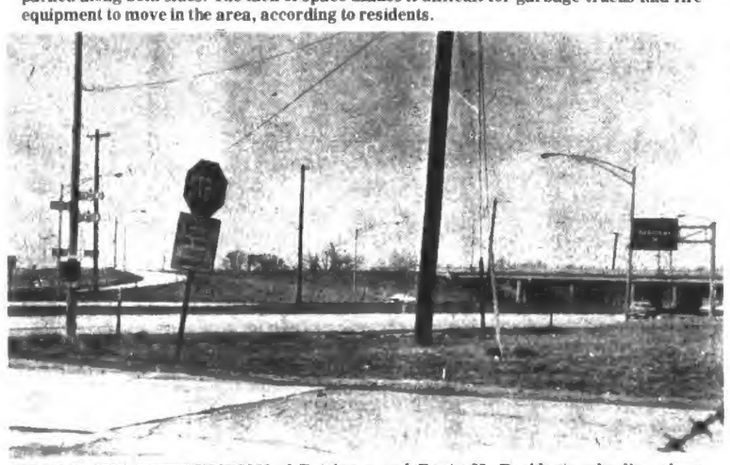
CLOSE-UP VIEWS OF COMMUNITY NEWS



Vol. XV No. 29 Total 805 | Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, April 5, 1972 | 15 Cents

BARRELS ARE USED to mark the U-turn lane for residents who live off Petzinger Road. The exit ramp from I-70 ends just beyond the entrance to the road so motorists have to make the U-turn and back-track to get home. This is one of the several problems voiced by Mr. and Mrs. Philip Hollander who live on Kings Row Court, at the end of Petzinger Road.

LACK OF PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION in the Kings Row Court area has forced many residents to become two and three car families. Parking is a problem with so many vehicles and the street is reduced to a one lane passage because of the number of cars parked along both sides. The lack of space makes it difficult for garbage trucks and fire equipment to move in the area, according to residents.

THIS IS THE INTERSECTION of Petzinger and Route 33. Residents who live along Petzinger must try and turn onto 33 just south of the entrance and exit ramps for the freeway. The sign posted just below the stop sign forbids slow moving vehicles and pedestrians from entering the busy highway. Philip Hollander, a resident off Petzinger Road, said youngsters in the area cannot leave the area unless they are driven, and thus are virtually trapped in the neighborhood with no recreational facilities.

'ISOLATION' IN KINGS ROW

Residents Voice Complaints On Neighborhood Planning

By LYNN WILLIAMS
Spectator Staff Writer

If we ignore them, maybe they'll go away.

That's how an East Side family believes city planners feel about their area and their problems.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip B. Hollander, of 2796 Kings Row Ct., attended the recent meeting between city planners and residents of the Berwick and Eastmoor areas, but were not satisfied with the answers.

"This 20-year plan for Columbus has our neighborhood oriented toward Eastland and Easthaven, but we belong to Berwick," Mrs. Hollander claims.

Kings Row Court is located just south of I-70 off College Avenue or Route 33 on Petzinger, a dead end street. Two other large complexes are also located on the street.

"Our closest schools are in Berwick but our kids are bused to Eastmoor or Johnson Park," Mrs. Hollander added.

The area plan calls for the freeway to be the boundary for Berwick, but the Hollanders feel Refugee Road is the natural boundary.

"Our ties are with Berwick. Our doctors are there, our closest stores and businesses are there--not to the south."

The Hollanders said they were told by planners the reason they were not to be part of Berwick was in an effort to preserve the characteristics of that community.

"Berwick is mostly single-family type dwellings and so they don't want these apartment complexes along Petzinger," Hollander said. "But what happens here is bound to affect Berwick."

Some of the problems which face residents in the area are the fact that Petzinger is a dead end street and the only exit is onto 33; the fact that there are no open spaces for youngsters in the area; and the lack of public transportation.

Petzinger enters Route 33 just south of the on and off ramps for I-70.

"There is a stop sign at that intersection and traffic is so heavy on 33 that it is almost impossible to turn out of here right or left," Hollander said.

"Cars are traveling at between 50 and 60 miles an hour along there because they are either just getting ready to get on the freeway or are just getting off."

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hollander said in order to get to work in the morning they must leave before 7:30 a.m. as traffic congestion after that time is "unbelievable."

"Petzinger used to go through to Courtright Road, but then James Road and the freeway cut across and they left no underpass for us to get out," Mrs. Hollander said. "When we asked city officials about this they explained that it had been a mistake but said nothing about correcting it.

"Children in the neighborhood cannot leave the area without being driven, crossing a freeway or breaking the law," she added.

There is a sign just below the stop sign at the intersection of Petzinger and 33. The sign forbids slow-moving traffic or pedestrians from entering.

"Our kids can't ride their bikes to the Jewish Center just north on College and if they miss the school bus they can't walk to school," Mrs. Hollander said. "There's no place for them to play baseball or other games except in the streets."

Hollander said one of the complexes was putting in some stores because residents could not conveniently get out to buy groceries.

"The residents demanded these services because we do have a problem in being isolated or trapped here.

"We were told that it is impossible to put a light up at the intersection because it was too near the freeway and on a highway."

Hollander said another problem was coming home from downtown and exiting I-70 onto 33. "The ramp ends just at the turn into Petzinger and so you have to go beyond Petzinger to a U-turn marked by some barrels and try to get into the left hand lane," Hollander said.

"In heavy traffic this is pretty difficult. You then have to make the U-turn and come back to the turn-in."

He said construction had been started to move the entrance to Petzinger down to the U-turn but that he did not feel this would eleviate the problems.

Hollander said it was legally impossible to go east on I-70 from their house.

"You have to turn left on 33 and go past the ramp to I-70 east because there is no left turn lane to the ramp. So you have to go down to some business parking lot and turn around and come back."

The Hollanders also said because of the transportation problems in the area most families have two cars and many have three.

Hollander said he teaches at Ohio State University and has to have one car. His wife works elsewhere and needs a second while their son needs a third to go to work.

"Before we got the second car I had to take a cab from here to the corner of Livingston and College Avenues so I could catch a bus," Mrs. Hollander said.

"If COTA proposes to have a bus service the Eastland area, it should then go down Refugee Road, come down 33 and into our area."

The Hollander's admit concern over talk that a fourth complex may be built across 33. "This area just won't support another large complex. If the planners want to preserve the area they had better start limiting the building along here."

Hollander illustrated his point about the area being isolated by recalling a fire along the railroad tracks which bound the neighborhood to the south.

"The fire trucks could not even find this area we are so hard to get to. And when they do have to come, there are so many cars parked along the roads, it's very difficult for them to get in and out. I don't know what would happen if we had a really big fire."

CPS Projects In; Transfer Out

The Columbus Board of Education action yesterday was largely limited to formalizing the decisions predetermined through consideration at the committee - of - the - whole meeting last week.

This action included a protest against a petition to transfer Columbus City School territory to Bexley and approval of a limited SEED program and a Directive Teaching Project. (The last item was still hanging fire at press time, but seemed certain for approval.)

Before tackling these matters the board members heard William L. Buckel, 1641 Hess Blvd., who again sought a commitment from the board on the matter of policy concerning teenage pregnancy and marriage and sex education.

Dr. John Ellis, superintendent, told Buckel that his suggestions would involve changes of policy that would not be hastily made.

Dr. Ellis's recommendation that school officials be directed to appear in opposition to the proposed transfer before either the State Board of Education or the State Department of education was approved. (The 43 acres involved are just west of Bexley).

In support of his recommendation, the superintendent cited his position that excellent educational programs are available in Columbus Schools and that with the transfer, the City School would suffer the loss of both "human resources" and $925,000 in task base.

The recommendation of Dr. Ellis for approval of Project SEED cut the scope of the program at least by two thirds from the figure recommended by the non-profit organization "selling" it.

Furthermore, the approval was asked--and received--contingent upon its being financed through state rather than local funds.

The project, involving motivation of disadvantaged children through successes in abstract mathematical subjects taught by professionals from the scientific fields, will begin next fall.

The price is $150 per pupil.

Considerable discussion arose over approval of the Directive Teaching Project proposed for Thurber Elementary School for next year.

The program involves individualized study programs in an effort to correct the learning disabilities in the school where the average sixth grader is two years below national norms.

The problems arose when Mrs. Marie Castleman, learning the white-black ratio in the school will be 80-20, suggested the school selection did not take into due consideration heterogeneity.

It appears, however, the matter will be ironed out with expanding the school boundaries sufficiently to provide 15 classrooms of children (Thurber now has only seven classes) from the immediate neighborhood.

Mock Convention Planned At Capital

Eight area high schools will be participating along with 28 other Ohio schools at the Republican and Democratic Mock Political Conventions at Capital University, April 8 and 15.

Participating students will simulate delegates roles and will construct and approve party platforms, as well as nominate presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

On the Friday nights prior to the conventions, caucus meetings of the platform committees will be held with two representatives from each of the school taking part in this stage of the preparations.

The Republican convention will be held the first Saturday and Bexley Mayor Kenneth D. McClure will give the welcoming address.

U.S. Representative Samuel Devine of the 12th district will preside as honorary chairman. The keynote address will be given by Ohio Senator Donald E. "Buz" Lukens.

The Democratic convention will follow on the 15th with former Whitehall Mayor Paul Haytcher giving the welcoming address.

Ohio Senator Anthony Calabrese will preside as honorary chairman and Ohio State Treasurer Gertrude Donahey will present the keynote address.

Schools participating in the conventions from the area are: Walnut Ridge, Bishop Ready, Westland, Central, Reynoldsburg, Bexley, Columbus Academy, and Bishop Hartley.

The event is sponsored by Capital University's Political Science Department as an effort to provide high school students with a "unique learning experience" and to give them "valuable insight into the operation of the political party conventions."

Ecology Expert Lectures At Capital University

Ecology expert James Ridgeway will speak at Capital University on Monday, April 10, at 8:15 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium as the final offering in this year's Artist-Lecture Series.

Ridgeway is the author of "The Politics of Ecology" which has taken the Nixon administration to task "for reneging on its promise to end pollution."

Ridgeway asserts that the government has failed in its responsibility to the American people, and he believes--despite all the clamor about ecology in recent months--we are no closer to solving the pollution problem than we were ten years ago.

The answer, he contends, constitues the major scandal of our time: "Government and industry have discovered that pollution pays--by putting profit first, they are exploiting the ecology issue, cheating the public and helping to destroy the environment."

Tickets are available at the door or by contacting the Capital University Ticket Office at 236-6901. Mees Hall is located off College Avenue on Mound Street, facing E. Main Street.

Miller Wins Top State FFA Honor

Groveport-Madison High School student Dave Miller has been selected to receive the State Future Farmers of America degree, the highest degree conferred on FFA members in Ohio.

Miller, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, will be honored at the State Convention April 29.

The degree is awarded on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and participation in FFA activities. Only two per cent of the membership are selected to receive this honor annually.

Miller has served in the school FFA program as student advisor and secretary and was recently elected president.

Parents Oppose program . . . . . .

"We'll leave that (coeducational presentation) up to local decision. We're willing to go into segregated sessions if that's the wish of the individual school."

The Diocesan superintendent hopes the presentation remain integrated, however, explaining that "we'd like to keep the program low-keyed and put no special emphasis on it.

"Once you focus and emphasize this is something different, you take away from the human growth and development concept of the program."

Fr. Sorohan emphasized that, besides being a voluntary program, no grades would be given and no audio-visual aids would be used.

The books in the Family Life Education series are: GRADE ONE - "Families Are For People" (discusses family life and child's relationship in the family, his image of himself); GRADE TWO - "No One Like Me" (takes up the larger aspects of family, e.i. neighborhood, friends, etc., introduction of child's uniqueness in these social units);

GRADE THREE - "Life Is All Around Us" (life cycle of plants and animals, attention given to animal families and reproduction, human family's special role in creation);

GRADE FOUR - "Discovering You" (human life cycle, the human body, its parts and functions, day-to-day emotional and mental changes that take place in people);

GRADE FIVE - "The Changing You" (the child's mental and physical growth during puberty, the human reproductive system, child's changing role in the family and with friends and peers);

GRADE SIX - "A Time For Growing" (childbirth, heredity, continues treatment of psychological changes taking place in child);

GRADE SEVEN - "Understanding Yourself" (concentrates on emotional, psychological and social factors of growing up as child assumes more responsibility);

GRADE EIGHT - "Becoming A Person" (extends concepts of book seven, discusses internal and external influences in making mature judgements).

The five basic themes which are interwoven throughout the entire program are: the family, understanding yourself, interpersonal relations, psycho-sexual development and the development of moral values.

The Family Life-Sex Education Program philosophy, as designated by the Diocesan department of education, stipulates that "In the schools, sex instruction should not be offered in isolation but taught as an integrated curriculum that develops values."

The Diocese-adopted Benziger "Becoming A Person" series has undergone extensive testing in parish schools in the Chicago Archdiocese.

Fr. Sorohan admits that the Chicago program, introduced about two years ago, is still in the evalution stage. "It's too soon to tell if the attitudes of the youngsters has changed," he concluded.

"Families are recognized as the first educators by the Church...However, they cannot do the job alone...The school must assist and complement what the family has done in the first years of children's education."

Speaking specifically of the pilot program, Bishop Elwell adds, "We have found that when parents are completely informed of all the aspects of the program,they are, almost without reservation, in favor of the program. Part of this program is devoted to sex information. More and more Catholic school systems are adding family life programs to their curriculum, carrying out Second Vatican Council's call for positive training and instruction in chastity."

The crux of the differences between Catholic Parents of Columbus and the Diocesan Board of Education seem to revolve around what Vatican Two said about sex education.

Diocesan materials (whose guidelines are adapted from guidelines of the Archdiocese of Chicago School Board) refer to a portion of the Declaration On Christian Education of Vatican Two which reads. "As they advance in years, they should be given positive and prudent sexual education."

In its anti-Family Life program materials, CPC quotes from the encyclical "Christian Education of Youth" which reads:

"Far too common is the error of those who with dangerous assurance and under an ugly term propagate a so-called sex-education, falsely imagining they can forearm youth against the dangers of sensuality by means purely natural, such as fool-hardy initiation and precautionary instruction for all indiscriminately, even in public; and worse still, by exposing them at an early age to the occasions, in order to accustom them, so it is argued, and as it were, to harden them against such dangers."

It would appear to be a matter of interpreter and interpretation.

Mrs. Clark, who believes the likelihood that the Family Life series will be incorporated into all Diocesan schools next year is "100 percent", plans a lecture on the subject at Brookhaven High School Apr. 24.

"That's all I can tell you about at the present time," she continued, adding that she'd rather keep other," more sensational" plans under wrap at present.

Asked if she believed CPC could block September's pilot school go-ahead, Mrs. Clark replied: "I feel we're right. It's up to God what eventually happens. I only hope that the Bishop will see that people are concerned about this program."

Dr. Delgado, professor of physiology at Yale, is a native of Ronda, Spain.

His research has focused on the relationship of brain physiology and behavior; his now famous demonstration of stopping a charging bull via a radio controlled electrode in the animal's brain indicates the scope and depth of his investigation.

Dr. Delgado has helped open new fields in brain research. Some of his more startling discoveries are that mental activities such as fear, pleasure, and pain can be induced, inhibited, or modified by direct stimulation of the brain.

His research has led to new and creative approaches to the treatment of mental disturbances, epilepsy, and brain surgery.

Dr. Delgado's appearance at Capital is co-sponsored by the University and the Martha Holden Jennings Foundation of Cleveland. The lectures are presented to 350 selected public school teachers in the central Ohio area.

THIS LARGE, stuffed bunny was placed in the "temporary" custody of Carol Shriver, 5418 W. Broad St., this week after her name was drawn as The Spectator's "Bunny Contest" winner. A Lousy Joke?

Women liberationists have a righteous cause. For centuries they have been regarded as second-class citizens with privileges doled out to them as parsimoniously as a mother guards her cookie jar.

Particularly patronizing has been the tokenism with which doors to the executive suites of industry have been opened to women and any working women can tell you that equal pay for equal work is all too often a myth.

However, along with the chauvinistic attitudes which led to somewhat ridiculous extremes of rebellion in the past decade, a degree of chivalry prevailed which made the velvet bonds of sexual discrimination less than galling.

The constitutional amendment wending its way through the states toward ratification undoubtedly will provide American women with a vocational opportunity that has previously been withheld.

But it also appears that they may learn that under the tinsel wrapping of equal opportunity lies an ugly can of worms.

Organized labor labels the contents of the gift package "exploitation" and has fought repeal of the protective legislation that stamped out the sweatshops of another day and curtained women from arduous toil and employment providing rampant opportunity for assault.

It is true that the restrictive legislation banned women from some highly lucrative jobs–and that the Woman of the Seventies bares little resemblance to the Gibson Girl.

Female labor laws were long overdue for remodeling, but razing them seems almost as if Congress is duping women into being the straight man in a rather lousy joke.

Rosie the Riveter is one thing, but Beulah the Blast Furnace Hand is something else and Tess, the Night Taxi Driver yet another.

Furthermore, the overwhelming strength shown in defeating an amendment that would have exempted women from military service indicates a "You-Asked-For-It-And-Now-You've Got-It" attitude from Congress that is, at best, petulant and, at worst, revengeful.

It is difficult to believe that the American male actually wants to see women in combat, but the spectre is real.

Whether members of the Women's Lib movement care to face it or not is irrelevant–it is a fact of life that the female of the species is more physically and emotionally vulnerable than her male counterpart.

She was engineered to bear children and not to be a steveadore, and was pre-programmed to rear those children, not to kill.

Congressional refusal to anticipate the problems that can arise leaves a great demand for discretion from business, industry and the military.

The advertising cliche "You've come a long way, baby" was never more relevant.

We only hope that path won't prove to be one leading to a burial ground of the greater implications of feminism.

Read, Sally, Read!

A private school in California has taken the McGuffey readers (that for decades have been regarded as only collectors' items) and put them back in harness.

And while educators throughout the nation bemoan the fact that Johnny can't read, the San Rafael school is using the 19th Century reader to insure that Johnny can.

Taking five-year-olds as first graders, the school using the readers (which successfully taught children born during the Civil War to read via sounding out words) has pupils reading fluently by Christmas.

And the books they read by mid-year are a far cry from the Sally, Dick and Jane primers and their counter-parts which have contributed so largely to the functional illiteracy of thousands.

The disasterous "sight-reading" program spawned in the forties and generally not yet subjected to euthanisia, allows a child to amass as few as 20 words to his reading vocabulary in three years.

Even if the same child were forced to memorize 1,000 words a year, it would take almost a millenium to learn the words in a standard dictionary.

The proof of the West Coast pudding lies within the fact that its pupils scored in the 95th percentile on the Stanford Achievement test last April. The national average is the 50th percentile.

A text book salesman recently "let it slip" that Columbus Public Schools is quietly experimenting with new texts with strong phonetic emphasis in one elementary school.

This is well and good–but what about the youngsters in the other 137 elementaries within the city?

Are they to be allowed to remain handicapped through life by sight reading which rivals the Chinese characters or ideograms in its impracticality?

Letters To The Editor

Backs Mass Transit, But Not Levy

To the Editor:

The point behind this letter is directed to Mr. E.C. Ellis who recently (Mar. 29 edition) had a letter published in The Spectator (Reader Berates COTA Levy).

This bothers me, that a person who doesn't have as much as passing knowledge with COTA is allowed to attack COTA in this manner. What is more bothersome is you printed it.

Should Mr. Ellis have researched the topic any, he would have been amazed that:

(A) The Ohio Legislature, in its' 1970 session, passed the law that allowed for the formation of a transit system (Title 3, Section 306.01-306.90 inclusive). This law covers anything from reasons for the Authority to constitutionality of the Authority.

(B) Frank J. Ryan is his representative on the board for COTA from Bexley.

(C) Bexley already pays $1,264.72 for the support of this transit authority.

Further response to Mr. Ellis's letter is his "why don't you ask the mayor." The mayor has one Ombudsman to listen to the complaints of citizens and a day a week is set aside where citizens can talk to the mayor on a one-on-one basis on community problems.

Mr. Ellis is correct in so much as CTC rates are concerned. Since 1964 CTC has dropped from 25.9 million paying riders to 17.6 million in 1971 to a projected 14.0 million in 1973. What person, in his right mind, would want to buy a dying business?

Here in Lincoln Village (North and South) ex-Prairie Township trustee Paul Hiett and myself have done considerable research and have spoken to many groups, from private citizens to Civitan clubs. We have attended every meeting held by COTA and I know Mr. Smith (president of COTA Board of Trustees).

I am opposed to the levy but in favor of mass transit.

Moral Rationalization Appalling

To the Editor:

I happened to read your editorial supporting a state lottery (Mar. 29 edition). Your moral rationalization is appalling!

Should murder be legalized because crime syndicates use it to reap benefits?

Legalized gambling does absolutely nothing to promote a strong society. It helps create and foster the love of money.

Most gamblers lose; and the poorer man is more likely to want to try to get rich quick, so he loses the most.

It is obvious that Jesus Christ is not your leader. He does not approve.

Rigid Rules Govern 'Drug Game'

EDS. NOTE: Mrs. Judith C. Patterson, an Appleton, Wisconsin, mother, has been the driving force behind the Appleton-Linkletter Plan, a plan designed to get community residents from all segments of the community involved in combatting drug abuse, rather than have them operate separately. Reynoldsburg, Bexley and Whitehall are among the 2,101 communities in the 50 states and Canada who have adopted the plan. This publication of the three-part series "Drug Abuse-Let's Compete For A Solution" is its first in the Central Ohio area. (Copyright 1972 by Judith C. Patterson)

PART ONE OF THREE PARTS

In 1858 Abraham Lincoln, referring to the Bible, said, "A house divided against itself cannot stand." He referred to the slavery that cursed a land and was about to turn American against American in order to resolve one man's right to enslave another's body.

One hundred years later we are again fighting a battle against slavery, a slavery that imprisons a man's mind. The slavery of drug abuse is a crisis every bit as severe as the slavery that brought a nation to Civil War, a war that, frighteningly, spawned the very narcotics addiction we see today. Morphine was the anesthetic and pain killer indiscriminately used on battle casualties.

We resolved the Civil War by shedding blood, determining on paper that one man could not enslave another. When the guns grew cold and the fires went out across our land we thought we had learned that all men could now live as brothers, all men could walk free, all men could be equals. Our house could no longer be divided and we could now stand and progress, facing difficulties together.

It would seem that man needs some kind of slavery to exist. If one cannot be enslaved physically, then mentally seems to be the alternate choice. Rousseau said, "...coercion created slavery, the cowardice of the slaves perpetuated it...slaves lose everything in their chains, even the desire of escaping from them." How well and how aptly these words describe the enslavement of drug abuse.

Faced now with a national horror that has had more philosophy, rhetoric, movies and printed words surrounding it, why then is this writing any different than all that has come before? Perhaps because it is time to illustrate that we may not choose to solve our difficulties and in fact, with our very actions, would appear to be doing everything short of openly declaring defeat where this problem is concerned.

We are recreating a sophisticated Civil War – freaks versus straights, experts versus amateurs, education versus rehabilitation, philosophy versus action, American versus American and all in the name of obtaining eventual victory over drug abuse and all other affiliated social and moral difficulties.

We are now witnessing chaos in an area of the problem that lies beyond that of dealing with the person who has the problem and those that he influences because of his actions. In this area we are witnessing a new game called, "Let's Compete For The Solution To Drug Abuse." This is an interesting game and has interesting rules that are worth explaining, mainly because they shed light on why we could lose our war against drug abuse.

In order to play "Let's Compete For The Solution To Drug Abuse," it is preferable for a player or potential player to have hit bottom in the drug scene before attempting to play. This rule has a modified area that explains how society will respond to the horror of anyone with personal tribulations, especially if the person in question has an ability and willingness to articulate the same publicly–public articulation is quite important!" This qualification for the game is called "someone who has been there really knows." The player is called a "has been" for short. The qualification is worth four extra points and advances the player two places before the others have even begun - unless of course there happens to be a challenger. In this case the two players attempting to become qualified "has beens" must play a duel to a verbal death for starting position, since the game allows only one "has been" to a game.

There are many other player types allowed and, in fact, necessary to win the federal grant (this is the sought after money and eventually contributes to winning the game itself). An additional player is a person who has had some training in psychology, sociology and counseling - not necessarily professionally - but it is preferred. He may possess dubious credentials but as long as he can muster a sesquipedalian vocabulary satisfactory enough to advance him beyond the game approval board (frequently composed of those in county, city and state government, on fiscal control boards and frequently heading county and state institutions) he may play.

Another extremely desirable player is one who is a specialist in education programs. He is the player who will seek to rewrite what already has been written and will attempt to dazzle a community with a new approach that will never completely be made clear to anyone. This player needs no background or knowledge whatsoever concerning drugs or drug abuse. It is automatically assumed that because he is employed in this field he is qualified. This player, because of his vocation, may immediately advance two places along with the "has been". If this player is also qualified in "double-talk" (to be explained momentarily) he may advance three places.

This game is really played most happily when several experts are included. An expert may be defined as one who knows something you do not know and who manages to keep from telling it in your presence lest you learn and also become an expert. (Whew!) Employing this evasive technique is called double-talk by amateurs. An expert sometimes possesses a side specialty called "an ability to provide guidelines for in-kind contributions to obtain federal funding". If an "expert player" is qualified in double talk he can immediately take a three place advanced position. If the "expert player" can double-talk and qualify in the second category as well, he may advance six places because his value in obtaining the federal grant and possibly winning the game is obvious. (Do not let personality have any bearing on attitude in playing the game; Qualifications must be considered ahead of any social aberration).

There are a few other players, not nearly as important as the previously mentioned, but necessary nonetheless. These players, listed in decreasing importance are, "yes men," parents of children uninvolved in drug abuse, young people uninvolved in drug abuse, interested people who are technically unqualified to enter specialized fields because they did not go to college or were traumatized during potty training after having been placed on a cold toilet seat at 3:30 a.m. by a crabby and tired mother, or they possess talents that pose a real and definite threat to the security base of the experts who wish to play along.

In this last category of necessary but not important players there is no way to begin the game as a player in an advanced starting position, unless of course the player wishes to run the obstacle course. The obstacle course consists of varying degrees of public and private attack on reputation, credibility, personal motivation for having become involved, along with the predictable hammering away at the lack of qualifications needed to sit at the game board with the experts for all of the previously mentioned reasons. If the unimportant player wishes to run the obstacle course and should not have a nervous breakdown (for causing a nervous breakdown the other players all score five points) or publicly collapse or simply give up in frustration (frustration is always assumed to represent inability and proof of disqualification. A player successfully employing the frustration tactic - placing the "best possible" misconstruction on everything automatically becomes a contender for the federal grant) ... if he survives this course he may start at the same position as the lowest ranking "yes man". He may at no time occupy a place with or equal to that of an expert!

This "game" has many objectives and there are several ways it can be played – for example – one or more players may ally with one another to attempt to obtain the federal grant. This alliance, even though it must appear to be sincere and well intended or fault points will be meted out, need only last until the federal grant is obtained. Upon the awarding of the grant all implied relationships or actual relationships and friendships are immediately dissolved, all players revert to former positions and may again attack each other openly.

Throughout the "game" there are various traps that can be disastrous to different players. One trap is that of underesttmating an unimportant player and falling into the "exposure trap." This trap consists of being exposed as an expert and having to share whatever it is that qualifies one as "expert". When this happens an expert is made out of someone heretofore unimportant and formerly assumed to be constrained by inadequacy. It goes without saying that this trap is particularly deadly because it can elevate a lesser player to expert status and add yet another competitor for the federal grant.

As it becomes more and more apparent the the game of "Let's Compete For The Solution To Drug Abuse" is extremely complicated and not to be undertaken without a full understanding of the rules and conditions imposed on the players, it would seem more productive to suggest what is really needed in the fight against drug abuse.

(NEXT WEEK: AWARENESS NEEDED)

YOUTH Rostrum

DO YOU BELIEVE THE 1972 ELECTIONS WILL BRING A CHANGE IN THE TYPE OF LEADERSHIP WE NOW HAVE ?

This weeks' respondents:

GROVEPORT-MADISON HIGH SCHOOL

There will definitely be a change. The younger people voting will be very apt to pick the people that will do the most good, instead of saying there's nothing we can do about it. They also are the ones that get thrown in the war and they are the ones that will soon be living in, as they call it, the Establishment. The younger people want what is best and they can do something about it now. - ELAINE SHILLING

No, I don't think it will bring a change. I think Mr. Nixon will be elected again and he will do what he has been doing for his term as president. There might be a change in the war and the busing of students, but I think that will be all of the changes for the elected president for the next four years. - MARY HAHN

Yes! The economy of the people is in bad shape. An intelligent person in this field will work something out. But we have many wide-ranged fields that need improving. I don't think one man can be of any great help in all our problems. - CAROL CLARK

I don't know much about this stuff. But I really don't think there will be that great of change for the better. Things will never be completely great. For people are so stupid that there will always be trouble no matter who becomes president. - LISA LOCKETT

No, because the candidates always promise things will change but they never do. Things definitely need to change but no one man can do it. What makes one person happy upsets another. - SANDY BOTTOMS

Yes. I hope that a change will take place. It seems to me that Mr.Nixon changes only the things he believes in or thinks are right. I admit that some changes he made were helpful, but I disagree with his "peace" procedure. Not every year is the same, people change and feelings change. The death rate in the war changes. Yet Mr. Nixon's hope for peace stays the same. To me, his hope seems like a statement that doesn't involve what it should. I feel that we need a new president and new change and a new hope. - SUSAN SPARKS

No, I think Nixon will win again. I would rather see Humphrey win because he's more for the common man. Nixon has really messed things up. I can't really see where he's done anything he said he would. Humphrey is a more outspoken man and he does what he says he will. But the only thing against him is his looks because people think he looks like a crook. - FRANK VENO

No I don't. By looking at this election, I can't see any different attitudes. Just different people with different words, meaning the same thing, with the same promises. - DAN BALL

I think that Nixon is a good candidate because he has done a good job in his term so far. It will bring a change because people might want different things than others. Things like air pollution should be cleared up and so should the water and land. - JOHN TISDALE

Yes. Our administration now promised that we would be out of Vietnam. Crime is an outrage also in this country. Education, Environment, and Foreign Aid have all gone to the birds. I believe that sooner or later Kennedy will run. He knows and I know there is no American leader running now. - STEVE TOTH

I don't know that much about all the candidates or about the next election. I haven't lived enough in the country to have formed an opinion. What I think is that there are usually important problems that need to be solved like racial problems (busing, etc.), pollution, drugs, and taxes. - CRISTIRUR ESOLK

Yes, I feel that it will bring a change. Every year things are changing. I think things will be more outspoken than they are now. Things now are hidden too much, you don't find out something until months later. I think people want to know about things now, not later. I feel that people's attitudes will change. Things won't be as bad as usual. - BECKY SHAFFER

I think there will and should be a change in the leadership of this country, but I do not feel that these two coincide. I don't feel that the changes that will happen will be for the most part good. The laws seem to be becoming more liberal and we're losing sight of what our country and our own selves stand for. The changes that should be can only be done by individual efforts and everyone becoming unified for one cause. Voting is an example of an individual effort and everyone of age owes this much to his country and himself. - RIKKI DRUMMOND

Let's put it this way. Every time there's an election, there's no change; but what this country needs is a president who truly loves the Almighty peace-maker Himself, Jesus Christ. Many people may think of me as some kind of an idiot but that's the way I believe. We need a change in this country, yes indeed. Careless spending should be stopped, inflation should be stopped, and the government needs to take more interest in the people. We need an honest politician, but I've heard no politician add a little religion to his speech. We need someone who will do something for the people. - JERRY WIDMAYER

I think President Nixon is doing a fine job. If he is elected again for 1972, his changes, if any, will be very wise. He has many good ideas, though sometimes we disagree, we have to give him credit for standing up for us Americans. We as people, need to have changes. But most of all I hope that the eighteen year olds know who they want and why before they vote. It could be a mistake. - LINDA DEVINE

Yes. A change in leadership should occur because of the '72 elections regardless of the president elected. I believe that even if Nixon is re-elected there will be a definite change in the way the country is now run. This will occur because of the pressure in the country now over issues such as busing, the draft lottery, etc....I do not believe that the way the country now stands can remain unchanged regardless of the president elected. Whoever is elected will be forced to change the direction in which the country is now led. - LEE MORRISON

I think that the 1972 election will not bring a change in leadership. I believe that Nixon will get the presidency. I base my opinion on the fact that up to now he has done everything he said he would. The Vietnam War has, as far as our part is concerned, decreased. For example, this week had the lowest report of U.S. lives lost (5). I also agree with his attack on inflation. - GEORGE HOSTETTER

I'd like for Pat Paulson to win the presidential election. I think he understands what's going on in the world and I'm sure there would be some good changes. I honestly believe he understands what the young people thing and how they feel about the things in the world. I'm sure the 1972 election will bring a change. - NAME WITHHELD

Yes I think this will bring a change. I just want someone who will do a good job, someone who understands people, and someone who will be a good leader. We need a person who can change the bad things to good. We need someone who will take the first step then everyone will follow in their footsteps. We need cooperation. - NAME WITHHELD,

No, I don't believe there will be a change because I feel Nixon will be elected again for the reason he has visited China and the people like this. I hope it changes the Vietnam idea so alot of our men can come home. - NAME WITHHELD

The program will consist of nine forums and includes Bennett J. Cooper, Chief, Division of Correction; John E. Hansan, Director, Department of Public Welfare; Dr. Kenneth D. Gaver, Director-Designee, Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction; and Dr. John W. Cashman, Director Designate, Department of Health.

"SORRY", THE SIGN SAYS as Jim Westwater puts up the notice that the city's recycling center is closed temporarily due to a lack of volunteers to man the center. Volunteers who are over 13 years old and who could work one Saturday a month for a two-hour shift are asked to notify the Park and Recreation Department at 258-5755.

Recycling Center Closed

Jim Westwater, member of the Bexley Environmental Council which is sponsored by the Park and Recreation Department, said the center was closed Saturday because of a lack of volunteers to work the center.

Gary Fenton, assistant director of the Park and Recreation Department, said volunteers were asked to work a two hour shift a month.

These shifts are from 10 a.m. to noon; noon to 2 p.m. and from 2 to 4 p.m. on Saturdays.

The volunteers must be 13 years old or older.

"People should leave waste material only when someone is here," Westwater said. He added that they were having to turn people away because of lack of help.

Bank Plans Opening On Capital Campus

A full-service Ohio National Bank branch office will soon be in operation on the campus of Capital University, according to an announcement by W.C. Mercer, president and chief executive officer of Ohio National, and Dr. Thomas H. Langevin, president, Capital University.

Scheduled to open April 17, the new office will be located in the Harry C. Moores Campus Center, convenient to student dining areas, mailboxes, lounges, study rooms and recreational facilities. Banking hours will be 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday to Friday, in accordance with the results of a student preference poll taken earlier this year.

As a regular full-service branch bank, the new office will serve East Side area residents as well as university students and faculty, and will be open yearround for that purpose and to accommodate participants in Capital's summer convention and meeting schedule.

Commenting on this upcoming addition to Ohio National's 32-office branch system, Mercer pointed out that its "in-plant" approach to branch banking will be unique in the bank's experience.

Ohio Dominican Goes On The Air April 10

WODR, the closed circuit radio station at Ohio Dominican College, 1216 Sunbury Rd., will become a reality Monday, April 10.

"When student interest in the project began to bubble last fall," Tim O'Brien, of the ODC speech and theatre department, explained, "we had to find ways to get the necessary station equipment and supplies without money. We had no budget.

"And people have been wonderful," he continued "Nationwide Communications donated some no-longer-used equipment from its stations in Cleveland and Richmond, Va.; other volunteered lumber, carpeting and air conditiong."

The college provided space - in room 324 of Erskine Hall - for studio and offices. "And now we are really building WODR from the ground up," he added.

To obtain funds, for such things as equipment renovation, WODR enthusiasts are sponsoring campus raffles and bringing well-known films for showing to students on campus.

"We do not expect the station to be 'full-blown' unt'l Fall Semester. Then we expect to be on the air from six to 10 hours daily."

Musical programming will follow the dictates of a listener poll conducted among students, faculty and administration and will feature classical, show tunes and contemporary rock.

"We want to make this a real campus station. Any student, or member of the faculty or administration is welcome to try out for an "on-the-air" position, but many other positions are available.

School Policy Hearing Slated

The Commission on Public School Personnel Policies in Ohio will hold the third of four statewide public hearings on teacher education and certification in Columbus Wednesday, April 12, from 3 to 5:30 p.m. at the Sheraton-Columbus.

Students majoring in education, teachers, professors and administrators from public schools and colleges of education - in greater Columbus, Franklin County and surrounding areas are invited to attend and express their views on teacher education and certification.

Information obtained in the hearings will be used in connection with a forthcoming report by the Commission on the subject.

Since its founding, the Commission has published four reports, two on school organization and one on teacher tenure.

The fourth, "Teacher Evaluation to Improve Learning," was released in March. The latter is highly critical of teacher evaluation as presently practiced in Ohio and maintains most such efforts are "a sheer waste of time."

YWCA Schedules Annual Meeting

"A Festival of Faith" featuring the Leonard Bernstein Mass will be the theme of the YWCA 62nd Annual Meeting, Thursday, April 6 at the Griswold Building 65 S. 4th St.

A social hour 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. will open the evening's activities with the showing of filmstrips including, "Modern Art and the Gospel", a display of books and artifacts of the Jewish, Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths, and contemporary recordings such as "Jesus Christ Superstar", and "Godspell".

Dinner will be served at 6:45 p.m. followed by the annual business meeting, which will include the election of the Board of Directors and the Nominating Committee, consideration and vote on a constitutional change, and recognition of the 1971-72 YWCA Volunteers. Mrs. Howard Williams, president, will preside.

The program begins at 8:30 p.m.

The deadline date for dinner reservations is Tuesday, April 4. Reservations are not needed for program only. Call the YWCA, 224-9121 for information.

ACCENT ON LONG EVENING SKIRT

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

VICTOR COSTA'S day into evening dresses...black and white dotted swiss, ruching at neckline and wrists. POLKA-DOTTED cotton voil is braided in black and sashed with silk grosgrain...both no-iron prettiness. GINO CHARLES perfect two-piece look with amusing bright quilted bees appliqued and studded with sequins, with deep V'd shocking pink bodice. MALCOLM STARR'S strapless evening dress in white woven cotton ottoman...navy and white checked gingham ruffles and navy flower applique. PAPILLON'S long narrow evening skirt and tiny smocked top of rose-trellis-pattern on pale blue and white check, sashed at the waist.

JUST TWO MONTHS AGO, when I returned from the American Designers' Showings in New York, I recall writing a paean for the short evening dress...the short glamour dress they called it...but let me say it was premature. The short evening dress may be for next fall or next spring, but right now the ladies, especially the young ones, love the long skirts.. At least that's the way it looks at all the important parties.

THESE ARE the kind of dresses Victor Costa has dreamed up for sunny and moonlit months to come. "Whether you plan to spend your summer floating down the Mississippi on a paddle steamer or 'out on the town,' you'll feel pampered and protected in the lush ruffles and sweetly colored long dresses for day or evening, from the Suzy Perette summer collection," he assures us.

GINO CHARLES witty designers love long skirts too, in weightless modern fabrics and brighter hues that this spring and summer calls for...a casual shirt topping and amusing colorful skirt, or a very special evening dress.

MALCOLM STARR likes long dresses bare for evening, in his many divisions. Utterly feminine strapless dresses come in white woven cotton ottoman, and a delicious melange of white pique, pleated organdy, velvet baby ribbon, lace and polka dot cottons.

PAPILLON'S long collection caters to the young romanticist with casual elegance, whether bare or covered-up. Colorful printed fabrics...polka dots, checks and stylized flowers...in tops and skirts or dresses...youthful and all girl.

It's bound to be a beautiful long summer!

L.R. Goldfarb To Receive Agudas Achim Award

The fifth annual Agudas Achim Brotherhood "Flowers For The Living Award" will be presented to Louis R. Goldfarb on Tuesday, April 11, at 8 p.m. in the Main Sanctuary of Agudas Achim Synagogue, 2767 East Broad St.

Goldfarb was born and reared in Columbus; he is a graduate of Fulton Elementary and Central High Schools. He is the recipient of a diploma from Yeshiva University Adult Education Program for having successfully completed their course of study.

Goldfarb has served Agudas Achim Congregation and its Brotherhood in many areas; he has been a member of the Board of Trustees of Agudas Achim for a quarter of a century and served this office as chairman and vice chairman. He has headed such committees as the House Committee, personnel Committee, Cantorial and Rabbinic Committees.

He has been active in Heritage House, The United Jewish Fund, Bonds for Israel, The Excelsior Club, The Columbus Torah Academy, The Columbus Hebrew School, The Zionist Organization of America, B'nai B'rith and President of B'nai B'rith Bowling League.

He is presently serving on the Board of Management of The Central Y.M.C.A., and was a former Board Member of Camp Wilson, sponsored by Y.M.C.A., and the Red Cross Blood Donor Program.

MARRIOTT INN

A real rip-roaring group opened last Monday at the Marriott Inn Motel-Frank Hubbell and The Stompers. And what a group it is. They are basically a Dixieland quartet. Yet, versatility is only one of the keys to the outfit. Among the four, there are enough instruments to form a full orchestra.

Leader Frank Hubbell plays an exciting trumpet. His tones are terrific. When he's not playing trumpet, Frank takes over at the electric bass. Mike Gold is another show stealer. Playing a hundred different notes on the clarinet before you know what is going on is just one of his attributes. He also does a great job on the tenor and alto sax. When not busy with the reeds, Mike lets his fingers fly over the black and whites. He plays each instrument with above average style and ability.

Then you take the wizzard of the banjo, Jerry Weaver, and things really begin to cook. Jerry even does a superb performance on "Exodus."

But, I saved the best for last-that being a sharp dish, Mona Clark. This gal plays a set of drums better than most men. And that is saying a lot, when you consider that she is performing with a Dixieland band. Mona also does a terrific job in the vocal department. Here again, versatility is the key. While she can belt out "After You've Gone," and "Up The Lazy River," she can come right back to milk tunes like, "Rain Drops," for all their worth. Her style is rather unique, and so is her tonal qualities. When she sings, you know it is Mona Clark.

Frank Hubbell and The Stompers will keep you on your toes every minute you are at the Marriott Inn. It's a fun group dishing out plenty of fun, happy type songs. They set out to entertain you, and believe me, this they do in the finest of tradition. Catch them once, and you'll see what I mean.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

The new Ramada In East opened last Saturday with a packed house in both the lounge and restaurant. Carole Criste with the Jimmy Luellen Trio is the opening act, and what an entertaining group. They play and sing all types of music. You name it, and they do it. Carole has a deep, sexy voice to match her sexy appearance. She is well supported by Jimmy Luellen on organ, Howard Yaters, guitarist and Jack Barger taking care of the sticks and brushes. They all sing and give you some nice four-part harmony. Watch next week for a complete review... John McCoy opened this past Monday at the Lincoln Lodge. This guy sings great, plays guitar as if he has four hands and is a first-rate comedian. John works a crowd like Hayes coaches a team. This guy is a triple, triple threat performer... There has been a switch in the Ramada Inn entertainment. The Diamonds Four are now in the El Torero Room at Ramada Inn North while Jim Hittner moved to the El Matador of the Ramada Inn South. Both are first rate entertaining outfits... For a delicious meal get the spirit and head to the Spirit of 76 in the Eastland Shopping Center. The food is very good, believe me. I ate there a week ago and their London Broil is fabulous. It is tender slices of tenderloin with a special blend of Parmesan, mushrooms, tomatoes and wine. It's really different and yummy... Roger Perrigo and the Sound Foundation has been held over at the Sheraton North Hotel. What a solid, swinging group of musicians and entertainers.

Warriors, Lions Eye '72 Gold; Rams Rebuild

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

(Editor's Note: This is Part I of a two-part series previewing '72 baseball prospects at Eastside high schools. This week's subjects are Eastmoor, Whitehall and Bexley.)

EASTMOOR

Never one to bad-mouth his club's chances anyhow, Warrior coach Ron Golden is downright optimistic about E-M prospects for matching last year's District title-and then some.

"We've got 10 returning lettermen from a '71 team that was Regional runnerup," noted Ron. "That group includes two fine pitchers, an All-City centerfielder and an All-City third baseman--and that's just for openers."

BACK TO lead the mound staff will be junior standout Monty Corron. As a sophomore he posted an eye-popping 13-2 record (including appearances with the champion Warrior summer league entry), with an earned run average of about one.

Sidekick Monty Hannah, who'll split second base duties with Corron when the other is pitching, came on strong last season. Ron expects this talented twosome to carry the mound load, along with senior letterman Bob Traphagen.

Missing from last spring's infield are shortstop Mitch Edminster (also a pitcher occasionally) and steady first baseman Sandy Schwartz--but their absence doesn't seem to have Golden too worried.

By moving Kraker to short this spring, with either of the sure-handed Monty's at second, Ron thinks he's come up with an outstanding double-play combination.

Moving in at third will probably be sophomore Craig Passen, though senior utility man Chip Heim is also available; and Ron has senior letterman Kim McCualsky and promising soph Brian Stertzer to pick between at first.

Centerfield star Richie Heim, last year's leading hitter and base thief, will be back with his sprinter's speed and sure arm to patrol the middle, while 6-4 muscleman Ron Ayers, also a '71 regular, will add steady fielding and a wealth of power in left.

Ron has three pretty fair prospects on the roster as relief men should his top three hurlers falter, they are rangy senior lefty Mark Smith and juniors Barry Katz and Glenn Biggs.

"Up-the-middle defense--is a traditional measure of any club's fielding strength, and the Warriors have to be rock-solid with Fulton behind the plate, Kraker and Corron or Hannah at the keystone and Heim (rated the city's best centerfielder last season) behind 'em.

IF THE LOSS of '71 cleanup man Schwartz hurts Warrior run-scoring potential, it sure wasn't apparent last week as Golden's gladiators mauled CL South foe Mohawk 23-0, after dumping West in their opener.

They return from Spring Break next Tuesday, playing host to Marion-Franklin with a chance to up the loop slate to 3-0 and keep the heat on everyone else.

Perhaps the biggest encounter of the young campaign should come three days later, as the Warriors travel to Central to meet an all-veteran Pirate club that may be the top title challenger.

TOURNAMENT TIME is still a long way off, but the Warriors look right now like at least as good a club as the '71 edition--and maybe a couple of games better.

WHITEHALL

"We've got two seniors and three total lettermen back," he elaborated--"there are 11 sophomores and freshmen out, and a lot of potential among 'em, but it's gonna take time to put the pieces together."

THE VETERANS are centerfielder Mike Richardson and third baseman Matt Sherman, both seniors, and top mound prospect Don Norris, a junior who doubled as a pitcher and first-sacker last season and will do the same in '72.

From there on it's all youngsters.

John thought he had the makings of a pretty fair pitching staff among Norris, junior lefty Al Russo and sophs Bruce Gemendian (also a portsider) and right hander Lanny Longfellow.

That leaves at least one hole in both the infield and outfield to be scrapped over--with the OCC campaign opening Friday at home against Delaware.

"IT'S AWFUL TOUGH to do much guessing about a team this young," said Peters. "Like I said, we've got a flock of good-looking kids to pick from, and we'll try to give everybody a good look."

Mistakes are a predictable feature of sophomore-studded lineups, but so are enthusiasm and hot competition--two things that help make rebuilding a more enjoyable misery for coaches.

BEXLEY

Inexperience is not one of the problems facing Bexley boss Gene Millard. As a matter of fact, it's pretty hard to find a problem in the Lion baseball picture this spring.

"We've got a letterman back just about everywhere you look," said the recently feted mentor of this year's Mid Eight cage champs. "If our hitting comes around," he ventured, "this could be a real good ballclub."

SENIOR co-captains Doug Klie (leftfielder) and Jim Saas (catcher) head the list of two-year vets who'll be back to lead the charge when league action opens next week. Saas is a converted outfielder with a strong arm.

Joining them will be a seasoned infield comprising juniors Steve Germain at third, John Arnold at second and shortstop Tom

Scot, Ram Cinder Vets Hold Key To '72 Hopes

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Though a glance out your window might contradict the calender, Spring has officially Sprung and the non-stop bouncing of leather spheroids has been replaced on the high school sports scene by a pair of "cracks"--specifically those produced by the starters gun and bat meeting ball.

You'll find diamond previews at the top of this page: here's a look at the track picture for Walnut Ridge and Whitehall, with the other Eastside high schools on tap for next week.

WALNUT RIDGE

Scott boss Vince Cahill lost a couple of key performers via graduation (notably distance men Ed Zoog and Mike Endicott), but the ouchiest absence may be standout half and quarter-miler Andy Banas, who looks like a definite scratch because of shoulder surgery.

"WE'RE NO powerhouse," said Vince, "but our relay teams should score consistently, and we have fine depth in several of the field events that could be worth a number of points in three-man combined competition."

He listed six returning senior lettermen, including versatile Ron Gorman.

Leading scorer on last year's Ridge cinder squad, the stocky six-footer has already taken firsts in the high jump and pole vault at last week's opener against East, and is better than an average long jumper to boot.

"RON HAS TO be our real standout performer," said Cahill, "he can high jump 6-2, pole vault 11 feet and long jump right around 20--those are all very competitive figures, and he's a very strong runner too; will help on our relay teams if we need him."

Fellow football standouts Bill Kautz and Terry Colburn will return to help Gorman in the other two field events--Kautz tossing the discus (130'..best) and Colburn holding a slight edge in the shot (46-48' range).

Seniors Gary Oancea and Joe Scott are both 5-10 high jumpers, and Oancea can turn a 10.6 100 while Scott can long jump 18-19 feet.

THAT LEAVES Jack Withers among the 12th grade group. Vince rates him the school's top miler (4:48 best) and half-miler (2:00), and he'll also likely run the anchor leg on the Scot two-mile relay team at meets which stage that event.

Among eight junior lettermen back, Cahill likes distance men Terry Potts and Dave Mettle along with top sprinters Dave Oancea and Kev McCray.

Potts holds the school two mile record (10:08), and has done the mile under 4:50 too; Mettle did 2:08 in the half as a sophomore and has run a 4:48 mile and 10:12 for twice that distance.

Oancea is the top sprinter in Scot history (:10.1 hundred and :23.8 for the 220), and Cahill figures he's capable of improving on both with some work. McCray is the best Ridge quarter-miler (:51.6) and can stay with Oancea at 220 as well.

THE LATTER twosome will join Gorman for the 440 & 880 relays, and McCray will be a mile relay regular as well.

Among newcomers, Vince singled out soph Steve Rowley (sprints thru 440) and junior Cliff Tryens (440 and 880) as very possible regulars. Rowley ran a smart :53.4 split in the mile relay at the District Indoor two weeks ago, and Tryens has nailed down assignments on both the mile and two mile relay teams with strong showings to date.

A pair of non-lettering seniors, Gary Munsch and John Acree, may make the grade too-Acree was a tough cross country performer who frequently ran ahead of Potts at two miles last year.

JUNIOR Jim Morris is yet another bright middle distance prospect, having turned the quarter in :54 already this spring.

Junior lettermen Ben Chalfant and Sam Koon will take care of the hurdling chores, and classmate Don Stocker has been coming on strong in the half and mile.

In other words, the Scots are absolutely loaded with people who can run 440, 880, the mile and two mile in better than respectable times. They have Gorman as a consistent point-getter in at least two field events, strong relay teams at 880 and beyond and two fine sprint performers in Dave Oancea and McCray.

WEAK SPOTS would seem to be the hurdles and "weight" events, but even there balance and depth may make up for the lack of top individual performers.

With some improvement by the first-line sprinters and distance people, and Gorman in one piece, Ridge looks like a potential challenger at the City League level--and maybe beyond.

WHITEHALL

Asked about Ram cinder prospects for the '72 campaign, coach Jim Healey said, "Well, let me put it this way--we've got six seniors, four juniors and 37 ninth and tenth graders--some are real good, but overall we're very, very young."

Heading the list of returning seniors will be pole vault tandem Tom Baker and Tom Stover. Both have gone over around 13 feet already this spring, and Healey makes no secret of his expectation that one or both will reach 14 before the year is over. That would make 'em awful tough to beat.

ANOTHER strong point-getter should be senior George Tanez in the 880. Tanez has done the half in 2:00 flat, and Jim was confident that he'd knock quite a bit off that mark by May.

Senior miler Jim Noice covered the classic distance in a spiffy 4:30 last season, but has gotten off to a very slow start in the cold weather so far this year. It wouldn't take much improvement to put him in the highest echelon of Central Ohio distance runners.

Another senior, Jim Sears, turned the 440 in a nice :51 flat before a knee injury sidelined him. At peak efficiency, he could help Ram point totals more than a little running solo or in the mile relay.

UNFORTUNATELY, with one notable exception, the Ram underclassmen don't appear to add much supporting punch behind this group of talented oldsters.

The exception is standout sophomore high jumper Terry Burris. The 6-7 cage star has already cleared 6-3 this year, and that would have won the District last time around. It's almost a sure bet to take first at any Invitational, and anything higher would mark Terry as a state contender.

The rest of the Whitehall field events contingent is decidedly on the young side, with sophomore "weight" men Brian Fryer and Mark Boyer improving steadily on current bests of 40' in the shot and 120' in the discus.

A PAIR OF very interesting freshmen may steal a little long jump thunder for Healey's crew if they keep progressing. According to Jim, both Glenn McMillin and Tim Jordan are up to 16 feet already—outstanding for ninth graders.

With quarter-miler Sears still on the mend, Healey found the '72 Ram stable of sprinters extremely bare. Underclassmen Mike Davidek, Don Brown and Steve Lowrey are the best young prospects, along with freshmen Tom Rose and Herb Brigman, but none of them looked to Jim like a point-getter against a strong field.

THE WHITEHALL distance corps is also very thin on proven talent according to Healey, with freshman two miler Chris Jaeger the brightest hope behind Noice. Ninth grader Mark Morris and sophs Dan Cheurry and John Ankrom and junior John Mauchly all have room and time to improve

Two other underclass hopefuls whom Jim thought might help were sophs Doug LaCorte (440) and sprinter-distance utility man Tom Davidek.

"You never know how things may work out when this rotten weather clears up and the kids can get loose," said Healey philosophically.

"WE'VE GOT top performers in the high jump and pole vault, lots of potential with Tanez in the 880 and Noice in the mile, and a few younger kids who might improve in a hurry. We've got too many holes to be strong in dual competition, but in Relays and big meets we could do quite well."

Summing up his very young contingent, Healey ventured that "we won't scare anybody to death." It remains to be seen whether a few people oughtn't keep an eye on the Rams, just in case.

Luchtenberg in between. All have started frequently in the past.

First base chores will be handled on a switch-off basis by Millard's two top pitchers--lefthanders Rick Clowson and Jim Kaltenecker. Both are seniors, and Gene felt confident that they can consistently shut down predominantly righthanded enemy hitting.

"I KNOW it's supposed to be a disadvantage for a lefty to pitch against guys who swing from the other side," said Gene--"but there are very few really good lefthanded pitchers in high school, so our kids should be tough on hitters who aren't used to it."

Rightfielder Greg Spencer is the only sophomore in Millard's prospective starting lineup--but he earned a varsity letter as a ninth grader and won't be a green hand by any means.

Spencer and Klie also figure in an experiment that Gene hopes may lend some depth to his mound staff. Both are righthanders with strong arms, and Millard has been working with both as possible relievers or spot-starters should his ace lefties be injured or have an off day.

Senior Howard Seirfreas, yet another '71 vet, has the range and speed Millard wants in center field--and might be a key run producer.

IF THE LIONS have a weakness, it's probably at the plate. Only one .300 hitter returns from last year, and Gene has adopted a "wait and see" attitude about possible lineup changes should his veterans prove unable to generate a respectable number of runs.

"I'd say we have the potential to score well," offered the Lion coach, "but we don't have good team speed, and that means we'll need an extra base hit to score a run that other clubs might get cheaper."

He rated the Mid Eight "a solid league, as usual" for '72, noting that Grandview and London have won the last three District crowns in their enrollment class--the Bobcats doing so last year after losing the league title to Hilliard.

"GROVE CITY'S always tough too," added Millard; "and with that kind of balance, anybody can knock the other guy off anytime."

He rated '72 Lion fielding solid and thought the pitching was the strongest in several years. "That means all we need is consistent hitting," he summed up--"if we get it, we'll do real well."

Bexley Proposes 'Open' Gyms

The Bexley Board of Education and the Park and Recreation Department are presently working together to open school gymnasiums for Sunday use by area residents.

Possibility of opening the gyms on Sunday was brought up before the board of education at the last two meetings.

C. R. Asher, acting school superintendent, said he was in favor of using the gyms on Sunday but felt custodians should be on duty during that time.

"These buildings have to be used then for school on Monday and we want to make sure they are ready," Asher said.

He added that a custodian knows the building and would be able to handle any problems that might arise.

Asher said custodians are paid time and a half on the weekends, which could amount to between $4 and $5 an hour.

"We asked that the people who use the buildings pay the custodians directly," Asher said.

He said since it might run the Park and Recreation Department nearly $3,000 a year, maybe the school could go half of the cost.

Ted Flickenger, director of the Park and Recreation Department, said later he was opposed to having the custodians on duty.

"We propose having two supervisors on duty, one for activities and one as a security check."

Flickenger said he did not think it was fair to be paying supervisors $2 an hour while they would have to pay a janitor $4.50 an hour.

"The answer is really to spend $500 or maybe up to $1,000 on gates to close the gyms off from the rest of the school," Flickenger said.

"All the schools have exterior entrances so with these gates installed, the kids wouldn't be able to get into the [illegible] of the building."

He said the gates could be useful to the school for other than special Sunday activities.

"With the gates we might even be able to eliminate the need for two supervisors."

Flickenger said $3,000 for a custodian would be worth it if the money was available, but if "we can save the taxpayer money, this is good."

The department's proposal calls for high school students and adults to use the high school gym with the junior high facility reserved for junior high and elementary students.

"We want the partitions used in the gym to separate the age groups because this will give everyone a chance to participate. If you put elementary students in with high school people, they won't be able to keep up or even play."

Flickenger said Sunday was a family day and opening the gyms would give families a chance to do things together.

Local Cagers Will Battle For State Amateur Crown

Friday's the big day for the cream of Ohio's over-21 amateur basketball clubs, as the 1972 Ohio Parks and Recreation Class A tournament gets underway in Worthington.

Single elimination battles in the 19 team field begin at 7:00 Friday evening, and action will continue on an almost round-the-clock basis till the two survivors hook up in Sunday's 8 p.m. title tilt.

THE EVENT is being hosted by the Worthington Recreation Department with the cooperation of the Worthington School System at Commodore Perry Middle School, 2341 Snouffer Rd.

Local entries include Shade Insurance, champion of the Worthington Monday Night loop, Bexley Recreation king Cohagan Hardware, Columbus Parks champ Donato's Pizza and Upper Arlington's Clowns.

Friday's opening schedule calls for continuous action from the 7 p.m. tipoff till 1 a.m.—with the Bexley and Worthington entries colliding in the second game (8:30) and Donato's meeting a Zanesville team at 10.

SATURDAY features a marathon 15 hour card, divided into two "sessions." Things get cracking at 9 a.m. and continue till 4:30 p.m., then resume after a brief recess and run till midnight. All games are scheduled at 90-minute intervals.

Final eliminations begin at 11 a.m. Sunday (till 4 p.m.), and the two survivors meet for all the marbles in a separate, championship session at 8:00 that night.

Admission will be $1 per session, payable at the door, and special Tournament Passes (good for all games) are on sale now at Berry's Sporting Goods, Roush Sporting Goods in Westerville and the Worthington Recreation Department at $3 per person.

NEWELL HELPS

Airman 1-c Nelson L. Newell, son of Mrs. Janice McCaffery of 200 Midcliff Dr., has been recognized for helping his unit at Eglin AFB, Fla., earn the U.S. Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Service Awards Presented To Red Cross Workers

Five hundred twenty eight Red Cross volunteers and staff were eligible for service awards at biennial recognition ceremonies at the Red Cross Chapter recently.

Mrs. Lynn Georgia, chairman of volunteers for the Franklin County Chapter, and J. Richard Argo, chapter chairman, officiated. In his tribute to volunteers, Argo pointed out that in all the services of the Franklin County Chapter, volunteers outnumber staff at least 10 to one.

Argo further cited national statistics of 1,827,600 trained Red Cross volunteers, who, if paid according to their skills, would earn one billion dollars or more, but who contribute their time freely.

The chapter chairman, commented, "The figures are impressive. However, if the time of volunteers could be paid for, it would not be the same. No amount of money can pay for the loyalty of Red Cross volunteers, the espirit de corps of this dedicated group. For there is something intrinsic in the act of volunteering, the labor of love. One cannot attach a price."

Bike Tags Available

The Bexley police department has a new supply of bicycle licenses for those residents who plan to be out riding.

Lt. Thomas Tobin said the department had run out of licenses and had been unable to fill the many requests but that now a new supply had arrived.

The license cost $1 and is good for the life of the bicycle, Lt. Tobin said.

"It is law that all bikes are licensed," Tobin said. "This is a safeguard in case the bike is lost or stolen. We keep records on these bikes so we have a complete description and this then aids in our search for the bicycle."

Lt. Tobin said the number of bikes stolen was down but that this was usual in winter months and could increase now that warmer weather is here.

"We also want to remind bike riders that they must obey the laws. We're going to crack down."

Tobin said riders should remember to ride with the traffic, obey stop signs and lights, stay off sidewalks, not to ride double and to have a light and reflector on the bike if riding at night.

"Most of the problems are with people riding at night without a light on the front and a reflector on the back."

Violation of the bike ordinance could bring a fine of up to $50.

"We're going to be a lot stricter, especially with people who have previously been warned," Tobin concluded.

Lessons Set For Archers

The Whitehall Recreation Department will sponsor six weeks of archery instruction for Whitehall residents, to begin this Saturday at 10 a.m. in the Recreation Dept. at City Hall.

All age groups are invited to participate at no cost; the six indoor sessions will be followed by an extensive outdoor program at North American Park later this spring and summer.

Instruction will be handled by Mrs. Pat Gildley, Ohio Women's Champion for the past two years, and husband Randy—runnerup in the '71 state men's competition.

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

There is an old saying which goes "Those who can, do, and those who can't, teach". This does not hold true in the case of Dr. Roy Bowen of Ohio State University. Not only is he an excellent teacher in the Theatre Arts department but he is also one of the finest directors in these parts.

His latest offering is Harold Pinter's "the Homecoming," to be presented at Sullivant Hall on the Ohio State Campus April 4-8 and April 10-15 at 8 p.m. For tickets call the College of the Arts office – 422-2000.

William Wyman, Music Department director of choirs, has formed an Opera Theatre at Otterbein College. Its first production will be a folk tragedy entitled "Susannah," which will be sung in English. Betty Lowe will sing the title role. Performances will be on April 7 and 8 at 8:15 p.m. in Cowan Hall, Otterbein College in Westerville.

I have a flash for those of you who annually tre k down to Vets Memorial to see Vaud-Villities. In addition to the professional orchestra, the fine singers, the fantastic sets and costumes-this year Fred Jennings will be in the cast. Watch for him.

Vaud-Villities 1972 will run April 12 through 15 at 8:15 p.m. at Vets Memorial. Get reservations now at Central Ticket Office, 37 N. High, or at any Columbus Sears store. Some sections on some nights are already sold out.

UCC Annual Meet Apr. 12

"Alternatives for Financing Community Services" is the theme for the United Community Council's annual meeting April 12 at the Ohio Union.

Workshops will be followed by a luncheon at which U.C.C. business will be conducted and workshop results will be presented. Mayor Tom Moody will be the guest speaker.

Each workshop will consist of a panel of local experts, as well as out-of-state specialists, who will relate their experiences on the particular topics. Those attending the workshops will have an opportunity to share problems and exchange ideas with each other and the panel members.

Women's Lib Town Topic

"Equal rights and responsibilities for women?" will be the topic of discussion on Columbus Town Meeting Sunday at noon.

Town Meeting will present the following speakers:

James E. Henry, Legislative Affairs Director, Ohio State Council of Retailing Merchants; Mrs. Barbara J. Easterling, Chief, Division of Women, Minors, and Minimum Wage, Ohio Department of Industrial Relations; Warren J. Smith, Secretary-Treasurer, Ohio AFL-CIO and Mrs. Marcia Macklin, Free Lance Editor and Legislative Coordinator for the Cincinnati Chapter of NOW.

OSU Glee Club Will Perform

The Ohio State University's Men's Glee Club will present its annual Home Concert in Mershon Auditorium Sunday, April 9, at 3 p.m.

The Club will present a varied program of music written and arranged for men's voices and will include the traditional farewells by the graduating senior members.

Meditation Film Set For Bexley Library

The International Meditation Society (IMS) will present a film on transcendental meditation as taught by Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, on Monday, April 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of the Bexley Library.

Transcendental Meditation (TM) is described as a "simple, systematic technique which allows those practicing it to gain deep rest in just a few minutes, and return to activity refreshed."

According to Miss Jeannine White, a TM teacher, the deep rest which is gained during TM allows the individual to make full use of his potential energy, intelligence and creativity.

"The student finds that not only is he able to study efficiently and thoroughly, but his school work becomes more rewarding."

Miss White said past experiences of various groups have shown that practicing TM has resulted in the decrease of drug dependency among users.

"Businessmen find that with the increased energy they gain through TM they are better able to manage their affairs, and housewives find routine tasks go more quickly," Miss White said.

Scientific tests run on persons practicing TM indicate that the rest experienced during the meditation is deeper than that gained during sleep.

Measurements of the heart rate, blood pressure and breath rate are decreased during meditation while measurement of the electrical activity of the brain during TM shows it to be fully alert, Miss White explained.

"This unique state of mind and body has been called a state of 'restful alertness' and has been suggested by scientists at the Stanford Research Institute as a possible fourth state of consciousness."

TM has been available in Columbus since 1970. There are Students' International Meditation Society (SIMS) chapters on over 500 campuses across the country and TM membership at Ohio State University is almost 500.

Miss White said TM is one of the easiest types of meditation to learn.

Following the film she will be on hand to answer questions.

There is no admission charge.

At Home On The Range

By ELEANOR JOSEPH

Every night about 8:30 p.m., our bathroom becomes an indoor swimming pool. That is the time my eight-year-old son is supposed to take a bath.

While I put his water in the tub, he gathers his boats, swimming mask and snorkel. I always put in bath bubbles as he usually soaks instead of washing. It also saves my back while scrubbing the tub.

My offspring has something magnetic about him, besides his personality, because just doing nothing will cause a dirty face and hands.

Drinking any kind of liquids or eating a popcycle will put circles of color around his mouth that will not come off. I have had to resort to kitchen cleanser from time to time.

When ready to bathe, he stands on the edge of the tub and dives in. He then practices swimming and breathing underwater.

Resting from swimming he pushes some boats around by making waves, which are high enough to go over the top of the tub.

About an hour later he is done and so is the bathroom. There is water everywhere. I walk in, barefooted, throwing towels on the floor to stem the tide and drag him out.

All this activity has made him hungry so he eats something and winds up with a beautiful ring around his mouth and dirty hands.

One of his favorite foods is icebox cake which is very simple to make.

Ice Box Cake

Put a layer of graham crackers in a square baking dish. Make and pour regular vanilla pudding over the crackers. Put another layer of graham crackers on top of the pudding. Make and pour regular chocolate pudding on top. Chill. It will cut into neat squares that maybe topped with whipped cream or a substitute. I usually serve it plain.

'EARLY AMERICAN' THEME AT WORTHINGTON HARDWARE COMPANY

WANTED! BROWSERS! No Experience Needed!

How do you "keep up with the times" and still maintain a link with the "good ole' days?"

The Worthington Hardware Company, 661-63 High St. in Worthington, has found an answer to satisfying that difficult duel role.

In the "up-to-date" category, Worthington Hardware can answer the 1972 needs of the contractor, home owner and "do-it-yourselfer."

The company's stock of hardware, housewares, lawn and garden, electrical, plumbing and paint items is more than complete.

But Worthington Hardware hasn't forgotten the things that made the "good ole' days" good. Free delivery service (yes, FREE delivery service) is just one example of that customer-oriented link with the past.

And, of course, there's the "Early American Shoppe" with its quaint decor — both inside and out. And each department staffed with experienced sales clerks ready to service the customer.

Even though they've expanded eight times since the doors opened in 1928 to keep pace with the growth of Worthington, North Columbus, Southern Delaware County and all the areas within their 15-mile service radius, the folks at Worthington Hardware haven't forgotten what it takes to keep happy customers coming back.

That's why they're looking for "browsers."

VOICE CONCERN OVER TEST METHODS

Madison School Board Settles Hair Length Issue

The issue of length of boys' hair at Groveport-Madison High School was finally settled last night when a new proposal was submitted by the student council to the school board.

The proposal as passed reads:

"In front the hair must be neatly combed and shall not extend below the eyes. On the sides and in the back the hair must be neat and clean and shall not extend below the top of the shoulders."

The issue has been pending before council since the March 13 meeting. At a special meeting March 27, three members of the student council attended the meeting to explain the new code.

At that time the proposal allowed for no rule on the length of hair but stipulated that it must be kept clean and neat.

Board members at that time indicated they were not in favor of no rule on hair length and suggested the students re-study the question and come up with a compromise.

Robert Carter, assistant principal at the high school, said the council had worked hard on coming up with the compromise and that the administration felt it was one that was fair to all.

School superintendent Phillip Williams asked Carter if he thought most of the boys would let their hair grow as long as the rule will allow.

Other board members also questioned whether the administration and faculty went along with the proposal just because it would be easy to enforce.

Carter said he did not feel most of the boys would let their hair grow to their shoulders.

"You may get some who will go the extreme but I don't feel you'll get an onslaught from the overall school population."

Carter said the rule would be easier to enforce because the faculty did agree with it.

"Under the present rule we have some teachers who enforce it and others who don't so it makes it hard to control," Carter said. "But if they agree and think it's fair they will enforce it."

Carter said he was very impressed with the way in which the students handled the situation.

Board member John Stout said he had talked with four high school boys and found they did not like long hair. "I didn't get to talk with as many as I wanted to, but I wonder if the majority really wants longer hair."

John Hummell, board member, said he did not think students voted for it just because they wanted to wear their hair that long, but because they felt if a student did want to he shouold be allowed to wear his hair longer.

Williams said, "I think the good thing about all of this is that the students learned about working within the system."

The new proposal was passed three to two with Mrs. Joanne Barker and Stout casting the dissenting votes.

Another issue of concern at the meeting was the manner in which tests are given at the high school.

Hummell had introduced the subject before and said last night was still concerned that some teachers were giving the same test all day long.

"This means that a student who takes the test last period has had a chance to talk with his friends and find out what's on the tests," he said.

Hummell said this was not fair to the students who took the test earlier or the ones who were seriously preparing for the course.

"If the teachers aren't going to follow the rules and change these tests then maybe they should be fired," Hummell said.

Board president James Fenstermaker said he agreed it was a serious problem and served to hurt the motivation of the serious student.

In past discussions, members recommended possibly supplementing some teachers' contracts to allow for department chairmen.

"These people could then be the ones to check up on the test situation," Williams said.

He added that it is difficult for the principal to handle all the paper work if teachers are required to turn in all their tests to be checked.

Hummell said a random check might serve just as well, with the principal checking the tests of different teachers on different days.

Fenstermaker said if the school let a teacher go for this reason it would probably clear the problem up right right away.

"Let them know we are serious about this right from the start," he concluded.

In other action the board approved the hiring of another clerical staff member to work in the high school.

This staff member would be responsible for securing substitute teachers for all schools in the district and would then help with attendance and correspondence.

Rep. Devine Answers Questions By Students

U.S. Representative Samuel L. Devine told a group of student reporters he felt domestic issues would be the prime target during this year's presidential race.

Devine and Bexley Mayor Kenneth D. McClure answered questions during a press conference at Saturday's Republican Mock Convention sponsored by Capital University.

Devine said until this past week he felt the Vietnam war would not be an issue, but that the recent aggression on the part of the North would be in everyone's mind.

"Nixon has maintained he will not order troops into the area in support," Devine commented.

"I think the economy, unemployment and inflation will be the big issues."

Mayor McClure was asked what the people in Bexley would see as the key issues, bringing the question down to the grass roots level.

"Busing will not be an issue here because we aren't involved. Bexley residents are basically Republican, white collar workers. They will be concerned with welfare and taxes because they are the ones who pay."

McClure was also asked about the effect of the 18-year-old vote in his community since Capital University is located in Bexley.

"There isn't much effect here. I think these students would rather vote in their own cities. I don't believe there are enough voters at Capital to sway an election one way or the other," McClure said.

Devine said he did not think the 18-year-old vote would hurt him. "I hope to get the majority of these votes."

Students also questioned Devine about vice-president Spiro Agnew's chances of again being the president's running-mate choice.

"I think Nixon will choose Mr. Agnew again. Agnew answered this question very well himself recently. He said he was not a candidate for that office in the first instance but was selected by Nixon. The choice is the president's, and Agnew said he would serve or support whoever the president picked."

Devine was also questioned about his views on amnesty for draft evaders, as this was one of the issues debated on the platform at the mock convention.

"When we accept rights we should also accept the responsibilities. People who fled the country to avoid the draft are now seeking amnesty. Polls show that the majority of the people in this country are opposed to granting total amnesty. The people who fled want to enjoy the benefits of the country without taking the responsibilities."

As to an all volunteer army, Devine said the president was in favor.

"Congress only extended the Selective Service Act for two years and also increased pay to encourage more volunteers."

Devine said while the issue was pending in Congress, large numbers of young people came to Washington urging the end to the draft and the adoption of a volunteer system.

"But we asked them would they serve and, among all the people we saw, no one said yes. So where do you get your volunteers?"

"There were no great accomplishments but then Nixon didn't expect any. He is a realist. China is a huge productive country with which we disagree violently on many things. But we must live together and communicate."

Devine said as far as effecting the election, some right-wing extremists in the party might leave Nixon for George Wallace. But he said he did not expect other bad effects.

As to the questions of legalizing marijuana, Devine said he did not believe it would ever be legalized, but felt penalties would be lessened.

He said he had taken a poll among his constituents recently concerning this question and others (such as amnesty, abortion and welfare).

In a sampling of some 700, the results were:

Favor the legalizing of marijuana -- 12 per cent yes; 88 per cent no.

Favor granting amnesty -- 14 per cent yes; 86 per cent no.

Favor federal legislation to legalize abortion -- 54½ per cent yes; 45½ per cent no.

Olbert Defends Self

Mrs. Virginia Prentice publicly gave Ken Olbert a vote of confidence yesterday when the Columbus Public School Board of Education met as a committee-of-the-whole.

Stating that the release of the State Auditor's report appeared damaging to some personnel, especially Olbert, she released to the media the following report.

"In the case of Barrett Junior High School's Activities fund, I--as a Board member --have reviewed most of the evidence presented by the State Auditor. I want to state publicly that I at no time have ever questioned Kenneth Olbert's integrity and do not at this time.

"I am sure he did not, nor would not, benefit personally and any reimbursement he made should not be considered as meaning anything but the action of a concerned administrator who believes that he is responsible for all that happens in that building."

Mrs. Prentice's statement came in the wake of the publicity surrounding the report dated yesterday which made a number of criticisms of the bookkeeping procedures of the school and made findings against Olbert, former principal at Barrett and now on a leave of absence from the the position of principal at Eastmoor High School.

According to the report, six transactions involving $340.73 were turned up in the audit in which sales slips had been altered and other irregularities existed.

Also made public Tuesday was the letter to the auditor's office, dated Feb. 29, which Supt. John Ellis had filed as an official response to the auditor's report.

It included a letter from Olbert to Dr. Ellis explaining his position in the matter and a photostatic copy of a cashier's check in the amount of the findings.

It reads in part:

"It is true that I was Principal during the time such alleged shortage occurred, and, therefore, recognize that I had some institutional, as distinguished from pesonal, responsibility for the maintenance of the accounts in question. However, I most emphatically disclaim and deny any personal responsibility for any shortage which may have occurred in any account of Barrett Junior High School or any other institution in which I have ever had responsibility during my tenure as a member of the school system.

"There are, of course, a number of hypotheses as to actual responsibility for the loss of any funds of the school during my tenure as Principal. Several other persons had access to and some responsibility for maintenance of the funds in question. However, it would be speculation upon my part and unfair for me to indicate that any one or more persons was responsible for the loss of such funds during such time."

Olbert concluded that, because of his health and his family, he as unwilling to go through additional pressure and trauma with respect to tthe matter and was tendering his check for [illegible].

He then reiterated specific denial of any personal responsibility for any alleged shortage during his tenure as Barrett principal.

Dr. Ellis expressed his regret that his letter and that of Olbert's were not disclosed when the auditor chose to make the entire matter public.

He was told Tuesday, Ellis states, that the official from the auditor's office (who made the report public) had not even seen the letter.

In spite of Dr. Ellis's concern about the way in which the matter has been handled, he warned the board about being over-defensive rather than trying to improve the school's credability.

In response made to the state, Dr. Ellis stated that positive steps have been taken to improve the handling of activity funds, including the hiring of two internal auditors with the primary responsibility of handling school activity accounts and auditing.

One interesting point was made by Paul Langdon of the board in talking with The Spectator. Langdon reported that the school accounts had been audited annually by outside accountants during the period covered by the present audit (July 4, 1968-April 31 1971) and nothing was found amiss. (It is assumed the correct date is April 30.)

Dr. Ellis also called attention to the fact that some irregularities have also already been corrected, such as separation of the payroll account and a regular checking account.

Although not generally critical of the report Dr. Ellis stated that the lack of an assistant clerk-treasurer over a 15-month period covered by the audit created significant understaffing which was not remedied until this past April.

Mock Convention Selects Nixon As 1972 Candidate

The work, the problems and the excitement of participating in a national party convention were viewed first-hand by area students over the weekend.

Several hundred high school students were on hand Saturday for the Republican Mock Political Convention sponsored by the Political Science Department at Capital University.

Guest speakers for the day were Bexley Mayor Kenneth D. McClure (who gave the welcoming address), U. S. Representative Samuel L. Devine (who served as Honorary Chairman) and Ohio Senator Donald "Buz" Lukens (who gave the Keynote Address).

Lukens, speaking briefly to the participants, said there are four kinds of politics -- convention politics, primary politics, general and day-to-day internal party politics.

"You have to be plugged into the system someplace. If you do not register you will have no choice and you will be ignored by the candidates."

He urged young people 18 years old to register and to vote if they wanted to influence changes in the system.

"The American system is based on change and the answer for young people who want a piece of the action is to register."

Students, simulating delegate roles, nominated Richard M. Nixon as their presidential candidate, and selected Senator Edward Brooke as his running mate.

They also adopted a platform which covered foreign affairs, the Vietnam war, the draft and the national defense.

Among those participating in the day's activities were students from Walnut Ridge, Bexley, Bishop Hartley and Columbus Academy.

Following the welcoming speeches, delegates voted on the platform which was compiled from planks submitted by the participating schools.

Students adopted the plank on the Vietnam war which read:

"We pledge a program for peace that will offer a fair and equitable settlement to all based on the principle of self-determination, our national interest and the cause of long-range world peace.

"We support the speeded-up implementation of Vietnamization to de-Americanize our involvement in the war as soon as feasibly possible."

One delegation moved to amend the last section to read: "We support immediate and total withdrawal from South Vietnam," but the amendment was defeated by a large majority.

Another controversial issue in the platform was that of the draft and amnesty for draft evaders.

The plank, as originally submitted, read:

"We will support a bill for amnesty. We feel that the present draft system should be abolished and a volunteer army established."

An amendment to make the first section read: "The Republican party opposes all bills supporting total amnesty for draft evaders," was passed by a sounding majority, while the volunteer army was also approved.

Under national defense the delegates approved a plank calling for a pledge to cut defense spending and calling for the budget to be prepared semi-annually and fluxuating with the cost of living.

Other candidates supported by the delegates for the presidential nomination included: Paul McCloskey (who was a popular second behind Nixon), Ronald Reagan, John Ashbrook, Woody Hayes, Strom Thurmond, Pat Paulsen and Howard Hughes.

The University will sponsor the Democratic Mock Convention next Saturday.

Former Whitehall mayor Paul Haytcher will give the welcoming address, Ohio Senator Anthony Calabrese will preside as Honorary Chairman and Ohio State Treasurer Gertrude Donahey will give the Keynote

JOHN ACREE AND Libby Goldstein of Walnut Ridge High School participated in the Mock Convention Saturday at Capital University. The two students were part of the delegation representing the State of Alabama. Students from the high school also served as delegates from California and Utah.

Home, Family Goals Of New Miss Columbus

By ANN MYERS
Special Staff Writer

After all the glamour is over, "I just want to be a housewife," says Kathy Kehlmier, Miss Columbus of 1972.

Kathy, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kehlmier of 3034 Courtright Rd., won the Miss Columbus title Mar. 15.

Tomorrow she will compete in the Miss Ohio in the Miss Ohio contest at Eastwood Mall in Warren-Miles, near Cleveland. The winner there will represent Ohio in the Miss U.S.A. pageant in San Juan, Puerto Rico next month.

The Miss Universe competition will also be held in San Juan in June.

Although Kathy works at Lazarus and models now, she does not plan to pursue a career in modeling. Her ambition is to marry, and to take care of her home and family.

"That's what I really want," she said with conviction.

The 18-year-old blue-eyed blond had never entered a beauty pageant before. She said she nearly didn't enter the Columbus preliminaries to the Miss Universe pageant because " it seemed like too much trouble," but friends convinced her to try it.

Contestants modeled evening gowns and bathing suits, and were interviewed by the judges before the audience of 500 for marks in poise and personality.

Her parents, two younger brothers and sister are proud of her achievement, and her brothers and sister are impressed with their sister's title.

"They treat me with respect now," she laughed.

Sustaining Board Seeks Members

A sustaining board for the Six Pence School is being set up to aid the school in securing funds for scholarships and long range plans.

Six Pence School is an independent day school established in 1965 to meet the educational needs of children who are unable to learn in the normal classroom setting.

According to Mrs. John Pfahl, the school provides a program especially designed to overcome learning disabilities and the social, emotional and behavioral problems which often accompany them.

Daily classroom work utilizes specialized teaching skills and training methods to develop the motor and language skills, as well as the auditory, visual and tactile senses of each child according to his own needs.

Invitations will be sent to area women to become charter members of the sustaining board. Mrs. Pfahl said the board would meet twice yearly.

The first meeting will be a luncheon at 11:30 a.m. on Friday, April 21, at the Scioto Country Club.

The school is located at 1294 E. Dublin - Granville Rd.

COTA Answers Charges Leveled By Bus Attorney

By JANE ROBINSON
Spectator Staff Writer

Considerable publicity has been given to the recent comments of Langdon D. Bell, executive secretary of the Ohio Motor Bus Association, concerning mass transit.

Bell has charged that other means to support mass transit should be explored before voters are asked to support the one-mill levy that will be on the May ballot.

Believing that the questions raised by Bell were worthy of response, The Spectator asked Keith Armstrong, executive secretary of the Central Ohio Transit Authority which is the issue on this ballot, to comment on several of the points made.

According to Armstrong, an effort to gain General Fund monies from the state to support transit authorities throughout Ohio were unsuccessful. Apparently, a major factor in this failure was the lobbying efforts of representativies of privately-owned bus companies, including Bell.

The stand against mass transit, as envisionaged locally, seems to stem from the apprehension by private companies that such authorities will attempt to prune their anticipated operationg losses by entry into the charter business.

This fear has had sound basis in Toledo and Cleveland, but the Central Ohio organization is, Armstrong states, committed to operate only within the area it hopes to serve.

In an effort to minize the scope of the "transportation crisis" Bell stated that congestion is non-existent except for one and one half hours in th morning and the same period in the late afternoon, Monday through Friday--and then only one-way.

He follows these figures with a prediction that industrial - commercial development will move to the suburbs. He cites Washington D.C. where 80 per cent of new commuter trips generated between 1960 and 1968 went to jobs in the suburbs.

Armstrong stated that the trend away from downtown traffic is true, but only as a symptom of "dying cities". Columbus, with its governmental centers, new development, retention of financial institutions and the proposed new convention center, is believed reasonably secure from the "flight to suburbia."

To the charge by Bell that COTA has already received a quarter of million dollars in public and private funds to "study and sell" mass transit in Franklin County, Armstrong states the accurate figure is $100,000.

Armstrong also contends that the figure of $30 million (as the estimated revenue over the 10-year life of the levy) was arrived at by established accounting procedures in cooperation with the county auditor. He does not accept the $37,000,000 figure advanced by Bell.

In answer to Bell's statements that, with the $12.5 million available from the federal government, the total monies could purchase 15.6 transit companies, Armstrong points out the initial purchase is but a small part of the transit plan.

For example, purchase of right-of-way is estimated at $5.8 million, 50 bus shelters must be constructed, computerized control of entrances to the freeways will be established and new equipment will be purchased to extend lines.

Other services to be added include publication of schedules, erection of signs and initiation of fare subsidies, including special prices for weekley passes and student and senior citizen passes.

Actually, according to Armstrong, local monies will only support from 20 to 25 percent of the long range efforts involved in establishing the mass transit system including rapid transit that will be necessary in Central Ohio by 1985.

Answering specific alternatives advanced by Bell, Armstrong first looked at the suggestion to induce merchants to pay transit fares for their customers rather than subsidizing parking charges for their customers.

He indicated that merchants are not interested in such subsidy (except possibly at Christmas time to accomodate the holiday rush), but place a higher priority upon employee benefits such as medical insurance.

To the call for a tax on parking lots to encourage motorists to use transit, Armstrong stated this would take enabling legislation at a federal level. (Bell had specified that the proceeds of the tax be used to match federal grants for purchase of equipment that then would be leased to the Columbus Transit Company at a nominal fee).

It is also beyond the scope of COTA, Armstrong explained, to follow Bell's suggestion that plants adjust their workshifts to relieve congestion and that, at certain hours, shoppers be lured with discounts.

The Barnett Scene

By: Debbi Chambers

Any boys or girls interested in badminton should sign up at the center. A center tournament is planned for the near future--in both singles and doubles.

Barnett Center has seven participants entering the Worthington Invitational Gymnastics Meet, Apr. 22 - 23. Contestants are Lisa Doane, Donna and Janette Schneider, Patti Whitlatch, Diana Sullivan, Debbie Howard and Debbie Chambers.

This week the class made Cinnamon-Apple Pancakes and last week Hodgie Podgies were featured.

Receipes for chili, seven-layer cookies, macaroni and cheese, popcorn balls and fudge will be prepared in the remaining class sessions. The children are also learning correct table setting and measurement techniques.

Leslie Redd, Mark Krauss, Kelly Klunk, Jenny Ewart and Jack Timson are a few who have enhanced the lobby bulletin board by illustrating the theme "Barnett's Funny Farm" in the Saturday Arts and Crafts class.

A Macreme class for beginners and semi-experienced teens and adults is being offered Monday evenings at 7. Bring your own materials (a small board, string, pins, beads, nails, sticks etc) and we will make ceramic beads. Call the center for further information.

Leading the staff to a 52-46 win over the All-Stars were Richard Cocherl (18pts.), Walter Ginther (16), Rick Hayes (6), Tom Marlier (3), Robin Fritts (4), Dave Levine (1) and Paul Morganski (5).

Leading scorers for the All-Stars were Dave Scholts (14 pts.), Rick Meidl (13), Jim Micheal (9), Kevin Reed and Jerry Marcum (4 pts. each) and Nick Volosin (2).

The Bale Circus was a complete success. The Athletic Department and Booster Club made a profit which will pay for the fire damage done to the equipment room.

The government department is sponsoring a mock Democratic Presidential campaign for all Senior government students. The classes are divided into regions and each student represents a state. A platform committee has already written a party platform which is currently under debate. In caucus, each group will choose its candidate.

Library Larceny

The intangible tax on stocks and bonds has previously been one easy to forget about for Ohio taxpayers.

The collection of state income tax with all interest and dividends reportable changes the picture.

The collection agency won't have to play Hawkeye to determine who has been unwilling to pay taxes upon the contents of their safety deposit boxes–or the securities held by their brokers.

Estimates of the undeclared wealth of Ohioans range from 20 to 40 percent and $18 million is the guestimate of the windfall that will be flowing into state coffers this year.

Libraries, by law, have first call on this money and, as their demands are perennially larger than the monies available, they have become, in fact, the sole benficiary of the intangible tax.

The windfall was anticipated by libraries throughout the state to ease the mounting financial pressures upon them and to halt the trend toward cutbacks including hours, staff and purchase of books.

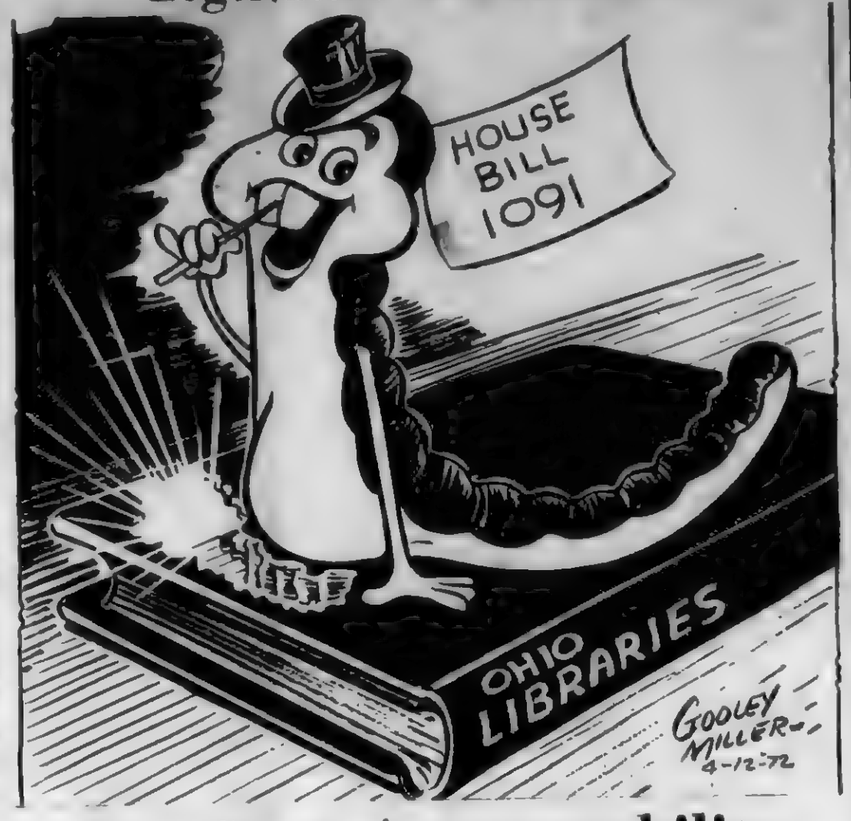
A bill, pending in the House, threatens to blast the hope offered to the hard-pressed libraries which are having a rough time trying to slake the thirst for knowledge of not only school children but adults stimulated by industry toward self-improvement.

Sponsored by Rep. James Flannery of Cleveland and other big city representatives, H. B. 1091 would take this $18 million and parcel it out to municipal governments.

The sum available wouldn't be a drop in the bucket in the budgets of local governments and yet would represent the difference between service and penny-pinching retrenchment for the libraries.

Cities, admittedly, have an insatiable appetite for funds and face the same inflationary crises as libraries.

But as taxing entities, they have the power to go to the people for help.



This is not the case for libraries who are dependent upon the State Legislature to bail them out of their difficulties.

Edward B. Daniels, librarian of the Columbus Public Library system, has tagged H.B. 1091 as "crass tokensim" and it appears the term is apt.

For example, withholding the windfall from the libraries will be a crucial matter to each of the seven systems in Franklin County, while diverting it to the cities and villages will provide little more than a bandaid relief to the latter.

Shennanigans of legislators in an election year are commonplace, but this type of tokenism can prove to boomerang.

Legislative Bookworm?

Teachers Accountability

By JANE ROBINSON

The thousands of man hours that resulted in the Project UNITE reports ready to be distributed represent an almost overwhelming diversity of opinion.

Some of the views put forth would be more appropriately implemented in a one-room school house in an agrarian–and Victorian–age long lost–and others are in advance of the financial resources of the schools of the seventies–if not ahead of the time itself.

Yet the reports share a common factor. The public is demanding accountability.

Again, few agree on exactly what constitutes accountability. But, when the window dressing hung by various special interest groups in removed, one fact remains.

Schools are judged upon the product they turn out-and parents, no more than business, industry and colleges and universities, are not particularly delighted with that product.

New approaches to improving the output of the schools spawn with a fertility rate that is somewhat frightening.

Such programs certainly should be tested, but as Project UNITE recommendations are studied and sorted, little will be gained through any program unless renewed emphasis is placed upon teacher competence.

Curriculum improvement, low student-teacher ratios, new resources–they can all go for naught without teachers who can communicate with their students, motivate them, and competently open up the world of learning to them.

It is no secret that , during the shortage of teachers that arose after World War II (and has been alleviated only within the past two or three years) many ill-equipped teachers were placed under contract.

Furthermore, tenured teachers –until recently–have not been pressured into the in-service programs necessary to refine their skills, and promising young teachers have floundered when left on their own in situations which they lack the maturity and experience to meet.

These facts make especially relevant the recommendations made last month by the Commission on Public School Personnel Policies in Ohio.

Addressing itself to the problem of Teacher Evaluation, the Commission concluded that teacher evaluation today, more often than not, does more harm than it does good.

In the first place, teacher evaluation is generally misunderstood. It should not be a tool through which some get their hands slapped, and others their backs patted but one through which constructive help is given each teacher to improve his or her instructional skills.

The Commission, in this report, was not particularly concerned with the teaching personnel who is not suited for teaching and should be fired or retired, but with the man or woman in the classroom who can be led to do a better job.

Apparently, the situation that exists today is that of the blind leading the blind.

School administrators have little training in such procedures–and even those blessed with the innate qualities of leadership have little respite from school routine to give their teachers the guidance they so urgently need.

We concede the help, when offered, will not always be welcomed. A man has his home for a castle and the classroom fulfills that role for many.

But at least the teacher can be led to the oasis-and those who won't drink can find greener pastures.

The crux of the matter is that the support must be offered–and that the public be made aware of its importance.

It is not encouraging when one sees that a Gallup poll shows that the average taxpayer believes cuts in school administration costs would be the most logical of 16 alternatives suggested.

The public is right in its demand for accountability, but unfortunately, like most things in this world, it carries a price tag.

That price tag involves well-trained administrators with time to be supportive of the teachers in whose hands rests the future of our children.

Today in our schools are teachers, intelligent and enthusiastic about education, who call for student attention in the same dulcet tones anticipated at a hog-calling contest.

There are others who unknowingly "lose" a class though unwillingness or inability to be attentive to a question.

And, there are some who simply don't know what they are talking about.

Without sensitive and qualified evaluation to restructure the teaching methods of these people, dollars spent to initiate new programs will be only more down the drain of unplanned illiteracy.

YOUTH Rostrum

WHAT'S WRONG WITH TODAY'S SCHOOLS?

This week's Respondents:

FRANKLIN-HEIGHTS HIGH SCHOOL

It is the attitude of the students. They lack respect for their teachers.

Students all say they want more freedom and responsibility but when it is given them, they abuse it. - JERRY PLOTTS

Today's schools do not offer a broad enough curriculum. Subjects offered are basically the same year after year with only the level changed. For the intellectual students, the challenge of diversity is missing.

Perhaps the problem is lack of money, with the schools unable to afford a varied curriculum – or a better cafeteria menu – BRENDA CICCONE

Students carry from two to as many as eight study halls a day and are bored after several in a row.

With an open campus policy the students could leave school between actual classes and the day would not be so long. I do not believe it would increase absenteeism as the students who want to cut classes already do so. Furthermore teachers would be freed of study hall assignment in an open campus situation. - TONI HALCOMB

The simple task of walking from classroom to classroom is a growing problem. One must clamber through the over-populated, congested halls of wall-to-wall students. This should not be necessary. With rising taxes and increasing population, facilities must be provided to accomodate students and student activities.

The problem is most clearly recognized in the high schools where students have become concerned enough to speak out. At Franklin Heights, a reasonably modern facility, building capacity is rated at 900 students, yet currently 1150 students are enrolled.

If more parents and non-parents can be made aware of this problem, they may be a little more agreeable when it comes time to go to the polls. - GEORGIA BAINTER

Discussion and opinions should be emphasized rather than factual testing in which teachers seem more concerned with fleeting facts rather than the concepts that will be remembered throughout a life time. I also believe the subject matter is too repetitive with teachers too slow to move ahead to something new.

Insufficient time is given to grading with teachers more inclined to give a failing grade rather than attempt to help the students make that F an A.

Schools do help some students go out and make the best of life. It's a shame time isn't taken to help all to make the best of life - JOHN MICHEL

The attitude of some of the teachers about their jobs create a problem. Students at Westland and Grove City with whom I have talked agree with me.

At F-H a few teachers ask little of their students in the way of school work. Many of us wouldn't mind this–until we realize we're going to be in bad shape later.

Other teachers act as if you were in school only to attend their class. They lay the assignments on you so thick you have to break your back to get a passing grade, which is unfair to the average student who has four to six other classes daily. -STEVE BALLARD

Today's schools are too restrictive. Everywhere you go you find people telling you what to do and when to do it. If the administration would cut this out, half of the problems would be gone. How can one expect to be a good student when he has to live by other people's standards?

With an open campus system a more relaxed situation would be made for the student and he would want to learn. School is only preparing for the student's future, but he is living now. It seems someone might want to stop all the preparation and live life as he wants to. - DAVE STEPHENS.

Teachers are not strict enough. For example, teachers don't watch the kids or make them mind. They run in and out of rooms, fight and smoke in the restrooms.

Another problem is that people don't care whether students come to school or not. More interesting classes and improvement of the few good ones in the answer - TERRY SPARACINA

Carrying on and babbling about such trivia as lunches, dirty restrooms, gloomy class rooms and poor school spirit is a waste of time.

What is important is the need for change, serious change, in our schools from kindergarten right on up. When you have high school seniors with no more responsibility than an eight-year-old, and young people who have finished 12 years of training in preparation for life and have no more idea of what they want of life or how to get it than than they did when they were four, even the blind can see something is wrong.

As a student I cannot expect to tell an expert who has been teaching for 30 years how to change his systems; I only ask that he or other experts reevaluate their own systems. Then I ask the changes be made that honestly will be best for the students, the coming generation, the ones into whose hand this nation will be placed. - DENNIS HART

The problems with today's schools is discipline. Too much emphasis is placed on administrative powers, giving the Administration absolute rule over the students. (The Reynoldsburg High School principal at the present time is alleged to be running a dictatorship. He tells his students what they can say, write and feel.)

Student Council is supposed to be a medium between a student and the administration. As a former member of this organization I know that Student Council is worthless, a waste of time, and accomplishes nothing but PTA and Booster Club projects.

The individual teacher should have the power of authority. He is supposed to be mature, adult person with a college degree. Sending a student to the office for discipline is an admission the teacher cannot handle high school students: such a teacher should try teaching lower grades. To earn the respect of the students the teacher must administer discipline and not bother the principal who has other concerns.

We need to learn to live on our own, suffer hardships, receive disappointment and gain our own aspirations. Administrators do not have the right to relieve us, as United States citizens, of every right we deserve. - TOM FRITZ

Not too much is wrong with our schools, as they have met many of the needs of today's students, although crowded classrooms limits the individual attention a teacher can give his students.

Students have too much free time and teachers not enough. Eliminating study halls would allow teachers to instruct in subject matter interesting both to the teacher and the students. Such classes could involve hunting, rock music, analysis of different techniques of art and macrame.

Today's students expect too much and many, when they get the privilege they seek, proceed to abuse it. - MADONNA BRADFORD

People being slow to believe is our main problem. This fault lies within the staff and even in the school board. Narrow-mindedness has had no place on a school board , but it is there.

People responsible for school operation apparently don't know what's happening and in school and situations get out of control. We, the students must help the administration if we want a school of which we can be proud. - BOB BRIGHT

Sex Education Important

To the Editor:

I am a 15-year-old Catholic girl who is very concerned about your article on sex education in Catholic schools.

I have gone to public schools all my life and have received sex education for many years. In fact, I am just completing a course in health and sex education this year.

I do not feel these courses have at all been non-profitable to me. On the contrary, I feel they have composed a most important part of my education.

Knowing the facts of life from a comparatively early age has protected me from hearing, and believing, false stories from misinformed friends and school mates instead of well qualified teachers.

The parents who oppose the Family Life series in their schools are committing a grievous error. They are not thinking of what is good for their children.

I know from first-hand experience that sex education is a much needed course in both private and public schools, and I hope to see it part of every child's curriculum.

Reader Backs COTA Levy

To the Editor:

What a disappointment to read in the Apr. 5 edition a letter stating facts about COTA, saying he supports mass transit but opposes the levy.

There is only one way to support mass transit in Central Ohio and that is to vote yes for the one-mill levy.

This will cost the average homeowner $8. per year. This will make the Central Ohio Transit Authority eligible for $12.5 million federal money (taxes you have already paid!).

To support mass transit in this way is an investment in the future of the area. It is the way to bring the voice of the people as to what kind of service they want to bear on the management of the transit system.

Vote "yes" for the stabilization of a 45-cent fare, an end to extra boundary fees and a special 25-cent fare for senior citizens during non-peak hours.

Because I am in favor of mass transit, I am for the levy.

Addict Rehab Often Losing Game

PART II
OF THREE PARTS

By JUDITH C. PATTERSON

The greatest single need to fight drug abuse that must be satisfied is knowledge and acceptance of the fact that the problem actually exists. In spite of the phenomenal amount of information that has been offered, the lack of actual community awareness is still quite apparent.

When a community has been marshalled to deal with a problem, the pitfalls encountered in the "game" do not exist as major obstacles – the tide that reverses is that of not having been able to recognize that this problem, along with the other social and moral problems of our time, originate and can usually be solved in the family unit. The prevalent malaise of our time is the breakdown of our family structure.

In a nation's haste to find an answer to drug abuse, sexual permissiveness and so on, we have said, profoundly, that these are "people problems."

This alliteration is cute and appears to be profound on the surface. In addition it is an accurate statement since we rarely hear of a St. Bernard that becomes a "speed freak" or prostitute.

Aren't the problems of our times rather family problems? Haven't we perhaps delegated so much authority beyond the confines of the home that parenthood has been substituted for rather than augmented? Don't we see a good number of homes where one cannot distinguish the family members without a program? Isn't the result in many cases the maintaining of an egalitarian home?

Compounding these built-in areas of difficulty are all those who would now enter the community extending the hand of friendship – offering to counsel, willing to share every form of personal degradation and humiliation experienced – all in the name of fighting the community problem of drug abuse – a problem that; in all probability, the community, if polled, would deny existed beyond some "youthful experimentation."

Don't we then see the next in a line of illogical progressions - that of concentrating in only one area of the problem - crisis intervention and the person with the problem only? Don't we usually see a community sit back complacently after having funded a hotline, crash pad or whatever and, in relief, decide that "the problem" is now being dealt with"

Why we have taken this course is quite obvious and understandable. When one sees a fire erupt suddenly the instinct shared is to put it out quickly. It isn't until this immediate fire is extinguished that we are likely to seek the faulty wiring beneath the floor as the probable and continuing cause.

Drug abuse came upon us suddenly, at least it appeared this way to many people. The natural instinct was to treat and attempt rehabilitation – stop the users first. It is understandable that this appeared to be the real heart of the problem and consequently got the full thrust of the effort a community mustered, if any.

We have taken too long to learn that, like a thief in the night, drug abuse has crept into our communities and has begun to exact a toll that few will be willing to finally pay.

A nation is just now beginning to reel from the knowledge of the national scope of the drug abuse problem – think of the horror that will be shared when these thousands of communities that have difficulty hypothetically allowing the existence of "lesser drugs" realize that heroin has become the "high" of choice...that the quality and quantity available increases daily from "Needle Park" to the farm in Iowa.

As Rousseau said, "slaves lose everything in their chains, even the desire of escaping them." The slavery of heroin is something few people but the addict can understand. The price that will be exacted from a nation because of heroin is something no one understands.

Before a community can understand what must now be done, it must understand why rehabilitation is a matter of choice, not an imposed dictum that will be heeded or else.

No man can be rehabilitated, regardless of the problem, unless he desires to change his life style enough that he will scrap his habit and maintain a completely altered life style under the scrutiny of a community that will expect failure.

This means learning an entirely new way to live, substituting something of equal pleasure and intensity for the previous habit. This means an involvement with life itself, a deep motivation to live a life without crutches while satisfying someone other than self. This means, realistically, a frighteningly low percentage.

If we will view the problem realistically we can take a clean look at what needs to be done. Certainly rehabilitation efforts must be offered and conscientiously pursued; immediate help must be available for crisis situations, but not to the exclusion of everything else.

It is mathematically unsound and totally illogical to concentrate all our efforts, all our manpower, all our monies and all our time and "understanding" in that area of the problem that has the least likely chance of success. The victories realized in total rehabilitation of an addict are so few and far between they appear with the brilliance of a Haley's Comet when they do occur.

We, as a nation, need to assess priorities in this battle. Unless we can determine that we must halt the problem's spread before we can effectively deal with it, we will continue to play a "game" in reaching a solution, gaining nothing but more rhetoric and more philosophy...neither of which has ever won a war.

A community has all that it needs to solve its problems. Rarely, if ever, do we see a community that effectively utilizes what is already available within the periphery of its existing structure to solve its problems.

Rather it seeks outside expertise and allows all that built and maintains it to lie fallow. It spins its wheels seeking bigger and better and super solutions to everything. It evaluates its successes by the title and federal monies that are awarded to fight everything from cesspool slime to the heaving of the road leading to the local courthouse.

It seldom realizes that social and moral issues will not be resolved in the offices of those competing for federal monies to maintain their very employment. Rather they will be resolved where they originate: in the homes of the people that have them.

Our communities have become places where we idolize an entirely new breed of people. We take the person who has erred or has in some way strayed from society's accepted norms and we supposedly rehabilitate him. We then return him to society and idolize him. We hold him up to be admired by all those who haven't lived the sordid life he has experienced.

We even go so far as to suggest that if another member of the community objects to this because it appears to be glamorizing decadence, former or existing, that he then is lacking in compassion, not "with it" or totally unfit to be heard from an "expert"

(If we were in the midst of playing the "game" we would discover that this is one of the hurdles to be overcome in the obstacle course – the obstacle course set up to give an outside chance to those non-expert and non-professional people who wish to be heard and to have the chance to participate along with those society already qualifies, for whatever reason. Incidentally, the rules of the "game" may be changed at any time it is expedient or necessary to enhance the probability of eventual victory.)

Sharon Cohen ORT Winner

Representatives of the Eastmoor-Berwick Chapter of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) recently presented Miss Sharon Cohen with a $500. U.S. Savings Bond.

Presenting the bond were EPIC chairman Hope Katz, chapter president Terry Bornstein and treasurer Sandy Sable.

'Well Done' Mark Hopper

Sixteen-year-old Walnut Ridge student Mark Hopper, of 4640 Ellery Dr., was on the books as only a last minute replacement in the recent Easter Seal Parade.

It all happened when an emergency arose--the original parader in Mark's neighborhood was called out of town.

A New American In Paris

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

Ankle length separates in dashing blue and white plaid linen, bias skirt and white single breasted tailored jacket with matching notch collar vest and navy turtle neck sweater.

CLASSIC GREY FLANNEL Pea jacket with matching grey flannel pants and natural knit turtle neck sweater.

EUROPE HAS already taken quite a lot of Americanisms to its heart...blue jeans, Coke, Bermuda shorts and hamburgers...now it will have a chance to fall in love with American fashions in person.

ANNE KLEIN will open her own ready-to-wear shop in Paris this fall. It will be the first time a major American designer has launched a retail business abroad...Anne Klein and three of her principals in the venture are in Europe now completing initial plans for the shop and catching the Couture Collections.

According to Mrs. Klein, the Paris store will be within a three-block radius of Dior...a prototype for other stores they hope to set up over the next two or three years. "Frankly, I wish we had done this years ago," she said. "The appeal of American fashion has been fantastic to Europeans, particularly in the sportive, casual wear feeling."

In addition to the regular Klein collection, belts and jewelry will be carried.

THE PARIS shop will compete with the couture's pre-a-porter...it will be run strictly by Americans, with an American managing it and American sales help too. All the clothes will be produced in Anne Klein factories in the United States and shipped directly to the Paris store. Prices abroad will be "on a par" with Anne Klein prices here.

AS TO HER present Spring collection...it consists of blazers, trench-coats, pea-jackets, low, hip conscious slacks and Western stitched leathers. As always, Anne Klein's grand plan for a season is developed in fabric groups...the grey flannel series, which includes a pea-jacket, snappy blazer, and little classic vest...there are also two skirts. Similar groupings are made in delightful primary colored provincial prints on cotton, with the famous Klein foulard silk print shirts; and a white flannel group that brings back glamourous thoughts of ocean liners. There's also a jumper with a difference. Long, lean and sexy, cut in bias lengths of supple Tergal linen...she shows them with dipfront belt, to be worn with bare throat and arms or thin clingy sweater or shirt. This collection blazes with red... Anne calls it simply "red".

Though-out, interesting clothes that do more than cover you up but never look eccentric, is the new direction.

Around Town

Conducted By ROLAND SUNKER

George Kirby, a triple, triple threat entertainer, opened Monday at the Scot's Inn Motel. This guy does everything, and does it all well in first-class style. George is a comic, a singer, a dancer, an impressionist, an impersonator and just an all-around entertainer.

Impersonating about 20 different people to an almost exact duplicate of their voice, facial expressions and mannerisms, George knocked the audience flat on their face with impersonations of Wallace Barry, Betty Davis, Pearl Bailey, Nat King Cole, Louis Armstrong, L.B.J., Lee Marvin and even Count Basie, both in voice and at the piano.

For most entertainers, that would be enough. But, not for George. This guy, who just oozes with personality, does a smash job on such tunes as, "Put Your Hand In The Hand," "It's Impossible," and "Oh Happy Day."

Somewhere between his impressions of a 747, that almost makes you duck, and J.J. Johnson playing the trombone, he knocks out a few jokes in the George Kirby style. For example, referring to the bad part of his life, he said he had a dream the other night about a gorgeous sexy girl, and it ended up that he was her mother.

Talking about heart transplants, George told about the white man receiving the heart from a black man and winning a tap dancing contest in Harlem.

As many people in the audience voiced loudly, but politely, "it's nice to have you back in town." And, it sure is. Also back in town with George, is an old friend of mine--his arranger and conductor, Hank Marr.

Hank, for those of you who have been Around Town five or six years ago, used to play organ and piano at many of the local lounges, including the Speakeasy.

So, be sure and stop in at Scot's Inn this week and catch one of the greatest acts in show biz, George Kirby. And say hello to Hank.

After leaving the Scot's Inn, I dropped in at the Shearton North to say goodbye to Roger Pierrigo and the Sound Foundation. They are closing Saturday and heading for New Orleans. I, along with the crowd, received a special treat when the comedy team of Reynolds and Richie performed. They are the funniest and most high-powered comedy team I've seen in many a moon.

They open in New Orleans with Roger, and then head for the coast to tape some Rowan and Martin "Laugh In," shows. Youy have probably seen them on Ed Sullivan, Johnny Carson and other network shows. What an act, and what an evening.

So, don't sit home--get out this week and live a little.

BARN THEATRE

Ed. Note: Our thanks to Reynoldsburg Spectator Editor Ray Adams for reviewing "The Owl and The Pussycat," at the Barn Dinner Theatre last Saturday. When I can't be there, I know I can always count on Ray to do an excellent job.)

"The Owl and the Pussycat" took to sea last week in the beautiful pea-green boat known as Reynoldsburg Barn Dinner Theatre.

The Owl (Jeffrey Gorney) and the Pussycat (Cynthia Geller) were superbly conditioned swimmers and oarsman and the coxwain (Director Ron Grossman) gave ample stroking instructions with a well-tuned megaphone.

The fare is the first two-part play performed at the Barn since its opening. It's different. The on-stage requirements of Miss Geller and Mr. Gorney were fulfilled to the utmost.

Each, in his and her own way, were more than equal to the task of carrying specific parts of the play.

"THE OWL and the Pussycat" dwells on a time-worn theme. "The Pussycat" is a woman-of-the-world who plies her trade wherever the action is. "The Owl" is a writer whose intellectual standards put the word and its philosophical meaning far above the dollar sign value of what he has written.

He becomes a Henry Higgins to her Eliza Doolittle in a manner of speaking but the fair lady (Miss Geller) soon switches the teacher-student relationship to suit her academic level and love takes over where fear of the unknown had tread.

Be prepared to listen to every word. Their diction is flawless and the lack of much visual action (it's a one-set stage without changes all the way) makes them rely on small gestures and accentuated language to get the message across.

Forget that you might have seen the screen version of the play of the same name. The third act of the stage version never did make the movie and, according to Director Ron Grossman, this is where the two characters really row, row, row their boat to a finish line victory. On that we agree.

GROSSMAN HAS added several individual touches that give the play a lift. The six scene changes in the second act would have been a disaster for a lesser director and two less talented and polished performers.

A note to the dinner-theatre habituals. Make your reservations early. When word of mouth gets around on this one (and even Head Chef Sir Jon Melvin has outdone his culinary efforts) they might be hard to come by. It's on stage now through April 25 except Sunday and Monday evenings.

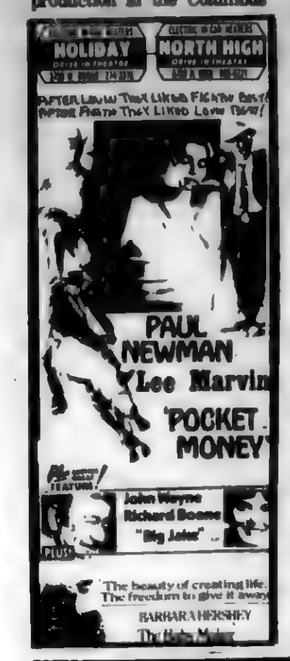
ACADEMY THEATRE

We have a beautiful new theatre in town that is quite unique in its operation. Called the Forum, it is actually three theatres in one. Each auditorium seats about 200 each, with very steep seating, so that you have a clear view of the screen.

Two of the theatres play the same movies. Right now it is, "The Hot Rock," a real fun picture. Starting times alternate between the two, every hour on the hour. This do make it nice.

Then, in the third auditorium, a different first run picture is shown. It starts on the half hour. So, what it all boils down to is that you can go to The Forum and catch the beginning of a movie almost every half hour. No waiting for the beginning, no walking in the middle of a picture.

By the way, playing in the third theatre this week is another goodie, "French Connection." Take my advice, and head to the Forum soon. I know, you will love the plush decor and lovely facilities.



SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

For one of the best Italian restaurants with beautiful atmosphere, the Del Matto's Restaurant is the place for you. The food is excellent, the service very good, and most of all, the decor is so relaxing and authentic. It is certainly an enjoyable dining spot...Moving along at a fast clip is Ginger's Sherwood Inn. Mike Brenning is at the piano Monday through Thursday playing nice, soft dinner music. He has proven very popular with the customers at the Sherwood Inn. Then, on Friday and Saturday, Ed Hix and The Townsmen take over with plenty of good Country and Western music for dancing and just plain listening...Don't forget the delicious sea food buffet on Fridays at the Olentangy Inn. You will flip over the food there. They are starting to bring back entertainment, with some big plans lined up to getting the Olentangy back in a festive mood...Flash... Just received word that the naughty girl herself, Rusty Warren, will be in town first part of May. The place, Ft. Hayes Hotel. Speaking of The Fort Hayes, make sure you catch Ken Brokamp in the Round-Up-Room. He is good..The Holiday Inn in Reynoldsburg has Roger Hunt at the organ nightly. This fellow is very enjoyable. More on him next week...Sorry this took so long, but in answer to T.F. Hood's letter asking about a group called the Jubilees that were appearing at the Imperial House North in Cincinnati - it is not booked anywhere in the Columbus area. If you have any questions just drop us a note, and I will try to print your answers... The Ramada Inns, all three of them, continue to swing. The Diamonds Four is packing them in at the North Ramada Inn. Jim Hittner is doing a great job at the Ramada Inn South and the beautiful Carole Criste keeps packing them in at the beautiful Ramada Inn East. All I can say, this is a triple-threat package of entertainment. Each outfit is a little different, pick your type of entertainment and stop in.

H.M.S. Pinafore Final Show

Tickets will be available at the door the day of the performance. The ticket prices are $2.00, $1.50 and $1.00. For further information call 224-6671.

Film Classic Scheduled

The story concerns Thomas Becket, Archbishop of Canterbury, and Henry II, with highlights of their political and religious encounters.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

The Association of Community Theaters-Columbus will have an open meeting April 21, at 7:30 p.m. at the Desert Inn, 3540 E. Broad St. But the term "meeting" is just a coverup for a night of fun.

There will be piano duets by concert pianist Bela Szilagyi and his wife, Mary Elizabeth. Then, fresh from a two week engagement at Gallery Players, Jerry Loffman and "Evelyn Wilson" will recreate their zany roles in "I'm Herbert", and all others who wish to do so will be getting into the ACT (excuse the pun).

Each group will try to outdo the other in providing tasty hors d'oeuvres, and there will be a cash bar. No reservations are necessary for any member of one of the 17 member groups of ACT.

Friday, April 14, marks the opening of Lillian Hellman's "Toys In The Attic" at Players Club, 849 Franklin Ave. This powerfully emotional drama, directed by Gerald Ness, features Bette Spiro, Linda Haydock, Lil Strouss, Rex Fuller, Willie McWhorter, Jackie Bates and Leonard Napper. E-M, Bexley Cinder Sights High; Hawks Hurt

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

(Editor's Note: This is Part II of our series previewing area high school Track Prospects. This week's subjects are Hartley, Bexley, Eastmoor and Grovepert.

HARTLEY

Hawk cinder boss Bob Telerski suffered some horrendous graduation losses from a fine '71 squad.

Missing from his lineup this spring are 4:33 miler Joe Tatusko, 23 foot long jumper Dave Balcer (who also did the low hurdles in :20 flat and triple jump 44 feet), 6-4 high jumper Mike Astley and 53 foot shot putter John Federer, to name a few.

BACK TO BEAR the Hartley banner will be a standout stable of sprinters—and a lot of untried underclassmen.

Heading the list is muscular Art Best, 195 pounds of the fastest flesh around these parts. The senior letterman ran :09.9 in the hundred and :22.2 in the 220 as junior—and Bob thinks he can improve on either time with some warm weather work.

"Best is about 15 pounds heavier than last year," said Telerski—"and he's looked really strong in early meets."

FELLOW SENIOR returnee Dan Carroll will be Best's top sprinting sidekick. He's done the hundred in :10.4 and the 220 in :23.5.

That talented twosome will get some outstanding help from junior letterman Rob Bigler (:23 flat for 220 and :53.5 for 440) and promising soph Ed Radcliff (:53.8 already this spring in the quarter).

They add up to one of the top dash corps as you'll find around here—and the speed should show up not just in individual competition, but in some eye-popping relay clockings too.

THE HAWK middle-distance lineup isn't too shabby either. Flashy junior Pierre Sweeney has a 2:08 best for the half mile, but Telerski thinks he's at least five seconds faster. He'll share the 880 and mile assignments with senior move-in Toby Faulkner—who has done 2:09 this year along with a :53 quarter and a 4:48 mile.

Junior Steve Albrecht is running 2:10's also, and Mike Lynch may be a contributor in the middle relays if he gets over an ouchy ankle in time.

Seniors Abe Hatem and Joe Santry will take care of the hurdling chores, but neither can come close to Jim Flaherty's school record clockings of last season.

AND THAT leaves junior Chuck Farrell as the only likely Hawk two-miler. He's done 10:35 and could go a bit lower.

Which adds up to a running corps that is blazing fast at 100 and 220, competitive at 440 and thin from there up.

Only cheers in the field events, so very strong over the past couple seasons, should come in the long jump this time around. Sprinter Best and hurdler Hatem have both sailed past 20 feet, and Chip Jakeway is at 19 already—which makes the threesome a contender for relay honors at a lot of meets.

SENIOR Mike Connors is working to improve on a 5-10 best in the high jump, Matt Templeton's 4½ feet is the best Hawk shot put effort to date, and discus chores will be handled by Jakeway (140' best) and soph Chris Stenson (120').

None of those performances is likely to help Hartley point totals against top competition, and Bob hasn't been able to come up with anyone in the pole vault.

"We just lost a whole mess of excellent kids, especially in the field events," he summarized. "There are a lotta kids with potential, but we need time to develop 'em—and this rotten weather hasn't helped much."

OVERALL the Hawk boss thought his sprinters would have to carry the load—with Best as the star performer but the relay teams as good as most anyone else's "Sweeney should come on strong in he half," he added, and Faulkner could be a real boost in the mile—but generally we'll have to take our lumps in the distance and field events and rebuild."

BEXLEY

One man's potion may be just plain hemlock for the next guy.

While Hartley's Telerski has plenty of dash men and not much else, Bexley boss Russ Owen welcomes back 16 returning lettermen off an outstanding '71 cinder squad—but not the three sprinters who made it go.

RECORD-SETTERS Tom Reynolds, Tom Hall and Carl Gruenler have gone the cap-and-gown route—leaving Russ minus three fourths of last year's State AA runnerrup 880 Relay team, and times like :10 flat in the hundred and :22 flat in the 220.

To make matters worse, outstanding miler Chris Lerch (4:34 last year as a junior) is a very doubtful prospect for senior service because of a slow-mending ankle injury.

"We have a lot of kids back from last year, but they're all underclassmen," said Russ. "If Lerch can't run, we'll have one senior on the squad—that has to be the youngest squad I've had at Bexley."

AMONG '72 strong-points, Owen thought the overall Lion field events contingent rated some discussion.

Junior basketball standout Carl Kraft returns to defend his '71 Mid Eight long jump title (he's a consistent 20 foot performer), and will also back up the team's only senior, Russ Kessler in the high jump.

Kessler set a school record last week by clearing 6'1", and Kraft has done 6' this [illegible].

Junior lettermen Bob Sherman is right behind Kraft in the long jump at 19' and fast-improving classmate Rick Williams could make the Lion high jump trio a legitimate relay threat if he can up a current 5'10" best.

RUSS WAS particularly impressed with the progress shown by sophomore discus thrower Jeff Edelstein. He's already thrown 140' this spring, and Owen thinks he can expand on that with some time to improve his technique.

Lion pole vaulter Tom Sixt is a bona fide District contender, having cleared 13' several times in the past. The graduation of Gruenler and Hall hurts Bexley depth here, because both were top-knotch vaulting performers.

WITH LERCH a big question mark pending doctor's orders, the Bexley running stable doesn't stack with the field events group in point potential.

Top prospect for meet gold is probably junior hurdler Dave Carruthers, last year's league champ in the highs with a :15.4 best. He'll get some backing from a pair of eager sophomores--Bill Whitlock (:22.4 in the lows) and Tom Harriman.

The Lion long-distance corps is headed by soph letterman Chris Altmaier, who turned in a neat 10:11 two mile clocking in his first '72 appearance and looks to get stronger. Three more 10th graders will also cover the long haul, they are Larry Ault, Deke Long and Dan Gray.

FRESHMAN Curt Wilderman is the top Lion mile hope at the moment. He's done 5:01 in early competition. Coach Owen is concentrating on the future here—with two more ninth graders, Gene Lewis and Mark Tapee, holding down the other varsity mile assignments.

Junior Andy Myers and Wilderman are 1-2 as the Bexley 880 men. Myers has done 2:10 and Wilderman turned in a 2:14 clocking only a few minutes after his five minute mile.

Another basketball hero, Tom Bramlage, clocked a :54.6, last spring to rate as Russ' best 440 bet. Junior Rick Williams and freshman Steve Marr are under :56 for the quarter too, and should help make the Lion mile relay contingent respectable.

THAT LEAVES the sprints, where Reynolds and Hall brought home tons of points last year. Football halfback Buzz Imboden has the best dash times so far with a :10.8 hundred and :24.5 220; and Bob Sherman doubles as his runningmate when he isn't long jumping—with roughly comparable times.

Key to Bexley hopes in the sprints and a big boost for the relay quarters may be sophomore Mark Abramson. He lettered as a freshman and impressed Russ with some strong early dash showings before being temporarily slowed by a pulled hamstring.

Overall, Russ saw his field events people holding their own against anybody with the runners by and large unpredictable.

HE SAW Grove City as a strong Mid Eight entry, with Grandview tough in the distance events--and the Lions a longshot.

EASTMOOR

Warrior track boss Freddie Williams has so many fast senior sprinters around, he just might try to sneak an extra relay team or two into a few of the bigger meets this Spring.

Far as we know, however, you can only enter one quartet at each distance.

THAT'S NOT to say Williams doesn't have some classy field events performers.

There's senior discus-and-shot specialist Joe Schleppi, for example. Schleppi has done better than 45' in the shot, and his 144' best in the discus so far also rates tagging as a potential source of Warrior points.

Then there's a trio of tough long jumpers, headed by senior Wally Cannon. Cannon, also a top 440 man, broke the Denison Fieldhouse prep record last week with a 22'7½" leap that rates him right up around the District's best.

JOE BARKER, a senior who also may be E-M's top half miler, and junior Ray Griffin have both done 20'9" this spring—and the three of them add up to a strong relay entry most anywhere.

Juniors Al Goelz and Mike Cage look to be the top Warrior high jumpers (both are under 5'10" so far), and Goelz and senior Bob Nesshan are right around 11' in the pole vault.

If those distances don't look too promising, Eastmoor partisans should get plenty of encouragement from super sophomore Rick Meido's 52'5½" shot put effort already this season. He could really raise some eyebrows with a little improvement, and anchor another three-man relays point producer along with Schleppi and senior Lance Platt (low 40's).

Senior George Hicks is a top-flight hurdler (:15.2 for the highs, :20.9 lows) and he'll get support from

'Ups And Downs' At Bexley

'72 Scot Nine 'Decent'; G-P, Hawks Rebuilding

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

(Editor' note: This is part two of our series previewing Eastside high school diamond prospects for '72. Subjects this week are Walnut Ridge, Groveport and Hartley.

WALNUT RIDGE

According to Scot baseball boss Jack Stephenson, he's got himself a "real decent" group of diamond performers this year.

"Our pitching should be strong, our fielding is steady and we've really been 'moving the ball' in scrimmages so far—we're no super team, but we're real decent," he elaborated.

Backing Rankin up will be juniors Scott Glen and Mike Bateson (the latter another portsider); along with promising sophs Rick Harrington and Frank Less. Stephenson is enthusiastic enough about this group to be working on a semi-regular starting rotation, instead of planning to go with his ace as often as humanly possible.

The infield will feature three-year veterans Curt Koblens and Ray Mitchell at first and third respectively, and John Moulette—a very talented move-in from Spokane Washington—at short.

THAT LEAVES only second base unattended by a proven performer, and Jack said there were so many people fighting for the job that he wouldn't even speculate on a starter yet.

Captain Mark McEvoy, another three-year regular, gives the Scots standout fielding in left field, but from there on it's a real scramble for the other picket positions.

THE RIGHT field assignment is being shared right now by pitchers Rankin and Glen—who are good enough with the stick to be nearly un-benchable when they aren't pitching.

Last week's miserable weather kept the Scots from getting in a pre-City League start: but they kicked off pursuit of the South Division crown with a 4-3 win Monday over South.

RANKIN WENT the distance, allowing the Bulldogs only six hits, but needed a two-run homer in the sixth to tie things up after South had jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the first. He delivered that clout himself.

Ridge met West Tuesday, and was scheduled to take

Four Area 'Specials' Highlight Thin Card

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Area track and field buffs, already more than a little impatient for warm weather to arrive, will be eyeing the heavens with fingers crossed later this week as the local Invitational cinder campaign gets underway.

Marion-Franklin and Reynoldsburg lead off with their annual spectaculars Friday evening, to be followed Saturday by the venerable Worthington and Gahanna specials.

A flock of the area's top prep performers will be in action at each meet—here's a rundown of existing records and general info on each:

RED DEVIL RELAYS

Marion-Franklin coach Roger Graves figures that, barring another January-style weekend, this Friday's third annual Devil Invite should be bigger and better than ever.

"We'll definitely have new records set in all the field events," said Roger—"because we had to change the three-man team scoring to a two-man format; with 14 teams entered, we had to cut back to save time."

THAT'S A six-team jump from the field the Devils edged out last year for the team title.

Back to battle for '72 gold will be '71 runnerup West (Cowboys edged M-F in an earlier triangular), along with fellow City League rivals East, Eastmoor, Linden, Central, Mohawk and South; Mid Eight strongboy Grove City COL powerhouse Upper Arlington and Lancaster, Ready and Watterson from the Catholic League and OCC representative Whitehall.

Graves rated it "the strongest Invitational field of the year,"- and had some statistics to back him up.

"WE'LL HAVE five milers who've done better than 4:35," he began; "three sub-10 minute two milers, four sprinters who do the hundred in :10.1 or less, seven high hurdlers who have run :15.5 or below, and a flock of relay entries that have run faster than our meet records."

Running preliminaries and field event competion are slated to begin at 4 p.m., with the first running final set for 5:30. Admission is $1 for students and $1.50 for adults at the gate.

The point battle should be furious, and with good weather few if any meet records should stand up under the assault.

ONE INTERESTING sidelight should be a personal duel between Devil standout Wayne Harris and West's versatile Harold Lee. They rate as two of this area's most accomplished cinder performers in a variety of events.

..HIGH HURDLES--:15.4, Richard Thomas (M-F '71).
..MILE RUN--4:29.5, Jerry Mounts (M-F '71).
..TWO MILE RUN--10:01.8, Robin Smith (Grove City '71).
..100 DASH--:10.3, Hollman (South '72) and Cass Long (M-F '71).
..MILE RELAY--3:29.6, West '70 (Ramey, Mallery, Garland, Wallace).
..440 RELAY--:44.0, Eastmoor '70 (Thompson, Ayotte, Johnson, Kinsey).
..SHUTTLE HURDLES--:58.8, West '71 (Voice, Rowe, Brown, Smith).
..880 RELAY--1:31.0, Eastmoor '70 (same as 440).
..TWO MILE RELAY--8:29.8, West '70 (Golden, Flowers, Mallory, Stiles).
..SPRINT MEDLEY--1:37.7, Marion-Franklin '71 (Estis, Long, Thomas, Wingo).
..(All field events records were based on three-man scores).
..TWO MILE RELAY--8:16.4, Worthington '70 (Fallon, Wilkins, Larsen, Barnes).

GAHANNA RELAYS

Ed Rarey's Lions will host the 15th annual Gahanna spectacular Saturday, with field events getting started at 1:30 and finals in the running chores slated for 6:45.

The triple-jump will be added to the traditional five field tests for this year's meet—all events are on a "relays" or combined score basis.

INCLUDED IN the 15-team field are OCC rivals Delaware, Reynoldsburg, Westerville, Westland and Whitehall; City League entries Brookhaven, Northland and Walnut Ridge; perennial Catholic champ DeSales, Mid Eight contender Bexley, and out-of-towners Chillicothe, Newark, Portsmouth and Bellaire.

Meet manager Ed Martin couldn't tab any single school as top candidate to take away the team title Gahanna recaptured last time around; but he listed Westerville, Chillicothe, Bellaire and Delaware as potential troublemakers.

Martin wouldn't speculate about possible new meet standards, but rated the '72 field "as good as any we've had, maybe the strongest ever."

LION SUPERSTAR Guy Jensen may be the key to Gahanna repeat chances, the classy sprinter-long jumper has posted impressive point totals in every outing thus far—but will be up against some stiff opposition Saturday.

In honor of this 15th renewal of the annual special event, members of the first Lion Gahanna Relays squad (1958) will be recognized during ceremonies at 6:30, immediately preceding the running events finals.

..DISTANCE MEDLEY--7:35.9, Westerville 1968 (Rupp, Shearer, Thomas, Dieta).

RAIDER INVITATIONAL

11 Central Ohio schools will be represented Friday afternoon, as Reynoldsburg cinder boss Mike Doran and his Raiders host their fourth annual home special.

Defending champion Mt. Vernon will be back, led by standout hurdler Yale Cline (who set new meet records in both the highs and lows last time). The Jacket victory margin wasn't too big last year (nine points), and Mike predicts a real scramble for the '72 top spot.

BESIDES the host Raiders, the field includes Grandview, Granville, Heath, Canal Winchester, Mifflin, Hilliard, Franklin-Heights and newcomers Hartley and North Union.

Field events and running preliminaries get the gun at 4:45, and final footracing is set to commence at 7:10.

With some cooperation from the weatherman, Mike expects this year's field to match or better the seven new meet standards established in '71.

HERE ARE the existing meet marks they'll be shooting at:

..DISCUS--155'9", Mike Canfield (Fr. Hgts. '71).
..TWO MILE--10:120, Billl Yount (Hilliard '71).

classmates Ed Brooks (:21 flat and improving in the lows) and John Birhimer (mid :15's for the highs), along with junior Doug Bennett.

THE WARRIOR distance corps isn't as strong, with senior Eric Forte the only sub five minute miler so far. Forte does the half in around 2:07, which puts him behind Barker's 2:04 there, and juniors Mark Frye and Dave Scholx will be working to provide some help at the longer distances.

And that brings us to the mile-deep stable of dash men.

"We've got three or four kids who can do the hundred in :10 flat on a given day," said coach Williams—" and two or three others who'll run the 220 around :23 flat; I don't know what to do with all the talent."

FOOTBALL and mat standout Archie Griffin will be a Warrior frontrunner in both the 100 and 220, along with younger brother Raymond, seniors Tom McKelvey and Greg Williams, and junior Dennis Hunt.

Freddie figures to alternate among this quintet for his 880 Relay group without giving up a split second.

But then there are people like Curtis Moore and James Cousar, perhaps a tenth or two slower right now, who could help anytime they're needed.

WILLIAMS HAS more problems in the 440—like what to do with about five people who can turn the quarter between :51 and :53.

He listed senior Herb Sims as a potential :49 performer, and added the names of long jumper Wally Cannon and sophomore brother Pete, hurdler George Hicks and Greg Williams to his mile relay contingent.

With that kind of depth, the Warrior relay teams ought to challenge perennially tough Linden and East and defending City champ Marion-Franklin for supremacy in '72.

IF SIMS can knock a tenth or so off his 440 time, he'll be awfully tough to beat; and if Meindo keeps lengthening his shot range, he may give M-F superstar Wayne Harris some Eastside competition too.

The distance prospects are slim, barring some drastic improvements, but Cannon might compete with the District's top three long jumpers (Ed Hairston of East, Gahanna's Guy Jensen and West's Harold Lee) if he can reach 23 feet.

Freddie listed his squad as a top City contender, but noted that most everybody in the 13-team circuit looked strong somewhere. We'll have to concur with his evaluation of Warrior chances, and note that not many CL clubs are strong in quite as many 'somewheres'.

W-H Slates T-Ball Signups

Signups are scheduled for Saturday, April 15 and Monday, April 17 for the Whitehall T-Ball summer baseball program.

Any boy who lives in the Whitehall School District, and who will be at least six years of age but not yet nine on August 1 is eligible to participate.

EACH BOY should bring proof of age and a $5 registration fee to the Recreation office in the Whitehall Municipal Building between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on the days listed.

All boys must register for the '72 program, even if they participated last year. A maximum fee of $10 will be charged any family with more than two boys in the program.

A second sign-up session is scheduled for the following Saturday and Monday, April 22-24.

W-H Women's Softball Loop Sets Meeting

Ladies interested in joining this summer's Whitehall Women's Softball League are urged to attend an important meeting at City Hall on Friday, April 21 at 7:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in the program but unable to attend is asked to contact Dave Hart at 861-1329.

Scores Ace

Eastsider Dave Greenwald took advantages of a Sunday break in last weekend's gruesome weather to score a hole-in-one on the 135 yard 10th hole at Mar-Kett Recreation (2525 Rohr Rd.)

Dave, who lives at 3810 Noe-Bixby Rd., used a six iron for his perfecto; as witnessed by brothers John and Bob Greenwald.

two days off before traveling to Mohawk Friday afternoon for CL test number three.

Stephenson, like most everybody else, rated Eastmoor the team to beat in this first year of Divisional CL competition; and figured Marion-Franklin, South and his own club were the top challengers.

"AS STRONG as the top teams look", said Jack, "I can't see a team with two losses standing much of a chance to make the playoff."

The last was a reference to the single-game championship matchup between the league's North and South Divisional champs which will decide the City Champ in late June.

Why the powers that be limited their showcase event to a single game (instead of, say, a two-out-of-three City Series) is a mystery—but when asked how Scot chances were for getting there, Stephenson chuckled and said, "decent."

GROVEPORT

Bob Miller wasn't quite as fortunate in the returnee category, he welcomed back only three starters off last year's Cruiser nine, and a pair of pretty fair underclass lettermen who didn't start.

Biggest '72 hole is on the mound (if that isn't a mixed metaphor); where All League pitchers Buddy Waters and Chris Ranalli starred last year as seniors. To make matters worse, both were also .300 hitters.

"WE JUST DON'T have an experienced pitcher on the club," said Bob. "I had hoped that good hitting and strong defense would carry us till the pitchers had a chance to get some seasoning—but it hasn't worked out that way so far. We'll have to do a better job of scoring runs if we're gonna win."

According to Miller, this spring's top hill prospect is junior Mickey Cassady, a righthander who missed last season with academic woes. He' OK grade-wise now, andlooks to be the best Cruiser hope for standout mound work.

Ed Cunningham, a sophomore letterman who hit .302 as a ninth garder, will be one of the other G-P starters when he isn't holding down the regular shortstop spot; behind him Bob listed promising freshman Steve Groves, and juniors Gary Keller and Bruce Bogart.

THINGS AREN'T all bad by any means, however. Back to cement the left side of the infield with Cunningham is Al Mid Eight third sacker Bruce Chilcothe—a .378 hitter last year with power.

Part-time pitcher Bogart will probably be the regular Cruiser first baseman, he led the reserves in hitting last year.

Senior Dana Klein, a solid performer at second base two years ago, is back to provide some skilled pivot work after missing '71 with a broken jaw. Juniors Jim Shaeffer and Don Westcamp rate as the top replacements at first and second respectively, while junior Roger Johnston will fill in on the left side where needed.

As of now the younger Castle is splitting backstop duties with juniors John Evans and Chuck Dawson; while sophomore Mike Ray and junior Dan Martin duke it out for the right field spot.

Bob rated London the Mid Eight "team to watch," but also thought Grove City, defending champ Hilliard and veteran Bexley as contenders.

HE THOUGHT his young club was a year away, barring some startling progress among the pitchers-but added that G-P hitting and defense should keep the rebuilding pangs from being too severe.

HARTLEY

The Hawks got off to a rip-roarin' start in '71, then fizzled badly about mid-season and never really got back on the track.

They lost eight starters off that unit, with senior catcher Jim Chellis the only '72 returnee. Chellis suffered a broken nose and has been moved to the outfield, so even he isn't where coach Jack Ryan wants him.

STILL, the greybread of Eastside athletics isn't too pessimistic about '72 prospects for his rebuilt club.

He listed Mike Jenkins and Larry Woerner, both senior righthanders, as a couple of solid mound performers; backed up by senior Mike Taylor and junior Steve Podolski.

Senior Mike Dieli, juniors Tom King and Ducky Thomas and soph Joe Karpowitz lend depth to the mound corps; and Ryan thinks this group has the potential to go places.

"THIS BUNCH of seniors had a 17-1 reserve record," noted Ryan, "so you know there's a bunch of talent around there somewhere."

Commenting on the 3-4 Hawk record so far in '72, Jack said he had expected the pitching to carry his club till his hitters got hot—but that things had been pretty well turned around.

"We've outhit the other guys in six of those seven games," he complained—"but they teed off on our kids and we lost a couple tight ones."

The Hawk mentor rated his fielding "superior, real solid," and said he was just hoping "we can get the hitters and pitchers to show up on the same day."

With the likes of State Champ Wehrle and tough Watterson to deal with-and CCL warfare underway—Jack's people will have to do a lot of showing up to contend.

Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty-one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty-one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look:
The way they work.

The Lions' Line

By KEVIN KAUFMAN

Student council has triumphed again, by perpetuating itself. Elections for new officers were held Friday following a week of campaigning. Buzz Imboden outdid Dave Levoff in the presidential race; while David Isaacs beated Jay Gray in the race for vice-president.

Secretary of council is now Julie Thiebert, and John Hansan defeated Cynthia Puthchat for the position of treasurer. All candidates were juniors, except sophomores Isaacs and Hansan.

Foosball challenges have come to the new senior lounge in the high school. Outstanding performances in this strenuous table game competition have been recorded as follows:

Ken Ruff and Jeff Long have scored 18 consecutive wins against all opposition.

Curt Kraft and Steve Smallsreed have set the record for most shutouts against more than one team (eight 5-0 victories).

Ken Ruff and Jeff Long share the record for consecutive shutouts by defeating three teams in order without relinquishing a point.

All records are set within 55 minutes, or one school period.

Spring sports have moved into the spectrum with baseball, golf, tennis and track underway. The track team recently elected Russ Kesaler captain. He set the school high jump mark last week (against Hartley) with a leap of 6-2.

The golf team swings into action early next week. Returning lettermen Jeff Bowen and Dan Ingwerson will help in the effort.

Experimenting

Vote FOR Better Transit
even if you don't ride the bus!

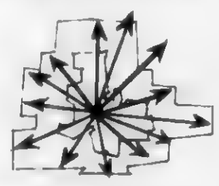
Central Ohio traffic gets worse day by day as our economy grows. Our freeways are jammed at rush hours. Parking spaces are scarce and rates are high. Air pollution is growing and so is the accident rate. Bus fares increase and the service decreases.

Can you imagine how much worse it would be if the buses stopped?

In addition to the increased traffic problems and pollution created by hundreds more cars, the absence of buses would be a severe hardship to many of our citizens – the elderly, the handicapped, students, thousands of employed persons for whom buses are the only means of transportation.

Let's keep our buses and improve service. Vote for the Transit Levy and keep Central Ohio moving!

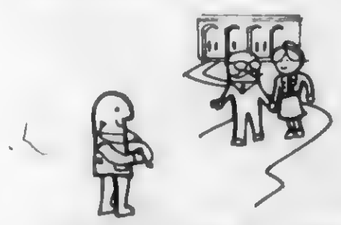
The one-mill Transit Levy will put the Central Ohio Transit Authority into action. And, it will make us eligible for $12,500,000 in Federal transit funds.



NO FARE INCREASE

As a first step, COTA will acquire the Columbus Transit Company. The fare will be stabilized at 45¢. CTC has already announced a rate increase to 50¢ in July if the Levy does not pass. Riders who now pay an extra fare beyond certain boundaries will pay the same as other riders. One fare everywhere.

NEW AND EXTENDED ROUTES

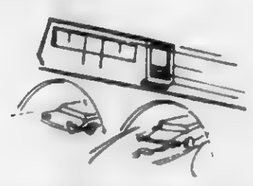


New routes will be added – 13 of them in the first year of operation – to serve areas now without service, to provide express service to downtown from residential areas, to provide economical transportation to places of employment along the rapidly-developing Outerbelt area.

BETTER SERVICE

Present CTC routes which are below acceptable standards will be upgraded with Saturday, Sunday and holiday service, more frequent service, later hours. All routes, stops and the buses themselves will be clearly marked.

SPECIAL FARES



Special fare of 25¢ will be effective immediately for senior citizens at non-peak hours. Special fares for students and for regular riders are being considered.

CLEANER AIR

As bus routes are extended to serve more areas more efficiently, and ridership increases, we will be better able to control our growing pollution problems which result from traffic congestion.

RAPID TRANSIT

Central Ohio's economic growth – more jobs and more progress – depends on modern transportation. With Federal funds – our tax money coming back home to work for us – we can proceed with rapid transit plans. This will enable us to find new ways of moving more people, moving them quickly, safely and at the lowest possible cost.

You'll benefit from better transit – even if you don't ride the bus!

PURPOSE: TRANSIT AUTHORITY PURPOSES UNDER SECTION 306.49, REVISED CODE
ADDITIONAL: A Majority Affirmative Vote Required for Passage
BENEFIT: Central Ohio Transit Authority

Volunteers Needed For 'Health Hike'

The Central Ohio chapter of the National Foundation, March of Dimes is looking for "health hikers" who will walk all, or part, of a 22-mile course Sunday, Apr. 30 to raise money for children who cannot walk.

The hike is open to all who would like to participate.

The hike is a 22-mile course with eight check points. Each person hiking all or part of the course gets others to sponsor him or her at a monetary rate per mile.

Hikers will pass through check points along the route and have their hike cards stamped. When the hike is over, the hiker shows his hike card to his sponsors and they pay the amount earned by the hiker to the March of Dimes Health Hike or the March of Dimes will bill the sponsor if indicated on the sponsor sheet.

Those who would like to hike, sponsor a hiker or need more information can do so by calling 486-8280 (answered on 24-hour basis) or 486-5243. Hikers under 21 must have their application signed by parent or guardian.

The Health Hike will begin and end at Whetstone Park on North High Street. It will advance north to Worthington-Galena Rd., continue along Schrock Rd., turn south on Karl Rd. to Oakland Park, go west to Eisenhower, south to East North Broadway, west to Indianola, south to Hudson, east to Summit, south to Lane Ave., west to High St. and then proceed north back to Whetstone Park.

Registration will be conducted between 8 and 9 a.m. on Apr. 30.

Smoking Withdrawal Clinic Set

A second Five-Day Plan Withdrawal Clinic will be held Apr. 20-24 to help smokers trying to kick the habit.

Sessions are held at the Tuberculosis Society of Columbus and Franklin County, 185 S. Fifth St., for five consecutive evenings.

Group therapy techniques are utilized to help smokers discover why they need cigarettes. Special diet and exercise tips are also available. Trained professionals are on hand to give advice and aid to the frustrated.

In addition to the five evening sessions there will be five Monday night reunions to assure that clinic "alumni" are staying away from tobacco.

For registration information call the TB (228-6704). A $10 registration fee covers costs of materials.

If there are times you really feel like raising the roof, this is the car that will let you do it! It is a beautiful bright canary yellow with a black top. This is the convertible top that is made in three layers, vinyl on the outside. Leatherette inside, and an insulated padding in between—keeping the outside out and the inside in. Naturally you will still receive all the driving comfort and economy Volkswagen is famous for, plus this car is still covered by factory warranty and has three free diagnostic checkups coming. It is equipped with whitewall tires, radio, deluxe bumper guards, undercoating, parcel shelf, wood shift knob. You will also get the big three with this one, the sun-moon-and stars all for $2695

Capital's Opera Workshop Plans Two Puccini Works

Capital University's Opera Workshop and the University Orchestra have scheduled a complete performance of Puccini's "Gianni Schicchi" and "Sister Angelica" in Mees Hall Auditorium on Friday, April 14, at 8 p.m. and again on Sunday April 16, at 2:30 p.m.

"Gianni Schicchi" and "Sister Angelica" are part of a "triptych" written by Puccini and premiered at the Metropolitan Opera in 1918. Both opera present Puccini in some of his most colorful writing, and both will be sung in English.

"Gianni Schicchi" is a comedy set in Florence at the end of the 13th century, and focuses on conniving relatives trying to re-write the will of their dead uncle in order to reap the benefits of his vast fortune.

The family calls in a wise man–Gianni Schicchi–to aid them. He hides the body of the dead uncle, disguises himself as the uncle and dictates a new will to the lawyer brought in by the relatives. He bequeaths his treasures to his "good friend" Gianni Schicchi." Other members of the cast are: Marcia Willmann, Linda Pry, Carl Weber, Ken Graham, Martha Dick, Charlene Stewart, John Long, Richard Geyer, Eric Treu, Ellen Goff, Tom Schwirtz, Jim Bischoff, James White and Aaron Folsom.

"Sister Angelica" takes place in a convent in the 17th century. Angelica has taken refuge in a convent in order to expiate an old sin. After no visitors for seven years, an aunt arrives and tells Angelica that her child–whom she has abandoned–has died.

Angelica decides that suicide is the only answer to her problem, and as she dies, she has a vision of the Virgin Mary bringing her child to her.

This marks the second year the Capital University has produced an opera for audiences in the central Ohio area. It is a joint project of several areas of the university: the Opera Workshop, directed by Gene Allen, prepares the vocalists and rehearses the stage action; the University Orchestra, conducted by Richard Suddendorf, will perform the musical score; and the Art Department, which will do the scenic design, under the supervision of Gary Ross.

Ticket information is available by contacting the Capital University Central Office at 236-6901.

Capital University students Rick Geyer (left) and Tom Schwirtz rehearse for a scene from the Capital University production of "Gianni Schicchi," which will be staged along with another opera by Puccini ("Sister Angelica") on April 14 at 8 p.m. and April 16 at 2:30 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium.

The Reflections Boutique: Dynamite For 'Now' Girls

Can you believe it – dynamite clothes for Today's Look and that very special hair cut demanded for the Now Look – all in one spot?

It's true. The New Reflections Boutique, Joe DeLuca's gift to Columbus, offers the greatest look in fashion for both clothing and hair.

DeLuca has worked with all major airlines (including National, Pan-Am and Eastern) in Miami and he knows just what the younger girl, the groovey girl, wants in hairstyling, make up, skin care and clothes and offers it all at the Boutique at E. Broad and Kellner Rd., just one block west of James.

Here the young career girl, the student, the young married set can find the expertise to create the haircut with the look of "Now" and the finesse to keep in trim a familiar shag or gypsy-long look.

Although hair cutting is the speciality of the salon, a limited amount of work is done in coloring, permanent waving and high-fashion styling.

Imported from Chelsea, England, the Mary Quant Cosmetics, offered in a complete line, are geared to the discriminating tastes of the young who demand the make up that hides itself – the make up that guarantees the natural look. The Now Generation will also be delighted to find their organic cosmetics at the Boutique.

Almost equally important news at New Reflections is the newest in swinging clothes for the young woman - - jeans, tops, slacks, maxis and minis.

Each is one of a kind, and yet, in spite of their eye-catching labels, are moderately priced to dovetail into the budget of the Now Girl who has to wait until tomorrow for "her first million."

These are fashions that will jump at you from the fashion magazines, but are not usually seen in Columbus Town. Each is unique, but none are impractical.

With hair care the piece de restistance at New Reflection it is important to remember that few operators are qualified to work at the Boutique.

A New Reflection hair stylist has studied art and design, dimension and figure coordination before she can ever touch a hair belonging to a DeLuca client.

It's so simple now to get that haircut you always wanted – simply call 237-3779 for an appointment.

STUDENT DELEGATES VOTE

McGovern Dems' Choice

Students participating in the Mock Democratic Convention sponsored by Capital University last weekend answered the all important question of - - "Who will win the party's presidential nomination?"

South Dakota Senator George McGovern took that top position with U.S. Representative Shirley Chisholm winning the vice presidential slot.

Mrs. Chisholm was also a strong contender for the presidential nomination.

Other candidates backed by students were Edmund Muskie, Hebert Humphrey, Henry Jackson, Mike Gravel of Alaska, and George Wallace.

Former Whitehall Mayor Paul Haytcher gave the welcoming address to the students saying that many of those participating were 18 and would be voting in the upcoming election.

Haytcher said, "Before, candidates paid little attention to what happened at this type of convention but now many of you are voters and what happens here can be an influence."

Haytcher said the man presently in the White House is a minority candidate. "He did not receive 50 per cent of the popular vote. The man in the White House does not represent the American people."

He told the students to use their vote fairly and honestly and express their feelings clearly.

Serving as Honorary Chairman for the day's activities was James Goodrich, the Democrat candidate for the legislature in the 12th district.

Goodrich told the students "There are enough in your number to decide who will serve and the realization of this has brought about a reawakening in the Democratic Party."

The Keynote Address was delivered by Ohio State Treasurer Gertrude Donahey.

Mrs. Donahey told the group of approximately 700 students, "Government will be as bad as you will stand for, or as good as you will fight for."

The platform approved by the Democratic Mock Convention proved somewhat more liberal than that passed the previous Saturday by the Mock Republican convention.

The platform approved by the Democrats called for the immediate withdrawal of all troops from Vietnam; the legalization of marijuana for persons over 18; the abolition of the electoral college; amnesty for all draft evaders; repeal of all abortion laws, and busing where the federal government feels it is necessary for equality and quality education.

The Republican convention last week soundly defeated the provision for allowing amnesty and adopted a plan on the Vietnam war which stated, "We pledge a program for peace that will offer a fair and equitable settlement to all based on the principle of self-determination, our national defense and the cause of long-range world peace. We support the speed-up of Vietnamization to de-Americanize our involvement in the war as soon as feasibly possible."

The Republican Convention elected Richard Nixon as the presidential candidate and chose Sen. Edward Brooke as his running mate.

Both conventions were sponsored by the Political Science department at Capital.

Those students serving on the committee for the convention were: Ralph Dill, chairman; Barbara Sue Smyer, secretary; Jill Collins and Linda Smith, public relations; Tom Fischer, physical arrangements; Dave Stuckey, director of delegations; and Charles Gerken, purchasing agent. Chairman of the department is Dr. M. Steven Boley.

Area schools participating in the conventions were Whitehall, Bexley, Walnut Ridge, and Bishop Hartley.

JAMES GOODRICH, Democrat candidate for the legislature from the 12th District, was the Honorary Chairman at the Democratic Mock Convention over the weekend at Capital University. Goodrich told students during a press conference he would favor rational laws governing the use of marijuana in this country.

Americans 'Politically Disenchanted'-Goodrich

As long as the public is disenchanted with the political parties and candidates, no problems or issues will be dealth with rationally, according to James Goodrich, a Democrat candidate for the legislature from the 12th district.

Goodrich, along with Mrs. Gertrude Donahey, Ohio state treasurer, and former Whitehall Mayor Paul Haytcher, spoke with student reporters at last Saturday's Mock Democratic convention at Capital University.

Goodrich told the students there had to be a re-awakening and renewed interest in politics on the part of the people before many of the problems the country faces could be rationally answered.

He said he would hope to see laws governing the use and penalties connected with marijuana be made more rational.

When questioned by the students as to how he felt about the recent national commission's report on marijuana, Goodrich said legalization was in the future.

"I would predict that we will come to make it the same as alcohol under the law," Goodrich commented.

"The penalties are much too severe. If this were put to a vote today it would be souyndly defeated, but I do feel that it is in the future."

Goodrich said as an elected official he would work to see that the government took a more rational view of marijuana.

When questioned on busing, Goodrich called it the "phoniest issue" ever considered.

"Busing is being exploited for political reasons. If you take inner city children who are social deprived, the blacks, the poor, and bus them to say the Upper Arlington district, that system would not know how to handle them.""

Goodrich said the school system would not be equipped to handle the special problems of these children and therefore they would not be getting the education they need.

He said, "Decent education for all is the main priority we must meet."

Goodrich was also questioned about aid to parochial schools.

"I support education and these schools are providing fine education. If you don't aid them then they won't be able to operate and then more students will be coming into public systems and you will end up supporting them there."

He said it would be difficult to write a law supporting parochial schools that would not support these private schools whose purpose is segregation.

Goodrich and Haytcher agreed that if 18-year-olds were to vote they should also be given all rights of a legal adult, such as entering into contracts.

Goodrich said that although 18-year-olds could vote, the election laws in Ohio made it difficult for anyone to vote.

"Ohio's election laws are archaic. The office where you register to vote is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and this is when most people are working. I think the laws should make it easy for everyone to be able to vote."

Mrs. Donahey was questioned by the student reporters as to her views on welfare programs.

She expressed concern over the lack of on-the-job training and vocational education.

"I think the amount of vocational education will effect welfare. The programs we have in Ohio should be the ones suited to our needs."

Mrs. Donahey said more day care centers were needed to allow mothers with children to work. "Welfare organizations also need to be reorganized."

She said she did not know what the answer was, but said until welfare organizations "cut out the fat" and really took an interest in guiding the people, she did not feel a guaranteed income was the answer.

"I want to be out there fighting to see that people who want training can get it. I think the number of people who don't want to work is very small."

Haytcher was asked about laws for juveniles and if he felt they should be stricter.

"I feel that we are spending too much time in the juvenile courts concentrating on traffic violations. Let's put these in municipal courts and leave the juvenile courts to handle potential problem youngsters."

Haytcher was also asked about the authority of a suburb versus that of the larger metropolitan area.

"I think there are some problems which should be handled by the larger area. The transit question in Columbus is such a problem, also sewer and water issues.

"But I do feel the small community government has an important role. In the large communities there is often times, no one to listen."

He said the advantage of the smaller community was the availability of city officials.

"You can get to your top officials much easier and you can usually find someone to listen to your particular problem."

Haytcher said, "I would like to see certain services combined but we still need community level government."

Steve 'Sees' Beyond $100 Suit

By JANE ROBINSON

Looking back to his West High School days last week Steve Miller recalls that he tended to judge people by their appearance.

But, as a Vietnam veteran, his values have changed.

"Now I can talk with someone and find he's a great guy, even if he doesn't have a $100 suit or he's "long-hair." Steve stated.

It wasn't that a few years and Vietnam magically endowed him with a greater sensitivity.

It is simply that when one is sightless, one no longer judges his fellowmen on superficialities.

Miller enlisted in the Army in 1968 and in January of 1969 wore the stripes of a buck sergeant with the 174th Airborne.

Fresh back from R&R in Hong Kong, he led a patrol out to set anti-personnel mines for an ambush.

With his men back to safety, he returned to check the work. Finding one improperly positioned, Steve attempted to rectify it--and his fighting days were over.

The Claymore contained 2800 steel pellets and when its force struck, his 170 pound frame was thrown 30 feet.

Now, three years and 19 operations later, hearing impaired, blind and with a prosthesis and hook where his left forearm and hand once were, Miller sat in his home in Holly Hills talking about Army life and where he goes from here.

Currently he is the only blind real estate salesman in Franklin County and is with the firm of Patrick J. Mollica Real Estate, 1241 Granview Ave.

He readily admits that he is not the world's greatest high pressure salesman. Steve enjoys sales--probably because he genuinely likes people--but he's not about to be caught raving about a view he can't see, or the condition of a ceiling he can't inspect.

He does familiarize himself with a house before showing it, largely to be able to know the floor plan and in the interest of self-preservation against strange coffee table that lay in wait for his long-suffering shins.

But, never-the-less, he's making it with one contract already signed sealed and delivered. "I let the client judge the color scheme," he smiled.

Steve was one of the young men who sincerely like Army life--he planned to make a career of it.

"It wasn't the fighting I liked, or the glory," he explained, "but we were outside--and free."

Furthermore, although he realizes his view doesn't win him many brownie points with all of his friends, he believes American cannot pull out of Vietnam completely.

"We'd lose all we've fought for," he said, "the South Vietnamese can't function without us."

His opinion of either the motivation or the reliability of the average South Vietnamese "warrior" is pretty low.

Referring to the Saigon blackmarket he reports the Viet Cong have more American weapons than the U.S. troops. He also cited the common occurrences of a head count after a face-to-face encounter with the enemy.

"We'd be short 20 Vietnamese-but have only nine wounded or dead. What happened to the other 11?"

He answered his own question: "They jumped sides."

As Miller sees it, Democracy or Communism will have little effect on the "backwoods" of South Vietnam.

"They'll be up farming at dawn and in their huts at night, regardless of who's in power," he said.

However Steve feels the more sophisticated city dwellers can't be sacrificed to Communism--and he's glad he and his fellow paratroopers were able to alleviate the poverty and disease in remote villages.

Tagging himself "stubborn and short of patience," Steve hints that he was not exactly a joy to the therapists at Hines Hospital in Chicago where he received rehab training.

"But I saw those older vets--the men who lost their sight through glaucoma--and figured if they could make it, I could too."

When he returned home after four months in Chicago, he had learned to read and write Braille, manipulate his hook (which he uses sparingly), "cane travel" (another "crutch" which he avoids), to type and some mechanical vocational skills.

Actually what Steve can do is almost as astonishing as how cheerfully he foregoes what he cannot.

For example, since being home, he roller skates, swims, and dances and no kidding--he even water skis.

He labels his clothes in Braille to distinguish color, unabashedly asks that a steak be carved in the kitchen--and trusts his brother's good taste to screen his dates for any un-Miss America traits.

One decision Steve made early in the game was that he didn't want a Pilot Dog.

Explaining that he has always been a dog-lover, he said, "Any dog I have will be a pet--and not a machine."

With a sharp wit, he laughed when asked why, as a paratrooper, he referred to his army life as that of an infantry-man "You do a lot more walking than jumping out of airplanes," he said.

Miller is perfectly at ease in his home which he purchased from his mother who is also with Mollica. He should be--he has lived there since he was 11 years old.

And, given a little time, he moves freely through previously strange surroundings.

He's not just sure what the future holds. He's only 22 and hasn't been in real estate long enough to know whether it will offer a life-long pursuit.

But he knows he can make it--and without the sympathy he doesn't look for.

And yet--tough and invincible as he seems, Steve has a little patch of vulnerability.

He holds on the slim thread of hope that someday, someway, sight wil be restored in his one intact eye.

"I don't ask to be able to read--or to drive, but just to be able to see images," he said, with no laughter in his voice.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Kingsrowe Resident Clarifies Her Position

To the Editor:

I read Miss Williams' report of her interview with my husband and myself (Eastern, page one, Apr. 5) and feel there were several statements that were misleading and should be clarified.

One, the elementary school age children are bussed to Barnett Elementary School although we live closer to Berwick Elementary. A school was built about two years ago to serve the Glenbrook area, but there was no consideration given to the needs of our area.

Two, the fact we leave for work at a given time is irrelevant. The point being made was that the congestion from the cars of the nearly 600 families living in the Kingrowe-Washington Square complexes is too great for the facilities available.

We also have concern about what will happen on College Avenue when the anticipated condiminium, apartments, etc. are put up on the west side of College Ave. - across from Washington Square. We wonder if public transportation could be provided, at least to the downtown and Eastland areas.

Three, we feel something should be done to provide a safe recreational area for the many young children who live here. Presently, the children living in Kingrowe Court can only play in the street. Any other area they had has been taken over for construction.

Mrs. P. Hollander
Kingsrowe Ct.

Charges Zoning Input Cut Short

To The Editor:

I recently attended the public hearing for the proposed Zoning Ordinance for the city of Bexley. This proposed zoning ordinance is of great improtance to all the residents of Bexley. This is to be the foundation for all future zoning matters relative to all Bexley real property.

We, of Bexley, have invested considerable sums in our personal residences, and with only one intent - that our neighborhoods will remain substantially the same as they are today, or will be further improved and enhanced.

The property values in Bexley are substantially higher than in other Columbus suburbs, the reason being its present zoning restrictions which relatively assure the property owners that Bexley will be the same nice place to live 20 years from now, as it is today.

This should be the goal of every property owner, and especially is to be expected of our elected public officials.

At this public hearing, there were a few concerned nad dedicated residents that wanted to be assured that the new proposed zoning ordinance would not leave any loopholes through which a real estate developer could come into Bexley and obtain unfavorable zoning which would destroy the existing character of Bexley.

The Bexley City Council president, Mr. Brad Salt, was completely out of place in restricting these residents from completely expressing theic opinions and suggestions, whether he agreed with them or not.

After all, the sole purpose of this public hearing was to listen to public opinion and suggestion. Mr. Salt at various times during the short, one hour meeting, was actually very rude, discourtious, and expressed no concern whatever for the residents of Bexley and their opinions.

At one time, Mr. Salt actually said, "Mr. ———, I will give you justntwo minutes to finish what you have to say and sit down. We don't have all night to discuss these matters."

As far as I am concerned (and I'm sure all the Bexley residents will agree with me) this meeting was scheduled, as required by law, for this very reason, and had it taken all night to hear all the concerned residents, he meeting should have lasted all night.

In summation, I express my complete disgust with Mr. Salt and regret that we of Bexley have such a man in the leadership of our City Council.

TENNIS ANYONE?

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

POLISHED form and clean cut lines for a dress with V neck trimmed in navy, and wide navy band at waist. ACTION dress in birdseye knit...the ribbed sleeveless top eases into a gently flared skirt. Navy belt and accents. SPORTIVE little dress that can be worn for casual wear...racy navy stripes accent the bodice and circle the wide waistband. FEMININE wrap dress for tennis buffs...edged in ruffles and showing Rod Laver emblem. All tennis clothes in Celanese Fortrel polyester...each priced at $30.

TENNIS USED TO BE PLAYED on grass courts...it was a pretty sight. Now the leisurely, green look is on its way back, but with a new kind of grass that doesn't call for fertilizer or lawn mower or the tender care of a gardner. Plastic, of course.

NOTHING IN years has caused so much excitement as plastic grass. Most people buy it to cover small, bare areas around a pool or patio...the stuff is waterproof and can be vacuum cleaned. One of its most realistic features is that it tickles bare feet just the way real grass does.

THE COMBACK of the green grass court is sure to change the whole look of tennis...green grass courts call for a bit more color about the game of tennis.

VIVO, famous for its sportive fashions, and Ron Laver, world famous pro, have collaborated and come up with a collection of active sportswear that appeals not only to the tennis enthusiast, but to the fashion-aware woman who wants the super tennis look for casual wear...anywhere.

THESE ARE updated looks...carefree birdseye knits of Celanese Fortrel polyester, all sporting the famous Rod Laver emblem...clean classics striped in navy and new wrapped and ruffled feminine looks that are making fashion headlines right now.

WHETHER they're worn on plastic grass courts or sunning by the pool, tennis clothes are still white...though Vivo has gone so far as to introduce more color in detailing and accessories.

WHO KNOWS...the way fashion is heading...perhaps by next year, Rod Laver and Vivo will show green tennis clothes...to match the green of plastic grass.

Double Exposure

Two Ohio Senate candidates spoke to law students on the OSU campus last week.

Many of the questions fired at them by the highly-articulate group were remote from the areas of concern of those who sit with the state legislature. Instead, they involved campus disorders and the Columbus police–and the latter's alleged brutality following the Michigan game last year.

The more questions that were asked, the more obvious it became that CPD is a dirty three-letter word at OSU. Not even the suggestion by one of the politicos that a few rotten apples among the 1,000 man police force might have their counterparts among 45,000 students tempered the antagonism directed at law enforcement with Columbus police the main target.

Whether the attack was justified or not is irrelevant at this point. What became clear is that a chasm between the police and university students–and not just the "long hairs"-has reached monumental proportions.

Since that debate the chasm has been widened–this time with a bullet in the back of a 24-year-old member of the community, apparently inflicted while he resisted arrest on drug charges. At this point area residents wouldn't trust Jesus Christ if he wore a badge.

The situations make particularly valid the plan Safety Director Bernard Chupka has under consideration.

It involves downgrading tensions and resentments through a "cop-in and ride-along." Successfully initiated on the Ohio University campus at Athens last year, the proposed program would pair officers and "long hairs" for at least a two week period.

The university student or habitues would frequent the police radio room and ride the police beats, becoming familiar with police work in a situation other than being " on the wrong end of the stick."

The police would, on the other hand, share the life style of the sub-culture and, hopefully, begin to see as a human being, " the man behind the beard."

Some doubt has been expressed that the size of the police force and the vast number of students involved make the plan impractical in Columbus.

Undoubtedly, its initiation would be more complex and perplexing than in a smaller, less urbanized community. In the best of circumstances, a "pig" and a "hippie" make strange bedfellows but at least when people are tugging on the same blanket they are communicating.

OSU officials are reported to have given the idea unofficial blessing and we hope Chupka will proceed to put the wheels in motion.

Speak Up -NOW

Will Hellerman, community coordinator for Project UNITE, warned members of the Urban Education Coaltion of these facts of life last week and the entire community better heed what he says.

Following the issue of a report (formidable in length) revealing the 700 recommendations of more than 2000 people involved in the study of school problems, Project UNITE is moving into its third phase–that of community forums.

Between next Wednesday when the first forum is scheduled at West High and Thursday, May 11, when the final session is held at Marion-Franklin, nine meetings are slated to serve every area of the city.

Already, a concerted effort is being made to stack these meetings, to tune in the voice of special interest groups with minimal concern for the overall educational climate.

Hellerman does not, and the average taxpayer should not, discount the impact a vocal minority can have on future actions of the Columbus Board of Education.

Not being infallible, the members are prone to believe what they hear–and, in the name of accountability, act accordingly.

It is generally recognized that the recommendations now made show an immediate need for additional construction and better program.

To obtain these, it is highly probable the board will go to the people on the November ballot. But what they will ask for will largely depend upon the tenor of the demands made at the public hearings within the next three weeks.

An accurate picture of the community's aspirations for its schools can be drawn only from a balanced attendance at the forums–and with all elements insisting upon being heard.

Any person who passes up this opportunity to be heard should be deprived of his right to bellyache at a later date.

It's the taxpayers' nickels the Board of Education will be playing with and the stake is the future of education in Columbus.

Only the apathetic will accept the role of on-looker instead of pitching in to make the rules of the games.

Letters To The Editor

Keep Our Concepts Clear

To the Editor:

I write to take strong issue with the views of John Chamberlain in his recent syndicated article "Nixon Placed in Dilemma by Parochial School Case."

Mr. Chamberlain seems impervious to the New York Court and U.S. Supreme Court's reasoning. He is intent on finding a way to circumvent these courts. He should read their opinions.

There is no inequity or discrimination in a system to keep public moneys for public uses only. The inequity and discrimination comes in when the entire public is taxed on top of its public school taxes to pay for parochial schools which are private, sectarian, discriminatory, and run for the benefit of the sponsoring churches. This is a tax for religion which the people in the U.S. seek to avoid.

He suggests neutral services such as chemistry or Latin. But he should know that the parochial school's curricula are infused with religion, throughout all courses. This is their big argument to say that their schools are religious and different. So, aid to chemistry or Latin is aid to sectarian teaching as well as courses in church doctrine. Should the public be taxed to support that kind of teaching for the benefit of the sponsoring church? This is the real inequity.

He speaks of 4,500,000 youngsters attending parochial schools, and that all citizens should resent them being dumped on the public schools. This is the familiar scare-tactic of parochialaiders. This is only 9.1 percent of the nation's school population. First, these children are not going to be "dumped" onto the public schools all at once. Secondly, where this has occurred, the public schools have taken them with very little strain, and it has worked for unity in the community and the betterment of education for everyone.

The magazine "Church and State" published by Americans United for Separation of Church and State has been carrying articles by Martin A. Larson who has been studying the effect of parochial school closings in Green Bay, Milwaukee, Pueblo, Helena, and Butte, Mont. The effects are contrary to what Mr. Chamberlain says.

They save money, pass levies for education, and are more united in good education policies, and improve the ecumenical relations in the communities.

Often, with the decline in birthrate, the enrollment in the schools now are very little more than was in both parochials and public schools before the parochials closed. This is a desirable result for everyone.

No, the rights of citizens are not infringed upon by keeping public funds for public uses only. Mr. Chamberlain indicates that since parochial schools are permitted by law to be established, therefore the community is obligated to support them with tax funds. This is false reasoning.

The government grants me the right to build a cottage in the woods, but that does not mean thereby that the government is now obligated to build a concrete road back to my cottage, which was built by my own choice and kept for my personal benefit. Lets keep our concept of right and equity clear.

...While They Waited, They Died

Last Of A Series

By JUDITH C. PATTERSON

It would appear obvious that common denominators apply to all personal, moral, social, business, technical and any other types of problems. One cannot effectively begin to eradicate, correct or control a problem until such time as he realizes he has a problem.

This same first step applies to a community problem. The community must be made aware that it has a drug abuse problem. It isn't safe to assume that because millions of words have been printed, public service advertising employed, panel discussions presented and films shown, that a community really accepts the fact that this same problem existing elsewhere also exists here.

This mistaken assumption is costing us time needed now in the real fight, utilizing real people who know where the problem is and how they are needed to fight it.

If a community is really aware of its problem the following statements will be true – drug involved persons are being adequately cared for; the uninvolved are being effectively educated to prevent their involvement, present or future; families are knowledgable and taking care of their own; the community - jointly and cooperatively - is working together by employing existing resources to deal with the problem, it's control and eventual eradication.

If the community is not in this state, it is necessary to regain the ground that has been lost and begin again. Establishing awareness of any problem helps to remove fear, panic and perhaps hopelessness that often results from misinformation, rumor and confusing rhetoric. Awareness frees an individual to think for himself and to cease to rely solely on others for choosing a course to pursue in facing the problem.

Once a community is aware and understands something of the problem and its probability for occurrence in any home in America today, it can then, without undue emotion, evaluate what has to be done and begin to do it.

It is far easier to enlist help within a community that shares a common base of understanding than to simply employ the old hit-and-miss technique. The people within a community tend to be responsive when they are asked for help, told why they are needed and then what to do. The need for large sums of money seems to disappear as well, when a realistic attack on the problem is begun.

Most importantly, when a community really works together, it can use the problem itself positively, opening the doors of cooperation that have rusted shut. Any war brings people with unlikely backgrounds together because the common good is being served ahead of personal and selfish motives. Competition for "the" solution ceases, as well as the need for only "expert" participation.

A community must establish a common base of understanding and knowledge of the problem or no coordinated effort can emerge. Without this base the community effort will continue to be a "game" and the only participants will be those with personal motives for involvement.

It is a coming together of people that creates a community. These same people bring in what is needed to grow as well as to maintain their existence. If they do not, they will eventually die and so will their community.

We see communities nationwide that are maintaining their existence and at the same time continuing to grow. They have all they need to work with - doctors, policemen, pipe fitters, attorneys, carpenters, housewives, teachers, clergymen, retired people, government employees and so on.

Why, then, do we see these same communities searching outside their borders for solutions to community problems? Isn't it because the community doesn't take the time to ask its own inhabitants for assistance or to contribute time and effort to train them to be effective where needed? Isn't it because only a handful of people really understand what the problem is and what will be needed to fight it? Isn't it because we have created such sophisticated barriers and rules that it has become a "game" for a limited few to play?

(The following is a proposed solution that, if followed, wins the "game" in spite of any player who may or may not already have been awarded the federal grant of money and official recognition for expertise.)

A community should be systematically saturated with the same information – a simple understanding of the problem of drugs - who is doing it, what is available, and the fact that it is a family problem.

The civic and service organizations should be employed to help this effort. These organizations have all the structure and organization that, if utilized, can effectively help to saturate a community with information. In all probability, even though the problem of drug abuse may be their national directives for involvement, they, too, are seeking a way to assist and need only to be asked.

The local government officials should lead the way for an all-out community effort by removing the mantle of responsibility from the police, the school system and whomever else is being blamed for the community problem of drug abuse. The community leadership can issue a public statement outlining the community problem and seeking community assistance - without pointing fingers of blame. It is far easier for the schools and police to work against the problem effectively when they know they will not be accused of being held responsible for having created it. The only area that should be held responsible is the community and all those who occupy it.

When the community shares a base of understanding and knows why its doctors are needed and discovers that perhaps only one, in a community of 45,000, is actively involved in the fight against the problem – then the same community knows also that other doctors must be approached and trained as well. (Here is a bonafide example of the real need for expertise - someone who can reach medical people at a level they understand because of their intense training and previously existing knowledge - at the same time commanding their respect and motivating their involvement).

Knowledge of drug abuse also will point out the need for counselors - community counselors. This is the time to look at all the clergymen within the community and their present level of involvement. Aren't they already trained to counsel? Don't they already know the members of the community? Isn't their confidence something that is ensured by law? Why aren't they being employed where they are needed?

If it is because they don't understand the problem and the ramifications attached to effectively dealing with it – bring in another expert who can train them. In this case, as in the case with medical people, the expert comes in, trains and leaves...he leaves additional, trained people and a wider base for a community attack on the problem.

When adult and family education is undertaken it must be in a way that does not superciliously point out that everyone is needed and then cautions that one "better not be 'really' involved unless he is some kind of an expert!"

The raising of a family is a learning process for parents as well as their children. The experts are grandparents (self-proclaimed!). To the best of any existing knowledge, there are no rules for becoming parents, unless a childless couple decides to adopt. Why then do we impose an attitude that makes parents feel unfit and unqualified to deal with their children? Why do we continue to contribute food to the idea that a home is a court of last resort, not the prime source of strength?

Before a community throws in the towel and turns the game over to the experts and professionals only, it had better evaluate how well this has worked and decide if this is what is really desired. We are seeing a steadily mounting problem of drug abuse, representing only the tip of the difficulties a nation faces. Drug abuse share the limelight with sexual permissiveness, crime, venereal disease and all those other problems that seem to evolve from one source.

We have listened to one solution after another being propounded. Isn't it time to admit openly that there is no known solution and that no "game" is going to produce one? Wouldn't we be better advised to determine that we haven't the time to wait for history to render the solution and the best possible way of reaching it?

Wouldn't we be better advised to throw off the cloak of passivity and fight for our children and people as non-experts who are willing to be involved and amenable to learning at the same time? Wouldn't we be better off to say to our communities, "What can I do to help?"...and then do it?

The time is past for anyone to sit back and claim inability, lack of experience, age or anything else as a reason to remain uninvolved in the solution to a nation's problems - one of which is drug abuse. The inhabitants of a community who take this stance are unequivocally relinquishing their right to hold anyone else responsible for whatever solution is written for their community and for them. If the solution comes in the form of a "ludicrous game" and those sacrificed are our people, a mirror points the way to blame.

There are a number of ways to determine who will do what and how it will be done - none of which is meaningful unless people will become personally involved. In reaching a decision perhaps something in our nation's capitol will help - the author is unknown..."On the worn plains of hesitancy lay the bleached bones of millions who, in their journey, stopped to wait...and, while they waited, they died."

YOUTH Rostrum

DO YOU FEEL THAT OHIO PENINTENTIARY GUARDS SHOULD RECEIVE FULL TIME HAZARD PAY?

This weeks' respondents: WORTHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

Hazard pay is a ridiculous expense. First of all, if one takes a job as a jailguard, he knows what he is in for and should be payed for what he is doing, not for the risks he is taking. Secondly, if the prisons were in reasonable condition, there would be no hazards. The prison system in the United States should be centered on careful reform of the attitudes toward those in jails, instead of giving guards hazard pay as one would to a lion tamer in the zoo. - Lisa VanderDees

I think that the prison guards would appreciate "hazard pay" however, it is not necessary and I feel it should not be an obligation of our taxes. Prison guards get their regular pay just as other civil service employees do and I feel that is all they are truthfully entitled to. It is true that they are open to danger but they picked this job and because it is their choice they should take the standard pay or get another type of job. If they are not happy with their pay minus "hazard pay," there are plenty of other people to take their place who would be satisfied with the pay they would receive. - Laurie Janik.

Yes, I think that the guards should receive full-time hazard pay. When they are at work their lives are in danger all the time. The criminals could start a riot or try to break out at anytime. They should have some reward or reassurance in case they are to get hurt or killed during a riot. I think that policemen, firemen and other such jobs should also receive full-time hazard pay as much as the guards because their lives are also in danger, I think that we should give the guards what they want before we give in to the inmates. After all, the guards are not paying for a crime and the criminals are. Why should we cater to them. - Kris Raine

Yes, I think that the guards who are asking for a full time hazard pay should have it granted to them. My reason is that their job requires a great deal more participation in guarding criminals. These criminals are murderers and the guards take great chances when they let the prisoners out of their cells. Some of the prisoners are maniacs and crazy and you don't know what they will do. Anyway what is 12-15 cents more per guard if these guards are risking their lives. - Ria DePew

Ohio Pen guards are not a special case that deserves hazard pay. In these times, it seems that every job a man holds makes him liable to be kidnapped, killed or robbed. Airline pilots, car company executives, store owners, are all examples of people that have been subjected to these dangers. These people go to work every day, because this is the job they've chosen. They know of the hazards. The guards chose their jobs, they face the same hazards. You can't single out a special group like the guards. If they deserve hazard pay, then it seems that almost every job in America entitles a man to it. - Patty Kight

Anyone whose life is put in jeopardy while fullfiling his job requirements deserves a pay higher than one whose job doesn't entail these certain risks. Although the guards at the prison entered their jobs with the full knowledge that there is danger involved, this doesn't take away from the fact that their job is dangerous, nor would it hinder them from receiving a pay suitable for the job involved. This higher pay would also make this job more likable to the general public so that more people would apply for jobs there, and those guards who possibly wouldn't be ideally suited for this line of work could be excused from their posts. Keeping these points in mind, it probably would be more beneficial to all people involved both guards and prisoners if the pay was raised to that of "Hazard pay,". - Jeff Deep

Yes, I think that the guards should receive an extra pay for the hazardous job that they have. A prison guard's job isn't the easiest job in the world, nor is it fun. It would be a risky job, although a sometimes monotonous way to make a living. It would take a certain type of person to accept a job like that in the first place. It's a job that a lot of men would never dream of doing. I admire those men that are guards, and I feel that they well deserve the extra pay. - Karin Shaw

In my opinion, the guards of the Ohio State Prison are not justified in their attempts to receive a 15 cent an hour raise for hazard pay. Granted, since the guards do day after day risk their lives doing their jobs they shall be commended, but in so much as the rest of the public officials in their category (hazardous duty) are not demanding such a raise it seems absurd to grant this raise to one and not the others. And for instance, what would take place if the police, firemen, etc., were granted a pay boost for hazardous duty, the citizens of the State of Ohio might feel a heavier tax burden. The types of solution which I might offer to this problem would be that of giving the pen guards a small raise in pay and meet a few of their other demands. If the demands of the guards seem ridiculous and may not be settled upon, the last solution feasiable would be that of training several new guards to replace those who would not accept the Prison Board's rulings. - John Phillipstr

Although I feel the guards should get fair pay increase, I don't think that they have the right to get full time hazard pay. The guards, who are fully armed, are in little danger most of the time. Their job is, except during situations such as prisoner riots, no more dangerous than most other jobs. The demand for fulltime hazard pay seems to me to be just a way to get a higher wage increase than is allowed by the federal pay board. There is no reason why the guards would be allowed a higher wage increase than other workers. - Alan Mowrey

Ohio Penitentiary guards should receive hazard pay. Prison guards like policemen and firemen, face uncommon danbgers on their jobs. However, I believe that all state employees with dangerous jobs should receive hazard pay. These people are risking more than the common citizen is dutifully expected to risk. Penintentiary guards should be high-class, educated men who are capable and willing to work with people. They should understand the prisoners' problems and should try to rehabilitate them. These type of state employees should definitely receive hazard pay. - Sandy McLravy

If the prison system would be improved then there would be no need for hazard pay. So rather than give the guards the money it should be put toward helping improve the prisons. Also if they insist on hazard, pay, it shouldn't be full time. It should be only when there is a crisis period in the prison. - Kathe Pass

The demand of the Ohio prison guards seem absurd, especially when their daily hazards are compared to those of policemen and firemen, who receive no hazard pay. The moneycould be better spent to improve the prison system or to eliminate some of the hazards that exist. These improvements or changes would be permanent, and thus, more worthwhile. Perhaps, if the demands were made when the economy was not such an important issue, they would seem more practical, but today's taxpayer is automatically against any steps that may increase taxes. - Karen Lundberg

It is a very commonly known fact that prison reforms are very badly needed. One of the reforms needed is the better treatment of prisoners. This is probably due to low grade guards with low pay. I believe their pay should be raised and then the state can become more choosey with who they hire and therefore better treatment of prisoners. - Jenny Klein

Two Ohio Senate candidates spoke to law students on the OSU campus last week.

Many of the questions fired at them by the highly-articulate group were remote from the areas of concern of those who sit with the state legislature. Instead, they involved campus disorders and the Columbus police--and the latter's alleged brutality following the Michigan game last year.

The more questions that were asked, the more obvious it became that CPD is a dirty three-letter word at OSU. Not even the suggestion by one of the politicos that a few rotten apples among the 1,000 man police force might have their counterparts among 45,000 students tempered the antagonism directed at law enforcement with Columbus police the main target.

Whether the attack was justified or not is irrelevant at this point. What became clear is that a chasm between the police and university students--and not just the "long hairs"-has reached monumental proportions.

Since that debate the chasm has been widened--this time with a bullet in the back of a 24-year-old member of the community, apparently inflicted while he resisted arrest on drug charges. At this point area residents wouldn't trust Jesus Christ if he wore a badge.

The situations make particularly valid the plan Safety Director Bernard Chupka has under consideration.

It involves downgrading tensions and resentments through a "cop-in and ride-along." Successfully initiated on the Ohio University campus at Athens last year, the proposed program would pair officers and "long hairs" for at least a two week period.

The university student or habituee would frequent the police radio room and ride the police beats, becoming familiar with police work in a situation other than being " on the wrong end of the stick."

The police would, on the other hand, share the life style of the sub-culture and, hopefully, begin to see as a human being, " the man behind the beard."

Some doubt has been expressed that the size of the police force and the vast number of students involved make the plan impractical in Columbus.

Undoubtedly, its initiation would be more complex and perplexing than in a smaller, less urbanized community. In the best of circumstances, a "pig" and a "hippie" make strange bedfellows but at least when people are tugging on the same blanket they are communicating.

OSU officials are reported to have given the idea unofficial blessing and we hope Chupka will proceed to put the wheels in motion.

Speak Up -NOW

Will Hellerman, community coordinator for Project UNITE, warned members of the Urban Education Coalition of these facts of life last week and the entire community better heed what he says.

Following the issue of a report (formidable in length) revealing the 700 recommendations of more than 2000 people involved in the study of school problems, Project UNITE is moving into its third phase--that of community forums.

Between next Wednesday when the first forum is scheduled at West High and Thursday, May 11, when the final session is held at Marion-Franklin, nine meetings are slated to serve every area of the city.

Already, a concerted effort is being made to stack these meetings, to tune in the voice of special interest groups with minimal concern for the overall educational climate.

Hellerman does not, and the average taxpayer should not, discount the impact a vocal minority can have on future actions of the Columbus Board of Education.

Not being infallible, the members are prone to believe what they hear--and, in the name of accountability, act accordingly.

It is generally recognized that the recommendations now made show an immediate need for additional construction and better program.

To obtain these, it is highly probable the board will go to the people on the November ballot. But what they will ask for will largely depend upon the tenor of the demands made at the public hearings within the next three weeks.

An accurate picture of the community's aspirations for its schools can be drawn only from a balanced attendance at the forums--and with all elements insisting upon being heard.

Any person who passes up this opportunity to be heard should be deprived of his right to bellyache at a later date.

It's the taxpayers' nickels the Board of Education will be playing with and the stake is the future of education in Columbus.

Only the apathetic will accept the role of on-looker instead of pitching in to make the rules of the games.

Letters To The Editor

Keep Our Concepts Clear

To the Editor:

I write to take strong issue with the views of John Chamberlain in his recent syndicated article "Nixon Placed in Dilemma by Parochial School Case."

Mr. Chamberlain seems impervious to the New York Court and U.S. Supreme Court's reasoning. He is intent on finding a way to circumvent these courts. He should read their opinions.

There is no inequity or discrimination in a system to keep public moneys for public uses only. The inequity and discrimination comes in when the entire public is taxed on top of its public school taxes to pay for parochial schools which are private, sectarian, discriminatory, and run for the benefit of the sponsoring churches. This is a tax for religion which the people in the U.S. seek to avoid.

He suggests neutral services such as chemistry or Latin. But he should know that the parochial school's curricula are infused with religion, throughout all courses. This is their big argument to say that their schools are religious and different. So, aid to chemistry or Latin is aid to sectarian teaching as well as courses in church doctrine. Should the public be taxed to support that kind of teaching for the benefit of the sponsoring church? This is the real inequity.

He speaks of 4,500,000 youngsters attending parochial schools, and that all citizens should resent them being dumped on the public schools. This is the familiar scare-tactic of parochialders. This is only 9.1 percent of the nation's school population. First, these children are not going to be "dumped" onto the public schools all at once. Secondly, where this has occurred, the public schools have taken them with very little strain, and it has worked for unity in the community and the betterment of education for everyone.

The magazine "Church and State" published by Americans United for Separation of Church and State has been carrying articles by Martin A. Larson who has been studying the effect of parochial school closings in Green Bay, Milwaukee, Pueblo, Helena, and Butte, Mont. The effects are contrary to what Mr. Chamberlain says.

They save money, pass levies for education, and are more united in good education policies, and improve the ecumenical relations in the communities.

Often, with the decline in birthrate, the enrollment in the schools now are very little more than was in both parochials and public schools before the parochials closed. This is a desirable result for everyone.

No, the rights of citizens are not infringed upon by keeping public funds for public uses only. Mr. Chamberlain indicates that since parochial schools are permitted by law to be established, therefore the community is obligated to support them with tax funds. This is false reasoning.

The government grants me the right to build a cottage in the woods, but that does not mean thereby that the government is now obligated to build a concrete road back to my cottage, which was built by my own choice and kept for my personal benefit. Lets keep our concept of right and equity clear.

YOUTH Rostrum

DO YOU FEEL THAT OHIO PENINTENTIARY GUARDS SHOULD RECEIVE FULL TIME HAZARD PAY?

This weeks' respondents:
WORTHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

Hazard pay is a ridiculous expense. First of all, if one takes a job as a jailguard, he knows what he is in for and should be payed for what he is doing, not for the risks he is taking. Secondly, if the prisons were in reasonable condition, there would be no hazards. The prison system in the United States should be centered on careful reform of the attitudes toward those in jails, instead of giving guards hazard pay as one would to a lion tamer in the zoo. - Lisa VanderDees

I think that the prison guards would appreciate "hazard pay" however, it is not necessary and I feel it should not be an obligation of our taxes. Prison guards get their regular pay just as other civil service employees do and I feel that is all they are truthfully entitled to. It is true that they are open to danger but they picked this job and because it is their choice they should take the standard pay or get another type of job. If they are not happy with their pay minus "hazard pay," there are plenty of other people to take their place who would be satisfied with the pay they would receive. - Laurie Janik.

Yes, I think that the guards should receive full-time hazard pay. When they are at work their lives are in danger all the time. The criminals could start a riot or try to break out at anytime. They should have some reward or reassurance in case they are to get hurt or killed during a riot. I think that policemen, firemen and other such jobs should also receive full-time hazard pay as much as the guards because their lives are also in danger, I think that we should give the guards what they want before we give in to the inmates. After all, the guards are not paying for a crime and the criminals are. Why should we cater to them. - Kris Raine

Yes, I think that the guards who are asking for a full time hazard pay should have it granted to them. My reason is that their job requires a great deal more participation in guarding criminals. These criminals are murderers and the guards take great chances when they let the prisoners out of their cells. Some of the prisoners are maniacs and crazy and you don't know what they will do. Anyway what is 12-15 cents more per guard if these guards are risking their lives. - Ris DePaw

Ohio Pen guards are not a special case that deserves hazard pay. In these times, it seems that every job a man holds makes him liable to be kidnapped, killed or robbed. Airline pilots, car company executives, store owners, are all examples of people that have been subjected to these dangers. These people go to work every day, because this is the job they've chosen. They know of the hazards. The guards chose their jobs, they face the same hazards. You can't single out a special group like the guards. If they deserve hazard pay, then it seems that almost every job in America entitles a man to it. - Patty Kight

Anyone whose life is put in jeopardy while fulfilling his job requirements deserves a pay higher than one whose job doesn't entail these certain risks. Although the guards at the prison entered their jobs with the full knowledge that there is danger involved, this doesn't take away from the fact that their job is dangerous, nor would it hinder them from receiving a pay suitable for the job involved. This higher pay would also make this job more likable to the general public so that more people would apply for jobs there, and those guards who possibly wouldn't be ideally suited for this line of work could be excused from their posts. Keeping these points in mind, it probably would be more beneficial to all people involved both guards and prisoners if the pay was raised to that of "Hazard pay,". - Jeff Deep

Yes, I think that the guards should receive an extra pay for the hazardous job that they have. A prison guard's job isn't the easiest job in the world, nor is it fun. It would be a risky job, although a sometimes monotonous way to make a living. It would take a certain type of person to accept a job like that in the first place. It's a job that a lot of men would never dream of doing. I admire those men that are guards, and I feel that they well deserve the extra pay. - Karin Shaw

In my opinion, the guards of the Ohio State Prison are not justified in their attempts to receive a 15 cent an hour raise for hazard pay. Granted, since the guards do day after day risk their lives doing their jobs they shall be commended, but in so much as the rest of the public officials in their category (hazardous duty) are not demanding such a raise it seems absurd to grant this raise to one and not the others. And for instance, what would take place if the police, firemen, etc., were granted a pay boost for hazardous duty, the citizens of the State of Ohio might feel a heavier tax burden. The types of solution which I might offer to this problem would be that of giving the pen guards a small raise in pay and meet a few of their other demands. If the demands of the guards seem ridiculous and may not be settled upon, the last solution feasiable would be that of training several new guards to replace those who would not accept the Prison Board's rulings. - John Phillipstr

Although I feel the guards should get fair pay increase, I don't think that they have the right to get full time hazard pay. The guards, who are fully armed, are in little danger most of the time. Their job is, except during situations such as prisoner riots, no more dangerous than most other jobs. The demand for fulltime hazard pay seems to me to be just a way to get a higher wage increase than is allowed by the federal pay board. There is no reason why the guards would be allowed a higher wage increase than other workers. - Alan Murray

Ohio Penitentiary guards should receive hazard pay. Prison guards like policemen and firemen, face uncommon danbgers on their jobs. However, I believe that all state employees with dangerous jobs should receive hazard pay. These people are risking more than the common citizen is dutifully expected to risk. Penintentiary guards should be high-class, educated men who are capable and willing to work with people. They should understand the prisoners' problems and should try to rehabilitate them. These type of state employees should definitely receive hazard pay. - Sandy McLravy

If the prison system would be improved then there would be no need for hazard pay. So rather than give the guards the money it should be put toward helping improve the prisons. Also if they insist on hazard, pay, it shouldn't be full time. It should be only when there is a crisis period in the prison. - Kathe Pass

The demand of the Ohio prison guards seem absurd, especially when their daily hazards are compared to those of policemen and firemen, who receive no hazard pay. The moneycould be better spent to improve the prison system or to eliminate some of the hazards that exist. These improvements or changes would be permanent, and thus, more worthwhile. Perhaps, if the demands were made when the economy was not such an important issue, they would seem more practical, but today's taxpayer is automatically against any steps that may increase taxes. - Karen Lundberg

It is a very commonly known fact that prison reforms are very badly needed. One of the reforms needed is the better treatment of prisoners. This is probably due to low grade guards with low pay. I believe their pay should be raised and then the state can become more choosey with who they hire and therefore better treatment of prisoners. - Jenny Klein

...While They Waited, They Died

Last Of A Series

By JUDITH C. PATTERSON

It would appear obvious that common denominators apply to all personal, moral, social, business, technical and any other types of problems. One cannot effectively begin to eradicate, correct or control a problem until such time as he realizes he has a problem.

This same first step applies to a community problem. The community must be made aware that it has a drug abuse problem. It isn't safe to assume that because millions of words have been printed, public service advertising employed, panel discussions presented and films shown, that a community really accepts the fact that this same problem existing elsewhere also exists here.

This mistaken assumption is costing us time needed now in the real fight, utilizing real people who know where the problem is and how they are needed to fight it.

If a community is really aware of its problem the following statements will be true – drug involved persons are being adequately cared for; the uninvolved are being effectively educated to prevent their involvement, present or future; families are knowledgable and taking care of their own; the community - jointly and cooperatively - is working together by employing existing resources to deal with the problem, it's control and eventual eradication.

If the community is not in this state, it is necessary to regain the ground that has been lost and begin again. Establishing awareness of any problem helps to remove fear, panic and perhaps hopelessness that often results from misinformation, rumor and confusing rhetoric. Awareness frees an individual to think for himself and to cease to rely solely on others for choosing a course to pursue in facing the problem.

Once a community is aware and understands something of the problem and its probability for occurrence in any home in America today, it can then, without undue emotion, evaluate what has to be done and begin to do it.

It is far easier to enlist help within a community that shares a common base of understanding than to simply employ the old hit-and-miss technique. The people within a community tend to be responsive when they are asked for help, told why they are needed and then what to do. The need for large sums of money seems to disappear as well, when a realistic attack on the problem is begun.

Most importantly, when a community really works together, it can use the problem itself positively, opening the doors of cooperation that have rusted shut. Any war brings people with unlikely backgrounds together because the common good is being served ahead of personal and selfish motives. Competition for "the" solution ceases, as well as the need for only "expert" participation.

A community must establish a common base of understanding and knowledge of the problem or no coordinated effort can emerge. Without this base the community effort will continue to be a "game" and the only participants will be those with personal motives for involvement.

It is a coming together of people that creates a community. These same people bring in what is needed to grow as well as to maintain their existence. If they do not, they will eventually die and so will their community.

We see communities nationwide that are maintaining their existence and at the same time continuing to grow. They have all they need to work with - doctors, policemen, pipe fitters, attorneys, carpenters, housewives, teachers, clergymen, retired people, government employees and so on.

Why, then, do we see these same communities searching outside their borders for solutions to community problems? Isn't it because the community doesn't take the time to ask its own inhabitants for assistance or to contribute time and effort to train them to be effective where needed? Isn't it because only a handful of people really understand what the problem is and what will be needed to fight it? Isn't it because we have created such sophisticated barriers and rules that it has become a "game" for a limited few to play?

(The following is a proposed solution that, if followed, wins the "game" in spite of any player who may or may not already have been awarded the federal grant of money and official recognition for expertise.)

A community should be systematically saturated with the same information – a simple understanding of the problem of drugs - who is doing it, what is available, and the fact that it is a family problem.

The civic and service organizations should be employed to help this effort. These organizations have all the structure and organization that, if utilized, can effectively help to saturate a community with information. In all probability, even though the problem of drug abuse may be their national directives for involvement, they, too, are seeking a way to assist and need only to be asked.

The local government officials should lead the way for an all-out community effort by removing the mantle of responsibility from the police, the school system and whomever else is being blamed for the community problem of drug abuse. The community leadership can issue a public statement outlining the community problem and seeking community assistance - without pointing fingers of blame. It is far easier for the schools and police to work against the problem effectively when they know they will not be accused of being held responsible for having created it. The only area that should be held responsible is the community and all those who occupy it.

When the community shares a base of understanding and knows why its doctors are needed and discovers that perhaps only one, in a community of 45,000, is actively involved in the fight against the problem – then the same community knows also that other doctors must be approached and trained as well. (Here is a bonafide example of the real need for expertise - someone who can reach medical people at a level they understand because of their intense training and previously existing knowledge - at the same time commanding their respect and motivating their involvement).

Knowledge of drug abuse also will point out the need for counselors - community counselors. This is the time to look at all the clergymen within the community and their present level of involvement. Aren't they already trained to counsel? Don't they already know the members of the community? Isn't their confidence something that is ensured by law? Why aren't they being employed where they are needed?

If it is because they don't understand the problem and the ramifications attached to effectively dealing with it – bring in another expert who can train them. In this case, as in the case with medical people, the expert comes in, trains and leaves...he leaves additional trained people and a wider base for a community attack on the problem.

When adult and family education is undertaken it must be in a way that does not superciliously point out that everyone is needed and then cautions that one "better not be 'really' involved unless he is some kind of an expert!"

The raising of a family is a learning process for parents as well as their children. The experts are grandparents (self-proclaimed!). To the best of any existing knowledge, there are no rules for becoming parents, unless a childless couple decides to adopt. Why then do we impose an attitude that makes parents feel unfit and unqualified to deal with their children? Why do we continue to contribute food to the idea that a home is a court of last resort, not the prime source of strength?

Before a community throws in the towel and turns the game over to the experts and professionals only, it had better evaluate how well this has worked and decide if this is what is really desired. We are seeing a steadily mounting problem of drug abuse, representing only the tip of the difficulties a nation faces. Drug abuse share the limelight with sexual permissiveness, crime, venereal disease and all those other problems that seem to evolve from one source.

We have listened to one solution after another being propounded. Isn't it time to admit openly that there is no known solution and that no "game" is going to produce one? Wouldn't we be better advised to determine that we haven't the time to wait for history to render the solution and the best possible way of reaching it?

Wouldn't we be better advised to throw off the cloak of passivity and fight for our children and people as non-experts who are willing to be involved and amenable to learning at the same time? Wouldn't we be better off to say to our communities, "What can I do to help?"...and then do it?

The time is past for anyone to sit back and claim inability, lack of experience, age or anything else as a reason to remain uninvolved in the solution to a nation's problems - one of which is drug abuse. The inhabitants of a community who take this stance are unequivocally relinquishing their right to hold anyone else responsible for whatever solution is written for their community and for them. If the solution comes in the form of a "ludicrous game" and those sacrificed are our people, a mirror points the way to blame.

There are a number of ways to determine who will do what and how it will be done - none of which is meaningful unless people will become personally involved. In reaching a decision perhaps something in our nation's capitol will help - the author is unknown..."On the worn plains of hesitancy lay the bleached bones of millions who, in their journey, stopped to wait...and, while they waited, they died."

Commission Okays Signal For Yorktown Crossing

Improved traffic safety conditions for Yorktown Junior High School, another signal for the Eastland commercial area and "status quo" for Keeler Drive highlighted developments involving East area residents at a recent Columbus Traffic Commission meeting.

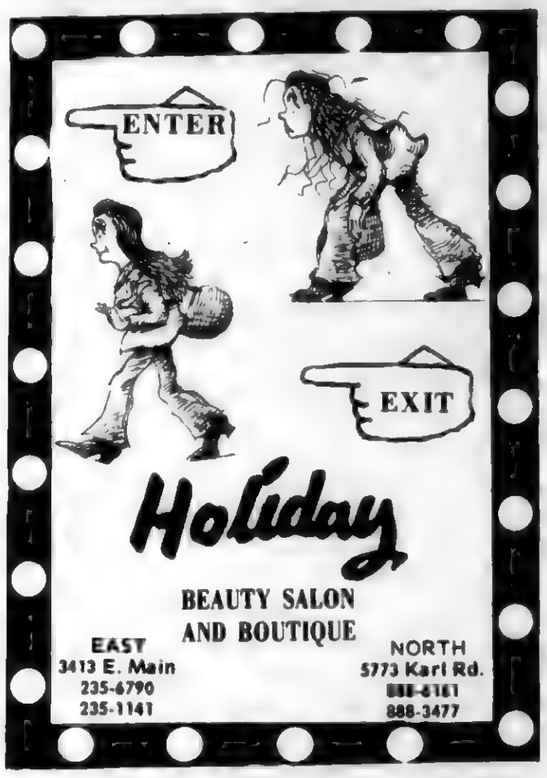
The commission okayed a vehicular and pedestrian actuated signal for Bairsford Road and Livingston Avenue, reversing a 1971 denial.

Increased speed and traffic in the area, the poor geometrics on Livingston Ave. and the fact that Yorktown will go to split sessions this fall (some children crossing Livingston after dark) were factors in the commission's change of mind.

A signal will also be installed on Hamilton Road at Kimberly Place (first street south of Groves Rd.) to accomodate the growing comercial development in the area.

Committments have already been made for several buildings under construction, one future occupant the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

The commission was reminded that it had previously agreed to signalize Hamilton Road (from I-70 south to Refugee Road) at 1900-foot intervals on the basis of developers contributing right-of-way for service roads.



The commission also rejected an earlier decision to close Keeler Drive at Hamilton Road when a accident study indicated that the recent signal installation at Hamilton and the westbound I-70 ramp had not created pedestrian-vehicular conflict at the east end of the bridge over Hamilton.

In other business, the commission rejected a signal request for Dundee Ave. and Shady Lane Rd.

MRS. MARIE SELKOW (pictured at right above), the new owner of Cliff-House Ceramics in Reynoldsburg, poses in front of the company's extensive selection of greenware with Mrs. Jane McKee, her mold-pouring expert.

Marie 'Home' At Cliff House

After the expenditure of a great deal of patience, Marie Selkow has finally found a home for her talents.

"Home" is Cliff House Ceramics at 7492 E. Main Street in Reynoldsburg.

The search to satisfy the "growing pains", (which made her first Columbus shop too small) ended April 1 when she moved into the Reynoldsburg site which has the space and facilities for Marie to really get down to business.

Marie has extensive ceramic training and taught the art in Chicago and New Jersey before putting down roots in Ohio.

In her new business location, Marie is assisted by Dorothy Landis – a welcome addition to the Cliff House and operator of her own ceramic studio for two years.

Rounding out the knowledgable trio of experts at the Cliff House is Mrs. Jane McKee, who takes charge in the pouring room and prides herself on her good greenware.

No piece at the Cliff House, in fact, is ever intentionally put on the shelf without first passing the ultra-critical inspection of either Marie, Dorothy or Jane.

Marie proudly boasts of housing the largest greenware selection on the East Side of Columbus – a selection; incidently, which grows with each passing week.

Apart from the display section, there are also separate areas for mold-pouring, firing and glaze and stain application. At the present time, Marie also conducts both day (11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.) and evening (6:30-9:30) classes.

The shop features Duncan glazes and underglazes and Rainbow stains, so the student gets to work with nothing but the best in materials.

Custom-firing for the ceramicist and other studios has also become an important aspect of the shop's work.

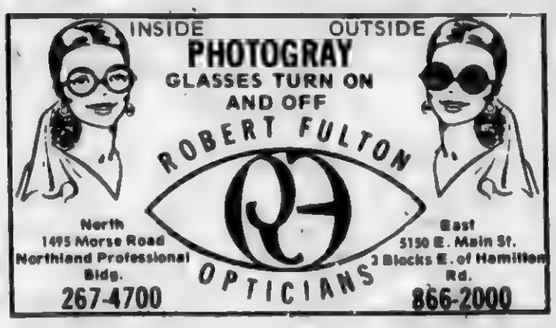
Lamp wiring is performed now and, in the near future, the Cliff House will carry a complete selection of lamp parts.

Custom accessory work is also available for the general public, such as a special wedding plate or an ashtray with Uncle Bill's name on it.

Marie, Dorothy and Jane also participate in school classroom projects and encourage tours by youth groups, such as girl scouts.

In fact, the Cliff House tour invitation is open to everyone.

The studio is open from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday with evening hours (6:30-9:30) every weekday but Friday.



The Cliff House is open on Sundays only by special appointment.

Eastland FFA Rates Gold Medal, Trophy

Recently, three students (members of the Eastland Future Farmers of America), completely overhauled a Ford 8N tractor for Fabi and Bidner Brick Contractors, Columbus. Using only their class shop time, the job was completed in two weeks. The students were Brent Gibson, Pickerington; Gary Fenice, Pickerington; and Rick Stewart, Westerville.

The Center's Agricultural Mechanics curriculum is designed to provide students with the necessary training to meet the job requirements for such positions as Mechanic, Shop Foreman, Welder, Machinist, Parts Ganager, and Product Salesman.

The Eastland Future Farmers of American Chapter received a gold rating and an attractive trophy in the recent District FFA Small Engine Contest held at the Greene County Joint Vocational School in Xenia. Eastland's team placed second among the schools participating.

The contest is designed to provide the student with an opportunity to demonstrate his proficiency in small engine repair and preventative maintenance.

The two students, from each of the top three schools, scoring highest in the district contest are eligible for the State FFA Small Engine Contest to be held at the Eastland Vocational Center, Groveport, April 22. Gary Fenice and James West will represent the Eastland FFA in the state contest.

Visiting Hours Changed

The Humane Society is changing it's Animal Shelter visitors' hours.

The Shelter will be open weekdays 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday from noon until 4 p.m. It will be closed on all nationally designated holidays.

In other policy changes the Society Animal Division and County Dog Warden are combining their efforts to more effectively curtail roaming packs of dogs. Due to the limited manpower available the Field Officers are going to concentrate their efforts in different sections of the City and County on various days. Only emergency calls will be serviced in other areas outside the section under patrol.

The Dog Warden is discontinuing the practice of attempting to answer every call as it is received from anywhere in the City or County. This practice has proven unsuccessful and too costly.

OSU To Institute 'Credit By Exam'

Through a new testing program, Ohio State students will soon have more opportunity to earn course credit by examination, and thus shorten the time it takes to receive a University degree.

The testing program encourages students to make the fullest use of high school learning and equivalent experience, according to Dr. Arthur Adams, dean of the College of Humanities.

"A student may have language or special skills and other knowledge as a result of a variety of work and study experiences, or from living in a foreign country," Adams said. "Through credit by examination, a qualified student could shorten his university education time by as much as three academic quarters."

Although University students in the past have had the option of receiving up to 45 hours of credit by examination the arts and sciences program is the first major effort to have standardized examinations for the majority of courses requires of undergraduates.

Beginning with the 1972 summer quarter (opening on June 20) standardized examinations will be administered on a regular basis in 13 subject areas.

Tests will be given in languages, history, English, mathematics, biology, chemistry, geology and psychology courses. If students perform satisfactorily, they will receive credit for the courses they bypass and will advance to the course appropriate to their level of skill.

Matrix Sets Deadline

Reservations for Matrix Table, to be given May 4 at 7 p.m. at the Sheraton Hotel, must be postmarked by April 25.

None will be accepted after that date.

Cindy Adams, author, journalist, and world traveler will be the speaker at the 48th annual event sponsored by Theta Sigma Phi, national organization for women in journalism and communications.

Display Scheduled

One-hundred fifty pieces of rare and exquisite Chinese gold, silver and porcelain from the world-famous Kempe Collection in Stockholm, Sweden, will be shown at The Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts from April 21 to May 21.

This exhibition, which first opened at the Asia House Gallery in New York City, is now being circulated throughout the United States under the auspices of the International Exhibitions Foundation, presented in this country under the patronage of His Excellency Hubert de Besche, Ambassador of Sweden.

The Kempe Collection is accompanied by a handsome 144-page catalogue with 180 black-and-white illustrations. It also contains an introduction by Dr. Bo Gyllensvard, Director of the Museum of Far Eastern Antiquities in Stockholm, catalgoue notes on 150 objects, a chronology and selected bibliography. The price is $6.00, available in the Gallery Shop of the Columbus Gallery of Fine Arts, 12:00 noon to 5:00 p.m., seven days a week, the regular hours of The Gallery itself.

Ohio State Development Team Works With 'Slow Learners'

An infant is three to six months behind in development. He isn't walking at an age when other children are.

Usually, the parents of this child can only wait to see if he catches up with other children.

However, a program is being conducted at Ohio State University to help "developmentally-delayed infants," as these children are called.

The program, in the Nisonger Center for Mental Retardation, is now serving seven such children in an effort to develop a model program for early identification and training.

When developed, the program could eventually be adopted by day care centers and other groups and institutions.

Currently, it is oriented toward service to the families of the seven children and training Ohio State students of various disciplines.

Whether a child is developmentally delayed can be determined through screening and infant testing, says Ellen Nash, coordinator of the infant learning center. "We would like to develop recognizable signs of this condition so pediatricians, parents, and others can detect it," she said.

"It was difficult to find cases. We sent out flyers describing characteristics of developmentally - delayed children to various agencies in the community. We want to find better methods of locating cases.

"Developmentally delayed means the children are slow or show a lag in areas of development," she said.

About 10 per cent of all babies born may fall in this category, says Dr. Ann S. Bardwell, program director and an associate professor of home economics.

"After children are found in the population, then programs could be started to help them more fully develop their mental and physical abilities at an early age," she said.

Loyd Inglis, the program's assistant director, said: "We need to work with parents and doctors to find infants that are developing slowly. If they are found before they are two years old, there is real hope that they can learn quickly and possibly catch up to other children their age.

The longer we wait to find them, the less help we can give. The old practice of waiting until they are of school age is like something out of the stone age."

In the current program, the children, between 12 and 24 months, take part in a 2½ hour learning experience on weekdays, Mrs. Nash said. "Also, the mothers come in once a week and we teach them stimulation techniques for use with the infant, and we make a home visit once a week to determine any specific needs the family and child might have."

"Basically, it is a program for sequential development. Using a standardized test, we find out on what level the child is functioning for nine certain areas, including large motor activities, such as walking, and small motor activities like grasping." Mrs. Nash said follow-up tests show the children "have made fairly significant gains."

"Next year we hope the program will serve 40 families," Mrs. Nash said.

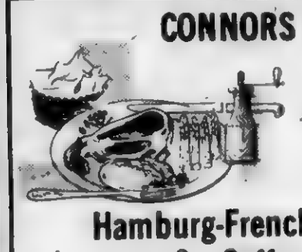
KARATE DEMONSTRATION ONE OF TOWN & COUNTRY'S "GOIN'S ON" THIS WEEKEND.



The merchants of the Town & Country Shopping Center will present a unique exhibition next Saturday. At 2:30 P.M., near Gray Drugs, the American School of Martial Arts will stage a demonstration of Karate, Self-defense, Free-style saprring, breaking techniques, etc.

Mr. Ed. Howard, owner-instructor of the 9-year old school, oldest in the area, will narate the program. He has been awarded the second-degree Black Belt from Okinawan Master, Shoshin Nagamine, founder of the particular style of Karate that will be demonstrated at Town & Country.

"People have been led to believe that Karate is either a mysterious method of neutralizing an attacker, or is difficult for the average person to master", states Mr. Howard. "Actually, neither is true. Determination and some personal sacrifice are the things that are required in learning Karate. In 9 years of teaching Martial (fighting) Arts, I've not seen anyone fail to make progress if he puts his mind to the task of learning.

Other fun and entertainment at Town & Country this week-end will include a show by Ross Gick, Magician, at 4:30 P.M. Friday, near Penney's, free popcorn Fri. & Sat., free Kids Rides on an antique "horse-drawn Station wagon" Saturday afternoon and a sno-cone trailer near Gallenkamp Shoes all week-end.

Rams, Lions To Host Cinder 'Specials'

Spectator Sports — Close-up News of Community News

By HENRY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Last week's balmy temperatures made the arrival of Spring official; and Central Ohio prep tracksters plan to celebrate with the season's heaviest slate of Invitational cinder action during the next seven days.

Central's sprint-strong Pirates will get things started Thursday afternoon with their long-standing Riverside Relays. Meanwhile, crosstown, the Whitehall Relays will be opening their two-day run, with nine schools battling the host Rams for '72 laurels.

BROOKHAVEN will entertain a nine-team field Friday evening in the eighth renewal of the Bearcat Relays; and Saturday morning will find perennial point-king Worthington and a flock of other strong prep entries battling for honors in the high school segment of the Ohio Relays at OSU.

Things taper off then till Wednesday, when Bexley High presents the sophomore running of its home special.

It adds up to a bunch of cinder action, with District contenders in most every event locking horns. Here's a rundown of meet information and existing records:

WHITEHALL RELAYS

Competition will begin at 4:30 Thursday afternoon on the Ram track, with Gahanna's Lions back to defend the '71 crown they earned with a record performance in the final event.

W-H coach Jim Healey, who resurrected the Relays last year after a three-year lapse, isn't promising a replay of that three-way battle to the wire (Lions edged Marion-Franklin and Linden); but he does figure a number of meet standards are in jeopardy.

The unique two-day format will feature championship competition in the discus, pole vault and long jump (two-man teams) as well as running prelims on Thursday (field events at 4:30, footraces start at 5).

Friday's card calls for finals in the high jump and shot put to begin at 4:45, with all running finals waiting for 7:00.

Admission is $1 per day for everyone.

Joining the host Rams and Gahanna will be OCC rivals Westland and Westerville, City League reps Eastmoor, Walnut Ridge and Linden along with Grove City, Circleville and newcomer Watterson.

Gahanna's Guy Jensen should be the top individual performer, especially in the long jump, but it should be another tight battle for team points in almost every event—especially since everything will be scored on a "relay" or combined basis.

..SHOT PUT--113'7", Wayne Harris, Larry Wiggins (M-F'71).
..DISCUS--313'11", Wayne Harris, Larry Wiggins (M-F '71).
..POLE VAULT--25'9" Gary Belknap, Ed Schillig (Gahanna '71).
..HIGH JUMP-12'3", Dave Steele, Terry Burris (Whitehall
..LONG JUMP--41'10½", Ed Bell, Robert Parker (Linden '71).
..880 RELAY--1:32.6 Westerville
..MILE RELAY--3:33.3, Whitehall and Gahanna '71.
..TWO MILE RELAY--8:17.8, Walnut Ridge.
..SHUTTLE HURDLES--:58.4, Brookhaven.
..FOUR MILE RELAY--19:32.4, M-F '71 (Carroll, Berens, Watts, Mounts).
..SPORINT MEDLEY--1:38.1, Groveport '71 (Parrish, Johnson, Wilson, Perrault).
..DISTANCE MEDLEY--8:05.2, M-F.'71 (Mounts, Tucker, Abbott, Haynes).

BEXLEY RELAYS

Next Wednesday it's the sophomore running of Bexley's home special, with Russ Owen's Lions looking to keep the team title in their own trophy case after copping the '71 inaugural over Hartley.

Russ rated his crew the favorite after some strong dual showings, but noted that Mid Eight rivals Grandview and Grove Cityn should dominate the distance events and Hartley's sprinters (notably Art Best) would be tough to top.

READY and London round out the six-team field.

Competition will get started at 5:45 Wednesday evening, and points will be awarded exactly as in a dual meet—individual winners being crowned in all five field chores and eight running tests, with team competition only in the mile and 880 relays.

Russ doesn't expect too many of last year's "automatic" meet records to hold up; with the Bexley high jumpers (Carl Kraft and Russ Kessler) and Lion pole vaulter Tom Sixt almost certain to crack the '71 marks in their specialties.

HE ALSO listed Hartley's Best as a strong challenger to break the standards he established last year in the 100 and 220; and Grove City two-miler Robin Smith a cinch to break the 10 minute barrier in decent weather.

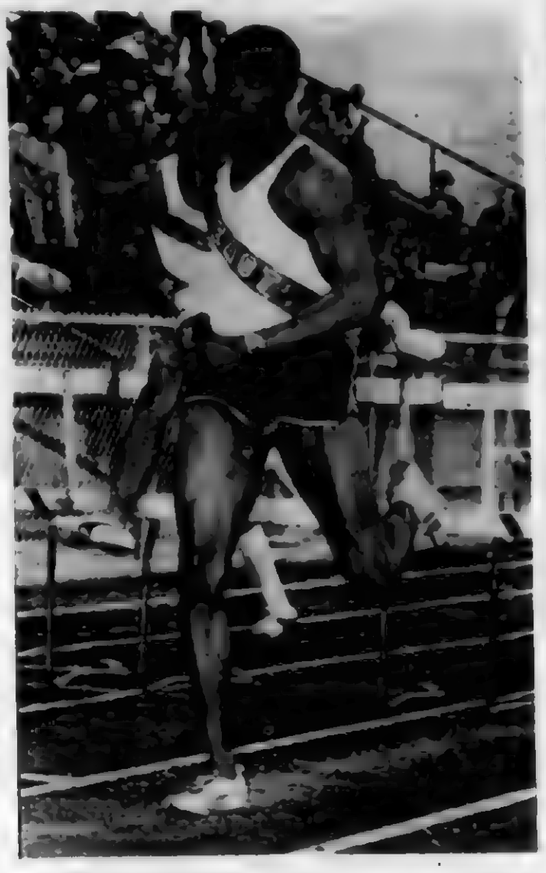
Action will be continuous, with running finals getting underway around 7 p.m. Here are the meet marks established last year.

..LONG JUMP--21'5", Dave Balcer, Hartley. DISCUS-148' Brad Scharlott, Grandview. SHOT PIT-49'2", John Federer, Hartley. HIGH HURDLES-:15.4, Dave Carruthers, Bexley. MILE RUN-4:31, Dave Bosburg, Grandview. 180 DASH-:10.2, Art Best, Hartley. 880 RELAY-1:32.4, Bexley (Bob Sherman, Buz Inboden, Tom Hall, ..Tom Reynolds). HIGH JUMP-5'8", Mike Astley, Hartley. 440 RUN-:52.6, Chuck Diltz, Hartley. LOW HURDLES-:21.0, Dave Balcer, Hartley. 880 RUN-2:03.4, Dan Scaterom, Grandview. 220 DASH-:22.8, Art Best, Hartley. POLE VAULT-12'0", Tom Sixt, Bexley. TWO MILE RUN-10:01.8, Pat Bennett, Grandview. MILE RELAY-3:38.9, Hartley (Doyle, Clark, Diltz, Balcer).

BEARCAT RELAYS

Things will be conducted a little differently at Brookhaven Friday evening than they are at most high school cinder Invitationals.

Bearcat boss Mark Whitaker an his thinclads will host a nine-team field in what amounts to an expanded dual meet competition.



INDIVIDUAL winners will be crowned in six field events (the triple jump has been

THE LATEST THING in fairway sprinkling systems is shown off by Ed Tonti, owner and manager of Mar-Kett Recreation, located on Rohr Rd. just West of Alum Creek Drive. Tonti explained that this control panel can be set to selectively water the 18-hole, par three layout completely unattended—turning itself on and off at any hours for which it is preset.

FAST FIELD — Although it would appear he's got an easy victory assured above, East's Al Moore (foreground) just nipped Central's John Williams (visible over Moore's shoulder) at the wire in this high hurdles finish at Friday's Red Devil Relays. Moore finished in :14.7, Williams in :14.8. In fact, the first five finishers in the event bettered the '71 standard of :15.4.

Bears, Cards, Lions Top 'Invite' Winners' List

Though the Reynoldsburg Invitational fell victim to wet grounds and was postponed; Worthington, Gahanna and Marion-Franklin managed to hop-scotch through the weekend's unpredictable weather and complete their annual cinder specials.

If record-shattering is your bag, the M-F Red Devil Relays had to rate raves: every single existing meet standard fell by the wayside as deep and balanced Upper Arlington unseated their hosts as team titleist.

FIVE OLD MARKS fell at both the Worthington and Gahanna Relays Saturday, as the Cards and Lions repeated their '71 championship performances.

MARION-FRANKLIN

Marv Crosten's Golden Bear thinclads parleyed five firsts and a flock of in-the-money finishes into an 87-74 margin over runnerup Lancaster Friday, to nail down the third Red Devil team crown.

Top Individual performance of the day had to be the eye-popping :09.6 turned in by David Jones of Central in the 100 yard dash. That's faster than any official clocking in Central Ohio for at leastthree years—and came against a field loaded with sub-10 second dash men.

ALL THE WINNING field events totals automatically became meet records because of a switch from three-man to two-man competition

West's 880 Relay quartet ran a splendid 1:30.4, and UA turned in a 3:28.6 mile combine effort to smash old standards by big margins—it was a day when the combination of tough competition and top talent combined to rewrite literally every page in the three-year Red Devil ledger.

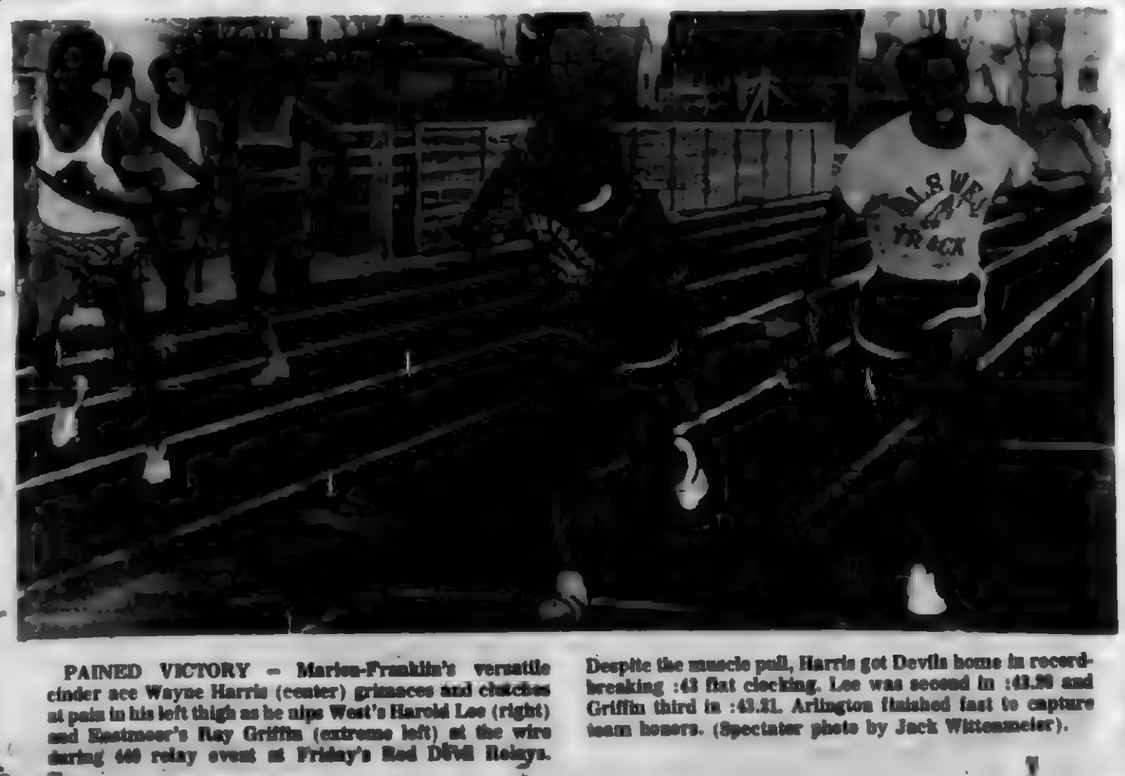
GAHANNA

The host Lions ran off with a surprisingly easy 50½-36 verdict over top challenger Newark Saturday in the 15th running of the Gahanna Relays.

Gahanna star Guy Jensen anchored the winning Lion long-jump effort, then helped the shuttle hurdles and sprint medley quartets to victory as well.



ED RAREY'S charges took six firsts in all--four in the field events--and set new meet records in the triple jumpt (119'11") and sprint medley (1:35.9).

Other old standards were broken by the Brookhaven distance medley quartet. DeSales four-mile relay team and Newark high jumpers.

DeSales finished third in the team scoring, followed by Walnut Ridge, Brookhave and Bexley.

FOLLOWING are the winning performances:

..LONG JUMP--Gahanna (Simmons, Car, Jensen) 62'4".
..POLE VAULT--DeSales (Smith, Wanner, Wheeler) 35'6".
..SHOT--Gahanna (Tarr, Barber, Linson) 139'5¼".

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Eastmoor, Bexley and Hartley got their respective league races off to flying starts last week–with the Warriors adding two wins to their CL South total and the Lions and Hawks opening loop action with solo triumphs.

Walnut Ridge sandwiched a pair of strong mound showings by Carl Rankin around a loss to West, but Groveport and Whitehall found the early going pretty tough.

Here's the outlook for the frontrunners as of Tuesday morning:

EASTMOOR

It's perhaps a good measure of Warrior diamond strength this spring that they've weathered the temporary loss of star shortstop Mark Kraker without much visible damage.

Kraker, the three-sport star who missed most of basketball season due to a gridiron arm injury, was ordered back into a cast for another three weeks by his doctor. That removes the E-M leadoff hitter and top base thief from Ron Golden's batting order–and takes an All-City glove out of the most important spot in the infield.

IT BOTHERED the Warriors so much last week that they posted league wins over tough Marion-Franklin and Central, and dumped Mid Eight strongboy Hilliard in between.

"We had to make some adjustments," noted Golden–"like taking Monty Hannah out of the pitching rotation and moving him to shortstop and the leadoff spot, but we've gotten some good performances from the people who had to adjust."

That could be a mild understatement.

WITH HANNAH a fulltime infielder, senior Bob Traphagen moved into the Number Two mound assignment–and promptly tossed a classy three-hitter at veteran Central last Friday as the Warriors posted CL South verdict number four without a setback.

Sophomore third baseman Craig Passen, who's been the brightest surprise of the young campaign, keyed the E-M win with a pair of RBI hits.

Golden's group resumed City warfare after the holiday layoff last Tuesday, knocking Marion-Franklin mound ace Kim Compton out of his socks with a five run third inning outburst.

MONTY CORRON twirled a masterful complete game to take the hill win, and got some excellent defensive backing as the made-over Warrior infield came up with three twin-killings.

Kim McCualsky, who's been platooning with lefty Brian Stertzer at first, got two hits during that third inning rally, and chipped in a sacrifice fly later on.

Boasting a game-and-a-half lead over Ridge, West and M-F (all 2-1), Eastmoor had the league bye Tuesday and is looking forward to a neighborhood non-loop squabble against Whitehall at home Thursday.

THEN IT'S a pair of Division duels: at home Friday versus South, then out Livingston Ave. to meet arch-rival Ridge next Tuesday.

Those two tussles should feature strong mound work, with Corron going against Bulldog standout Jeff Skaggs Friday, and any of Golden's three starters (Hannah's back in the rotation) hooking up with W-R workhorse Carl Rankin.

WALNUT RIDGE

Speaking of Mr. Rankin, the hard throwing lefty had himself quite a week.

Monday he out-duelled Skaggs by shutting down South on six hits, smacked a crucial two-run homer, and lasted through an extra inning to take the win when soph centerfielder Ronnie Marshall singled home the decisive tally in the bottom of the eight.

Jack Stephenson's batsmen really had their fangs bared Friday, raking an assortment of Mohawk hurlers for 17 safeties en route to a 13-3 romp. On he mound–Rankin returned to completely shackle the Indians and collect CL verdict number two.

IN BETWEEN, however, things weren't so rosy.

West's Cowboys rolled in Tuesday, and battered three Scott pitchers for seven late runs and a 9-2 win. West hurler Tim Thrush gave up only six hits to Jack's hitters while going the distance.

Friday, the Ridgemen will try to keep pace with Eastmoor by handling Central on the Downtowners' diamond. Buc pitching looked strong before the firing started, but thus far starters Rex Lynch and Joe Boysel have had their problems against the likes of E-M and Marion-Franklin (they stood 1-2 Tuesday.)

THEN, next Tuesday, comes would should be a do-or-die showndown with the Warriors.

Rankin will doubtless get the call–more than likely against E-M ace Monty Corron. A Scot win would throw the Division race into a probable tie (pending this week's action), but a loss would likely complete a first-round sweep of the loop for the Warriors–and make 'em just about about a shoo-in.

BEXLEY

Hard up for a place to play, Gene Millard's Lions stand 1-0 for Mid Eight action after Rick Clowson's one-hit masterpiece earned 'em a 1-0 squeaker over London last Tuesday.

Rick even drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

FRIDAY'S DUEL against Groveport was called after seven because of darkness with the teams tied 7-7–it'll be made up next Monday.

Gene stayed with his preseason observation that power and run production would be his major problems, with pitching and defense looking solid.

He cited Doug Klie and Bill Saas as the top Lion batsmen to date, but noted that both are singles hitters.

added), and in the 100, 220, 440, 880, two mile run and high hurdles.

Only "relays" competition will be at 440, 880, one and two miles and the shuttle hurdles.

'71 champ Marion-Franklin won't be back to defend the team title; and Mark expects Linden, Newark and DeSales to battle for the vacated top spot.

BESIDES Brookhaven, the field also includes Whetstone, Northland, North, Hartley and Reynoldsburg.

Running prelims and field chores get the gun at 5 p.m., with running finals slated to commence an hour later.

RIVERSIDE RELAYS

First-year Pirate coach Rick McGhee has invited a standout eight-team field on Thursday's running of the annual Downtown special.

Joining Central will be Central Ohio League powers Upper Arlington and Lancaster, City contenders Marion-Franklin, East and South, and always-tough Springfield South.

FIELD CHORES begin at 4 p.m., and go to completion. Running events will follow 15 minutes later.

The format calls for seven running relays and the five traditional field events scored on a three-man team basis.

Meet marks established over the long run of Riverside competition will be pretty hard to top, but the M-F shot put trio may have a crack at the 156'3" standard--especially if superstar Wayne Harris can break 60 feet.

THE DISCUS, high jump and pole vault records are also within reach of a top performance Thursday.

SHUTTLE HURDLES--:56.5, Arlington 1968.
DISTANCE MEDLEY--7:29.2, Lancaster 1971.
440 RELAY--:43.0, Springfield South, 1968.
MILE RELAY--3:26.7, East '65 and Spr. South '69.
SPRING MEDLEY--1:33.1, Arlington 1968.

LONG JUMP--63'4½", Spr. South 1969.

RAMADA INN

It's country and western time at the Ramada Inn South this week and next. Featured in the El Matador Lounge is the swinging Sonny Norris and The Nashville Skyliners. These are five fellows whose job it is to do a lot of pickin' and singin'. And, believe me, they do their job well.

Coming to the Ramada Inn South direct from Nashville, The Nashville Skyliners play and sing music in the country and western vein. If you dig this sort of thing, then don't waste a second, because they are the best outfit in a Columbus lounge. If you don't care for this type of music, then stay away, because it is a C&W act-their material, approach and style.

I can't remember when a country and western group of the caliber of The Nashville Skyliners has played such a plush place as the Ramada Inn South. Nor can I recall a first rate C&W group ever playing a large motel lounge in a first-rate motel in the Columbus area.

But it is all happening nightly at the Ramada Inn South. The Nashville Skyliners is composed of Jack Graves with the electric bass and some mighty gutty country singing, leader Sonny Norris handling the rhythm guitar and doing some nice vocal work, Troy Henry at the drums, who also sings, Gary Cabe taking care of lead guitar and vocals and steel man, Tony Fiar.

With a combination as versatile as this they can't go wrong, and they don't. You have four fellows capable of doing solo work; put them together and you also have some pretty fine harmony on country and western tunes.

The opening night crowd, and I do mean opening night crowd, loved every note performed by Sonny Norris and The Nashville Skyliners. It is really a winner for the Ramada Inn South, that's for sure.

SHERATON NORTH

The Scott Faye Holland Arrangement opened this past Monday night at the Sheraton Inn North. With a name like that, they either have to be good or way out in left field. Take it from me, this group is one of the finest lounge acts I've seen to hit town for a mighty long time.

Chuck Scott is the leader, and rightly so. This guy sings better than most of the male singers in the business today, and this includes many of the so-called stars. He comes on with a voice and style that is something else. The tonal quality is pure and clean. The sound will just grab you and hold on. His sound, without a doubt, is better than his style. But, this does not mean that it is a bad style. It just is not that off the beaten path. Chuck is a gas of a singer.

Chuck also plays one of the wildest instruments that exists, an accordion that's electrified, played through an organ speaker, with the end result an accordion that sounds like two instruments-an accordion and an electric organ. It is wild. The sounds he creates and the beautiful music are out of this world.

Next in the group is another way-out man that's loaded with talent, Don Faye. Now, Don doesn't have much to do on stage, he just plays alto and baritone sax, clarinet, flute and electric guitar. He is really something else, because all of the instruments are played expertly by Don. You will flip over everything he does, including his harmony work in the vocal department.

Then, there is Wes, another Fantastic musician and all around entertainer. Wes is a drummer who could win all the blue ribbons in any competition. He can play more riffs, and get more rhythm with one stick than most guys get from two. The fact that he's also a showman, makes him almost as much fun to watch as to hear. Wes has the ability to keep driving the group every minute. Wes is no slouch in the vocal department with his rather unique voice.

Put them all together and you have one of the best trios to hit these parts in a long, long time. The Scott Faye Holland Arrangement is an extremely professional outfit. They keep things moving very tightly and smoothly. Their musical material includes everything from today's sound to Glen Miller with all stops made in between.

And, you stop this week or next at the Sheraton North Motel. You will more than enjoy this trio-that is a guarantee.

HOLIDAY INN

Roger Hunt, a maestro of the electric organ, is currently playing earfuls of beautiful music at the Holiday Inn in Reynoldsburg. His music, as well as his stylings, are soft and romantic. The musical moods of Roger Hunt are great for conversation or just plain, easy relaxing. Creating a big, full sound with the Hammond C-3 Organ, the room comes alive with music. Yet, Roger is not over-powering. He has the ability to play and not blast you into the next county.

Even though Roger plays the easy going type of music most of the time, he can lay down a hard, fast beat and dish out plenty of good swinging tunes. Here again, his talents show through, by playing all types of rock and Dixieland in a medium, pleasant volume.

Now, right here should be enough to make you fly out the East Freeway to the Holiday Inn and give Roger Hunt a listen. But, there is more. This fellow sings, also. Don't get me wrong. He's not one of the greatest singers that ever rode down I-70. However, his voice has a full sound with more than just adequate control. His tonal qualities and approach blend in easily with the over-all atmosphere and which makes for a very satisfying visit.

Take my advice, if you are looking for a nice quiet place, with atmosphere and entertainment, then the Holiday Inn, Reynoldsburg, is for you.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

For a great time, for both men and women, plan to attend the luncheon-style show this Wednesday at the every Wednesday at the Marriott Inn Motel. There are fashions shown for men as well as women. The show is broadcast over cable television and there is always a good lunch served. I find it all to be fun...The Acadmey Theatres certainly know how to pick a winner. The Forum One and Two, plus The Carrousel, Camelot and Clinton Cinemas have been showing "French Connection," for the past two weeks. It walked off last week with five Academy Awards-best picture, best actor and best direction. Needless to say, it has been held over. Go see it, it's great..Ken Brokamp is still doing an excellent job for the audiences at the Fort Hayes Hotel. This fellow is a true pleasure to hear with his nice and easy guitar and vocal renditions...The VIP Road, now serves your favorite "Today for the Body." All types of drinks along with a complete wine list are available. Special cocktail hour from 4 p.m.-7 p.m. with reduced prices makes it a fun place to go...Be sure you stop out some night at Giner's Sherwood Inn. With Mike Brenning playing a handful of piano for your dining and listening pleasure, The Sherwood Inn is rapidly becoming a stop on people's nightly rounds.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Hilltop Players will present "Never Too Late" Apr. 21-22 at Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church, 2930 W. Broad St. (at Hadly) at 8:30 p.m. If I told you the ages of her children, you would know why Nancy Truelove is playing the part of the lucky mother-to-be with the already-grown family. Evidently, director Shelba Brannan believes actual experience helps bring authenticity to a role. Others in the cast are Jerry Hanes, Sam Page, Carol Brewer, Debbie Carson, Clarence Lewis, Steve Ames and Bill Brannan.

I will be trotting down to the Little Theatre Off Broadway, 3851 N. Broadway, Grove City to see "The Pleasure of his Company," a rueful comedy with a new twist on the classic love triangle. I am told that three of LTOB's very young actors have to age considerably to take on their roles in this production. It runs Apr. 21-22, 28-29 with curtain time at 8:30. Dick Gebhardt directs.

Musical director John Carter is a real Gilbert and Sullivan fan, and as such considers directing "H.M.S. Pinafore" for the Discovery Series of the Columbus Junior Theatre of the Arts rights down his alley. Pinafore is a comic opera in English written by W.S. Gilbert and Sir Arthur Sullivan, first produced in America in November of 1879 at the Boston Museum.

Employing the age-old themes of the daughter in love with a man who is not her father's choice, men who were switched in their cradles as infants and the irony of snobbery, Gilbert and Sullivan again prove that love will find a way.

John has involved people from all walks of life in this presentation including students of the Junior Theatre, teachers and college students. One of the OSU college students, Peter Atherton, expects to be going to the Julliard School of Music. Neil Staten, playing the demanding role of the captain, holds a masters degree in psychology and is a tester at OSU.

All in all, John is pleased with his cast and considers things to be going fairly well which is an indication to him that this is going to be a good lively show. See it at the Ohio Theatre Apr. 29 at 11 a.m. or 2 p.m.

Vote FOR Better Transit

Keep Central Ohio Moving

Central Ohio now faces urgent transportation problems that have crippled other metropolitan areas. Increased traffic, decreased parking; decreased bus service at increased rates. Expressways are clogged at peak traffic times, and pollution and accidents are increasing.

Your vote for the Transit Levy on May 2 can help solve these problems. And the levy will make Central Ohio eligible for $12,500,000 in Federal funds for transit improvements including plans and rights-of-way for future rapid transit.

The non-profit Central Ohio Transit Authority will acquire the Columbus Transit Company. The buses — the sole means of transportation for many handicapped, the elderly, employed persons and students — will continue to operate. Fares will be stabilized. New routes will be added. Present routes, hours and days of service will be extended, and as ridership grows, many traffic and parking problems will be alleviated. Dependable, modern mass transit will benefit you — even if you don't ride the bus.

Look at the traffic now. What if the buses stopped? You'll want to vote FOR the transit levy May 2.

WHPCA MARSHALS FORCES FOR ACTION

Far East Siders Want Emergency Squad

Residents of the far east side of Columbus are joining forces to let city officials know they are dissatisfied with fire and police services in their rapidly growing area.

Heading the citizen's campaign is the Walnut Hill Park Civic Association.

The recent concern was triggered following an accident on the Oakmont Elementary School grounds. A sixth grade student, Marci Atles, 1859 Birkdale Dr., was cut when hit by a bicycle. The laceration was severe enough to sever a muscle.

According to Mrs. William Spencer, an active member of the Civic Association, it took a squad at least 20 minutes to arrive.

Mrs. Spencer said, "In case of an emergency when a child or an adult is injured or critically ill, 20 minutes seems like an eternity. In acute situations professional help isn't always available."

She said fire officials told residents that the Main and Hampton squad team is responsible for the area south of Port Columbus to the city limits and from Alum Creek east to the city limits.

Other communities in the area are:

Eastmoor, Berwick, Mayfair, Liv-moor, Berwick Manor, Pinecrest, Leawood, Gardens 1, 2, and 3, Shady Lane, Sherwood Forest, Willis Park, Walnut Ridge, Walnut Heights, Pine Hills, Yorkshire, Yorkshire East, Laurel Canyon, Olde Orchard, Greenbrier, Ravenwood, Thunderbird Acres, Woodlands and Amberly.

"What we want is a squad located in our immediate area," Mrs. Spencer said.

She said she had written to Mayor Tom Moody explaining the need for an emergency squad in the far east area.

In the letter Mrs. Spencer states;

"I am informed that a squad properly manned would cost $100,000 per year. Ground was recently broken for a new fire station on McNaughton Road. We need a squad based there.

"I sincerely hope you will realize that my actions are out of deep concern and fear for the well being of my family as well as that of my neighbors."

Mrs. Spencer said she understood that no emergency squad was to be based at the new McNaughten Station.

Mrs. Spencer explained her concern, saying that she had experienced a similar emergency three years ago and it had taken the squad over 20 minutes to arrive then.

"That was three years ago and it still hasn't improved."

She said the area had grown a great deal since that time and there are many more families in the area now.

As a temporary and local precaution, the WHPCA has made arrangements with fire officials to offer a six weeks first-aid course at the Oakmont School. The course will begin Monday, May 1, and is open to all area residents.

"In our effort to get an emergency squad nearer our area, we have contacted two districts of the Columbus Chapter of Parent-Teacher Associations asking that they lend their support."

Mrs. Spencer said approximately 22 schools were included in these two districts.

"I spoke with Mrs. Walter Wolfe, district nine chairman, and she is in approval with our efforts. We hope these groups will aid by asking their members to write letters to the mayor and city council."

Mrs. Spencer said the association had also gotten approval from the United Community Council which has offered to arrange a meeting between representatives of various community groups and city officials.

The meeting is tentatively set up for Wednesday, May 10, at 8:00 p.m. at the Walnut Hill Country Club.

Mrs. Spencer and other residents working on the project with her said they were not criticizing the police or the fire departments.

"They're doing their best but you can only do so much with what they have."

Ron Rahe, in charge of the residents' security system, said only two patrol cars are provided for the same general area as covered by the squad.

"Services just haven't kept up with the growing needs of the area," Rahe said.

"We could also use a police sub-station nearer to us. A patrol car can get here in five or ten minutes provided it is not busy or is fairly close. Once when the two serving our area were unable to come, a car was sent from way up on the Northside somewhere."

He explained that two years ago, approximately 30 men in the area had gotten together and formed a volunteer security patrol.

"If anyone in the area has a problem, such as a prowler, he can call anyone of three names on a special list. These people then call others who can be on the spot in minutes to give aid."

Rahe said the system has been a deterent to crime in the area.

Rahe said that police officials met with them to organize the system. "We have their full support and approval. When someone calls us we also notify the police. We can at least begin action until they arrive."

Rahe said the volunteer group has provided help within minutes, even at 3 a.m.

Mrs. Chris Gimre of 1913 Birkdale, is one of three nurses in the area and chairman of the Block Parents' Association.

"I think this first aid program will be great because more people will know what to do in an emergency until professional help can arrive."

She said all her block mothers, of which there were around 34, had been notified of the course.

"I haven't had a lot of response yet but I expect to after they've made plans."

Look -- But Don't Touch!

A VETERAN POLITICIAN remarked recently: "Despite all the publicity given to March winds, it's really amazing how strong April "winds" become -- especially right before Election Day." Despite his relative youth (27) and the fact this is his first bid for political office, 29th House District candidate David Georgeff has obviously learned his political lessons early as evidenced by the inaccessibility of this political sign advocating his election in Tuesday's primary. Safe from political "winds" and accessible only by boat or breast-stroke, the sign sits securely on an island off I-70 East.

Senator Jackson Has Good Promoter

By LYNN WILLIAMS
Spectator Staff Writer

"I tell people about his human qualities," was the way Helen Jackson explained her role in aiding her husband, Sen. Henry (Scoop) Jackson, in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Mrs. Jackson is in Ohio with her husband, campaigning for the May primary.

"I don't make speeches but I do explain his views and how he feels about the issues to women's groups and media representatives that I meet with.

"I tell them what a considerate husband and father he is; the kind of man he is - things that might not come across from behind a lecturn."

Mrs. Jackson met the Senator while working as a staff member for Senator Clinton Anderson of New Mexico. They were married in 1961 in her home state of New Mexico.

As to the senator's appeal to other women, Mrs. Jackson believes women voters like her husband because he "makes a lot of sense."

"He has good judgment and I think women want to elect a man who is strong and decisive and one they feel can cope with any crisis that might arise in the country.

"They also like a good family man and a man of integrity."

Mrs. Jackson said a lot of people don't realize what the Senator has done for conservation.

"He had been chairman for nine years of a committee involved in conservation issues which has passed landmark legislation.

"He has worked to save the Everglades and created Redwood National Park," Mrs. Jackson said.

She said her husband was involved in ecology before it became the "campus fad or a household word."

Jackson, she said, was the father of the Environmental Policy Act which requires that before any governmental agency can begin a project, they must first evaluate the effect to the environment.

"He also authored the Youth Conservation Corps which takes youngsters 15-18 years old off the street in the summer and finds them jobs in national parks and forests."

She said he would also like to see an Environmental Conservation Corps to operate year round and involve adults.

"My husband would also like to take all the scientists who are presently unemployed and put them in research into the control of pollution. He feels that a nation that can send eight men to the moon in less than a decade can surely solve pollution."

Mrs. Jackson said she would hope her husband would have the support of the 18-year-old voters.

"He doesn't have a campus speech as such. When he does speak to young people he talks to them as responsible members of the electorate and they listen."

Mrs. Jackson was questioned about her husband's feelings on several of the issues approved by the Mock Democratic Convention at Capital University recently. Some of things approved in their platform included amnesty for draft evaders, immediate withdrawal of all troops from Vietnam and making marijuana comparable with alcohol under the law.

"He does not support any of these things," Mrs. Jackson said.

"He is not for amnesty because how do you explain it the the next of kin of someone who was killed. How do you explain it to someone who served honorably and to someone who went to prison for his beliefs.?"

As to immediate withdrawal, she said, he was concerned with gearing the withdrawal to the release of the prisoners of war.

"He fears they would be lost to us forever if we just pulled out," she added.

She said, "He feels that the major issues in the election concern the state of the economy. The recent bombings in Vietnam are in everyone's mind but this won't be the issue it has been."

Mrs. Jackson said her husband's decision to run had not been an easy one. "He traveled and evaluated the problems in the country and his ability to solve them. But he knew that whatever he decided his family would be behind him."

Jackson placed third in the Florida primary and Mrs. Jackson said she felt this was good as he had never run in a nation-wide election before and the other candidates had.

"He beat Muskie and got more votes than Lindsey or McGovern combined," she stated.

She said she felt he did not do as well in Wisconsin due to the lack of time to campaign.

"We will continue to work hard here in Ohio and then will go to Nebraska and Oregon," she said, adding that she enjoyed traveling and seeing different parts of the country.

"I feel his chances are very good. I don't believe in a front runner, and the convention will be wide open. Scoop has as good a chance as anyone."

She said the senator feels the party has been divided between the right and left with McGovern on one side and Wallace on the other.

"My husband feels he represents the progressive middle and would be better able to beat Nixon."

As to the vice presidential position, Mrs. Jackson said, "We haven't really considered that because we have been working so hard on the number one spot."

Mrs. Jackson attended Vassar and graduated from Scripps College. She received her masters from Columbia University.

The Jacksons have two children, Anna Marie, nine, and Peter, six.

Legion Tank Taken

A World War II tank, which for about 20 years was a landmark in front of the American Legion home at E. Livingston Ave. at Zettler Rd., was hauled away last week by Ohio National Guard personnel. A Guard spokesman said it probably will be remounted for display at Camp Perry.

Bexley Post 430 officials said removal of the tank was requested to clear the way for possible erection of a commercial structure (its nature as yet undetermined) in front of the Legion home. The World War II field piece, which stands in the middle of the front yard, will be retained but perhaps in another location.

The tank was originally secured through the efforts of Past Commander Fred Tarrier, 293 N. Ardmore Rd., a former post member who worked for the ONG.

It was hauled from Marysville over a circuitous route after careful coordination between state, county and city highway officials. Since then, a generation of children in the area have played upon it.

Special Needs District Requested By Board

Madison Board of Education members Monday night voted to take the first step toward a bond issue and the building of new elementary and junior high buildings.

The members passed a resolution asking the state to declare the Madison-Local district a "special needs district". This would give the area a bonding capacity of approximately $3,300,000.

School Supt. Philip Williams explained that the district's bonding capacity is presently around $1,550,000. Williams said this was not enough to build even one new school.

The need for new buildings was listed as the top priority in the district in a study made by Ohio State University.

The school board is already planning to go to double sessions at the junior high school to eliminate the problems created by over crowding.

Double sessions were discussed by members at the Monday meeting and termed the only workable solution at present.

Under double sessions the school day would be divided into two four and a half to five hour schedules. The seventh grade would attend one and the eighth grade the other.

Williams said the junior high is over crowded this year and next year the school will see 75 or more new students enrolled.

"It is difficult for teachers and for the administration with so many students. I also feel that this will be the best solution for the students too," Williams said.

Several different possibilities under double sessions were brought up, but the board agreed to study the matter further before deciding how the exact schedules would be arranged.

Williams said the double sessions were not to be considered the ultimate answer.

"This will be at least a two year program because we can not have another building in less time than that."

Steve Drummond, assistant supt. for elementary education, said many of the elementary schools were also faced with the over crowded problem.

He said Dunloe would need 27 classrooms next year and there were only 21. He said Brice had a few empty rooms and some children could go there. Others might go to Groveport Elementary.

If the double sessions at Dunloe junior high reduce the need for some of the classrooms, some elementary classes might be held there, Williams said.

In other action the board gave Williams authority to sell a 10 acre site on Bixby Road for a school for retarded children. The authority was qualified in that the price must be satisfactory.

The land was earlier appraised at $4,000 per acre but another appraisal must be made

AVIATION AND TRANSPORTATION were the subjects under study by students in the Play and Learn pre-school, at E. The pilot, Roger Agenis, explained to the youngsters the controls in the cockpit and how the blades rotate to lift the aircraft from the ground.

IT WON'T BE DULL

Something For Everyone On Local Primary Ballot

By JACK WITTENMEIER

A whirl on the presidential preference merry-go-round, two controversial money issues, a sheriff's "shoot-out" and yet another chapter in the County Democratic power struggle should be enough to whet Franklin County voters' appetites in Tuesday's primary election.

Adding additional spice will be several hotly-contested races for a November ballot position in the U.S. House and State Senate and House.

POLITICAL watchers will also have their eyes on the effects of recent redistricting.

FOR PRESIDENT

Seeking delegate support will be Hubert Humphrey, Henry Jackson, Eugene McCarthy, George McGovern and Gov. Gilligan's announced choice, Edmund Muskie.

ALABAMA governor George Wallace will not appear on Tuesday's ballot.

Because of the number of candidates for delegate and alternate to the Democratic National Convention (pledged to the five presidential hopefuls), voting for presidential preference will be done on paper ballots—even in those places where voting machines are used.

The Democratic voter can make his job easier by marking an "X" in a large box beside the presidental candidate's name. This would be a vote for each of the delegates pledged to the same candidate.

A VOTER may mark "X's" in the small boxes beside the delegates' names and split his votes between presidential candidates.

However, he must be careful not to vote for more than the number of delegates or alternates to be elected—invalidating his ballot if he goes over the limit.

BALLOT ISSUES

Heading Tuesday's issue list will be a proposed one-mill levy for transit, approval of which would enable the Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) to purchase and operate a regional mass transportation system.

STATEWIDE, voters will consider authorization of a state lottery, net proceeds of which would be paid into the general revenue fund of the state. Prime opposition to the lottery has come from church leaders.

Also on the ballot for voter approval is a package of 14 (or is it four) Constitutional Amendments, one of which would require the governor and lieutenant governor to be elected as a team and another permitting "payment of allowances for reasonable and necessary expenses to members of the General Assembly."

SHERIFF'S RACE

A bitter scramble for the sheriff's seat, occupied by Stacy Hall Jr. since the death of his father last year, will be more clearly defined after Tuesday's primary.

CONTENDING for the Democratic ballot spot in November are Harry Berkemer, James Fenstemaker, Glenn Jordan, Carl Noble, Frank Ivan and Dennis Turley.

Challenging incumbant Hall in his November election bid are fellow Republicans Frank Bonner, Malcolm Coogan and Fritz Luzader.

DEMOCRAT COMMITTEEMEN

The continuing battle between Franklin County Committee chairman George Twyford and Nelson Lancione, leader of the insurgent Democratic Reorganization Committee (DRC) will be reflected in Tuesday's balloting for members of the Democrat County Central Committee.

THE POWER struggle spills over into several other races, including that of County Treasurer where Twyford is choice, Herb Pfeifer, contends with Charles Mentel, Dennis Thompson and Robert Collins.

Two young candidates, making their first bids for public office, add extra interest to U.S. House and Ohio Senate races.

Twenty-four-year-old Lynne Skilken is matched against veteran Democrat Mike McGee in the 15th U.S. House District while Alan Melamed, 26, will be battling Columbus city councilman Don Woodland (both Democrats) for a November bid in the 16th Ohio Senate District.

Vote For COTA

It seems to be second nature with voters to pull the "No" levy if given a choice.

This was exemplified a few years ago when an astoundingly large number of Columbus residents voted against a reduction in their gas rates.

But certain issues arise that deter the negative reaction of the responsible voter to further inroads upon his financial resources.

For example, only for the past couple of years has the public, with any consistency, turned a cold shoulder to the needs of the schools.

Tuesday, a choice must be made between a levy to support mass transit and husbandry of $9 or $10 a year.

Those who are dependent upon public transportation will not have to struggle with their conscience on the issue.

They are closest ot the situation and it doesn't take oratorical persuasion to convince them that bus service is on a downhill toboggan-with fares continuing on their solar projectory.

With bus riders in the minority, the fate of the Central Ohio Transportation Authority levy is literally in the hands of the men and women of the community who get where they're going by turning the starter switch.

The COTA drive to promote the levy, endorsed by those involved with the welfare of the Metropolitan area (ranging from the AFL-CIO to the Chamber of Commerce to the League of Women Voters) has been relatively low-key.

Its supporters have not offered the public the moon–but only the truth.

Without the levy which will, coupled with a $12 million federal grant, allow purchase of the Columbus Transit Company, Columbus faces a transportation breakdown.

For seven years the parent company, Columbus and Southern Electric has been trying to rid itself of an enterprise that has stayed in the black only by eliminating routes, refusing to service new areas and skyrocketing fares.

The extent of the cutbacks is mirrored in the fact that the drivers' union is fighting for the levy to keep their jobs.

Already more than one-third have been terminated, and, according to Don Tufts, union president, one must acquire 10 years seniority before he has a chance for assignment for anything but a split shift.

Unsuccessful in its attempt to barter the company as a going operation, CTC officials are now giving an ear to bids on its equipment.

With most of the fleet air-conditioned and well-maintained, the company has been assured of a ready market for its rolling stock.

No action has been taken upon this financially attractive alternative, pending the outcome of the levy.

Those people who are proclaiming the levy has "nothing to offer me" might consider what will happen if the streets are cleared of CTC buses.

Looking at the short-range consequences, the freeways and streets will be further congested by those who can somehow manage private transportation.

Others like the aged, the handicapped and non-driving youth, will be trapped in their neighborhoods.

Business will slump and the employment problems of industry will multiply and downtown parking will become as extinct as the whooping crane after 9 a.m.

And looking ahead, new business and new industry will bypass Central Ohio in droves. An exciting skyline and progressive leadership means little to those bringing jobs to a community. Transportation is a must.

Those with particularly far-sighted vision can further see the chaos of the Eighties which will arise without the rapid transit which must be prepared for in the Seventies.

Within another 15 years, the suburbanite, without such transit, will find a trip to Downtown Columbus a 90-minute endurance trial.

Tuesday voters are being asked to make an unpopular decision–to tax themselves again.

But is is a decision that must be voted favorably upon–sooner or later.

By voting "yes" now, the long road back now being traveled by Amtrak (which waited for the catastrophic bankruptcies and disruption of service to materialize) can be avoided.

'Aye' For Lottery

Lottery is no Johnny-Come-Lately in America.

In fact, its history is often an honorable one.

In 1762 Boston's Faneuil Hall, known as the "Cradle of Liberty" was seriously damaged by fire. Today it stands, rebuilt immediately with money raised by the sale of lottery tickets.

"Lottery" was not a dirty word with American Revolutionists and their descendants. Not even the Puritans saw the sale of the tickets that built so many churches and public buildings as a moral issue.

Strangely enough, it was not until the Gay Nineties that Congress legislated away lotteries.

Unfortunately, the law-makers were not able to legislate away the fascination of gambling–or government's insatiable appetite for money.

Voters Tuesday will have the opportunity to determine whether a state-operated lottery should be initiated.

We respect the convictions of these clergymen and members of their congregations who support their views–but not their logic.

We cannot see the opportunity to gamble legally rather than illegally as triggering a moral breakdown nor can we see children going without food because their parents patronize the state rather than the neighborhood bookie or dealer.

It can easily be conceded that buying a lottery ticket is motivated by the desire for instant wealth, and that the wish to "get something for nothing" is not the noblest of human virtues.

But let's be practical about the whole thing. People are gambling today without the sanction of the Constitution and it's high time someone other than racketeers reaped the harvest.

Government does not function on platitudes eulogizing the virtue of "God-given dignity" and disparaging the menace to morality of gains won at the expense of the loser.

It takes more than that.

Ask any taxpayer. It takes cold cash and a lot of dirty words such as income tax, sales tax, excise tax, pro capital gains tax, tobacco and beverage tax, inheritance tax, luxury tax, deed transfer tax, real estate tax, etc., etc., etc.

The proposed lottery is not going to solve the financial problems of Ohio. In New Jersey (where it has proven the most successful) the state lottery accounts for only three per cent of revenue.

And when Gov. Gilligan is recognized as unhappy with the difference between the $160 million tax increase voted by the legislature and the $200 million increase he sought, three percent of revenue is nothing to be treated lightly.

After all, the potential revenue from a state lottery could free almost one third of the dollars now spent for Aid to Dependent Children for education or environmental control.

We sincerely believe that a vote to allow operation of a lottery by the state can be a blow against organized crime and one which will allow Ohioans to give additional support to their government in a way considerably less painful than another tax.

Endangered Species?

By JANE ROBINSON

With weak, but viable Republican leanings, my heart doesn't bleed too profusely at the idea of an untimely demise of the Democratic party.

Yet, while covering a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Ed Muskie, a bit of seepage occurred.

Of the several hundred Demo faithfuls there, the vast majority were young, vivacious and, largely attractive - - leading one to believe many of them to be part, either by marriage or by bent, of the "Gilligan Gang."

Seldom at a politically-oriented meeting does one see so many well-dressed, striking, sexy looking women. From mini-mini to beautifully tailored bell-bottoms to haut coiture granny garb, it was a sight to inspire admiration - - and even lechery - - in the most jaded chauvinist.

But a sour note pervaded the atmosphere.

True, each of the gals may have had a litter back home, but I doubt it. They just looked too young, too well-groomed and spoke the "Now" language too well to be furtively playing the role of Mother Hubbard.

This is all well and good, but 10 pill-free years ago, any such gathering of youthful, nubile Demos would have included a protuberant share of those obviously enciente.

Politicians have many responsibilities–and not the least of them is to perpetuate the breed.

Spartanly-flat waistlines testify to the effectiveness of dieting and the reliability of hormone-based birth control, but what image does it give to the party but that of an "endangered species"?

Time Magazine last week gave considerable ink to the "Pregnancy Pouf" which is the newest in fashion.

I can now see a ready market-that of the young party-faithful who realizes that a look of continuity can inspire confidence–and votes.

After all, who can cast their lot with a party which, in another generation may die out with no ready-made, by-birth recruits?

If Your Car Could Vote...

Take Burden Off Property

To The Editor:

In the last Spectator edition a person had written to give support to the COTA levy, saying that it was the only means of supporting mass transit in Central Ohio.

In that same edition there was an article about the levy in which Mr. Bell (Ohio Motor Bus Assoc.) pointed out that other methods to support the transit authority should be looked into.

In the past when any political subdivision has needed money it has turned to a property tax to obtain the funds. This situation finally reached the point that, in 1970, the Ohio General Assembly pasted a 10 percent roll back on property tax because of their abuse. Now we are faced with another tax on property.

Here in Central Ohio, as in other parts of the state, our schools are supported by property taxes and so is our county government. There are now so many things supported by property tax a question of "how many times can you tax the same thing?" (in this case, property) should be asked.

It is my understanding that California pays its mass transit bill through the gasoline taxes. Here in Ohio a possible means of support could be the state lottery.

Mass transit we do need. But let's find a way to support it that takes the tax burden off the property owner and places it on someone who isn't constantly hit by taxes.

Let's find a way for the masses to pay for this "mass" transit.

Jeffrey M. Nourse

Use An Eight-Cent Stamp

To the Editor:

Did you know that an eviction notice can be delivered for as little as an eight-cent stamp?

The important point of information though is not the expense incurred but what could be avoided by mailing the eviction notice to the University mini-city hall in Tuesday's incident.

On Tuesday, the University Area Community Union organized about 600 persons to present the eviction notice to the mini-city hall.

At that time, the community union risked the welfare of those persons by encouraging everyone to be there.

On the scales of balance, we have on one side the possibility of mass resident arrests, volatile tension among the community, personal injuries, personal property damage, vicious fighting and beatings, shooting and tear gassing. In each case of violence, the residents occur the most injuries.

On the other side of the balance, we have the eight-cent stamp.

Does the risk of possible injury to those 600 persons attending the rally warrant an eight-cent stamp?

Enclosed is an eight-cent stamp. I hope the University Area Community Union uses it wisely.

Benefits Outweigh Tax Increase

To the Editor:

I am deeply concerned over the letter written by E.C. Ellis (Mar. 29 Spectator). I, too, live south of Main Street in Bexley and do not like an increase in taxes but I plan to vote for the COTA levy because I realize that our rapidly growing Metropolitan area needs a mass transit system.

I ride the Main Street bus but use the taxi to go to the dentist, doctor, shopping center and other places not accessible by bus.

If better bus service were available, I am sure the amount of money I save on taxis would be larger than the increase in taxes.

I want public transportation to shopping centers, more convenient bus schedules and reduced fares for older people and students. We know that private ownership has brought us increased fares and a reduction in service.

We cannot begin to work on controlling air pollution until we decrease the number of automobiles in use. People will not use public transportation until service is greatly expanded and improved.

I feel that the benefits we all will receive will far outweigh the increase in taxes.

The House Bigot

By JACK WITTENMEIER

It's a horrible feeling to discover–after six years of marriage–that your wife is a bigoted segregationist.

The terrible truth came to light last week following the installation of a purple martin house in the backyard.

"Look at the sparrows building their nests," I called to my five-year-old daughter.

"Sparrows!," the wife shrieked, racing to my side at the window. "We can't have sparrows," she continued in a "well-there-goes-the-neighborhood" tone.

"I want the sparrows," my daughter pleaded.

"In other words, you want us to provide accomodations for a bunch of bigoted birds," I replied.

"I want the sparrows," the five-year-old voice repeated.

"Worse yet – upper class bigots," I interrupted.

"Get the ladder and get them out," the wife said. "How can the editor of a newspaper who sets editorial policy and advocates open housing evict a family of sparrows?," I asked. "What if the word got around?"

"The ladder's in the basement," she replied cooly.

"Look at the fat one, Daddy," Jennifer said.

"Wonderful, now you want me to turn out a pregnant sparrow. How's that gonna look?", I asked.

"Martins, yes; sparrows no," she said.

"I want the pregnant sparrow, the daughter chanted.

The wife resumed her housework.

"Why doesn't mommy want the sparrows to live here?" Jenny asked.

I whispered in her ear and she walked over to her mother.

"Would you want our parrakeet to marry one?" she asked.

The dog and I are getting along famously sharing the furnace room.

YOUTH Rostrum

ON THE BASIS OF THE ISSUES, WHICH CANDIDATE BEST REPRESENTS YOUR IDEAL OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES?

THIS WEEKS RESPONDENTS:
WHITEHALL-YEARLING HIGH SCHOOL

We are presently living in a time when everyone must be aware of the events in and the potential of our country.

The only way to be fully informed of the issues and their vital importance is to nominate Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine. Sen. Muskie's Open Government Bill will tell us exactly what our government is doing, and we will no longer be kept in the dark.

Sen. Muskie is not satisfied with Nixon's six per cent unemployment. In 1971 Muskie sponsored an act which would have provided 425,000 new jobs, but President Nixon vetoed it.

Senator Muskie is also in favor of withdrawing from southeast Asia now. This immediate withdrawal will not bring back the lives lost, but will prevent deaths and bring home the prisoners of war.

Senator Muskie is the recognized ecology leader of the Senate and has written major act after major act. Our present administration is slogan-rich and action-poor. He is in favor of a means of taxation instead of letting the large corporations get off scott free. - KATIE MAXFIELD

"Govern with McGovern," is how I feel. He doesn't seem to be one to jump into the frying pan-none of the other candidates do, but McGovern seems to know when to go and when to stop. He can be conservative enough at times to keep things in line and liberal enough to see both sides and move on an issue.

McGovern doesn't seem to try to con anyone with promises that have an outlet somewhere. He says what he is going to do and doesn't back out. He isn't one who sees the Vietnam War as a dead issue. Many of the candidates feel as though Vietnam is out of the picture, however, McGovern shows concern. I believe many of the candidates don't take a stand because they don't wish to express their opinions, just in case the majority of the public may not agree. If the fellow takes office he's going to express his ideas – is he so chicken-hearted as not to be fair to the people?

McGovern also openly gives his views on "cutbacks in Pentagon spending, U. S. troops in Europe, abolition of the draft, hunger and pollution and more young people in government.

In my opinion a man who takes a stand for what he wants and isn't afraid to say has my vote for President–my vote is for McGovern. – CAREY DAILEY

On the basis of the issues, Senator Henry Jackson is the closest America will ever come to having an ideal President this election year. Jackson opposes busing for racial balance, and he has from the start. Instead, he thinks America should focus upon obtaining quality education at all levels. Jackson knows about education, and he cares–he is the only one of the candidates whose children attend public schools.

Like the other candidates, Jackson opposes the war in Vietnam. Yet unlike the others he supports an orderly and planned end to American involvement, not a chaotic retreat which would be detrimental to our nation's status. Jackson also endorses increased world relations (including China), stricter conservation laws, public service employment, price and wage controls, and an organized defense program. He opposes the legalization of marijuana and abortion. When it comes to important issues Jackson does not succumb to the jeers and screams of a loud minority, but acts sensibly representing the concerned majority–the common people–you and I.

Henry Jackson is neither liberal nor conservative. He is not a hawk or a dove. In all honesty, he is the only one of the candidates who has any "common sense." - LINDA KOHLER

It is my belief that Richard M. Nixon should be given another term in office, during which he may follow through on the programs he has started. Those who condemn him fail to allow him a reasonable amount of time to accomplish his goals; it is scarcely fair to elect a man to a problem-ridden office and then expect him to eliminate these problems in the space of four years. George McGovern and Henry Jackson may offer their own alternatives to Nixon's administration, but it is doubtful that either of them could do any better in an equal amount of time. Should a liberal (or otherwise) Democrat become elected in November, time will tell if he can raise above his own condemnation of the office he seeks. - CAROL FISH

George McGovern is the candidate who best represents my line of thinking. His past policies and proposed changes coincide with my thoughts. I admire his consistency and his courage when speaking out on issues.

In 1963 most people paid little attention to the Vietnam war or if there was discussion, it followed the idea that the war was necessary to prevent the communists from taking over the world. But in 1963 George McGovern came out against the war for the first time. He has been consistently against the war since. His proposed change is a 90 day pullout. All our public officials including the current president admit a total victory isn't possible so what is the holdup. George McGovern proposes that we leave in three months. I think this is good and is the only answer left.

Our economic system is another big issue. McGovern wants to change our federal tax system.

He works for the middle class. This is another reason I support him.

Drugs and the youth are also important. McGovern was one of the first to come out in favor of the 18 year old vote. McGovern has stated if marijuana is proven as safe as alcohol he would favor legalization. He also supports all drug addiction programs.

But McGovern isn't all for youth. He is in favor of giving the disabled much more help. He also believes in equal rights for women.

Although some people would claim that his ideas are too far to the left I think that it is unimportant to worry about that. Admittedly the U.S. is in need of change. A man that proposes change is the man I will support. George McGovern is the man. - TOM ROSE

In the midst of confusion of the Democratic candidates, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota is proving to be the best choice for the Democratic presidential nomination. Through his many years in the U.S. Senate, McGovern has remained consistent in his basic beliefs, and he sticks to his ideas whether he pleases the masses or not –ie–1963 when most politicians supported the U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, McGovern stood firmly against the war. And although his views were not popular at the time, 10 years later, in 1972, they're still the same.

McGovern is known as a "Liberal" of the senate, being one of the first to support such issues as the 18 year old vote and equal rights for women.

He sponsored programs to aid housing, transportation, guaranteed annual income, the environment. He also intends to collect from the big businesses who get out of paying their share of taxes, thus supporting his "middle class campaign."

McGovern has gathered a considerable amount of support from the youth. Remaining consistent in his ideas, the Senator keeps an awareness of present situations and problems in our society. - NANCY GUCKENHEIMER AND LAURIE SHORE

Three-Pronged Assault Sweeps City Saturday

A three-pronged offensive assault – over 20,000 strong – will sweep over the metropolitan Columbus area Saturday, leaving nothing but cleanliness in its wake.

Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources) will combine the efforts of Franklin County-area Kiwanis Clubs, over 20,000 area Boy and Girl scouts and units of the U.S. Army, Navy and Marine Reserves for a massive community clean-up program.

FIFTEEN OF the heaviest-traveled roads in Franklin County are target areas for the seven-hour [illegible].

During the period of 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., approximately 30,000 individual containers (30 gal. plastic bags) are expected to be moved by military trucking units who will pick up the little bags and haul them to designated municipal dumps.

The bags will be filled by the scouts, who will be cleaning up under the supervision of the Kiwanians.

OTHER AGENCIES who have an interest in promoting an awareness of clean and desirable environment are welcome to participate in the Saturday clean-up campaign.

The clean-up areas and-or streets located in Spectator circulation areas are as follows:

ROUTE 161 (Westerville, Northern, Linworth, Northeast, via Northern Kiwanis Club), West Broad Street (Hilltop and West Side clubs), Route 33, north of I-270 (Berwick club), East Broad Street (Downtown club), Whitehall (East Broad St., Whitehall club) and Reynoldsburg (Reynoldsburg club).

'Drop In' At COSI Auction

THREE AREA workers for Saturday's COSI "Fat Cat" Auction (8 p.m.) at the Lane Aviation Hanger invite bargain-conscious residents to 'drop in' Saturday as they pose under a parachute donated to the auction by North American Rockwell. From left are: Mrs. Peter Dunkle, 175 N. Roosevelt Ave. (Acquisition Committee co-chairman), Peter Webster, 151 N. Stanwood Rd. (auction treasurer) and Mrs. Steve Cartwright, 36 N. Cassidy Ave. (Table Decoration Committee chairman). Newest auction additions include a personal four-day tour of London and an Emerson Burkhart oil painting.

Area Phone Improvements Underway

East area residents with 837 and 836 telephone exchanges probably noticed a few changes last weekend as Ohio Bell's $3 million telephone switching office at 6301 Bixby Rd. in Canal Winchester became fully operational.

The new facility will provide the availability of several new innovations, including adding a third party to a conversation in progress and getting a signal that someone is trying to reach you while using the phone.

Also all long distance calls may now be dialed by the telephone customer.

Bexley Stages 'Hello Dolly' April 28-29

Bexley High School will present "Hello Dolly" Friday and Saturday evenings (8 p.m.) in the school auditorium.

Double-cast in the lead role for Bexley's bi-annual Spring play will be Beth Mazer (Friday) and Cynthia Johnston (Saturday).

Other cast members include Dave Levoff, Jim Ludlum, Dan Ketcham, Julie Grayson, Nancy Sue Herrel, Jeannie Julian, Dwight Holzworth, Laurel Kellogg and Laurie Ellman.

Student director is Susie Cohen while Robert Peters and C. Robert Myers are faculty directors. Michael Jenks will direct the orchestra.

Tickets ($1.25 for all seats) may be purchased at the door or from any cast member.

The Barnett Scene

By: Debbi Chambers

Barnett Recreation Center is holding its annual Open House the week of May 1st. Some of the special programs include a one on one Basketball Tournament for Boys, a Bicycle Marathon, Elementary Playday, Gymnastics Exhibition, Art and Sewing Displays and Elementary Wrestling Tournament. Visit or call the center for a complete schedule.

Warm weather and spring rains bring about the sprouting of flowers and the greening of lawns. Barnett's Wednesday crafts class have been making paper mache planters in which they will grow carrot tops. Adding a little color to the center are Gail Shaw, Jeff Zang, Leslie Redd, Jode Friedman, Lisa Shaw, April Loos, Mark Krauss, Susan Floyd, Denise Roesch, Peggy Sullivan, Cathy Roesch and Jerry Sullivan.

BARNETT'S GYMNASTIC team had participants place in the finals Tuesday April 18. In Midget Free Exercise Donna Schneider took 1st place and Diana Sullivan 3rd. In Midget Balance Beam Lisa Dillon took 4th place and in Junior Balance Team Patti Whitlatch took 3rd and Lisa Doane 4th. Model-building class is going on now for 6-12 year olds on Tuesday afternoon at 4:00. Some of the children building models are Tom Rybinski, Scott Brecher, Mark Krauss and Mark Cohen. If you want to join come over with a model next Tuesday.

The Saturday morning Air Rifle class found Rod Dorsey, Mike Harmon, Joe Malone, Kevin Malone, David Dwyer, Brad Kaplan and John Bohlman winning awards. Many others are showing rapid improvement. The Thursday afternoon tennis class has covered the forehand, Back hand and serve. Those ladies involved are Opel Grant, Rosemary Kirby, Reva Shapiro, Ann Mandt, Berneta Daley, Barbara Pyle, Sue Provenzano, Becky Lonzo, Kathleen Szymak and Neva Nolan.

Vote For COTA

It seems to be second nature with voters to pull the "No" levy if given a choice.

This was exemplified a few years ago when an astoundingly large number of Columbus residents voted against a reduction in their gas rates.

But certain issues arise that deter the negative reaction of the responsible voter to further inroads upon his financial resources.

For example, only for the past couple of years has the public, with any consistency, turned a cold shoulder to the needs of the schools.

Tuesday, a choice must be made between a levy to support mass transit and husbandry of $9 or $10 a year.

Those who are dependent upon public transportation will not have to struggle with their conscience on the issue.

They are closest ot the situation and it doesn't take oratorical persuasion to convince them that bus service is on a downhill toboggan-with fares continuing on their solar projectory.

With bus riders in the minority, the fate of the Central Ohio Transportation Authority levy is literally in the hands of the men and women of the community who get where they're going by turning the starter switch.

The COTA drive to promote the levy, endorsed by those involved with the welfare of the Metropolitan area (ranging from the AFL-CIO to the Chamber of Commerce to the League of Women Voters) has been relatively low-key.

Its supporters have not offered the public the moon--but only the truth.

Without the levy which will, coupled with a $12 million federal grant, allow purchase of the Columbus Transit Company, Columbus faces a transportation breakdown.

For seven years the parent company, Columbus and Southern Electric has been trying to rid itself of an enterprise that has stayed in the black only by eliminating routes, refusing to service new areas and skyrocketing fares.

The extent of the cutbacks is mirrored in the fact that the drivers' union is fighting for the levy to keep their jobs.

Already more than one-third have been terminated, and, according to Don Tufts, union president, one must acquire 10 years seniority before he has a chance for assignment for anything but a split shift.

Unsuccessful in its attempt to barter the company as a going operation, CTC officials are now giving an ear to bids on its equipment.

With most of the fleet air-conditioned and well-maintained, the company has been assured of a ready market for its rolling stock.

No action has been taken upon this financially attractive alternative, pending the outcome of the levy.

Those people who are proclaiming the levy has "nothing to offer me" might consider what will happen if the streets are cleared of CTC buses.

Looking at the short-range consequences, the freeways and streets will be further congested by those who can somehow manage private transportation.

Others like the aged, the handicapped and non-driving youth, will be trapped in their neighborhoods.

Business will slump and the employment problems of industry will multiply and downtown parking will become as extinct as the whooping crane after 9 a.m.

And looking ahead, new business and new industry will bypass Central Ohio in droves. An exciting skyline and progressive leadership means little to those bringing jobs to a community. Transportation is a must.

Those with particularly far-sighted vision can further see the chaos of the Eighties which will arise without the rapid transit which must be prepared for in the Seventies.

Within another 15 years, the suburbanite, without such transit, will find a trip to Downtown Columbus a 90-minute endurance trial.

Tuesday voters are being asked to make an unpopular decision--to tax themselves again.

But is is a decision that must be voted favorably upon--sooner or later.

By voting "yes" now, the long road back now being traveled by Amtrak (which waited for the catastrophic bankruptcies and disruption of service to materialize) can be avoided.

'Aye' For Lottery

Lottery is no Johnny-Come-Lately in America.

In fact, its history is often an honorable one.

In 1762 Boston's Faneuil Hall, known as the "Cradle of Liberty" was seriously damaged by fire. Today it stands, rebuilt immediately with money raised by the sale of lottery tickets.

"Lottery" was not a dirty word with American Revolutionists and their descendants. Not even the Puritans saw the sale of the tickets that built so many churches and public buildings as a moral issue.

Strangely enough, it was not until the Gay Nineties that Congress legislated away lotteries.

Unfortunately, the law-makers were not able to legislate away the fascination of gambling--or government's insatiable appetite for money.

Voters Tuesday will have the opportunity to determine whether a state-operated lottery should be initiated.

We respect the convictions of these clergymen and members of their congregations who support their views--but not their logic.

We cannot see the opportunity to gamble legally rather than illegally as triggering a moral breakdown nor can we see children going without food because their parents patronize the state rather than the neighborhood bookie or dealer.

It can easily be conceded that buying a lottery ticket is motivated by the desire for instant wealth, and that the wish to "get something for nothing" is not the noblest of human virtues.

But let's be practical about the whole thing. People are gambling today without the sanction of the Constitution and it's high time someone other than racketeers reaped the harvest.

Government does not function on platitudes eulogizing the virtue of "God-given dignity" and disparaging the menace to morality of gains won at the expense of the loser.

It takes more than that.

Ask any taxpayer. It takes cold cash and a lot of dirty words such as income tax, sales tax, excise tax, pro capital gains tax, tobacco and beverage tax, inheritance tax, luxury tax, deed transfer tax, real estate tax, etc., etc., etc.

The proposed lottery is not going to solve the financial problems of Ohio. In New Jersey (where it has proven the most successful) the state lottery accounts for only three per cent of revenue.

And when Gov. Gilligan is recognized as unhappy with the difference between the $160 million tax increase voted by the legislature and the $200 million increase he sought, three percent of revenue is nothing to be treated lightly.

After all, the potential revenue from a state lottery could free almost one third of the dollars now spent for Aid to Dependent Children for education or environmental control.

We sincerely believe that a vote to allow operation of a lottery by the state can be a blow against organized crime and one which will allow Ohioans to give additional support to their government in a way considerably less painful than another tax.

Endangered Species?

By JANE ROBINSON

With weak, but viable Republican leanings, my heart doesn't bleed too profusely at the idea of an untimely demise of the Democratic party.

Yet, while covering a luncheon in honor of Mrs. Ed Muskie, a bit of seepage occurred.

Of the several hundred Demo faithfuls there, the vast majority were young, vivacious and, largely attractive - - leading one to believe many of them to be part, either by marriage or by bent, of the "Filligan Gang."

Seldom at a politically-oriented meeting does one see so many well-dressed, striking, sexy looking women. From mini-mini to beautifully tailored bell-bottoms to haut coiture granny garb, it was a sight to inspire admiration - - and even lechery - - in the most jaded chauvinist.

But a sour note pervaded the atmosphere. Not one--I repeat, not one--maternity dress caught my snooping eye.

True, each of the gals may have had a litter back home, but I doubt it. They just looked too young, too well-groomed and spoke the "Now" language too well to be furtively playing the role of Mother Hubbard.

This is all well and good, but 10 pill-free years ago, any such gathering of youthful, nubile Demos would have included a protuberant share of those obviously enciente.

Politicians have many responsibilities--and not the least of them is to perpetuate the breed.

Spartanly-flat waistlines testify to the effectiveness of dieting and the reliability of hormone-based birth control, but what image does it give to the party but that of an "endangered species"?

Time Magazine last week gave considerable ink to the "Pregnancy Pouf" which is the newest in fashion.

I can now see a ready market-that of the young party-faithful who realizes that a look of continuity can inspire confidence--and votes.

After all, who can cast their lot with a party which, in another generation may die out with no ready-made, by-birth recruits?

Take Burden Off Property

To The Editor:

In the last Spectator edition a person had written to give support to the COTA levy, saying that it was the only means of supporting mass transit in Central Ohio.

In that same edition there was an article about the levy in which Mr. Bell (Ohio Motor Bus Assoc.) pointed out that other methods to support the transit authority should be looked into.

In the past when any political subdivision has needed money it has turned to a property tax to obtain the funds. This situation finally reached the point that, in 1970, the Ohio General Assembly pasted a 10 percent roll back on property tax because of their abuse. Now we are faced with another tax on property.

Here in Central Ohio, as in other parts of the state, our schools are supported by property taxes and so is our county government. There are now so many things supported by property tax a question of "how many times can you tax the same thing?" (in this case, property) should be asked.

It is my understanding that California pays its mass transit bill through the gasoline taxes. Here in Ohio a possible means of support could be the state lottery.

Mass transit we do need. But let's find a way to support it that takes the tax burden off the property owner and places it on someone who isn't constantly hit by taxes.

Let's find a way for the masses to pay for this "mass" transit.

Use An Eight-Cent Stamp

To the Editor:

Did you know that an eviction notice can be delivered for as little as an eight-cent stamp?

The important point of information though is not the expense incurred but what could be avoided by mailing the eviction notice to the University mini-city hall in Tuesday's incident.

On Tuesday, the University Area Community Union organized about 600 persons to present the eviction notice to the mini-city hall.

At that time, the community union risked the welfare of those persons by encouraging everyone to be there.

On the scales of balance, we have on one side the possibility of mass resident arrests, volatile tension among the community, personal injuries, personal property damage, vicious fighting and beatings, shooting and tear gassing. In each case of violence, the residents occur the most injuries.

On the other side of the balance, we have the eight-cent stamp.

Does the risk of possible injury to those 600 persons attending the rally warrant an eight-cent stamp?

Enclosed is an eight-cent stamp. I hope the University Area Community Union uses it wisely.

Benefits Outweigh Tax Increase

To the Editor:

I am deeply concerned over the letter written by E.C. Ellis (Mar. 29 Spectator). I, too, live south of Main Street in Bexley and do not like an increase in taxes but I plan to vote for the COTA levy because I realize that our rapidly growing Metropolitan area needs a mass transit system.

I ride the Main Street bus but use the taxi to go to the dentist, doctor, shopping center and other places not accessible by bus.

If better bus service were available, I am sure the amount of money I save on taxis would be larger than the increase in taxes.

I want public transportation to shopping centers, more convenient bus schedules and reduced fares for older people and students. We know that private ownership has brought us increased fares and a reduction in service.

We cannot begin to work on controlling air pollution until we decrease the number of automobiles in use. People will not use public transportation until service is greatly expanded and improved.

I feel that the benefits we all will receive will far outweigh the increase in taxes.

The House Bigot

By JACK WITTENMEIER

It's a horrible feeling to discover--after six years of marriage--that your wife is a bigoted segregationist.

The terrible truth came to light last week following the installation of a purple martin house in the backyard.

"Look at the sparrows building their nests," I called to my five-year-old daughter.

"Sparrows!," the wife shrieked, racing to my side at the window. "We can't have sparrows," she continued in a "well-there-goes-the-neighborhood" tone.

"I want the sparrows," my daughter pleaded.

"In other words, you want us to provide accomodations for a bunch of bigoted birds," I replied.

"I want the sparrows," the five-year-old voice repeated.

"Look, when the martins return from their winter in South America--," the wife began.

"Worse yet -- upper class bigots," I interrupted.

"Get the ladder and get them out," the wife said. "How can the editor of a newspaper who sets editorial policy and advocates open housing evict a family of sparrows?," I asked. "What if the word got around?"

"The ladder's in the basement," she replied cooly.

"Look at the fat one, Daddy," Jennifer said.

"Wonderful, now you want me to turn out a pregnant sparrow. How's that gonna look?", I asked.

"Martins, yes; sparrows no," she said.

"I want the pregnant sparrow, the daughter chanted.

The wife resumed her housework.

"Why doesn't mommy want the sparrows to live here?" Jenny asked.

I whispered in her ear and she walked over to her mother.

"Would you want our parrakeet to marry one?" she asked.

The dog and I are getting along famously sharing the furnace room.

YOUTH Rostrum

ON THE BASIS OF THE ISSUES, WHICH CANDIDATE BEST REPRESENTS YOUR IDEAL OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES?

THIS WEEKS RESPONDENTS:
WHITEHALL-YEARLING HIGH SCHOOL

We are presently living in a time when everyone must be aware of the events in and the potential of our country.

The only way to be fully informed of the issues and their vital importance is to nominate Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine. Sen. Muskie's Open Government Bill will tell us exactly what our government is doing, and we will no longer be kept in the dark.

Sen. Muskie is not satisfied with Nixon's six per cent unemployment. In 1971 Muskie sponsored an act which would have provided 425,000 new jobs, but President Nixon vetoed it.

Senator Muskie is also in favor of withdrawing from southeast Asia now. This immediate withdrawal will not bring back the lives lost, but will prevent deaths and bring home the prisoners of war.

Senator Muskie is the recognized ecology leader of the Senate and has written major act after major act. Our present administration is slogan-rich and action-poor. He is in favor of a means of taxation instead of letting the large corporations get off scott free. - KATIE MAXFIELD

"Govern with McGovern," is how I feel. He doesn't seem to be one to jump into the frying pan-none of the other candidates do, but McGovern seems to know when to go and when to stop. He can be conservative enough at times to keep things in line and liberal enough to see both sides and move on an issue.

McGovern doesn't seem to try to con anyone with promises that have an outlet somewhere. He says what he is going to do and doesn't back out. He isn't one who sees the Vietnam War as a dead issue. Many of the candidates feel as though Vietnam is out of the picture, however, McGovern shows concern. I believe many of the candidates don't take a stand because they don't wish to express their opinions, just in case the majority of the public may not agree. If the fellow takes office he's going to express his ideas -- is he so chicken-hearted as not to be fair to the people?

McGovern also openly gives his views on "cutbacks in Pentagon spending, U. S. troops in Europe, abolition of the draft, hunger and pollution and more young people in government.

In my opinion a man who takes a stand for what he wants and isn't afraid to say has my vote for President--my vote is for McGovern. -- CAREY DAILEY

On the basis of the issues, Senator Henry Jackson is the closest America will ever come to having an ideal President this election year. Jackson opposes busing for racial balance, and he has from the start. Instead, he thinks America should focus upon obtaining quality education at all levels. Jackson knows about education, and he cares--he is the only one of the candidates whose children attend public schools.

Like the other candidates, Jackson opposes the war in Vietnam. Yet unlike the others he supports an orderly and planned end to American involvement, not a chaotic retreat which would be detrimental to our nation's status. Jackson also endorses increased world relations (including China), stricter conservation laws, public service employment, price and wage controls, and an organized defense program. He opposes the legalization of marijuana and abortion. When it comes to important issues Jackson does not succumb to the jeers and screams of a loud minority, but acts sensibly representing the concerned majority--the common people--you and I.

Henry Jackson is neither liberal nor conservative. He is not a hawk or a dove. In all honesty, he is the only one of the candidates who has any "common sense." - LINDA KOHLER

It is my belief that Richard M. Nixon should be given another term in office, during which he may follow through on the programs he has started. Those who condemn him fail to allow him a reasonable amount of time to accomplish his goals; it is scarcely fair to elect a man to a problem-ridden office and then expect him to eliminate these problems in the space of four years. George McGovern and Henry Jackson may offer their own alternatives to Nixon's administration, but it is doubtful that either of them could do any better in an equal amount of time. Should a liberal (or otherwise) Democrat become elected in November, time will tell if he can raise above his own condemnation of the office he seeks. - CAROL FISH

George McGovern is the candidate who best represents my line of thinking. His past policies and proposed changes coincide with my thoughts. I admire his consistency and his courage when speaking out on issues.

In 1963 most people paid little attention to the Vietnam war or if there was discussion, it followed the idea that the war was necessary to prevent the communists from taking over the world. But in 1963 George McGovern came out against the war for the first time. He has been consistently against the war since. His proposed change is a 90 day pullout. All our public officials including the current president admit a total victory isn't possible so what is the holdup. George McGovern proposes that we leave in three months. I think this is good and is the only answer left.

Our economic system is another big issue. McGovern wants to change our federal tax system.

He works for the middle class. This is another reason I support him.

Drugs and the youth are also important. McGovern was one of the first to come out in favor of the 18 year old vote. McGovern has stated if marijuana is proven as safe as alcohol he would favor legalization. He also supports all drug addiction programs.

But McGovern isn't all for youth. He is in favor of giving the disabled much more help. He also believes in equal rights for women.

Although some people would claim that his ideas are too far to the left I think that it is unimportant to worry about that. Admittedly the U.S. is in need of change. A man that proposes change is the man I will support. George McGovern is the man. - TOM ROSE

In the midst of confusion of the Democratic candidates, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota is proving to be the best choice for the Democratic presidential nomination. Through his many years in the U.S. Senate, McGovern has remained consistent in his basic beliefs, and he sticks to his ideas whether he pleases the masses or not --ie--1963 when most politicians supported the U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war, McGovern stood firmly against the war. And although his views were not popular at the time, 10 years later, in 1972, they're still the same.

McGovern is known as a "Liberal" of the senate, being one of the first to support such issues as the 18 year old vote and equal rights for women.

He sponsored programs to aid housing, transportation, guaranteed annual income, the environment. He also intends to collect from the big businesses who get out of paying their share of taxes, thus supporting his "middle class campaign."

McGovern has gathered a considerable amount of support from the youth. Remaining consistent in his ideas, the Senator keeps an awareness of present situations and problems in our society. - NANCY GUCKENHEIMER AND LAURIE SHORE

A three-pronged offensive assault – over 20,000 strong – will sweep over the metropolitan Columbus area Saturday, leaving nothing but cleanliness in its wake.

Project SOAR (Save Our American Resources) will combine the efforts of Franklin County-area Kiwanis Clubs, over 20,000 area Boy and Girl scouts and units of the U.S. Army, Navy and Marine Reserves for a massive community clean-up program.

FIFTEEN OF the heaviest-traveled roads in Franklin County are target areas for the seven-hour assault.

During the period of 10 a.m. until 5 p.m., approximately 30,000 individual containers (30 gal. plastic bags) are expected to be moved by military trucking units who will pick up the little bags and haul them to designated municipal dumps.

The bags will be filled by the scouts, who will be cleaning up under the supervision of the Kiwanians.

OTHER AGENCIES who have an interest in promoting an awareness of clean and desirable environment are welcome to participate in the Saturday clean-up campaign.

The clean-up areas and-or streets located in Spectator circulation areas are as follows:

ROUTE 161 (Westerville, Northern, Linworth, Northeast, via Northern Kiwanis Club), West Broad Street (Hilltop and West Side clubs), Route 33, north of I-270 (Berwick club), East Broad Street (Downtown club), Whitehall (East Broad St., Whitehall club) and Reynoldsburg (Reynoldsburg club).

Area Phone Improvements Underway

East area residents with 837 and 836 telephone exchanges probably noticed a few changes last weekend as Ohio Bell's $3 million telephone switching office at 6301 Bixby Rd. in Canal Winchester became fully operational.

The new facility will provide the availability of several new innovations, including adding a third party to a conversation in progress and getting a signal that someone is trying to reach you while using the phone.

Also all long distance calls may now be dialed by the telephone customer.

Make-Ups Cram Diamond Card

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Already well bogged down by rain delays and tie games, the various Central Ohio baseball league schedules really ground to a halt last Friday when everything was cancelled by torrential showers.

At Spectator press time, Eastmoor still held a comfortable game-and-a-half lead in the City League South, with a key neighborhood duel against hopeful Walnut Ridge still to be played Tuesday.

BEXLEY STOOD 2-0-1 in the Mid Eight, a half game back of Grove City pending the outcome of Tuesday's date at Mifflin and the resolution of a 7-7 tie with Groveport on Wednesday.

The Cruisers were 1-1-1, with the same tie-breaker sandwiched between two regularly scheduled loop battles this week; Hartley fell to 2-1 after a Monday loss to Watterson, but still held a half game edge in the CCL.

Whitehall's Barons were still looking for relief from the "Blubbling Blues" after five OCC setbacks, and St. Charles was looking ahead to a heavy schedule as the first "new" Cardinal varsity diamond program got rolling.

HARTLEY'S HAWKS rode Mike Jenkin's three-hit pitching to a tight 2-0 win over DeSales last Tuesday, leaving themselves the only Catholic club in town without a loop loss.

Jack Ryan's club had rebounded from some early problems to smash Ready 10-4 in their CCL opener, and the win over the Stallions gave 'em plenty of momentum.

Then came Monday's disappointment against the Eagles from up north.

JENKINS TWIRLED a nifty three- hitter and the Hawks got seven safeties off Watterson ace Dave Cecutti, but some sloppy baserunning and a couple of crucial infield miscues sent 'em home on the short end of a 6-3 count.

"We were hot, and that rainout Friday (when Watterson tilt was originally slated) didn't help a bit," said the Hartley boss. "Jenkins struck out 10 of their kids, pitched a whale of a game, but a combination of bad breaks and bad baseball cost us."

A pair of Hawk basepath boners, and two perfectly executed hit-and-run liners that turned into double plays kept the score tied at 3-3 after regulation time, and Watterson put together a three-run ninth inning rally to win.

JACK FIGURED it was an avoidable setback, but looked ahead to Tuesday's first-round finale against Wehrle, and a chance to head into the second CCL circuit with no worse than a tie for the lead.

The Hawk mentor cited timely hitting by Tom Van Eman, Mike Roesch and Gary McClelland as a big factor in the recent upswing, and was high on Jenkins' potential to keep setting down opposition batsmen.

"This club always had a lot of potential," he noted--"if we start using our heads a little more, we can go a long way."

AT GROVEPORT, Bob Miller's Cruiser nine got a new lease on life last Tuesday when freshman pitcher Steve Groves gave Marysville a meagre two hits en route to a 3-0 shutout victory.

It was G-P's first win of the water-logged campaign, but evened the Mid Eight slate at 1-1 and kept 'em in contention with a big week on tap.

They travelled to London Tuesday, and host Bexley this afternoon in a rematch forced by a 7-7 tie ten days ago. Then it's pitching-rich Hilliard blowing in Friday to complete an obviously crucial four-day span.

"IT'S STILL awful early, in terms of games we've gotten to play," observed Miller--"but I think Groves has given us a real boost. The hitters are beginning to come around, and Mickey Cassady looked good on the mound against Bexley till he got tired--the pieces are starting to fall into place."

Kevin Castle was the hitting star against Marysville, cracking a double and triple in his two at-bats to raise his four-game average over the .500 mark.

"Bruce Bogart, Mike Castle and Dana Klein are all staring to swing the bat now," said Bob; "and the other kids have the talent to give us real balance down the batting order."

GROVE CITY still looked like the Mid Eight team to beat in Miller's opinion (Hounds were 3-0 starting the week), but he wasn't prepared to rule out the possibility of a few lapses by the frontrunners.

Key to Cruiser hopes for contention is a sweep of this week's league battles. That's a tall order, but it's gonna take a tall hombre to deal with G-C.

ST. CHARLES

After a six-year absence, St. Charles' Cardinals have completed their return to the Central Ohio prep major-sports scene by resuming varsity level baseball competition this spring.

Coach Don Heane, a Card diamond regular under Jack Ryan in the late fifties, feels that his young '72 club isn't too far away from the traditionally tough St. Charles nines of the past.

"WE PLAYED a half reserve-half varsity schedule last year and finished 11-14," said Don. "We gained a lot of experience and confidence playing summer league ball, and wound up with a 12-3 record."

With everyone back from that club, it's natural for Card hopes to be higher than one might ordinarily expect from a first-year outfit.

DON RATES McVey "one of the best receivers in the area, a .300 hitter last year and a solid performer." He's also counting on Thoman to anchor an extremely young pitching staff.

"Our major problem is inexperience on the mound," he elaborated; "Thoman will

'Cats, Lions Cop Cinder Relays

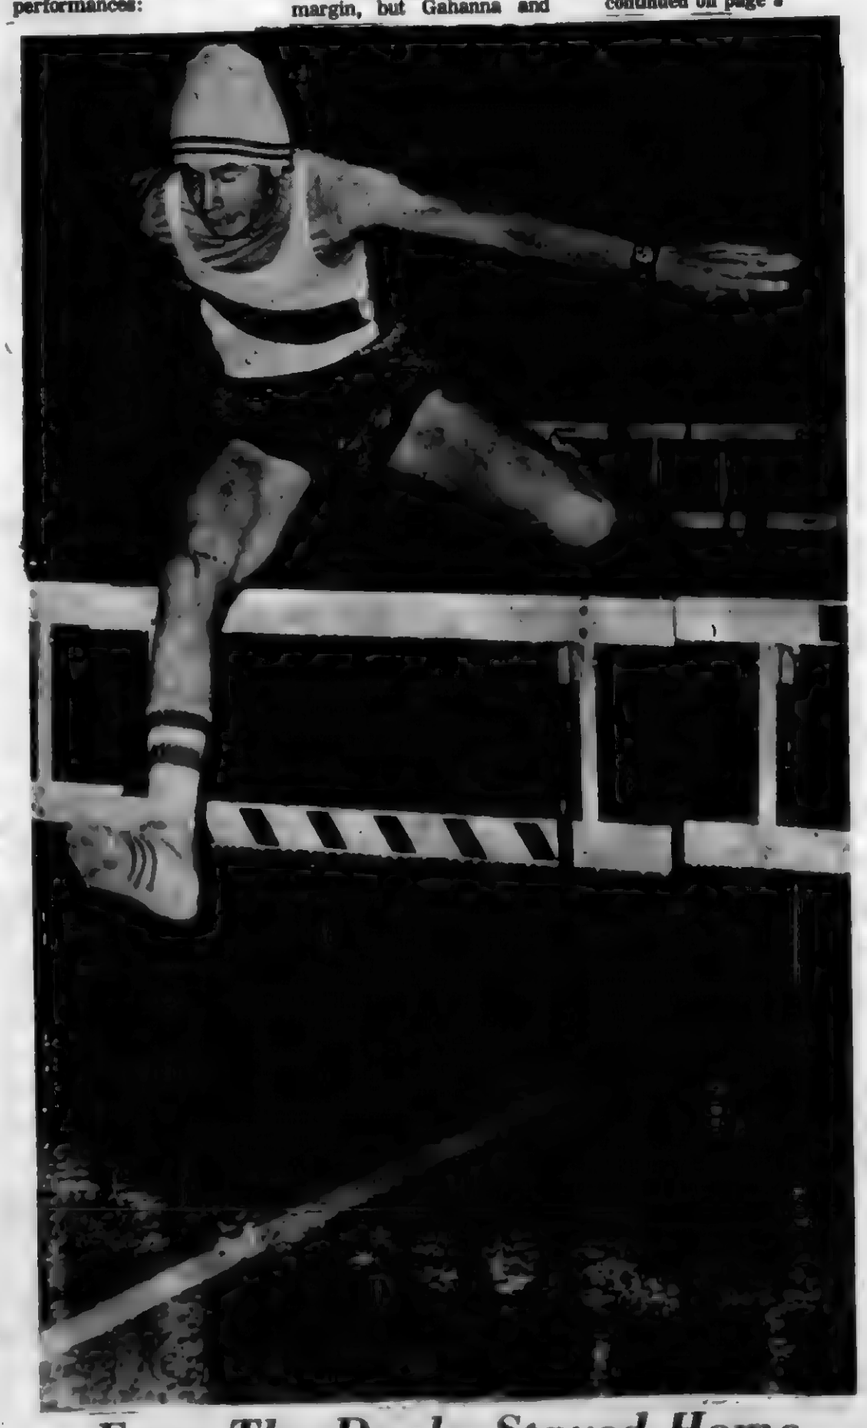
The weather continued to be a major factor in area cinder performances last week, as gruesome conditions crippled the record-breaking possibilities at both the Whitehall and Riverside Relays while Gahanna and Upper Arlington grabbed the respective team titles.

Things were a bit more favorable Saturday, and a number of standards fell at both the Ohio and Bearcat specials. Worthington made its annual strong showing at the OSU spectacular, and Newark's balanced Wildcats waltzed off with an easy triumph in the rain-delayed Brookhaven annual.

Here's a look at winning performances:

WHITEHALL INVITATIONAL

Despite Friday's torrential downpour, Gahanna slogged to a steady defense of its '71 team crown--out-pointing strong Eastmoor 90-73 in what became a two-team battle.



Wet and windy conditions made record-smashing a near impossibility, but Grove City's distance medley group of Steve Edwards, John Elgin, Kevin Stumpf and Robin Smith somehow managed a sterling 8:00.8 to lower the meet standard by five full seconds.

LINDEN EDGED Walnut Ridge for third place in the final standings by a 48-45 margin, but Gahanna and Eastmoor dominated Friday's final action by taking nine of 13 firsts.

Here are the winning times and distances:

..HIGH JUMP--11'6", Gahanna (Ratcliff and Althoff).
..LONG JUMP--41'5½", Eastmoor (W. Cannon and Barker).
..POLE VAULT--Whitehall (Baker and Stover).
..SHOT--102'10", Eastmoor (Meindl and Schleppi).
..SHUTTLES HURDLES--:59.7, Gahanna (McKillip, Carr, Fleming, Simmons).
..SPRINT MEDLEY--1:40.2, Linden (Turner, Bridgeworth, Henderson, Duckett).
..FOUR MILE RELAY--19:36.1, Walnut Ridge (Mettie, Pellington, Potts, Hopper).
..DISTANCE MEDLEY--8:00.8, Grove City (Edwards, Elgin, Stumpf, Smith).

Even The Ducks Stayed Home

MAYBE IT'S better that Westland hurdler Jeff Smitley has his eye closed and can't see where he's about to land at Friday's Whitehall Relays. At least Smitley, stocking cap et al, came a bit better dressed to fight the elements (driving rain, bone-chilling wind) than the rest of his fellow cindermen. Jeff won this heat in the shuttle hurdles but – after they totaled up the rain-splattered point sheets Friday – Gahanna stood atop the water-logged contestants. Area Tracksters Visit Bellaire, Hilltop Relays

By DENNY WHALEN

BELLAIRE RELAYS

Thinclad squads from Worthington, Gahanna, Walnut Ridge, Eastmoor, Marion-Franklin and Linden will be among Central Ohio standard bearers Saturday when a wide-open field of at least 60 schools squares off for the 1972 Bellaire spectacular.

Standout prep tracksters from Ohio, Michigan, West Virginia and Maryland are expected to be on hand to duel for the team title currently held by Detroit Northern.

EIGHT running events and five field chores will be settled on an individual basis, with the 880, mile, two mile, shuttle hurdles and medley relays rounding out an all-day slate of cinder activity.

The level of competition should be sky-high. One indication of the kind of performances to be expected is a list of meet records that are near and occasionally better than the State Meet standards.

Field events and running prelims will get underway at 10 a.m.; first running final will be the two-mile run at 12:15.

WORTHINGTON'S Dan O'Rourke is capable of challenging the meet high hurdles mark (:14.4) , and Marion-Franklin weight standout Wayne Harris is a definite threat to both the shot and discus standards if a pulled leg muscle doesn't cramp his style.

Gahanna's Guy Jensen has been close to the 23'8½" long jump record, and rates as another possible area winner

100 DASH--:09.7, Ward (Columbiana '64).
220 DASH--:21.2, Dill (Detroit Northern '71).

LOW HURDLES--:19.2, Warfield (Warren Harding '60).
TOW MILE RUN--9:30.9, Gulledge (Medina '70).

HILLTOP RELAYS

Bill Huckaba and his Cowboy thinclads open the second quarter-century of Hilltop Relays competition next Tuesday, hosting five of their CL South rivals in the 26th Bronc special.

While Huckabe's hustlers have topped defending City champ Marion-Franklin in a triangular and at the Red Devil Relays two weeks ago, Bill felt things would be pretty tight between the two Tuesday owing to the different Hilltop format.

UNLIKE THE M-F special, all field events at the Hilltop Relays are decided on an individual basis. That means Devil superstar Wayne Harris is a shoo-in the take firsts in both the shot and discus--and add substantially to his club's point total.

Walnut Ridge, Eastmoor, South and Mohawk round out the six-team field.

As usual, the meet will be an evening affair with field events beginning at 6 p.m.

TWO JUNIOR HIGH events also will be contested, with Eastmoor, Wedgewood and Hilltonia battling in the 880 relay at 7:30 and the 440 relay at 8:30.

Bill counted Harris a solid threat to shatter the meet marks in both weight events; and also listed the Bronc shuttle hurdles and 880 relay quarters as record possibilities pending weather conditions.

Here are the existing meet standards up to date:

..100 DASH--:09.9, Smith (Central '69).
..220 DASH--:22.4, Biggers (West '68), Lundy (East '63), Covington (South '53) and Smith (Central '50).
..440 DASH--:50.0, Smith (South '68).
..880 RUN--1:58.3, Mattle (Walnut Ridge '65).
..HIGH HURDLES--:14.9, Rodibaugh (E-M '66) and Slate (West '56).
..SHUTTLE HURDLES--:58.1, (West '70).
..440 RELAY--:43.9, (West '68).
..880 RELAY--1:30.7, (Linden '70).
..MILE RELAY--3:25.6, (West '68).
..TWO MILE RELAY--8:13.9, (Walnut Ridge '65).
..SHOT--48'2½", Caldwell (South '69).
..DISCUS--160'11", Wiggins (Marion-Franklin '71).
..POLE VAULT--14'1", Brazleton (Linden '70).
..LONG JUMP--23'4", Hairston (Central '51).
..HIGH JUMP--6'4", Furry (West '56).
..TWO MILE RUN--10:16.6, Potts (Walnut Ridge '712).

Cinder . . .

..880 RELAY--1:34.8, Eastmoor (R. Griffin, Cousar, A. Griffin, Williams).
..DISCUS--164'3", Gahanna (Tarr and Odom).
..TWO MILE RELAY--8:41.0, Gahanna (Peterson, Duff, Kauble, Workman).
..MILE RELAY--3:37.9, Eastmoor (Hicks, P. Cannon, W. Cannon, Williams).

BEARCAT RELAYS

The weekend's most spectacular individual performances came at the Bearcat special--postponed 24 hours from it's Friday schedule owing to monsoon conditions.

Headliner of the day was Hartley's Art Best.

THE 200 POUND blockbuster (who signed a Notre Dame letter of intent only hours before the meet) proceeded to make the Irish scouts look brilliant with a record-tying :09.9 victory in the hundred and a new meet mark of :22.3 in the 220.

North High ace Tom Buyers scurried to a 1:50.3 half mile, edging the old meet mark by a tenth.

Newark captured the team title by a whopping 142-90 margin over runnerup DeSales. Versatile Mark Woltjen pace the Wildcat effort with victories in the high jump and high hurdles, second in the triple jump and a leg on the winning shuttle hurdles combine.

help a lot, and we're hoping two juniors, Jerry Land and Bob Dorinski will come along. We've got a freshman, Fred Messmer, who's already pitched a one-hitter and may be the top prospect; and a sophomore, Rhett Plank who can do some pitching when he isn't playing third base."

Despite their extreme youth, Henne feels that his infield combination should provide solid defensive backing for the mound corps.

WITH MCDONALD and Plank solid at the corners, Don thinks freshman Jim Rich MacKessey is more than capable of covering the shortstop spot. He listed a pair of sophomores, Jim Vonau and Marty Klunk as duelling for the second base assignment.

Rightfielder Tom Simmons hit .315 last year and is counted on for timely run production along with part-time moundsman Jerry Lang, who hit .333 as a sophomore and will start in left.

That leaves the centerfield spot to be contested between Bob Iannarino and Dave Heilman. Heilman is also the top Card utility infielder.

THE CARDS STOOD 2-1 as the week began, and faced a hatful of makeup games over the next ten days that should tell a lot about the strength and depth of the mound contingent.

With at least five .300 hitters in the lineup, the Cards shouldn't have much trouble scoring runs--at least on paper.

Bexley Grid Little League Sets 'Help' Meeting Thursday

A group of Bexley-area men is looking for assistance in organizing a Little League tackle football program for Bexley youngsters between the ages of nine and thirteen.

Spokesman Pat Patterson says the group hopes to field Bexley entries in both the 90 and 115 pound Tri-County Leagues this fall, but needs plenty of volunteer help from fathers, older brothers and interested community businessmen.

.THE GROUP will hold an important organizational meeting Thursday night, April 27, at 7:30 p.m. in Jeffrey Mansion.

Any adult interested in serving as a coach, sponsor, or willing to help get the program organized is urged to attend.

"We need to tell the League we're established by the middle of May," said Patterson-- T"that means we have get together with as many interested people as possible this week."

ANYONE unable to attend Thursday's meeting or seeking further information can contact Patterson at 237-8388.

Hawk Star Best Signs With Irish

Columbus area Notre Dame fans should take an even more lively interest in the grid fortunes of Ara Parseghian's Irish over the next few years--owing to the very likely presence of a hometown product in the ND backfield.

Bishop Hartley star Art Best, a 6-1½, 200 pound bolt of lightning, has signed a national letter of intent with the South Bend, Ind. school.

BEST STARRED at fullback-tailback for coach Jack Ryan's Hawks for three varsity seasons, gaining 2,800 yards and scoring 38 touchdowns over that span. That averages out to an eye-popping 6.8 yard per carry

During his junior season, Best led Franklin County in scoring and was picked by a national publication as one of the top 100 schoolboy gridders in the U.S.

A look at his track performances already this spring lend some pretty fair insights into why Best was chased by more than 40 major colleges up till last weekend--the strapping 200 pounder has done :06.3 in the 60 yard dash, :09.9 in the hundred and :22.3 in he 220.

ART PLANS to major in architecture at Notre Dame according to his parents, Reuben and Maruerite Best of 282 Milan Dr., Gahanna.

Eastland Mall Hosts Pollution Fair

Eastland Mall, in cooperation with the division of watercraft of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, will sponsor a boat pollution fair Friday through Sunday as a follow-up to this week's Earth Week activities.

The mall fair will give about 120,000 persons the opportunity to see displays concerning the water pollution caused by boats and how it can be remedied.

"If boaters want to continue enjoying clear water in the lakes and rivers they frequent, they're going to have to realize they have a responsibility to minimize their impact on water quality," said Rodney Cooper, watercraft division chief.

"Boaters should not be flushing their fuel tanks in the water. Nor should they dispose of their wastes in the water. The displays at Eastland Mall will show them practical methods to avoid pollution of the same waters they enjoy while boating."

SCOT'S INN

Two weeks ago I told you about a high powered act that played at Scot's Inn-George Kirby, but let me tell you about a show this week that will top them all. It's Gerri Granger and John Byner. Wow! What a double-barrel act.

Gerri opens the show with a high-powered, first class act. This gal can, and does, sing the guts out of any tune she tackles.

COMING ON with a couple of contemporary tunes, Gerri opens up with plenty of good material, no matter what era or what type of songs she does. This gal is a first class performer, no matter what she tackles.

Gerri sings the "H" out of a song. Her tonal quality and attack are strictly Gerri Granger, period. She comes on as smooth as velvet, and turns around and knocks them out with the up, swinging material.

Something else Gerri has going for her, is stage presence and personality. This gal is loaded with it. Gerri is a showman in every sense of the word.

YOU HAVE never heard, "Brand New Key," sung like Gerri does it. Without changing one word, she commands plenty of laughter and offers a unique rendition that includes a jazz attack. Put that in your song book and sing it.

Gerri and her voice smile all the way. It is a happy sound and sight. This gal can handle all of the tunes of today and yesterday. Be it contemporary, oldie or what have you, Gerri does them all. On the ballads, she sends chills up and down and up and down my back. This chick is something else.

NOW, IF this isn't enough for a floor show just add John Byner. What a character! He comes on as weak as gangbusters and builds from there. This guy never lets go. There is not a second that goes by in his act in which there is not waves of laughter. John is a comedian's comedian. Yet, he is really not a comedian, but more of a humorist. His jokes and comments will wing you way out.

Beside all of his modern times humor, John does a literally fantastic job of impressions. This is true not only from the voice approach, but of the entire mannerism of various celebrities that he recreates. This goes for such people as Ed Sullivan, John Wayne, Dean Martin, Elvis Presley and many, many more.

For my money, and you know how I tell it, John is one of the funniest men in the business today.

BEGINNING in July, John Byner will have his own variety show on CBS (WBNS-10). Be sure to catch it. If he produces the waves of laughter on the tube as he does in person, the show has got to be a smash.

The Scot's Inn Motel, in the meantime will serve as a good substitute. Gerri Granger and John Byner are both out of this world. This has to be must on your entertainment schedule.

LINCOLN LODGE

Opening this past Monday at Lincoln Lodge is a group that is strong in the musical department and called "The Inmates." But don't let the name fool you. They are not from a state prison. But they are from a good, solid musical background in show business. These two provide lots of music for their audience. With Chuck Louden on orgas and vocals, and sexy, talented Cher on vocals and a full set of drums, these two do provide a tremendous amount of musical entertainment.

This is a group you have to see and hear to appreciate. The opening night crowd really dug them. They played to a capacity house almost the entire evening.

WHAT THE Inmates may lack in showmanship and personality, they more than make up for in talent and musical abilities.

The whole thing boils down to one thing. The people loved them. They played plenty of songs and the type of music that you would love. I did and, I know, you will also enjoy it.

Chuck Louden on organ, and a little harmonizing from his sexy partner Cher, these two knock out plenty of good music. Cher plays a full set of drums much better than most men in the business. Add her sexy, deep voice, and you have a really good act.

Because Cher sings with lots of feeling and heart, she more or less knocks the audience right off its feet. While they are not the most high-powered act ever to hit Lincoln Lodge, these two do provide plenty of entertainment. Their music and act is great for listening, conversation or dancing. You will not go wrong with this one, that is for sure.

COLUMBUS-SPRINGFIELD DINNER THEATRE

Every little movement has a meaning all its own when Anne Gordon (Pussycat) and David Poland (Owl) swing out with gestures a la carte in the Columbus-Springfield Dinner Theatre production of "The Owl and the Pussycat" playing now through May 20.

The Owl and the Pussycat gets off to a hilarious start and the pace even exhausts a well-fed audience. Come prepared to laugh - no, make that "howl."

Miss Gordon as Doris W. and Mr. Poland as F. Sherman lit up the grand opening sky more than the lightning and thunder outside that challenged their ingenuity.

AND THAT is the key - ingenuity.

They added the little gestures and bits of sideplay to the "O and P" that make this performance something special and something you can write home about to tell your friends to get their reservations in early.

They put more life into this time-worn theme (boy and girl meet, boy and girl part, boy and girl meet, etc.) than we have ever encountered.

F. SHERMAN is a combo of book store clerk and frustrated writer who feels that if "the sun spits morning" then the day is bound to be a success.

Doris W. (Wheeler, Washington, Wilgus - take your pick) is a trick-turner who does modeling and TV commercials on the side.

Doris becomes a street-walker enroute when she is removed from her room (in the same lodging house occupied by Sherman) but never gets to street level once she is convinced that Sherman is responsible for her being pitched out. That conviction leads her to taking over Sherman's downstairs bungalow apartment as his punishment.

The story twines in and out with each other's frustrations challenging each other until common sense takes over and they admit their guilts.

THE PERFORMANCES' pluses are numerous. First, there is the sterling control of comedy that each has evidently mastered.

Next comes the mood music that production assistant Frank Girardeau uses to accentuate the timing of the six scene changes in the second act.

The third plus is the continuity kept going by a pair of professionals who didn't falter even once along the way to their smashing finale. Their crisp dialog gives the feeling that there are a stageful of others standing by to get a line in edgewise but who can't break into the act.

We checked the bruises on Dave's arm following the Friday performance. They are real - Miss Gordon didn't pull any punches in slapping the meek, mild-mannered clerk around.

That's what makes the performance so very good - reality.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Friday night was miserable - wind whistling through not-so-air-tight windows, rain drops playing at roller derby on the freeway and thousands of trucks - all heading in my direction. I finally made it to the Association of Community Theatres-Columbus open meeting at the Desert Inn to watch some groups preview up-coming events and others just "show-off". The latter were most enjoyable.

Gallery Players presented "I'm Herbert" with Jerry Loffman and John Crawford, which I previously declared a "side splitter". If anything, it was even more hilarious this time.

Little Theatre Off Broadway presented two of their funny guys, Fred Jennings and Dan Tetter, doing an original skit by theater newcomer Pat Casey.

Improvizations, instigated by the Clerestory Theatre's Ron Colby, was a fun thing. And we understand they do this every Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the First Unitarian Church, 93 W. Weisheimer Rd.

On an inferior piano with broken keys taped together, Mr. and Mrs. Bela Szilagyi gave a magnificient concert of works by Brahms and Bizet. Lesser talents would have given up. The next concert these artists give will find me in the front row.

Now to the sad part - musicals done by amateur groups. I have been in Columbus almost six years - and in that time I have only seen four musicals worth the admission price. One was at Ohio State and the other three were at Players Club. If what I saw Friday night was any indication of "things to come", I'm saying to you - come on groups, show me! If it takes spending a little extra money to get a good musical director in addition to a dramatic director, I suggest you do it-the results will be well worth the effort.

Little Theatre Off Broadway's current production is "The Pleasure of His Company" which continues April 28 and 29 at 8:30 p.m. Jo Foreman is darling as the young girl about to be married, but enchanted with her long lost rakish father.

As her Thoreau sporting grandfather, Pat Casey does an admirable job - expecially when you consider the fact he had to age forty some years in order to do the part. As for the rest of the cast and the director, I think it best they remain nameless. They tried, but they just couldn't pull off this smooth drawing room comedy.

Since I am not familiar with the previous work of this director, and some of the actors were neophytes and some merely miscast, I cannot place the blame squarely on the shoulders of any one person. I know this group is capable of doing a more polished production. If I sound like sour grapes, well, there are weeks like that.

Churchmen Pose Lottery Objection

"Lotteries consistently have caused more harm than good, and the proposed state lottery for Ohio would be no exception."

Thus begins a four-page anti-lottery position paper issued by "Churchmen Against the Lottery", a statewide coalition formed to urge defeat at the polls Tuesday of a proposed state lottery.

THE CHURCHMEN list five reasons for their position:

(1) "A lottery operated and promoted by the State of Ohio would sell gambling as a way of life and would increase the number of people who gamble."

The CAL group envisions Ohio following the lead of New York where lottery tickets are sold at 7000 locations, including supermarkets and toll booths.

"PEOPLE DO not naturally gamble, but they can be taught to want to gamble. It is not the business of the state to make gamblers of its citizens," adds CAL.

CAL also cites figures that the legalization of off-track betting in England in 1960 increased gambling four-fold.

The group also charges that a state lottery would "be only a beginning", adding that, in states where lotteries have been legalized, "pressures have mounted for the state to move into additional forms of gambling (off-track betting, casinos, ect.)"

(2) OHIO'S promotion of a lottery would likely encourage illegal gambling and attract the corrupting influence of the gambling industry."

CAL believes that "as the state actively promotes its lottery, for many the thin line between legal and illegal gambling would vanish."

The group cites a comment attributed to the New York lottery director which admitted that there is 'no hard evidence that our lottery operation has hurt the illegal numbers racket.'

(3) IN ORDER for a state lottery to be financally successful, it must rely heavily upon the participation of these least able to afford it."

(4) "A state-operated lottery would not raise large sums but it could divert from the development of equitable and adequate systems of public financing."

CAL points out that New Jersey (has most successful lottery operation) raised only three percent of its total tax revenue via lottery funds, adding that "the excessive, unfounded hopes that many Ohioans are likely to place in a lottery's ability to raise much-needed revenue may well blind them to their irresponsibility of developing...tax systems and of passing local bond issues."

(5) "A STATE lottery would hinder the realization of each individual's God-given dignity...by ignoring the fact that each of us is his brother's keeper...by encouraging excessive dependence upon chance...by encouraging covetousness."

The Churchman Against the Lottery concluded their position paper by urging "fellow Christians and all conscientious citizens" to join the opposion to a state lottery and "join us in discovering and addressing those conditions in our state that make men and women eager for the rewards a lottery offers."

The Metropolitan Area Church Board also recently expressed its disapproval of the lottery.

The Columbus metropolitan area should soon be 10,000 trees stronger, thanks to "Earth Week" efforts by the Columbus Chapter of the Ohio Contractors Association.

The local chapter distributed the tree seedlings (donated by the General Electric Credit Corporation) to first and second-graders last week with the understanding they be planted within 10 days on their own property, in places of business or on tree-barren lots.

Besides distribution to Columbus Public elementary children, the association provided seedlings for the South-Western School District (2000), Worthington district (1000) and Groveport-Madison district (150).

And, when the people in those cities awakened from their yawning, they found themselves with a dying bus system. Now, while you're still into your first yawn, and while the Columbus Transit Company's rolling stock is still in good shape, is the time to take action on mass transit.

Vote FOR the transit levy and we'll keep the buses running—running more often, to more areas, serving more people.

$12.5 million can come back to Central Ohio.

Your vote for the transit levy makes the Central Ohio Transit Authority eligible for $12.5 million in Federal transit funds.

This means we'll only spend 7% of local levy funds for purchase of the CTC. 93% will be used for service improvements.

And, Federal money gives us a big step toward ultra-modern rapid transit for the future—including the beginning purchase of rights-of-way.

A lot of people think they'll never ride a bus.

A lot of other people will be staying home if they can't.

Not everyone drives a car. Many senior citizens, for instance, depend on riding the bus to visit old friends, to visit the doctor. The transit levy will not only keep the buses running, it will make possible a 25¢ fare for Senior Citizens in off-peak times.

Many handicapped people of all ages need the buses. Students need them. Many people need bus service to hold a job. Hundreds more will be able to bus to work when the transit levy makes route extensions possible—to shopping and industrial centers, even to the outerbelt.

Those people should consider the alternatives.

The alternatives are these: a deteriorating bus system, eventually no bus service at all. In the meantime, there will be fewer routes, longer waits between buses. Certainly there will be a fare increase, already announced by the CTC for July.

And, the fewer buses, the more cars to jam streets and freeways. This means more pollution, less parking space at higher rates.

Can we afford these alternatives when a nickel a day increase in parking would be more than the transit levy will cost the average homeowner?

A lot of people will benefit from better transit.

If 51% of them vote FOR it, we can have it this year!

Vote FOR Better Transit

The city is still seeking an answer to the recent suit against it by a resident who claims he has been prevented from picking up residents' trash.

DAUGHERTY told council that certain records of refuse collection contracts had not been located and the city has another three weeks before it must answer the summons that was served last week.

Council grants garbage collection contracts every three years. The plaintiff was reportedly collecting refuse without a valid contract and was stopped from continuing.

A first reading was given an ordinance that would provide a group insurance, death, hospitalization, surgical and major medical policy for all city employes. It was then referred to the finance committee.

AN ordinance was tabled until July 10 on a rezoning application by Margaret Powell to rezone an area on Brice Road from R-3 to Community Commercial.

Board Bypasses Bucks. . .

No parking will be permitted on the football field, practice fields or lawn areas.

- A cash bond of $3,000 to cover physical damage to facilities and to decrease by 10 per cent after each contest shall be provided at the beginning of the season. (this could perhaps be taken care of by insurance of some sort)

- THE SCHOOL will provide only facilities. Personnel must be provided by Bucks.

- Concessions will be operated by and for the Bucks. School will not provide facilities for concessions.

The Board tabled the Bucks proposal pending hearing from the Bucks on the parking and other items that must be arranged.

FOUR COACHES were retained to head varsity track, basketball, wrestling and golf. They are Mike Doran, track; Roger Anderson, wrestling; Cliff Rose, basketball and Jerry Robinson, golf. Their assistants will be Dave Lawrence, track; Alan Smith, basketball and Gene Sherman, wrestling. All are in their present positions.

John Thompson will remain as athletic director. A new baseball coach will be sought since Thompson has indicated the athletic directorship post will involve much of his time. Thompson had planned to step down as diamond coach after last year.

THE BOARD has received applications for the football coaching vacancy created by the resignation of Bob James. A decision on a new coach is expected prior to the end of this school year.

In other Board action at the April 18 meeting, the Board:

- Approved the preliminary plans for the new junior high school as presented by architect Ron Keske.

- Agreed to continue participation in the employment of a consultant for learning disabilities with other school districts. The Board agreed to contribute $844 as its share of the cost.

- OK'D THE USE of school facilities for the Female Town Steppers (square dancers) and the City of Reynoldsburg Recreation Department.

- Heard that the North Central Association had approved the school system as meeting standards set up by the Association.

- HEARD THAT the State Department of Education review of the school's lunch program had met the prescribed standards.

- Heard a resolution read from the Reynoldsburg Middle School PTA requesting the new junior high school be named in honor of the late Mrs. Verrenna Palmer who taught for 34 years in the Reynoldsburg schools.

- Recommended for employment the following teachers and other personnel: Rita Luber, elementary; Joan Canter, substitute secretary; Mary Hudson, screening of kindergarten and first grade children being studied for early admission; Opal Collier, middle school; Connie Pilkington, elementary; Nora Troike, elementary and Phillip Knox, distributive education.

- ACCEPTED THE following resignations: Alan Knight, middle school; Ken Hergesell, high school industrial arts; Judy Burdette, high school art; Dorothy Holden, middle school and Alma Kumm, cook.

- Accepted the following changes: Grover Curry, salary change due to completion of Master's Degree requirements; Kenneth Black, salary increase to bring salary increase to full seven percent as for other employes; Roger Kenney, salary increase to bring salary increase to full seven percent as for other employes; William O'Morrow, change from half-time custodian to full time custodian and changes made in cook's salary of a full 20 cents per hour.

Another City Eyesore !

THE WINDS howled long and loud last March and this sign on Livingston Avenue at the site of the new shopping complex was battered in half. Some of the litter (and the sign) still remained this week even though developer R. J. Solove promised Mayor Richard J. Daugherty at council earlier this month that the sign would come down when the new one was erected. The new ones have been up for more than two weeks. Council has given much study to the sign ordinance. They also have studied the zoning laws thoroughly so that developers won't come in repeatedly for variances after they've given their word that changes won't be made. We (the pollution fighters) hope this isn't an example of what the residents can expect the city to allow to continue. Perhaps the sign ordinance needs some legal teeth. Why not start the May 1-6 "Clean Up Week" with the order, Mr. Mayor, to get rid of this eyesore - provided, of course, it is in violation of some city ordinance or ethical code. (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

New Program Starts At Middle School

The Middle School PTA also sponsors the awards for the students.

Certificates will be awarded to seventh graders, pins are to be awarded to eighthngraders and the sixth graders will be individually recognized.

The program is open to all residents.

BUSINESS' NEIGHBOR' Chuck Salt (of Salt Brothers Hardware), at left, offers his advice to Jim Britton of the new Bexley Bicycle Sports Shop at 2994 E. Broad St.

Too Ambitious? Consider Wilbur

Bexley Bicycle Sports fulfilled a big need for a bike shop in Bexley and East Columbus when it opened its doors several weeks ago.

John McJunkin and Jim Britton, owners of Bexley Bicycle Sports, were immediately busy with new customers milling around the store for a look.

"We knew right away we had done the right thing because everybody kept telling us how glad they were to see us open," says John.

John and Jim are both graduates of OSU and, although neither is a native of Columbus, they've both resided on the city's Eastside for some time now.

As longtime outdoor recreational enthusiasts, they both felt for several years that there was a genuine need for a bicycle shop to service the eastern portion of Columbus.

When the opportunity arrived, the pair set up shop at 2994 E. Broad Street in the Esquire Shopping Center. The shop features 1600 sq. ft. of showroom and repair facilities.

Jim and John carry a complete line of imported and domestic bikes, featuring children's trainers and high-rise bikes, men's and women's three and five-speeds and a variety of 10-speed models (including altra-lightweight touring bikes).

"We like to keep about 100 bikes in stock," says Jim, "but the way things are going we're already down at about 60, and back-ordered."

Jim heads up the repair shop and boasts that Bexley Bicycle has the parts in stock to repair almost any brand of bike. He plans to offer repair on all bike brands, as well as serving what the shop sells.

In addition to the complete line of bike accessories in stock now, the pair hopes to shortly add a full line of altra-lightweight camping equipment for the weekend tourist.

Both John and Jim feel the interest in bikes will continue to increase through public awareness of ecology problems and the need for physical fitness.

Already state and city programs are underway to establish safe bikeways for riders. John and Jim are currently planning to organize a bike club through the Columbus Council of American Youth Hostels.

In this way, the pair hopes to coordinate bike tours, safety programs and technical seminars.

If all that sounds a bit ambitious for a couple of fellows starting out in a bike shop, consider Wilbur and his brother Orville Wright.

A weekend for four has been donated to the auction by Kings Island and representatives of Hanna-Barbera and Kings Island will be a part of the annual musical variety show. Pictured aboard the former Coney Island carouse at a recent visit to Kings Island are, left to right, Mrs. Tony Neri, president of Childhood League; Mrs. William Hadley, general chairman of Merry-Go-Round; Thomas E. James Henley 'Man Of Year'

A Bexley resident has been named "Man of the Year" by Tau Pi Phi, national business and economics honor society.

James S. Henley, of 971 S. Remington Rd., was given the honor recently at a luncheon marking the 40th anniversary of Tau Pi Phi.

HENLEY ATTENDED Capital University, where he was a founder and a past president of Cap Men's Luncheon Club. He is a member of the Capital University Alumni Association and a current member of the university's Alumni Board.

The "Man of the Year" award is given annually to a person who has distinguished himself as an outstanding businessman and community leader.

Henley has been a member of Kiwanis International since 1957 and has served as a member of the Bexley Planning and Zoning Commission since 1965. He is a member of the Real Estate Million Dollar Club, the Five Million Dollar Club and the Ten Million Dollar Club, and was named the realtor's "Associate of the Year" in 1967.

HIS TWO SONS are both majoring in business administration. Gregg is a senior at Bowling Green State University, and Garth is a sophomore at Capital University.

Opinion Sought On Mobile Sales

"I would like to hear from the public as to how they feel about this." Patrick said he had received a few letters stating opposition but that he expected more as the warm days increased and the trucks become more numerous.

"I think there can be some type of control," Patrick said. "And if I hear that the people want it, I will be bringing it up before council."

He cited the danger of children's running into the streets without looking.

"I know someone who struck a child as the youngster ran after one of the trucks and both had to be hospitalized. She still isn't over the shock of striking a child," he said.

"If you put in a swimming pool and put a fence around it and a child crawls over the fence and drowns, you are held responsible. I think it should be the same with these trucks if they are the cause of an accident."

Patrick said he would urge citizens to let the council know their feelings.

Home Improvement On The Rise

By JAMES BRANDON
Metro Newspaper Service

Home Improvement becomes a top priority for property owners as the need for housing in the nation far exceeds the rate of new construction.

It's far more than a matter of personal pride for the Home Owner. It is more than a matter of assuring the family continuous comfort and improvement of its standard of living.

It also is a matter of maintaining and enhancing the value of the home that is owned. And surely, if it's an additional house or two owned for rental purposes, improvements in these existing structures can help increase the rental return and serve a community need.

Home Improvements this year can very much become a contribution to the health and welfare of the family, in the universal fight against pollution and on behalf of preservation of our natural resources.

Keeping Things Clean

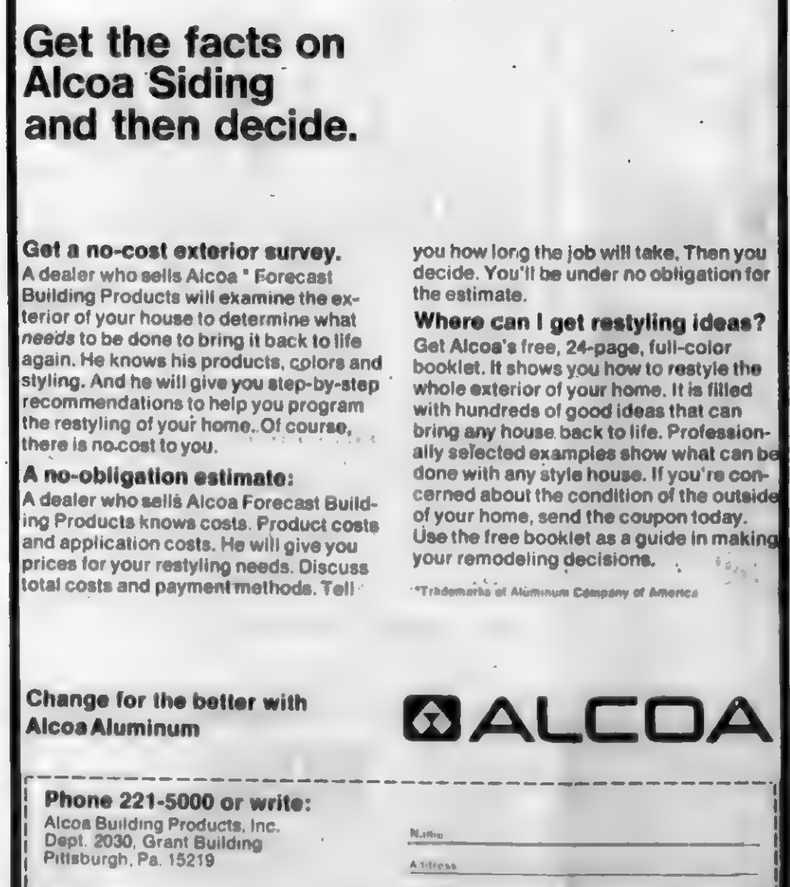
This important phase of Home Improvement involves, essentially, keeping the home and its grounds clean; abjuring the use of pollutants and nondegradable materials, collecting recycleables, such as glass bottles, aluminum cans, all manner of paper, for delivery to services set up for this purpose in the community.

It also involves avoiding wasteful use of electricity and gas, among other things. And all of this serves to create savings for the family.

The Home Improvement action is moving strongly also into the area of apartments - especially condominium, and in some instances into co-operatives, where owner permission is given. It is possible for occupants to make themselves more comforartable by taking advantage of the many ingenious ways for making their apartments more livable, more efficient.

Do It Yourself

The traditional pride of home owners and the new imperatives of modern living are expected to send the total annual volume of dollar demand for the necessary materials, tools and professional services to a new historic high this year - now estimated at more than $17 billion.



A marked increase in the do-it-yourself capabilities of people, both men and women, nurtured by availability of tools designed specially for them, and materials that also are designed for ease of manipulation, help them make their Home Improvement dollars go farther.

There are several areas, however, in which even the most accomplished of the do-it-yourselfers would do better for themselves by calling on the professionals for expert help.

These, of course, include anything involving electrical wiring, plumbing and the addition of a room or two or major structural changes in the home.

Practically everywhere, these types of Home Improvements, involving safety and health, are subject to local government inspection.

Creative Remodeling Now Easy With Dacor Do-It-Yourself Bricks

Dacor Miracle Bricks are just one new, do-it-yourself item featured at Cohagan Hardware – the full-service hardware store at 4000 E. Broad St., the company's only location.

Dacor bricks, authentic, three-dimensional reproductions of real bricks but weighing only four ounces, are one of newest innovations in low-cost home improvement.

Made of easy-to-clean, high-density polyester, the bricks are non-porous, will not absorb grease or dirt, can be washed with warm water and mild detergent and can be applied over almost any interior surface which is sound, dry, clean and free of wax or other foreign material.

Dacor bricks are available at Cohagan in four styles – white oak bark, red oak bark, colonial white and used brick with three mortar colors (gray, black or white).

Coordinating "outside corner bricks" are also available to provide decorating continuity.

Decorating with Dacor bricks is simple even for the most "all-thumbs" do-it-yourselfer.

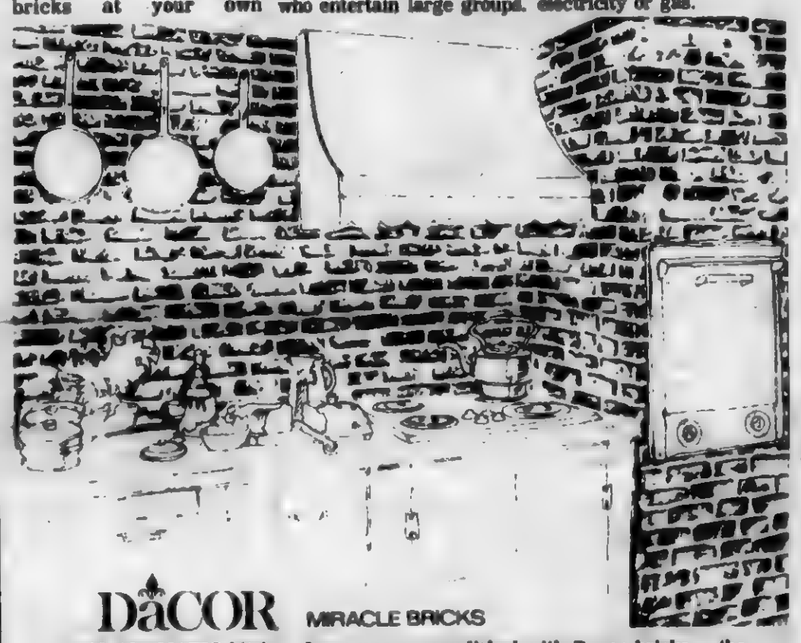
First a thin coat of adhesive mortar is applied over the entire surface to be bricked. The back of each brick is then "buttered."

Each brick is then pressed into position by wiggling it from side-to-side for firm embedding. Mortar lines are automatically formed by the open spaces between the bricks. Bricks should be applied in horizontal rows from the top down.

That's it! And you can start and stop applying bricks at your own convenient pace.

In a nutshell, Dacor bricks allow you to become a quick-change artist in kitchen, den, playroom, bathroom, entry hall, etc. – anyplace you'd like to change a dull, uninteresting area into THE spot which constantly receives compliments.

ILLUSION OF SPACE



Just about any color scheme is acceptable in a bathroom, but decorators recommend coordinating with adjacent rooms, thus giving the illusion of greater space.

Outdoor Lighting Is A Very Bright Idea

A number of attractive outdoor lighting systems are on the market today ranging from the soft nostalgic glowing gas light for poolside and driveway to the high-watt crime-deterrent system for discouraging prowlers at night.

Flood lighted gardens and walkways provide "other rooms" for those families who entertain large groups. The brightly illuminated garden and walkway become usable and safe long after sundown.

Landscaping will take on an almost fairy-like beauty with imaginative flood lighting. Thermostats will automatically turn the lights on and off at the hour you dictate relieving you of all worries about wasting electricity or gas.

DACOR MIRACLE BRICKS

THIS DRAMATIC kitchen decor was accomplished with Dacor bricks – the expensive-looking result for the cost-conscious do-it-yourselfer. Dacor Miracle Bricks are available through Cohagan Hardware at 4000 E. Broad St., their only location.

'Green Survival' Begins In Your Own Backyard

The pollution of our environment seems so large in scope that the average person feels hopeless in transforming his concern into constructive action. Certainly, there must be more for him to do than switching to returnable bottles and unleaded gas.

There is.

There's a lot more.

Plant materials are among the most effective fighters of pollution in existence. Every citizen has an opportunity to help improve the environment by planting more trees, shrubs, ground covers, vines or grass in areas where they will be able to use their anti-pollution talents.

If you're a homeowner, begin in your own backyard. Plant a row of arborviate along the rear property line to reduce the noise level from that freeway two blocks away. Plant a shade tree here and there throughout the yard to catch the pollutants in the air and hold them until you can hose them into the ground.

Talk with your neighbors about trying to get a few trees planted along the street to add some beauty to the neighborhood. Talk to the men at the office about taking that vacant lot behind the warehouse and turning it into a small park for the relaxation of employees and neighborhood residents.

Talk to the members of your Rotary Club about closing a few blocks of the downtown area to automobiles and turning the street into a mall filled with trees and shrubs that will clear the air and release fresh oxygen.

Robert F. Lederer, executive vice-president of the American Association of Nurserymen, recently predicted that it is the individual who is going to be the solution to environmental problems.

The Association, through its annual Landscape Awards Program, paid tribute last year to a church in the center of New York City that had created a garden reminiscent of an oriental meditation garden to give Manhattan office workers and residents a place where they can temporarily get away from the tensions of the city.

The year before a bank in Charleston, S.C., received an award for taking leadership in restoring part of Downtown Charleston to the quiet, gracious atmosphere of an earlier century.

Members of the Association are excited by projects such as these, because they believe they point the way to what can be done by every business, industry and institution in the United States. There are literally thousands of possibilities for new environments-for replacing noise, smog, ugliness and clutter with greenery that offers fresher air, reduced noise, beauty and inspiration.

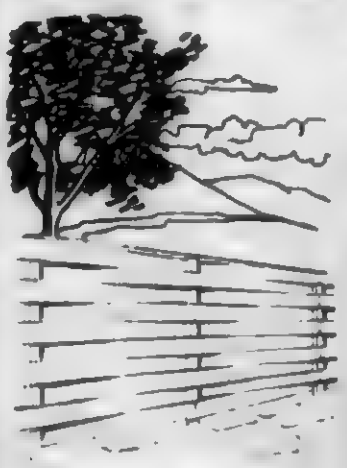
"Green Survival" is the name the American Association of Nurserymen has given their campaign to improve the environment. Even the words convey a sense of hope. But the hope has to be translated into action.

And it has to begin with you.

Lannis Co. Announces Custom-Built Fencing

Now that special wood fence you've wanted can be installed as simply as any regular fence.

Bernie Speyer, vice-president and general manager of Lannis Fence (3552 E. Fifth Ave.) for the past 11 years, has announced that the company's new department for custom-built wood fencing is now complete.



Speyer, a life-long Columbus resident, has seen the need for this type of department for some time and felt that Lannis – as a leader in this field – should provide it.

The new department is staffed with design specialists and trained craftsmen and installers. Their job will be to consult and advise to insure Lannis customers get exactly the type of fence to suit their needs and see that it is properly installed.

In addition to custom-designing your special fence for you, Lannis has a large selection of fence designs in their files.

The list includes basic designs for Good Neighbor fences, basketweave fences, rail and cross-back fences, privacy fences, louvered fences, picket fences, bevel-siding fences and novelty fences, to name only a few.

Of course, these basic designs can also be modified or revised to provide many unique effects. Many types of materials can be used but redwood is recommened for its durability and natural beauty.

NOW THE beauty of custom wood fencing (such as this basketweave design) can be designed and installed conveniently by Lannis Fence Company's new custom wood fencing department.

Will Your Pool Be Ready When You Are?

REMOVE protective winter covers from pool and equipment and sweep inside pool and surrounding areas. Inspect pool to determine if any cracking of walls or floors has occurred. And don't forget to examine all exposed valves, controls and pipes.

IF ALL seems proper, turn on water to fill the pool. Again examine all valves, controls and pipes for leakage. While pool is filling, check filtration equipment for operational readiness. Follow manufacturer's cleaning directions.

PROPER precoating of filter elements with filter aid assures crystal clear water. This is done by circulating a mixture of diatomite and water into the filter to provide a coating about one sixteenth of an inch thick on the elements. As filtration progresses, the improved clarity and sparkle of water will be amazing. Chlorination and the addition of other chemicals or algaecides is the next step. Now for the first dip...weather permitting.

Wide Choice Available

Plaster and plaster board are still the most widely used interior finishing materials, but the list of attractive and serviceable materials is growing by leaps and bounds.

It includes metal and hardboard panels, prefinished hardwood plywood, cement board, stained lumber, plastic and glass fibre panels, ornamental tiles, marble, glass and masonry.

In addition, there are the new supported and unsupported vinyl coverings for unfinished walls.

Bathroom Finally Up-Dated

At last, they are designing bathrooms for the modern American.

Believe it or not, until very recently sinks were installed at the same height as 100 years ago, although we are several inches taller than our great grandfathers. Now, designers and manufacturers have combined their crafts to produce beautiful fixtures better suited to our bigger size.

If you are installing a new bathroom, or remodeling an old one, approach this decorating job as you would any other room in your home. One excellent way to start is to choose first a floor covering and use its colors for your color scheme.

The Better Floors Council suggests a vinyl asbestos tile floor in bathrooms because it is steam and moisture-resistant and very easy to wipe clean. It is also available in every color and in a wide range of patterns.

Room Additions Create New Living Dimensions

Many families are discovering exciting new dimensions in living through the addition of a new room to their homes.

A new family room equipped with a stereo system becomes a concert hall offering everything from Bach to Rock.

A new bedroom for a subteen who has had to share a room with a brother or sister becomes a sanctuary and a place for dreams in the difficult adolescent years when "having your own room" provides needed security and privacy.

Dad's paneled den with his favorite books or television provides him with a quiet place in which to "wind down", plan for his family's future or maybe just juggle the monthly bills without distraction.

Families who have grandparents living with them in a first floor bedroom find that adding a sitting room with its own outside entrance gives the elderly a feeling of independence and eases the inevitable tensions between generations.

Among other things, an extra bathroom means a happier mother-of-the-family who can relax and luxuriate in a hot tub untroubled by the entreaties of her brood in need of the bathroom facilities.

Families who entertain frequently are surprised at how much more gracious their dining is in a room added for that exclusive purpose and how a separate dining room transforms the simplest meal into a memorable occasion. Clearly, a room is more than just four walls, a floor and a ceiling. Its character is an extension of a family's life-style and represents an excellent investment in better living.

A new room can literally mean a new way of life.

REMOVES ODOR

A new toilet has been produced which completely removes bathroom odor. Built-in device exhausts odors directly into the standard waste-pipe system. No special connections are needed.

No other pool has it.

We're talking about patented Perm-X-Brace construction (shown on right). Rugged, rigid, the strongest structure known for home pools.

Before you decide on any pool — look into Fox. Its a lifetime investment that will give you and your family years of satisfaction and enjoyment. A family recreation center right in your own backyard!

Laundry 'Mud Room' Key To Clean House

Good clean fun has a way of getting children plenty dirty. If you have an active family fond of outdoor play and you are also planning to modernize your laundry area, consider the Mud Room.

That's right, mud room.

Many homes, especially pre-WW2 vintage, have hall space directly inside the back door which is generally un-used. The mud room utilizes this space for the washer and dryer or combination washer-dryer. It has the advantage of keeping the kids from tracking in slush during the winter months and just plain dirt and mud the rest of the year.

The kitchen floor remains clean because wipe-ups are confined to the mud room's small floor space. Seconds after entering the house soiled clothes are safely deposited in the washing machine.

You will want to install overhead cabinets with fresh clothes changes and a rack or two for soggy snowsuits.

Exterior Sidewalls Should Be Primary Consideration

When thinking about improving your home, consider the exterior first. Too many times home exteriors are wrongfully overlooked for the more dramatic interior work.

It must be remembered that it is more than likely that unsightly interiors resulted from inadequate care given to the outside

Interior water damage can be prevented with care being given to the exterior. Consultation with a reliable home improvement contractor can lead to preserving the interior as well as the exterior of the home.

One of the new revelations in home exterior sidewall cover is solid vinyl siding. This siding is imprevious to damaging weather conditions and the ravages of time.

Solid vinyl siding cannot rot, blister, peel or decay like wood; and never, never needs paint. The color of this new plastic siding material goes all the way through it. The siding comes in an array of colors most compatible to exterior decor: white, gray, green and yellow.

In addition to virtually eliminating maintenance and the need for outside painting, solid vinyl siding will not support or spread flame. It cannot conduct electricity and, thusly, does not need to be grounded. Furthermore, it will not interfere with radio or television reception.

Vinyl is warm to the touch because of its being a very poor thermal conductor–the prime requirement for superior insulating materials. As an insulation, it minimizes heat penetration in summer and cold in winter. The siding also helps reduce the outside noise level in buildings.

Solid vinyl building products, because of their nature, are becoming the byword of leisure. Environmentalists say that the insulating properties and the very low maintenance feature of these products are giving home-owners a new dimension in living comfort and leisure hours.

BEFORE the application of solid vinyl siding and trim accessories, homes require periodic painting and sometimes extensive maintenance. Exterior appearances become unsightly, shoddy and show evidence of needed repairs.

AFTER the application of solid vinyl siding and trim accessories, and shutters, homes are restored to their original beauty; a beauty that will endure and require little or no maintenance.

Grow Your Own 'Sound Barrier'

Ours has become a noisy society. Fast-moving traffic, sirens, super-sonic booms, industrial machinery and the noise of jet engines combine to produce a constant challenge to our tranquility. Even the "new sounds" in music-electronic guitars and the never-failing top volume-have become irritants to Americans' comfort.

The effects are seen in frayed tempers, restless nights, and that bugaboo of modern man, tension. Clearly, noise pollution is increasingly leading to physical and mental injury and illness. Yet one of nature's greatest resources offers help in alleviating this pandemonium, according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

It is the simple, green leaf. Among its many other talents, a leaf has the ability to act as an acoustical baffle, deflecting sound waves, changing their direction, and reducing their intensity.

Highway planners are now aware of this talent of the leaf. They have learned that mass planting of hedges, trees, shrubs, grass and vines can reduce the noise of heavy highway traffic by as much as 60 percent. The noise level above wide expanses of concrete can be reduced as much as threefold if the concrete surface is broken up by planting.

Buffer planting can also reduce noise adjacent to airports and industrial sites. And it can be incorporated into the landscape design of every home.

Few residential neighborhoods in the United States are totally free of noise. By planting a row of trees along the property line or a row of hedges alongside the house, homeowners can ensure more tranquility for their families.

Plastic Roofing Is New Breakthrough

The very latest developments in liquid plastic roofing are now available in Ohio, according to Norman Lampe of Miracle Roof Guard Inc., located locally at 253 Chittenden Ave.

Formulated with products furnished by such firms as B. F. Goodrich and the Alcoa Company, this newest quality-controlled product has been used by thousands of homeowners all over the country - as well as commercial and industrial installations.

This new process allows the material to remain flexible in temperatures ranging from 90 degrees below zero to 300 degrees above. Furthermore, it will never chip, peel, crack or crease.

If a prospective customer might like a reference for the product, he might try the U.S. Department of Defense. Since WW II this same type product has been used to mothball both ships and aircraft units.

In fact, employed chemists have recently made such extensive product improvements that the company can now offer a full 20-year guarantee against leakage on any type roof.

A wide range of roofing colors are available and this product is ideal for any type roof (asphalt, tar, tin, shingle, slate etc.) No tear-off of present roofing is required and a savings to the property owner of 10 to 60 percent is claimed by Miracle Roof Guard.

Besides a no-obligation estimate, the company offers a free demonstration of the merits of the product — serving as proof of why this latest breakthrough in roofing material [illegible] the homeowner or businessman many dollars a year in air conditioing cost alone.

TIM COADY
"Contractor of Year"

Tim Coady Selected 'Contractor Of Year'

Tim Coady, president of Cardinal Builders at 980 Barnett Rd., was recently honored as "Contractor of the Year" by the Columbus Council of the National Remodelers Association.

Coady's Cardinal Builders firm was selected for the high standards displayed by the company, the quality of its workmanship and the key role Coady himself plays in the Central Ohio area remodeling field.

Tim presently serves as a member of the board of directors, Columbus Council NRA, and is also a director of the Ohio Remodeling Association.

He attended the NRA national convention held earlier this year in Miami.

Go Ahead! Mix Periods

Some of the country's leading architects say do not be afraid of mixing up the modern and the traditional when it comes time to remodel.

The original style of the older house need not be reproduced slavishly in the newer additions. Of course, a compatability should be sought and in this endeavor the advice of your architect will be invaluable.

He will most likely consider not only the new addition in relation to the original house, but the remodeled home in relation to neighboring buildings.

This latter consideration is important both to you and your neighbors because property values can be either favorably or adversely affected by the presence of a showplace or an eyesore on your block or in your neighborhood.

HOME IMPROVEMENT is for everyone and these two Reynoldsburg youngsters are proof that starting at an early age will result in a more efficient home improvement plan when that first home is purchased and starts to wear with age. The youngsters are Lisa and Steve, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Hague, 1497 Graham Rd. Lisa's all set to show Steve that women's liberation also means doing her share in home improvement. The youngsters' father share in home impeovement is his volunteer service as a Truro Township fireman when he knows that home improvement generally follows every fire. Remodelers Council Affiliated With BIA

The Remodelers Council is one of five distinctive councils which encompass over 600 members of the Building Industry Association of Central Ohio (BIA) (formerly the Home Builders Association of Greater Columbus).

As you can see, the BIA even changed it's name to reflect it's diversified membership including remodelers. Thus, even though the Remodelers Council is a separate functioning group within the BIA with members who specialize in the home improvement field, these members like all the rest, are pledged to a strict code of ethics to assure consumer satisfaction.

The BIA is the leading trade association in the residential construction field in Central Ohio and will celebrate it's 30 anniversary this year. The association, as well as each member, is affiliated with both the Ohio Home Builders Association and the National Association of Home Builders.

As members of the Remodelers Council, our paramount responsibility is to our customers, our community and our country. Honesty is our guiding business policy. We assume these responsibilities freely and solemnly; mindful that they are part of our obligation as members of the National Association of Home Builders.

New Homes Also Need Humidifiers

There's so much moisture in a new house that you don't need a power humidifier the first season, right?

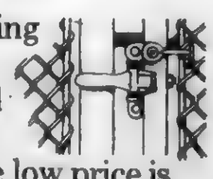
Wrong! Whatever moisture is in the house quickly begins to evaporate when the heating plant is turned on. A humidifier is needed to keep humidity under control, and to prevent damage that dry air can cause.

Common complaints of people who move into new homes include sticking doors and windows, warped trim, loose floor tiles, and nails popping through dry wall.

These occur because as materials dry out, they change shape. The changes are especially pronounced in winter, when dry air indoors is a major menace.

"So while a humidifier is often thought of as something to keep you feeling comfortable, it also is an aid to protect your home and everything in it," say the experts.

Interiors should be kept at 30 to 45 per cent relative humidity at an indoor temperature of 72 degrees. The way to do this is with a properly engineered power humidifier installed on the furnace.



The right amount of humidity can also save on heat. Dry air lets moisture evaporate from the body quickly, causing you to feel cool. Properly humidified air slows down this evaporation. Thus you don't have to turn up the thermostat as high as you do when the air is dry. The result is greater comfort at lower fuel cost.

Right Contractor Is Key Decision

Anyone contemplating a significant outlay of funds for remodeling purposes is understandably apprehensive about the selection of the right contractor.

How do you insure that he is not only capable, but reliable, as well?

Naturally, you will respect the recommendations of your friends who have had similar work done. But in the event that you are unfamiliar with any contractor there are other reliable sources for professional contractors.

For example, the home improvement loan officer at your bank can help. Also, a local building materials dealer is an excellent source.

Perhaps the most reliable sources are local chapters in your city of the National Home Improvement Council, the National Association of Home Builders and the National Remodelers Association. These organizations' recommendations can protect you from the dishonest or unreliable contractor. This is preventative medicine and just good sense.

Once the remodeling project is underway or completed should you be dissatisfied with the work of an unscrupulous contractor, arbitration or litigation could extend for months and even years.

Never was the old adage "Look before you leap" truer than in its reference to the remodeling of your home.

THE PATIO became part of this family room when an Andersen Perma-Shield gliding door was installed. The vinyl-clad door is equipped with tempered insulating glass for safety and comfort.

Open Up A Wall, Let Sun Shine In

Open up a wall and let the sun shine in!

A gliding patio door can double the fun of a family room. Its large glass area provides a living, changing, three-dimensional mural; it makes the room seem much larger than it really is, and it glides open to make the patio outside a continuous part of the activity area in the summertime.

Since a patio door may replace an entire wall, it is important to choose a well-made one that holds heat inside in winter and lasts a long time with little care. Gliding doors with wood sash and insulating glass are recommended by the Andersen Corporation of Bayport, Minn., a leading manufacturer.

Wood is a natural insulating material, and air sealed between the two panes of glass also prevents heat loss.

For easy maintenance, Andersen makes gliding patio doors with vinyl-clad wood sash that require no exterior painting. These doors, called Perma-Shield, will not pit, rust or corrode. The insulating glass, which is available in heat-reducing tints for sunny areas, is tempered for safety.

Don't You Be The 'Weak Link', Study Installation Instructions

While many homeowners who buy chain link fencing have plans to erect it themselves, the majority hire someone else to do it.

Only 15 per cent of chain link fence installations are done by the property owners themselves, according to industry-wide survey figures.

Homeowners choose chain link fencing because it's durable, it offers excellent protection and it increases property values. And to make the most of a longterm investment, they'd rather trust the installation job to qualified hands.

Experts recommend the following installation steps for chain link fencing:

Make sure the desired locations of fence lines, gates and terminal posts don't exceed property boundaries. Then lay out the job, using offset stakes and stretch lines to determine locations of end, corner and gate posts. Plan to set posts at least six inches inside property boundary lines, to allow extra space for concrete foundations.

In determining post locations, start with terminal posts, which are used at ends, gates and corners. Next, fix locations for line posts. Be sure gate posts are set for the actual openings.

Measure and mark posts with chalk to insure the proper length of post will extend above ground level when they are set in the ground. Terminal posts should be set so that the tops extend two inches above the fencing fabric. Line posts should be two inches below fabric height.

Dig post holes wider at the bottom, in a bell-like shape, to prevent the possibility of posts dislodging from frost action. A concrete mixture of one part cement, two parts sand and four parts gravel should be used for footings.

Set terminal posts first, and cap all post footings with rich cement morter, crowned above the ground for water drainage.

After posts are in and concrete has hardened, slip metal tension bands and brace bands onto the terminal posts caps, and then apply post caps. Put loop caps on the line posts, and connect them by threading the top rail horizontally from one loop to the next.

To install the chain link fencing fabric, unroll it along the fence line, and secure one end at the terminal post be threading the tension bar vertically through the end of the material and the tension bands.

Tighten bolts on tension bands, and attach a stretcher bar at least two feet from the other end of the fabric. Support the fencing fabric with wire tied loosely to the top rail.

Now attach a fence stretcher to the other terminal post and stretcher bar. Apply enough tension to make wires taut without distorting their diamond shapes, and cut the fabric to proper length. Thread another tension bar through the end of the fabric and tension bands, tighten tension bands bolts and release tension on the fence stretcher.

After the entire fencing fabric has been installed, apply hinges to one of the gate posts, hanging the top hinge upside down so that the gate can't be lifted off. Loosen female hinges on the gate frame, and slip them onto male hinges attached to the post.

Set hinges to allow for full swing of the gate, which usually is hung to swing into the fenced property. Tighten all hinges securely in final position, to help prevent the gate from saging.

Siding Provides New Face For Old House

The building boom of the 1950's has led to a flurry of refurbishing in the '70's, as homeowners find their 15- or 20-year-old houses growing shabby and overflowing with teenagers. Many families are adding an "ell" with a room or two to ease the strain.

One problem presented by adding on to a house is the contrast between the new and existing sections. It's like putting one new piece of furniture in a living room—everything else suddenly looks dingy. In a living room, new slipcovers on the old furniture may turn the trick; on the exterior, new siding applied to the entire house helps solve the problem.

Since the new siding should look crisp and require little maintenance for many years, it should be chosen with care. One material that meets this requirement is exterior hardboard, an engineered wood product whose density makes it durable.

Unlike some of the new building materials, exterior hardboard is not brittle or easily damaged by high impacts such as wild baseball pitches. Its impact resistance makes it ideal for siding. It is also used by some builders for soffits, fascia, porch ceilings, eaves and decorative devices. It is easy to handle and can be sawed and nailed without being chipped, split or dented.

To suit any style of architecture, exterior hardboard is fabricated in both vertical panels and horizontal lap boards, which go up swiftly to save on labor costs. Designs include smooth, striated and wood-textured surfaces. Some hardboards are grooved for interesting plank-like effects.

BEAUTIFULLY grained hardboard siding gives a home textural quality as well as years of easy-to-maintain protection. These panels are deeply grooved to look like planks.

Outdoors Also

Home Improvements are by no means to be confined to the interior of the home. In addition to modern new sidings, a new roof where needed, there's the landscaping of the grounds on which the home stands, about which home owners should be concerned.

And here is another one of the Home Improvements that can contribute to improving the ecology of the immediate environment in which the family lives.

Trees and shrubbery can do more than enhance the appearance of the grounds. Their proper placement and nurture can help sweeten and purify the air in which the family lives.

Inducing neighbors to plant selectively can not only multiply the improvement in the appearance of the neighborhood, it can also multiply the beneficial effects of greenery for all concerned.

Do a Check-Up

While most experienced home owners are by this time well aware of what needs to be done to repair and improve their homes, even the most knowledgeable can profit from an indoor-outdoor check-up of their properties, to make sure livability and value are both enhanced.

Financing Home Improvements need be no problem. Commercial Banks, and in some instances Savings and Loan companies, can help you.

So why not a thoughtful family conference - one that will give the kids as well as mom and dad a chance to have their say.

How's Your Lawn Care Rating?

If you're beginning to think about getting your lawn ready for spring, there are a few things you should keep in mind about lawn watering.

The following advice is being given to homeowners by water works utilities in many areas of the country:

1. Don't water too early unless you've had an exceptionally dry spring.

2. WHEN YOU do water, water thoroughly. It takes about an inch of water to get water six inches below the surface. This can sometimes require two to four hours of watering. Use an empty can placed halfway into the sprinkler stream as a measurement device.

3. Lawns under and near shrubs and trees need more water (and fertilizer) than lawns established in the open. Trees and shrubs compete with the lawn for moisture.

4. It's preferable to water in early morning.

5. DON'T APPLY water too rapidly. If you do, the water may run off rather than penetrate the soil.

6. Don't leave your hose in the sun more than is necessary. When idle leave it full of water. Don't use the first water out of the hose on your plants or garden. It can sometimes be very hot.

Doors Ready to Paint

Panel doors of ponderosa pine, solidly made and ready to be painted or stained, also come in many styles and stock sizes. Both interior and exterior doors come in traditional, provincial, Mediterranean and modern styles. For closets, louver doors are popular because they permit air to circulate - and they add a pleasant dimension to a room.

One of the most effective ways to open up a room is to install a gliding patio door of ponderosa pine. With insulating lass sealed into the wood, the door will lighten, brighten and "enlarge" the room while keeping it comfortable throughout the year.

Repair Work Saves Water

Conserving our natural resources is just as important to our environment as maintaining a comfortable standard of living.

Ever stop to thing of all the appliances in the home that use water: sinks, dishwashers, toilets, showers, baths, automatic ice cube markers, laundry.

Soft (Water) Living Helps Fight Pollution

Water conditioning is as much a part of modern living as air conditioning, says Mary Gable of Mary Gable Water Conditioning Inc., and in many ways it is more vital because it involves a key part of our life...water! Water pollution is one of the biggest single problems in America today. That is why water conditioning is becoming a more vital part of modern living...and that is why more homeowners have installed water conditioning appliances in their homes.

Firstly, a water conditioning appliance removes harsh chemicals from all water...those chemicals that tend to coat and calcify water lines. More than anything in our daily life we assume and expect water to be of a high quality. Yet more than likely the water we drink and use is chemically harsh.

With soft water one experiences, very often for the first time, the wonderment of soft water. Showering and bathing is now a pleasure with soft conditioned water. One feels clean...because they are clean—without the addition of expensive chemicals and oils. This clear water, which is soft as rain, is a beauty treatment for the hair as well as the skin. Friends soon notice the youthful appearance and beautiful lustrous hair of people using soft water.

Laundry with clean soft water is a pleasure. "Tattle-tale-gray" are forgotten words because we now have the secret to a beautiful laundry. The automatic water conditioner takes the dirt out of the water, instead of needing to add expensive cleaning supplies by the box and the bottle.

Today's wash-n-wear fabrics now can be laundered without a problem, and stay wrinkle free. All fabrics are always soft and clean as new without any special additives. Washing machine manufacturers recommend clean soft water for best laundry results, and to eliminate unnecessary costly maintenance.

Stainless steel sinks stay clean and shiny as new because clean soft water is available at every faucet.

Spotless dishes, glassware, and silver is a common luxury.

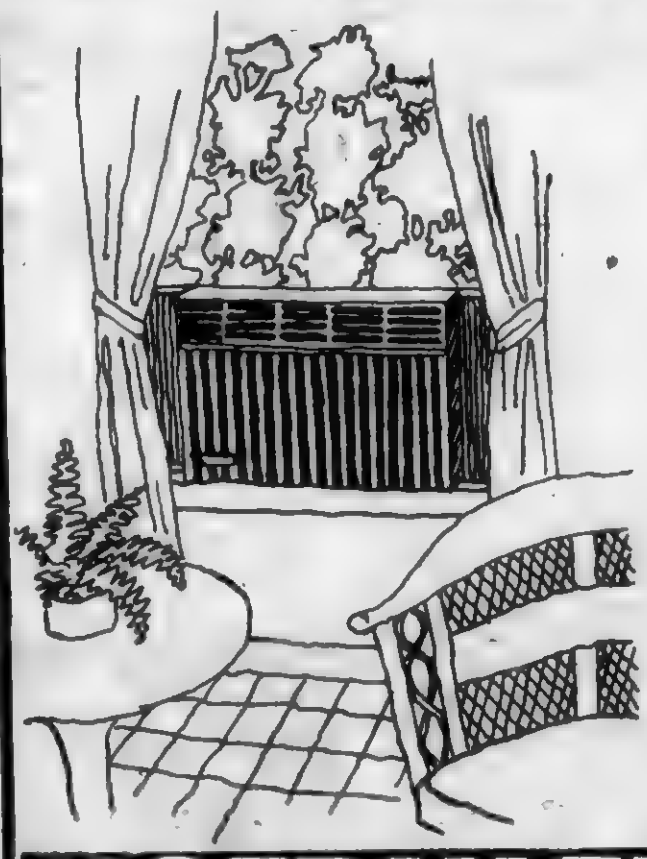
Bring The 'Great Outdoors' Inside

The trend toward outdoor living has led to development of a prefabricated screen room that makes it possible for a homeowner to transform a patio into an outdoor living room in one day.

The unit has an aluminum frame with aqua fiber glass screening and incorporates features designed to simplify installation.

A newly designed scissors-type gable system allows the homeowner to compensate for variance in the pitch of the patio roof. Top and bottom U-channel expanders, used to fasten the screen's panels to the patio roof and floor, also are designed to accommodate variances of up to three inches of patio floor pitch.

Roof panels on the room slide together and interlock without nuts, bolts or clips. The roof also includes built-in gutter and reinforcing corner supports.



All materials necessary for assembling the screen room - hardware, base channels for attachment to the patio and roof rail for mounting against the wall of the house—are included in the kit.

Aluminum-framed vinyl storm panels may be used on the screen room for year-round use.

THE PREFABRICATED screen room makes it possible for a homeowner to transform his patio into an outdoor living room in only one day. The screen room can be used with existing patio covers, and features an aluminum frame with fiber glass screening.

Improving Existing Space Doesn't Raise Tax Base

Even when a house is bulging at the seams, homeowners may hesitate to add space for fear of having property taxes increased. One way to avoid such a rise in cost-of-living is to improve existing space instead of adding to it.

There are improvements such as replacing old windows and doors with attractive modern ones that add considerably to the comfort and appearance of a house without raising the tax base.

Take a room that has tiny windows and plain doors - big new wood windows and solid panel interior doors will give it new life. Generous new windows open a room to the outdoors, making it seem infinitely larger and more livable.

Windows Galore

There are many sizes and styles of factory-made ponderosa pine windows to choose from. For year-round comfort, choose wood window units equipped with insulating glass - two panes sealed at the edges to hold an insulating layer of air. The sealed-in air helps prevent heat loss and the accumulation of messy moisture on the panes in winter.

Since wood is an excellent insulating material, new wood windows with insulating glass will keep the remodeled room cozy all winter, no matter how large they are. And they will eliminate the maintenance problems of storm windows.

To give modern wood windows a charming, old-time appearance, there are removable grilles that snap into the sash over the panes.

THIS HANDSOME game room was once a dark, seldom-used dining room. By replacing two small windows with this generous ponderosa pine unit - a large fixed pane flanked by double-hung windows - the apparent size of the room was greatly increased. A new door, also of ponderosa pine, opened the room to the patio so teenagers can run in and out without traipsing through the house.

Eating Space Problem? Follow These Guidelines

Can we eat in the kitchen? Will there be room for the whole clan at holiday dinners?

These are familiar questions as homeseekers inspect kitchens, dining and family rooms. And the answers require measuring-not just a look and a guess.

To help you gauge the adequacy of eating areas in the houses you look at this guide:

-OPTIMUM AREA needed is the size of the table plus two feet on each side.

-Remember to allow for extension leaves or drop leaves if you use these to enlarge your table on occasion.

-If the space looks as if it might be a bit too small, a round table might be the answer since there are no corners to take up space.

-ANOTHER SPACE saver in tight areas is the swivel chair. These do not have to be pulled out as far as regular chairs.

-A drop-leaf or harvest table takes up the least amount of space when the leaves are down. You can squeeze more usable space out of the kitchen by keeping leaves down except at mealtime.

-Further space savings are possible with pedestal tables, since there are no legs to get in the way.

-KITCHEN TRAFFIC pattern is important. There is more usable space in an eating area that is not cut up by doors leading from other areas of the house.

-Generally, the shape of the table should be related to the shape of the eating area. A square or round table goes best in a square area; rectangular or oval tables in a rectangular space, while narrow corridor spaces take harvest or drop-leaf tables best.

WHO DONE IT?

Clutter-Killer Case Closed

If you've been putting up with a less than ideal kitchen, there's never been a better time for making improvements. For never before has there been such a wide selection of easy-care materials for walls, floors, counters and cabinets.

But whether you might plan a total remodeling or just the addition of, or replacement of, some appliances, a good place to start is with the sink center and the addition of a dishwasher.

It's unbelievable what a difference a dishwasher makes - really more than any other kitchen appliance. New models of ranges and refrigerators are a joy to use and their self-cleaning features do save time and energy on your part when cleaning is required.

However, the average kitchen generates a depressing amount of clutter every day, clutter that quickly disappears when a dishwasher is on hand to serve you.

All told, this mechanical maid can save you an hour or more a day, not to mention the boost it can give one's morale just because clutter doesn't happen - at least not in the kitchen!

Possibly you have already started collecting ideas for revamping the kitchen; magazines and newspapers are chock full of suggestions for arranging a kitchen and for utilizing esisting space to best advantage.

Careful planning is how a good kitchen happens! But no matter how long you expect to keep your home, updating the kitchen is a good investment, especially if it's an older home.

Not only does a modern kitchen make housework a lot easier, but a convenient, pretty kitchen is a real plus if at some future time you must sell the home. Often it can return full investment value when the home is sold.

EASY, fuss-to-prepare meals start here in this remodeled kitchen with Mediterranean mood. And the cleanup comes just as easily with the aid of a built-in dishwasher, styled to match the cabinetry.

Put Some Life In Your Alcove

TWO IDEAS for an alcove: put a dressing table there, or make it a phone nook. And make it bright, with a vinyl wallcovering that's an easy-to-install help to home improvement. Peggy Walker designed these two "facelifts" with J. Josephson vinyls--one, Persian Stripe, in a dressing area with a horizontal dado to vary its otherwise vertical pattern and the other, Cortina, in a corner with drop-down seat and desk near the phone. Desk is complete with cork noteboard and a "well" in its writing surface for the telephone directory, so shopping helps are at hand.

Common Sense Key To Kitchen Planning

It is true that kitchen planning has in recent years developed into a sophisticated science, but the basic ingredient is common sense.

How often have you seen a refrigerator placed next to the range? Even with today's improved refrigerator insulation, that close proximity to a heat source will tax the refrigerator's performance.

Equally wrong is placement of the refrigerator directly across from the range, especially where only a narrow corridor of working area exist.

How many times have you seen kitchens without any counter space provided to the immediate right or left of the ovens? The unfortunate homemaker who cooks a roast in that kitchen has to carry it at least several feet before she can put it down. Remember, the eye level oven doesn't provide the pull down door of the free standing range.

If you are remodeling an older kitchen of the spacious variety, you may want to consider butcher-block working islands for the center of your kitchen floor.

Apartment Remodeling Needs Imagination

More and more owners of cooperative and condominium apartments are becoming aware of the advantages of remodeling their property. An improved apartment has a higher value and is easier to attract buyers to.

Many older apartments which were converted from rent-control have outmoded kitchens and baths and are generally without laundry areas.

The bedrooms in these older apartments were outsized and lend themselves readily to sub division. Think of the difference between a three bedroom apartment and a five or six bedroom apartment, all possible with immaginative remodeling.

Costs are incurred only in construction of partitions. When subdividing a room keep in mind the size of the furniture and the necessary allotment for storage areas.

Another caution: when remodeling an apartment check your wiring for electrical load.

The addition of air conditioning units, laundry appliances, etc. may require an upgrading of your load capacity.

The owner of a condominium has few of the restrictions imposed upon the owner of a cooperative apartment.

For example, the condominium owner can sell his apartment to anyone he pleases, whereas the cooperative apartment owner generally is required to submit his prospective buyer to the cooperative reviewing board.

It might be well to consult your lawyer in anticipation of any legal restrictions your remodeling plans may meet.

RIGHT: Many of the newer panels with sculptured grain and rustic saw-texture, provide decorating flexibility to highlight modern settings or traditional furnishings.

Wall Panels Produce Low Cost, Exotic Look

When your walls are out of date the whole room suffers. But even with a limited budget, homeowners are brightening entire walls with the newer factory finished wall-panelings.

Never before has the do-it-yourselfer faced such a wide choice of wood species, patterns, textures, colors, and surface materials when selecting a paneled wall covering.

Some of the texture is subtle. Panels with embossed distressing supply the aged look of antiqued impressions in the wood surface to suggest the warmth and heritage of old world living. Other textures are bolder with deeply embossed wood veneers to provide a distinctive grain character.

In trying to break away from the 20th Century polish and precision, paneling manufacturers like Georgia-Pacific have combined the deep grained patterns of weathered wood with a saw-texture to give rustic boldness that liberates the monotony of four plain walls.

With the improvements in color and grain reproduction plus the introduction of grained surfaces, the vinyl panelings have grown out of the "fake" wood category.

Now, highly realistic reproductions of expensive and exotic woods are available at surprisingly low cost with all the tough, low maintenance properties associated with a vinyl surface.

The newest step in paneling carries the factory-finished textured panel one step further with the addition of color. Bright new panels in

THERE'S MORE to this attractive vinyl floor than meets the eye. It's Armstrong's new "Bright Step" cushioned vinyl with a deep layer of foam cushioning that provides extra comfort. Installed cost is actually less than many conventional vinyl floors without cushioning.

Cushioned Comfort Here!

Every so often, it's interesting to look at some of the household items we take for granted, just to see how far they've come. Resilient flooring, for example, has been a standard fixture in American homes – for generations. But visit a modern flooring store sometime, and you'll be amazed at all the innovations on display.

Today's resilient products go far beyond the traditional linoleum. There are self-adhering vinyl tiles, with the adhesive already on the back, that you install yourself right over an old floor. For women who hate to wax, there are even materials designed to keep a bright shine with only occasional damp mopping.

But suppose you're looking for real luxury – something that's easy on the feet as well as the eyes. Then cushioning is for you! These new vinyl floors incorporate a thick layer of resilient foam, just below the wear surface, which reduces noise and provides some of the comfort features of carpet.

Yet unlike carpet, food spills and tracked in dirt can't penetrate the material and hide beneath the surface.

Contrary to some beliefs, cushioned flooring is not an expensive item found only in upper-income homes. One manufacturer, Armstrong, has recently introduced a new cushioned vinyl called "Bright Step" that falls into the middle price range.

Available in a choice of handsome styles, the new flooring is backed with a thick layer of vinyl foam that cushions and quiets every footstep. It can be installed at any grade level – even directly over old flooring. And best of all, it's priced within reach of almost every family budget.

Selecting a resilient floor is certainly more enjoyable with today's wide range of possibilities. Whether you're looking for cushioned comfort, easy maintenance, or do-it-yourself economy, the floor of your dreams is here!

REDWOOD VERSATILE

Redwood is a most useful material for outdoor redecorating. It can be bleached, stained or left to weather naturally. If you're planning to use redwood in the ground for a patio or walkway, it can be easily treated with preservatives for a long, beautiful life.

Lawn Sheds Protect Off-Season Equipment

That battered, wooden eyesore once known as the tool shed has given way to the lawn building. And the transition has been more than a matter of semantics.

It happened with the swing to backyard living. Lawn chairs, barbecue grills and badminton nets - the tools a family needs when it moves outside for the summer – required storage space. Logically, these items could have moved in with the lawn mowers, hedge trimmers and bags of fertilizer, but that would have meant carrying them to the weather-beaten tool shed behind the lilac bushes at the farthest corner of the yard.

So the equipment was stashed in the garage, leaving little room for the family car.

The answer was a lawn building – big enough to provide all-weather security for an assortment of patio furniture, and attractive enough to command a position near the house.

Decorative colors and styles now available are illustrated in Sears, Roebuck and Co's line of lawn buildings. "The Biltmore" features skylight panels and an embossed wood-grain finish.

For families who prefer a rural look, there's the "Lexington" lawn building. Or the wood-grain, vinyl finish "Woodridge" can accompnay a traditional home. Another is a red-and-white, double-door replica of a bar.

Also easily installed are heavy-duty plywood floors, patio extensions, windows, interior lighting and hose, shoe and hanger racks.

soft pastel colors have opened up a host of decorating possibilities which never before existed.

Today, when a family considers paneling, they no longer automatically assume that all four walls of a room must be covered. Creative and individual use of the product in an original manner is the order of the day.

Tasteful decorating is usually more a matter of imagination than cost. Paneled wainscots rather than a full wall, a single accent area, decorative cut-outs, arches, and even paneled ceilings are becoming more common. Kitchens, baths, bedrooms and hallways have been added to the traditional living room and den areas.

Vol. XV No. 33 Total 809 | Columbus, Ohio, Wednesday, May 3, 1972 | 15 Cents

The Sky's The Limit

A NEW DEPTH (or is it height) was added to the volunteer services at Saint Anthony Hospital last week. Reynoldsburg Spectator Editor Ray Adams asked for a volunteer for a special assignment without detailing the requirements. Miss Karen Mullenax, 1538 Brice Rd., Reynoldsburg, was the first to raise her hand. She's a natural for such an assignment since last week she was recognized as Saint Anthony Hospital's "Anthony Award" recipient as the outstanding teenage candy striper. Karen (that's her standing behind the "A") soon found herself atop the hospital's Heliport for this view taken by Adams from a Columbus Police Department medicopter piloted by Patrolman Jack Turner, Reynoldsburg. Volunteers at Saint Anthony (and all our hospitals) are noted for their devotion to duty - but wasn't this just beyond the call?

Summer Credits, Bus Liability Eyed

Paul Langdon enlisted the help of his colleagues on the Columbus Public School Board Tuesday to work toward removing, or modifying summer school credit restrictions upon its students.

Currently, a student cannot receive more than one credit (other than make up work) in any one summer and cannot apply more than three such credits to graduation requirements.

IF THE Columbus Ohio School Board Association which Langdon serves as president is successful in its effort to modify the present regulations, it will become possible for students to accelerate their progress and graduate in at least one semester less than usually required.

Mrs. Marie Castleman and Dr. David Hamlar were both insistent that safeguards be written into the resolution guaranteeing that those wishing to move more rapidly would not monopolize the available summer school slots, preventing students who needed to repeat courses from being able to do so.

Dr. John Ellis, superintendent, assured them that summer school enrollment is already discretionary with the individual boards.

LANGDON also introduced a resolution to ask the OSBA to seriously consider supporting legislation authorizing boards to increase liability insurance on each school bus or van from $500,000 to $1 million.

Langdon took the action in view that the limits were set by the Ohio Revised Code almost nine years ago and are no more realistic. He cited as an example the fact that the board is now being sued for $850,000 over the injury of a single student.

In seeking approval of the appointment of Jack Gibbs, former East Principal, as executive director of the Metropolitan Careers Center, Dr. Ellis divided his praise equally between Gibbs and the future of the Center.

Accolades were also given by Dr. Ellis to the seven high schools in the state that pulled 18 superior ratings in the recent Ohio Music Education Association band and chorus competition. This performance, according to the superintendent, is unequalled in the state.

Three schools in the Spectator area are among those formally commended. They are Walnut Ridge whose concert band, boys' chorus, girls' chorus and mixed chorus all received top ratings; Eastmoor whose boys', girls' and mixed choruses were rated superior and West High School whose mixed chorus received a No. 1 rating.

A note of nostalgia was introduced into the relatively routine meeting when Dr. John Ellis presented the board with an original painting by Mrs. Anna Schreiber.

Now 95, the former Columbus teacher and local artist, is the oldest living alumna of the Columbus Normal School which fulfilled the teacher training needs in Columbus from 1863 to 1931, at the site of the present Central Office on State Street.

The painting was given to Dr. Ellis during the recent 50th Anniversary luncheon held by the class of 1922 of the Normal School.

The superintendent relayed the story he heard there of the practice of teacher applicants being required to interview in each board member's home.

ONE RECALLED her delight in surviving the ordeal--and being hired to teach 64 children in four different grades for the magnificent sum of $45 a month.

He also retold the story of the principal at the old Fourth Street School who pounded on his desk and yelled, "It's no wonder these pupils can't read. There are only three boys in the third grade who don't smoke!"

DRC TAKES COUNTY CONTROL

Voters Sink COTA Levy

Hopes for public ownership of transit in mid-Ohio died almost as soon as the polls closed Tuesday.

Early returns showed the suburban vote trouncing the one mill COTA levy and support from the central city did no more than keep the negative vote from climbing above the 55 percent mark.

Hopes died almost as suddenly for several newcomers to the political scene with incumbents and candidates who had previously traveled the campaign trail generally doing well.

At press time City Councilman Don Woodland was comfortably ahead of Alan Melamed who was attempting a political debut in his bid for the Democratic nomination in the Ohio Senate 16th District.

Mike McGee was squeezing out a victory over 24-year-old Lynn Skilken in the race for the Democratic nomination for U.S. House seat in the 15th District.

Similarly, Jim Bauman was successful in his bid for renomination to the 32nd Ohio House District and Mack Pemberton was outpacing his opponent 6-1 in the Republican contest in the 33rd Ohio House District.

Other incumbents dashing the aspirations of those trying to knock them out at the primary level were Lawrence Hughes (R-66th) and Alan Norris (R-27th).

At press time, DRC had captured 37 Democratic Committee seats, giving it control of the 73-man committee.

Particularly significant was the defeat of three committeemen endorsed by Party Chairman George Twyford in Reynoldsburg, his own stamping ground.

At the county level Stacy Hall left his Republican opponents in the dust as he rode as easily to victory as his father had in the past.

It appeared Hall will face Harry Berkemer in November—the latter showing a strength not anticipated when he lacked the Democratic Committee endorsement.

33 Motel Hearing May 11

Included on the agenda of the 6 p.m. May 11 public hearing of the Columbus Development Commission will be a rezoning application which would, if approved, pave the way for a large motel on Route 33 where it intersects I-70.

The applicant (Apartment House, Inc.) desires commercial zoning to replace the existing R-4 (residential district) for the construction of a proposed motel (approximately 250 rooms) and related shops which would service the motel.

The site is a 12.4 acre tract located at the southwest quadrant of I-70 and Route 33.

MORE THAN A PRETTY FACE

Volunteers Are Special People

By RAY ADAMS

One of these people is Mrs. Herbert H. (Garnet) Howard, 3115 Fair Ave., East Columbus.

MRS. HOWARD is an adult volunteer at Saint Anthony Hospital.

"I get a wonderful feeling at the end of a day from just knowing that someone might feel a little better because I've been around," she said.

"Mrs. Howard," said Volunteer Service Director Miss Betty Lyon, "has recruited numerous volunteers by verbal 'public relations' for the volunteer program.

"THIS IS just one of her many fine traits," continued Miss Lyon, "that led to her being named as the recipient of the Anthony Award presented at the volunteer recognition and appreciation luncheon last week.

An identical award for a teenage candy striper was presented to Miss Karen Mullenax, 1538 Brice Rd., a Reynoldsburg High School senior.

None of the other volunteer workers seemed a bit surprised when Mrs. Howard became the recipient. "She's always giving of herself freely to others and in a pinch, she's "Garnet on the spot," one said.

WHAT DOES Mrs. Howard do at Saint Anthony Hospital?

"She has functioned as a menu hostess, distributing menus to patients and lending assistance when needed and is presently at the information desk as receptionist and for dissemination of general patient information," Miss Lyon added.

"Garnet's attendance reflects her dedication," Miss Lyon quickly added. "She has volunteered every day she was scheduled plus serving as substitute on several occasions when other volunteers were unable to come. She was also very active in the open house connected with the new tower facility at Saint Anthony in June 1971."

"THE ANTHONY Award," Miss Lyon went on to say, "is given to the adult volunteer rendering outstanding service within the adult volunteer program. It is based on such merits as dependability, loyalty and enthusiasm."

Mrs. Howard has been active in this recently organized volunteer group since June 1970. Her volunteer affiliation with Saint Anthony extends over a period of several years. She was very active holding office in the Cloverleaf Guild during it's involvement with Saint Anthony.

She volunteers in her weekly sojourn to and from the hospital by generously transporting other volunteers for whom transportation might pose an impediment to service.

OTHER activities reflecting her concern for people is her involvement at Saint Catherine's Church,the Altar Society, assisting with Senior Citizens programs and providing and serving refreshments during holidays at Marshall Nursing Home.

She staffs the information desk Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m.

MRS. HOWARD is able to convey to others the excitement of a new experience - she almost had us volunteer before we left.

Miss Lyon added that there are many other volunteers who find enjoyment because they are looking outside themselves.

"This takes exceptional motivation," Miss Lyon said, "and high ideals. As a result of this motivation the health care institution benefits from and contributes to the adult concerned about and wishing to become involved in community service."

SAINT Anthony volunteer policy for adult volunteers finds these requisites:

- The physical and emotional capability to enable performance of exhausting duties within the hospital environment.
- Willingness to accept assignments occurring on a scheduled weekly basis.
- Adherence to qualities of dependability, punctuality, warmth, concern for others, friendliness, graceful acceptance of supervision and observation of good personal grooming and hygiene habits.
- And others.

THE assignments in which they can assist include admitting, clerical, emergency room, flower shop, gift shop, hospitality cart, information, laboratory, nursing units, patient mail services, patient menu hostess, pharmacy, physical therapy and radiology.

COFFEE TIME is anytime for busy Columbus Police helicopter pilots and crewman and when St. Jimmie Bellar, left, Grove City and Jack Turner, Reynoldsburg, paused for a series of photos at St. Anthony Hospital last Friday they enjoyed a hot cup. Their hostess was Mrs. Herbert Howard, Sr., 3115 Fair Ave., who last week was selected as the hospital's outstanding adult volunteer. This is not one of Mrs. Howard's regular duties but the trio obligingly posed for the photographer to make the impression a lasting one.

Volunteers . . .

They included these (with their hours served as of Dec. 31, 1971 following):

Why volunteer?

Maybe it will fill a need - yours or the patients.

Perhaps you need to get involved or need some sence of achievement to get you through the day.

PURE enjoyment also helps.

Whatever your reason - all you need do is call Miss Lyon - or check with Mrs. Howard.

BOTH ARE living examples of what the golden glow of living is all about.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Squadsmen Give Schools Priority

To the Editor:

In reporting the accident which triggered the concern for an emergency squad to serve the Far East side (Apr. 26 edition), you omitted the time of the mishap. The girl's injury did not occur during the school day, rather in the evening, about 7 p.m.

By learning this was not a school-day accident, parents may feel reassured that (1) bicycles are not allowed on school grounds, but are parked and locked at a rack and (2) Columbus Police and Fire Departments give top priority to school emergency requests at all times.

Election Year Shoe Candidates

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

Open looks have invaded all shoe shapes. CUSTOMCRAFT places design emphasis at the ankle of their higher heeled suede sandal. THE TOWERING platform with cross straps is from Goolo.

MADEMOISELLE'S multi-strap is gracefully lifted on a wedge. JOYCE puts the ankle strap on a young lowdown heel. HERBERT LEVINE'S moccasin in fine suede has firm self-wedge...embellished with a gold jewelry chain.

DAVID EVINS likes the classic spectator sport oxford in black and white calf with white piping circling the sole...a compliment to James Galanos' black and white silk print costume.

THIS IS THE YEAR OF DECISION...at the shoe fashion polls. America's leading shoe designers offer a collection of beautiful candidates in every new shilouette...glorious colors, supple leathers and luxurious fabrics...sure fire winners for every moment in a gal's active life.

THIS SEASON, which changes from the contemporary classic one day to the non-serious "put on" of a passing fancy the next, calls for a variety of shoes to carry off the multi-mix of fashion. Shoes for spring and summer offer all the options. Flat no-heeled ballet looks, towering platforms with wedges or high heels, dazzling combinations of bright colors, understated neutrals...all in a bumper crop of materials and textures. Sandals, naked as jay birds, walk abashedly beside conservative little covered up silhouettes...they're all out for attention and they're all "in", says The American Footwear Institute.

WITH SUMMER just around the corner, it's your cue to think seriously about sandals...include in your thinking the city slicker kind. These may be held together with broad, bright patent straps and buckles...move into the night in sandals made of skinny suede straps, on a little wedge sole...or new satin sandals with ankle straps.

NEXT COME the pumps with newsy block heels, some low and sturdy, others on broad based built-up heels, stacked to help us rise above the daily grind. More lofty approaches to the pump include wedges and platforms. And there are '40-ish spectator pumps, perfed and held in place with an instep strap.

PUT A MULE to work for you...one that takes a firm stand on an inch-and-a-half red calf platform...and if you're planning to go the China route, go chop-chop in a Chinese-look clog.

There's every reason to have yourself some ballet inspired flats and an espadrille or two, because they look great and can be such a comfort to you...ropy soles the key factor.

THE NEWS that has a nice ring to it is...as I mentioned at the beginning...this is the year of decision...fashion has its foot in many doors. You don't have to try them all...but it's nice to know they're all open.

Detox 'Hospitals'

Two-thirds of the arrests made in Columbus last year were alcohol-related.

Almost 13,000 of these arrests were for simple intoxication and did not include traffic or other charges. Throughout the state, it is estimated that the annual cost in police time alone is $7 million. This figure doesn't reflect the staggering cost in court time, detention and loss of wages for which alcoholism is responsible.

True, not every drunk is an alcoholic. But one big city study shows that one-fifth of the people charged with drunkeness accounted for two-thirds of the total drunk arrests.

Another study told the sad story of a homeless alcoholic who was arrested every other day that he was not incarcerated over a four-month period.

Half of the drunks in Columbus are allowed to post $30 bond and are back in their favorite bar within a matter of hours. Last week, the State of Ohio took a giant step forward in meeting what many consider the number one health problem in the United States.

H. B. 240, fathered by Rep. Alan Norris of Franklin County, provides for the establishment of 15 detoxification centers in Ohio, to be financed through an increase in liquor sales permits plus a $1.1 million appropriation.

The resources allotted to the program are woefully inadequate, especially when one considers the alcoholic beverage tax collected by the state totals $197 million, or 11.6 per cent of all state taxes.

Yet, the appropriation can get the program off the ground.

The new legislation will allow the person charged with intoxication to avoid the drunk tank by consenting to be taken to a detoxification center for treatment.

Furthermore, the alcoholic who refuses such help may be sentenced by the court for a period of rehabilitation. Although the pending revision of the Ohio Criminal Code retains public intoxication as a misdemeanor (contrary to the recommendations or Uniform State Laws endorsed by HEW), Ohio is apparently on its way to recognizing intoxication as a health problem rather than a crime.

And locally, Columbus police who have not exactly earned a reputation of treating drunks with kid gloves, have taken a position that alcoholism is an illness and should be treated as such.

While taking a firm position that lack of sobriety shall not shield those engaged in crime from the law, the new policy calls for empathy toward the alcholic and preference for delivering inebriates to the detox centers rather than to jail.

Pointing out that alcohol is the only disease in which the patient is blamed when treatment fails, the police position paper strikes out at cluttering the courts and jails with individuals "whose only 'crime' is a physical and social illness."

Most can agree with former Attorney General Thomas Mitchell that treatment of alcoholics as criminals is an enormous drain on the justice system and one that is demeaning to everyone involved.

But the most important factor is that the past system was totally ineffective as either a lesson or a deterrent to the drunk.

The proposed centers undoubtedly will be less than a panacea for the thousands of persons living in an alcoholic fog.

Only short-term drying out is unvoluntary, and the long time rehabilition called for will be a matter of discretion with the individual.

But with the fog lifted, it can be hoped that those victimized by alcohol will be inclined to take the first step of the long journey back.

After all, even a drunk realizes the frustration of the "revolving door" provided by the courts in trying to legislate away alcoholism rather than making an effort to treat it.

Just Deserts

When two Franklin University law students won a hearing on the constitutionality of Issue I-A the Spectator had in type an editorial giving luke warm endorsement to the 14 amendment - package deal due to appear on the May ballot.

We had pointed out that, while we had no quarrel with the amendments per se, lumping diverse issues such as the governor's and the lieutenant governor's running as a team and expense accounts for legislators was poor legislation.

It was obviously an attempt to deny the public the right to pick and choose from the smorgasbord prepared by the assemblymen.

Furthermore, it was apparent that it was a lightly-veiled effort to "sell" additional compensation for the solons by letting the issue ride piggy-back on the team administrative concept that is long overdue.

Actually, if the General Assembly had forthrightedly presented the matter of expenses to the public, we would have probably bought it.

Elected officials should not be financially penalized for serving the Commonwealth of Ohio.

But the Supreme Court decision rendered Friday has made all this water over the dam.

And the legislature has carved itself a monument to irresponsibility.

The need for constitutional revision has not been met; Ohio will continue to harness together at the executive level horses of different political persuasion, unwieldly procedures will continue cumbersome, the conflict of interest issue goes unresolved, and the cost of legislative seat may keep many good men from seeking public office.

And correcting all this in November will not be accomplished simply.

By law, voters must vote this year (as every 10 years) on rewriting the Ohio Constitution.

How will this issue effect the chances of separate amendments, regardless of how they are packaged?

It is generally recognized that an eye cocked at the political climate in an election year resulted in the poorly conceived Issue I-A.

Sometimes it seems a crying shame that making of laws which shape our government is left in the hands of politicians.

They make such a mess of it.

'Idiot-Safe'

Inform the average American that he's not yet ready for a moon walk, and he'll probably agree with you.

But suggest that he is not qualified to pilot a 325 horse-powered automobile over the nation's freeways and you've made an enemy.

The car has become its owner's alter-ego and everyone knows that accidents are caused by "that idiot down the road."

And believe it not, there are thousands of those "idiots" on the highways.

Kicking off the local efforts for the National Safety Council's first annual National Defensive Driving Week, J. Ralph Riley, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Safety Council, points out that 85 percent of all accidents are due to driver error.

And this error takes the lives of 55,000 people every year, disables another two million and racks up property damage totaling in the billions of dollars.

It doesn't help matters in the least to realize that Americans' cars are the safest in the world and that his highways have safety design outranking all others.

No, what is important is that the 116 million drivers on the road learn accident avoidance skills.

These basic skills can be learned in four two-hour sessions and allow licensed, adult drivers to materially increase the odds that every auto trip will be accident free–despite the bad driving habits of others and bad weather.

For example, it has been estimated that traffic fatalities could be slashed by simply regarding every car on the road as under the control of a homicial maniac–who is drunk.

In other words–a defensive driver doesn't trust anyone behind the wheel, and is prepared for the worst.

Furthermore, he stays off the road when he or his car are not road-worthy, he allows for an extra margin of safety when visibility or pavement conditions is poor, and he learns tried and effective reaction to crises.

Defensive Driving experts see such training as the only real hope through which to curb the rising death tolls on the highways and has set a goal of three million trained drivers each year of the present decade.

Today, only 3.5 million people in the United States have taken the time to become as good a driver as they think they are.

Corpses don't make decisions and the maimed don't do much driving.

The time to enroll in a Defensive Driving course is when you're still in one piece.

Next week just might be too late.

An Old Enemy

For 14 years rabies has been a significant health problem in Ohio.

Last year reported cases doubled to 124 and the prediction is that the rate will reach new highs unless drastic steps are taken.

The trouble lies within the fact that wild life rabies is on the increase which means more household pets are exposed. This exposure, in turn, spells danger for the men, women and children who have contact with dogs and cats.

Legislation is pending to make rabies immunization mandatory for cats and dogs, but until such statutes are enacted, voluntary vaccine and reporting of all animal bites to local health department are the chief weapons at hand.

Local veterinarians, in cooperation with the Columbus Department of Health, are doing their part to control the growing menace.

From 1 to 3 p.m. on the third Friday of every month , dogs can be immunized at the City facility at 181 S. Washington St. for $1.50.

Although the program is designed for those who cannot afford regular veterinarian care, no one will be turned away.

A trip to the garage at the rear of the main building can prevent the agony of human rabies treatment - - or death.

Alice In 'House-Hunting-Land'

Home, Sweet Home

It appears the average American is being forced to telescope his dream of home-ownership into a nap-sized model.

The latest statistics from Washington show that the price per square foot for single-family homes has risen in the past two years by $3.77 to an astronomical $19.92.

With the average home priced at slightly over $25,000 last year, the old rule of the thumb that a family cannot spend more than twice annual income on a residence (at the most 2½ times income) is closing more and more doors of lending institutions to prospective home owners.

The effectiveness of this barrier is seen in the fact that although the increase in the number of U. S. households remains steady, almost a million less dwelling units were built in the sixties than in the fifties. And furthermore, almost all of this slow-down was accounted for in the area of single family dwellings, with apartment units giving the impression of being self-propagating.

In December, average weekly earnings hung at $129.20, giving the family with only one breadwinner around $6700 gross.

That total is a far cry from the $10,040 to $12,550 annual income demanded by a steely-eyed banker when approached for a mortgage okay on a $25,000 home.

Already builders have begun to meet the cost-income squeeze with construction of homes, on the average, $500 less than two years ago-and about 325 square feet smaller.

The loss doesn't seem earth-shaking until one considers that the 1969 homes involved less than 1600 square feet, and that today's buyer will find bedrooms shrinking, dining rooms (even alcoves) disappearing, family rooms as extinct as the "nursery" and the sewing room and study of a more opulent age.

Only two other alternatives exist. If homes are not to become mini-models, either family income must increase or the cost per square foot decrease.

With labor costs of conventional housing accounting for 43 percent of the price tag, higher wages and lower prices are inherently incompatible.

And, so what is the answer?

Zero population can help the situation but is not a cure-all.

The only real solution seems to lie within revolutionizing building concepts with full utilization of prefabrication, institution of production line techniques on the site and revision of building codes entailing costly specification unnecessarily rigid with advancement of technology and synthetic building materials.

Unless such steps are taken, the claustrophia of the ghetto will move into the split levels of suburbia.

'Judge Fais, Take Note'

To the Editor:

So much for Kenneth Olbert! And for any other member of the academic community who is dedicated to equal rights for all, regardless of race, color or creed. There is an important message in Mr. Olbert's expendability....."forget it".

I can't help wondering if his routing of William Kunstler last year had any influence on the fact that Kenneth Olbert became a marked man. (Judge Fais, take note.)

Just a year ago the Columbus School system, at the high and junior high levels, was in a state of turmoil and terror. Charles Ross came from — who knows where; was hired by the leading academic community in the area (OSU) to set up a "Black Studies Program". He became so involved in causing consternation at the high and junior high school levels and in establishing what he called his "Vanguard", that some say he completely neglected the job for which he was hired.

Any white man guilty of interfering with the students and the conduct of the business of the schools would never have gotten the publicity and the consideration tendered Ross.

As for Kunstler, I congratulate Judge Fais for his courageous and proper stand. Why the American Bar Association hasn't moved against this member is a mystery. He has made a joke of justice in his every court appearance and, if memory serves me correctly, was denied admittance to the Kent trials.

Ross is a fast man with that tired old cliche "White Racist." Could he be a "Black Racist"? Mr. Olbert gave both Kunstler and Ross short shrift in a confrontation at OSU last year – a seemingly fatal mistake.

Those who know Kenneth Olbert consider it a slight against the man's intelligence that, if he were inclined toward dishonesty and embezzlement, it would be so slipshod and so trivial.

According to Paul Langdon, the school's accounts had been audited annually by outside accountants. If so, why does Olbert bear the whole shame and blame? Who were these businessmen who did the job? Why aren't they involved?

Another question that comes to mind — "Was Barrett the only school in a questionable state?" Was Linden McKinley, for instance, re-audited? If not, forget that. The records are probably long gone from the files of the other schools, or nicely shored up.

Even State Auditor Ferguson made a judgment. In spite of the fact that he feels free to take questionable liberties with the taxpayers money.

Kenneth Olbert was too dedicated to fairness, and a good academic climate, to survive in today's world of apathy, disinterest and appeasement.

Olbert's life is up for grabs, but Columbus will hear a lot more from Charles Ross. Unbelieveable!

It will be interesting to see how John Ellis handles the 5,000 Columbus school students who are committed to stampeding justice at Ross' trial–if there ever is a trial.

Long live Charles Ross! The back of the Community's hand to Ken Olbert.

Wants TV Viewing Choice

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in the hope that the executives in charge of programing national television shows will come to understand the desires of the laymen television viewers.

We, as laymen, are subjected to many hours of television viewing, not of our choice. A few examples of such viewing are Moon Shots–occupying all major networks and presidential speeches–occupying prime time on all major networks at the same time.

Perhaps I am misinformed, but I have been laboring under the belief that television is for the entertainment and gratification of the commercial public. If this is not so why are commercials forced upon us.

They tell us the commercials are essential to television. If this is so why do the major networks try to force documentaries and educational features on us with blanket coverage on all major networks? We have special channels which cover nothing but educational features, be they political, philosophical, historical or astronical.

Why should we be forced to watch commercially sponsored television with no say so as to what we watch? If this is going to be the case why not go into government-controlled television such as B.B.C., where there are no commercials.

In essence, if we are going to have to live with commercials which insult our intelligence why not let us choose our own trivia (which may insult a segment of the population's intelligence, but not the whole)?

In closing I would like to say our entire population is not politically, scientifically, or historically-orientated but depend on television for nothing more than entertainment.

IN WHICH ORDER DO YOU FEEL THE FOLLOWING ARE IMPORTANT TO IMPROVING THE QUALITY OF EDUCATION? (a) BUSING TO ACHIEVE RACIAL BALANCE, (b) MORE FEDERAL AID TO PUBLIC SCHOOLS, (c) FEDERAL AID TO PRIVATE AND PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS, (d) INCREASED EMPHASIS UPON TECHNICAL AND VOCATIONAL TRAINING AND (e) A CHANGE OF LOCAL PROPERTY TAX AS THE BASIC SOURCE OF FUNDS FOR PUBLIC EDUCATION. GIVE REASONS FOR YOUR FIRST SELECTION. (OF THE 108 ANSWERS RECEIVED THEY RATED 1 THROUGH 5 IN THIS ORDER: D, B, C, E AND A.

THIS WEEK'S RESPONDENTS
REYNOLDSBURG HIGH SCHOOL

THE KEY to improving our educational system is to improve our technical and vocational schools. In the past decade there has been increasing emphasis on a college education for every man, woman and child. Little do we know! The soul of this country is labor and the blue collar workers. The people who have technical or vocational training keep and make this country what it is. They are the ones who implement the ideas of the inventor and pseudo intellectuals. An idea is worthless unless it is implemented. Therefore, I most strenously urge an increase in technical and vocational education. (Mark Fitzgerald.)

MORE MONEY could be gained by raising local business taxes. The burden of paying for mediocre education has been placed on the John Q. Publics for too long in this country. In the long run the businessman would benefit by a better education by having a better work force. (Jane Wyrick.)

WITH MORE and more school levies being defeated by people who already pay too much in taxes, the Government ought to lighten the burden and financially aid schools. If American is such a great place then how come some schools have to prematurely close due to lack of funds? Why aren't there enough schools, classrooms and teachers to educate us? Because of a lack of funds. There is not a teacher shortage due to lack of qualified personnel but the great shortage is in rooms in which to teach. (David Pennington.)

I FEEL THAT the most important idea to improving the quality of education is busing to achieve racial balance. To me this is the most important idea in improving racial problems in the South and all over the United States. It really makes me very sad when I read about racial discriminations because I feel that blacks are people who are just trying to succeed in this world of hate and are trying to survive in this country. (Melissa Ross.)

IT IS MY opinion that the Parochial school system suffers so because they build big, elaborate churches for which their schools seem to suffer. I don't think they should receive Federal aid. Not being selfish, but I do think they should spend their own money on good schools, but I do think private schools could use some help. My one and only reason is that when or if they should receive it this would be taking advantage of public schools. (Wayne Wirth.)

I THINK more federal aid to public schools should come about because in today's world a lot of people and employers place much of their decision about a person by their education. If more Federal aid is supplied the schools can not only better themselves but also better the children that come and go to it. With today's type of society of a rat race, a person needs the best education he can get - not only to better themselves but also to better our society. (Bruce Rich.)

A CHANGE OF local property taxes as the basic source of funds for public education is the most relevant issue to state and local communities today. This concept does not follow the basic constitutional right of equal taxation. Local property tax laws tax only local property owners. Since recently there has been much expansion of apartment complexes the support of local public schools has not been shared by the whole community. Property tax is too high and many people find it hard to meet the costs. So, to counteract this problem, the Federal government should step in and give financial aid to the schools, especially the ones that are or have been closed down. (Laurie Sutphin.)

I THINK THAT the educational system of most high schools in the United States (and Reynoldsburg is a prime example) has nothing to offer to the person who is not going to college. Most of them are college oriented. This is fine for the college bound but what about the great number of those who do not go to college and are dumped after four years and know nothing? They have no marketable skills. They know a little math, a little history, a little English and, if they are luckier, they can type or take shorthand well enough to get a low paying job. But, can they do electrical work, plumbing or welding? Of course not. The program of vocational education at Eastland is fine but there is not enough emphasis for it and it is much worse at other schools that do not have even any sort of vocational education. Much of what's wrong with the educational system is the parents' fault. They program the kids to believe that there is a stigma with going to a vocational school. It means that you are dumb and cannot go to college. This is the great mistake of a college crazy generation. A greater emphasis should be put on vocational education at junior high level. (Luis Alcalde.)

IF THE SCHOOLS had more money about 90 percent of the problems would be alleviated. First, with increased funds, better and newer books could be bought which would lead to more interesting current courses, something that is relevant to our lives after we get out of high schools. With more money new schools, or at least larger additions, could be built. Less crowded schools are more pleasant for the pupils and the teachers. With more money better salaries could be paid so better teachers could be hired. Pupils with good teachers usually like school more and get a lot more out of it. With more money vocational training courses could be offered. This is vital to the students who are not going to college. Vocational institutions need to be increased in size and number. More federal aid to schools is my top choice. (Darlene Wild.)

I THINK Federal aid should be given to private schools because these schools would take a lot of students that would be normally sent to the already overcrowded public schools which would have to expand to accomodate the extra kids, but also collect tuition that lessens the tax burden. If Federal aid is not given the private schools would have to close and then the tax payers would end of paying. (Kari Krumlauf.)

BUSING to achieve racial balance in our nation's schools will not in any way improve education. If 400 blacks are taken out of a bad 100 percent black school and sent to a good school, you have 400 going from the good school to the bad school. Equal education to black and white is not necessarily better education. Reformation of the education system is not being helped at all by busing because not only does busing cause violence and [illegible] hatred but has no good effects that are free of bad side effects. The school system I attended is free of busing, my friends attend this school as I also do. Should they (school system) start mandatory busing and send only my friends or I, I would feel hostility toward the bused in students. To improve the education I feel busing for either racial balance or educational balance should be stopped. Busing is doing no great good and is causing problems.-Red Herriott

THE REASON I selected increased emphasis upon technical and vocational training is because it prepares a student for the future. On a job you don't need to know that Andrew Jackson was the first president elected from the West, Alvin Toffler thinks that we are not educated for change or that apathy in Skokie, Illinois caused the defeat of a bond issue - unless you plan to spend the rest of your life on a game show. Too much emphasis is placed on the past - maybe we should think in terms of the future. - Neal Mann.

TIME IS DRAWING NEAR for Dunloe Elementary School's annual festival and Mrs. Richard Gibbs, left, PTA president and Mrs. Ralph Anderson and daughter Shannon, are seeing to the last minute details. The carnival will be Saturday at the school from 4 to 8 p.m. At left, Mrs. Reid Clifford, displays some of the items made by community members which will be sold at the "Tulip Festival". The items include handmade quilts, pillows, puppets and baked goods.

PTA Carnival Is Community Project

It's more than just a PTA carnival.

That's the way Mrs. Richard Gibbs, president of the Dunloe PTA, describes the school's annual festival, slated for May 6 at the elementary school.

"The festival is more than just a money making project, it is a chance to get people in the community involved. People who don't have children in school have been helping us by making crafts and donating their time," Mrs. Gibbs said.

Some of the items which have been made by community residents and which will be sold are quilts, pillows, toys, afghans, flowers, and baked goods.

"We are going to have a Mod Boutique, games, a Country Store, a puppet house and a spaghetti dinner."

Door prizes donated by various merchants in the area include an instamatic movie camera, a full length mirror, cookie jars, games and a chemistry set.

"Mother's Day is the following weekend and we feel many of the things for sale could be given as gifts," Mrs. Gibbs said.

"We will also take orders for Mother's Day cakes which will be made and decorated by women who have had cake decorating courses."

Commercial exhibits will also be part of the festival, with area merchants setting up displays around the school.

"Last year the money raised was used to plant 600 tulips around the school. Many of those should be blooming at festival time so we are calling this the Tulip Festival."

Money raised this year will go for further landscaping around the school grounds.

"We feel that the PTA should serve as a liaison between the school and the home and by getting so many people involved we can do this."

Mrs. Gibbs said the carnival usually draws people from all over the area.

As part of the advertising for the festival, PTA members were asked to make an outfit for dolls which will be given as prizes in the Doll Walk. Prizes were given to the best dressed entries.

The festival will be from 4 to 8 p.m.

WITH THE YEARS 18 through 25 considered the "prime age" in customers of formal attire, many of the clients of Gingiss Formalware Center in Westland Shopping Center are young men who will soon be squiring a young woman to a prom—or waiting for her before the altar. Pictured displaying to a customer a white dinner jacket with contrasting collar and edged lapels and pockets is Roaind Eyears, director of the Center. At the left is his assistant Bill Hunton. On the wall are shown the wide variety of dress shirts which are available at the Center.

Rent Or Buy? Ask Gingiss

For the next few weeks Roland Eyears will be as rushed as a florist on the Saturday before Easter.

As director of Gingiss Formal Wear Center his concern is that countless June bridegrooms and their attendants are faultlessly attired when the strains of Lohengrin are heard.

The Center at 4198 Westland Mall opened last spring and offers a complete line of men's formal attire wear and accessories from tie to black plain-toed shoes and boots.

Tuxedos, full dress, strollers and cutaways—conjure a dashing image of yourself in any of these styles, and Eyears will come through with an ensemble that not only looks well, but is comfortable to wear.

Blues, browns and marons have joined the traditional winter black and summer white for style conscious men and while the traditional white pleated shirt is always available, other styles of the seventies offer the unusual—such as a lavender ruffled shirt of velvet.

For those who prefer to stick to vests in preference to the more youthful cumberbunds, the customer has a wide selection of fabric and color.

Those who are under the impression that formal wear is a relic of a more conservative age should eye the fact that the industry is expanding annually and current sales are over the $200 million mark.

Perhaps, Eyears believes, it is the new emphasis on formal wear being comfortable.

According to Eyears, fit is of prime importance at Gingiss--whether the customer is a ring bearer who needs a size four or a gentleman of stature who requires a 54.

And if the client is of toddler size or truly of a tycoon scale, Eyears can pull in merchandise from other retail outlets of the company spread across the country.

Although Gingiss caters to the man who considers formal wear an integral part of his wardrobe, the Center also is interested in fulfilling the needs of the person who so rarely needs full dress that it is more practical to rent than to buy.

With rentals starting at $17, the Gingess-dressed man can rent not only his coat and trousers and vest or cumberbund, but even the studs for his shirt.

However, many customers succumb to the temptation of buying their own Playboy accessories of which Gingiss carries a full line.

Another "first at Gingiss" is the Travel Tux Plan.

It is the answer to the man who will have constant need for a tuxedo during a convention or a cruise, but then would delegate his dinner wear to moth balls.

To meet this situation, formal wear is rented at reduced rates over an extended period.

Gingiss also stands ready to make arrangement for out-of-town members of the wedding party. Garments may either be fitted in a home town outlet with the suit actually rented from the Columbus store the day of the wedding, or measurements may be sent by mail.

The modern facility in Westland includes three dressing rooms, and both BankAmericard and Master Charge cards are honored.

Gingiss which is the largest specialist in men's formal wear, in the nation has a slogan.

It is, "Rent a tuxedo that fits."

The man who believes the man makes the clothes—and only when the wearer is comfortable, should take his formal demands to Gingiss.

He'll be satisfied.

Happenings At Capital

CLARINET CHOIR

Capital University's Clarinet Choir will present its second and final performance of the concert season on Tuesday, May 2 at 8:15 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium, under the direction of Prof. David Hite.

Featured soloist for the program will be concert pianist Bela Szilagyi, artist-in-residence at Capital. He will perform Bach's "Concert No. 5 for Piano in F Minor," originally written for piano and strings. The concerto has been transcribed for piano and clarinet choir by William Guegold, a freshman in music education at Capital.

Clarinet choir performances--rarely heard in concert halls-generally feature a full range of clarinets. Capital's 18-member performing group includes the entire family of clarinets from the smallest E-flat instrument to the oversized B-flat contrabass.

There is no admission charge for the concert and the public is invited. Mees Hall is located east of College Avenue on Mound Street, facing E. Main Street in Bexley.

MUSIC FESTIVAL

Capital University's annual Contemporary Music Festival this year will salute music of the American avant-garde, featuring the works of Earle Brown, currently composer-in-residence at the Peabody Conservatory of Music in Baltimore.

Throughout the week of May 8-14, Brown will be in residence at the Capital University Conservatory of Music and is scheduled for numerous lectures and open rehearsals of his music.

Brown--rapidly becoming one of the most challenging of America's younger composers--recently celebrated the premiere of his latest works when he jointly led the American Symphony with conductor Ainslee Cox in the Carnegie Hall performance of his "Modules I and II."

During his week's stay at Capital, he is scheduled for daily lectures and rehearsals. Topping off the week-long festival will be a concert of Earle Brown's music, scheduled for Sunday, May 14 at 8 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium.

This year marks the 13th annual Contemporary Music Festival sponsored by the Conservatory of Music at Capital. According to Dean Marceau C. Myers, the week-long activity is designed to present music which cannot be heard regularly in concert halls.

All performances and seminars during the festival will be presented in Mees Hall auditorium or the Toledo Room.

MASQUERS PRODUCTION

Director Allene D. Montgomery describes the upcoming Capital University Masquers production of "Because Their Hearts Were Pure" as "something to legitimately boo and hiss at...a way to lose some of those 'pent-ups' ...and a reason to cheer when 'good' is victorious."

The Morland Cary melodrama, subtitled "The Secret of the Mine," will be presented on Friday and Saturday, May 5 and 6, as part of Capital's annual May Day celebration. Curtain time both evenings is 7:30 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium.

Cary's old-fashioned drama comes complete with a villain, hero and heroine, and focuses on two widows whose livelihood depends on a coal-mine that has been left to them.

Cast in the role of the villain (Sebastian Hardacre) is David Block, a sophomore art major from Hamilton, Ohio. The hero (Goodwin Dalrymple) is played by Ron Abbott, a speech major from Fremont, Ohio. April Hampton, a speech therapy major from Findlay, Ohio, plays the heroine (Melody Turelove).

Tickets are $1.50 for adults and $.75 for children under the age of 12. They are available at the door or by contacting the Masquers box office at 236-6209.

City Proclaims Clean-Up Week

Whitehall Mayor John A. Bishop has proclaimed the week of May 7 through May 13 as Annual Clean-Up Week.

The proclamation reads:

"Whereas: Section "517.10 Order to Clean Up Premises sets forth that the Mayor shall cause a Proclamation to be issued ordering persons to clean thoroughly all lands, yards, sheds, and barns and to cause all tin cans, trash and other unclean and unsightly matter to be removed therefrom; and

"Whereas, there is a need for such clean up in order to improve the appearance of the municipality and to reduce the hazards that arise from the accumulation of junk and debris; and

"Whereas, it is in the interest of all the citizens of Whitehall that special efforts be made for correcting such conditions; and

"Whereas, the success of any campaign depends on a cooperative effort of all citizens and business establishments.

"Now, therefore, I John A. Bishop, as Mayor of the city of Whitehall, do hereby proclaim and declare the week of May 7 through May 13 inclusive, as Annual City-Wide Spring Clean-Up Week, and urge each citizen to cooperate fully in this program of beautification."

The program is designed to give residents an opportunity to dispose of all refuse which is over and above the three 30 gallon containers which are authorized under the regular weekly pickup.

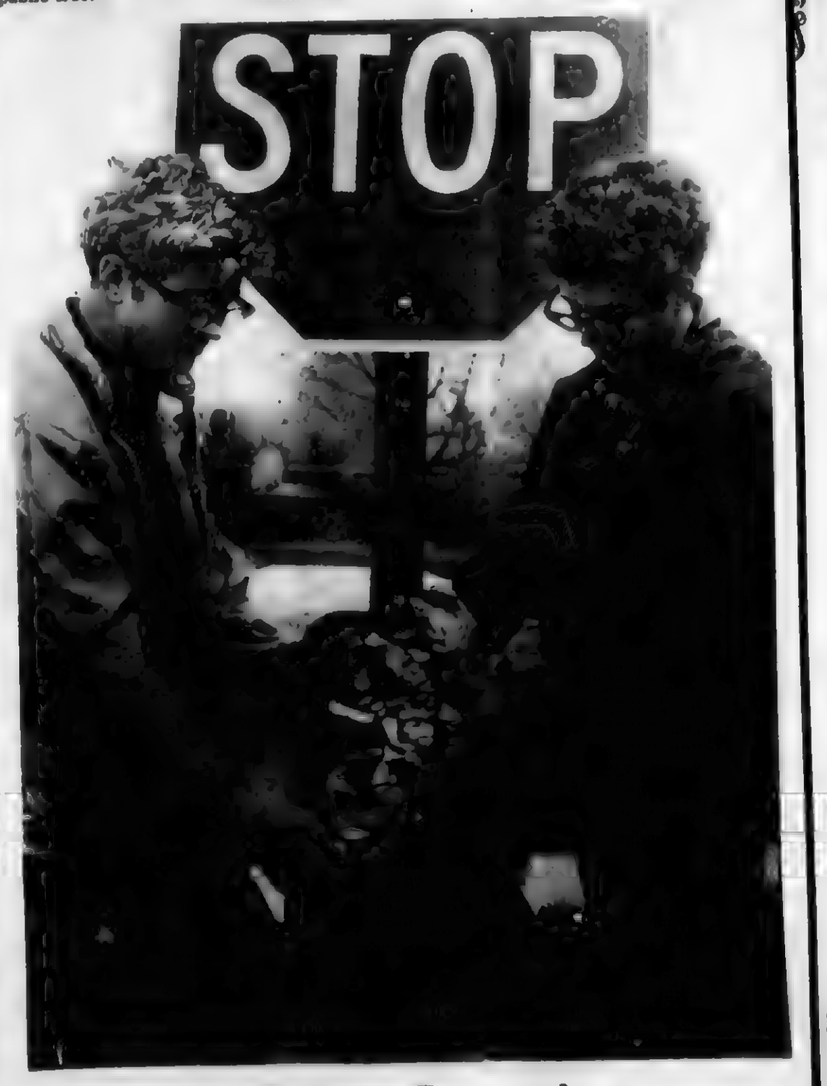
All trash is to be placed at the curb or alley pick-up points on regular collection days.

Criminal Code Is Topic

"As residents of the Central Ohio area, how would the new criminal justice code revision affect you? What additional legislation is necessary for criminal justice reform? How is it possible to rehabilitate offenders to a healthy and productive life?

These and other questions will be discussed at a panel discussion to be held Wednesday, May 3, at 8 p.m. in Fellowship Hall, Covenant Presbyterian Church Ridgecliff and Redding Rd., Columbus. This meeting is co-sponsored by the Academy of Lay Studies and The Men's Association of Covenant Church and is open to the public free.

Chapel Choir Plans Concert For Sunday



As a special prelude to Capital University's 1972 Contemporary Music Festival which runs May 8-14, the 65-voice Chapel Choir will present a concert on Sunday, May 7 at 8:15 p.m. in Mees Hall Auditorium.

The full Chapel Choir, plus the Chamber Choir and the Renaissance Consort--all under the direction of Dr. Lewis Whikehart--will perform music composed from 1900 up to the present, in an attempt to illustrate the evolution of contemporary vocal Music.

SOME OF THE MUSIC will be so new that the choir's final selection will be completed as they are performing on stage Sunday, according to Whikehart. The program will begin with the familiar styles of more "tradional" composers and proceed gradually through the various elements of aleatory music.

More familiar composers who will be represented in Sunday's performance include Debussy, Hindemith, Schoenberg, Lockwood, Dello Joio and Stravinsky.

Other major works on the program will include: Zoltan Kodaly's "Jesus and the Traders"; two psalms by contemporary American composer George Rochberg, and "Psalm 90" by Charles Ives, said by many critics to be Ives' greatest work.

STOP--- Littering

CHARLES AND ROBERT JOHNSON, 341 S. Cassingham, tried to get the point across as they took part in Saturday's city-wide cleanup by the Kiwanis Clubs and Boy and Girl Scouts. The two scouts, members of troop 166, worked along East Broad Street, picking up litter which had collected in bushes lining the roadway—and it was a BIG job.

Mini Courses Prove Success

An experimental week of mini courses at Groveport-Madison High School last week proved to be a "tremendous" success, according to principal Charles Bishop.

During the week the students were allowed to sign up for special courses, such as chess, bridge, tennis and fencing. A student could take an all day course or up to four courses, depending on the type.

BISHOP SAID the program would be tried again next year.

"We'll probably run an interest survey as to what courses will be offered. Some of the ones we used this time will be offered again and we may add some new ones."

A group of 11 students spend the week in Mexico, Bishop said, and traveled as far as Acapulco.

SOME OF THE other activities during the week included courses in Apartment Living, Model Airplanes, Horseback Riding, Motorcycling, Crafts, Theatre, Baking, Italian Cooking and Yoga.

IT WAS A CHANGE OF PACE FOR students at Groveport Madison High school last week. The school took a week off from regular class schedules to enjoy courses in Italian Cooking, fencing and crafts. Other "mini courses" offered included sports, chess, knitting, model airplanes, dancing, camping, apartment living and numerous others. The week was considered a big success by school administrators and will be tried again next year.

IT WAS A FIRST FOR TROOP 32. Eighteen members of the girl scout troop were presented with the first Miss America badge, presented by Miss America 1972, Laurel Lea Schaefer. The girls earned the badge by studying the history of the pageant, making Miss America Scrapbook and other related activities. The two scouts, Karen Daugherty, left, and Debbie Neff, show Miss America the scrapbook which the troop presented to her during the ceremonies.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Just for laughs, pure and simple without a message, it's "Guys and Dolls" at Welsh Hills Players May 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 and 16, 18, 19 and 20 under the direction of Bob Stegmiller. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. and productions are held at 3 Wilwood Ave., Newark.

And who, may I ask, has a better right to do Fiddler on the Roof than Gallery Players of the Jewish Center located at 1125 College Avenue.

There is humor in this one, too. But with a tear in one eye, the laughter does not come as easily. The message is contained in one word, used often in Tevya's conservations with God, "Why?" Why is there hate in the world? Why poverty? Why are people persecuted for their religious beliefs or the color of their skin? But Tevya has a faith so strong that he knows no matter what happens, Divine protection will follow.

Glenn Bittner is assisting director Harold Eisenstein ready the production for an opening date of May 13.

I must "give three cheers and one cheer more" for the mighty director of "H.M.S. Pinafore." John Carter took a heterogeneous grouping of people and in just a few short weeks had them performing this very difficult but most delightful Gilbert and Sullivan opera as a professional ensemble. The best test of their ability to captivate the audience was the fact that my four children sat there for an hour and a half not moving a muscle except to clap in appreciation of a job well done. Outstanding in the cast were Peter Atherton, Neil Staten, Ronald Nocks, Richard Mickelson and Eve Anne Wilkes.

At the popular Ramada Inn North one of the most famous groups opened last night for one week only, The Hilltoppers. Since they open on Tuesday, I could not review them, but let me tell you a little about them.

The Dot Recording stars have had several million record sellers, including "Trying," "P.S. I Love You," "Love Walked In," "Till Then," "Only You," and "Marriane." The well-known quartet have appeared on many network television shows, including The Ed Sullivan program.

The Hilltoppers are four fellows who sing in a style that is guaranteed to please young and old alike. Of course, while doing most all of their hit records, they keep their show fast and breezy with a host of the now songs. There is plenty of variety and good fast pacing in their show.

Besides offering first rate vocals, the boys accompany themselves. What you end up with at the Ramada Inn North is one strong, lively act. Take my advice, get there this week. The Hilltoppers close this Saturday, don't miss them. Their act gives you top entertainment and a little nostalgia. Look for me, I'll be be there just about every night.

MARRIOTT INN

Free Spirit opened this past Monday at the Marriott Inn Motel. Free Spirit is a good name for the group because it fits their musical moods and stylings.

The group features Todd Hill on vocals, with a very solid, talented foursome backing him. You could ask for no better than organist Gregg Siebert, Phil Wayt, a classy and tasty drummer, guitarist Gary Salt and bass man Spanky Wyatt. These four pour out plenty of good music as well as providing a solid backing for Hill.

As far as I am concerned, Todd is one of the finest male singers to come down the pike in many a moon. This guy has a lot on the ball in the vocal department. In fact, I feel that he is too good for a lounge act.

With proper arrangements and proper promoting, this fellow could easily do a first rate "stand-up" night club act. His voice is that good. Todd has excellent control and a great sound. He has developed his own individual style.

The only flaw in the entire outfit is that everything is centered around Todd Hill. He sings every song of every set. Now, you take 40 minutes per set and five sets a night, and that is a lot of Todd Hill. In fact, it is just too much. A Frank Sinatra, a Perry Como and some of the other of the super stars may be able to get by with this much singing.

What Free Spirit needs to do is to develop themselves into an act, not just four talented musicians backing a singer. After a couple of sets, one will get tired and bored of listening to the same thing (meaning the same sound—in this case Todd Hill). The group needs variety and change of pace.

They have what it takes. It just has to be put together properly. But, do stop in at the Marriott Inn, and bet me, I know you will enjoy a couple of sets.

Todd Hill is one fine vocalist.

SHERATON NORTH

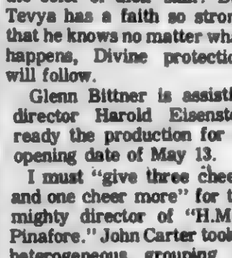
Run, don't walk to the Sheraton North Motel this week and next, and you will hear one of the most exciting and vibrant groups you have heard in a long time. Their name is Red Top and The Young Family. The name really doesn't have much significance, but their music sure does have plenty.

I find it rather difficult to pin down the type of music as to style and material that they are playing. It is a fantastic mixture of contemporary, jazz rock and rhythm and blues. Just about every song contains a touch of each. As the boys described it, it is music with a santified feeling. I feel this is the best description.

Red Top and The Young Family is a trio with three very, very, talented men. When they get done, their work sounds like a nine piece outfit. Red Top plays organ, piano, drums, and sings.

Laddie Fair is a way out musician who handles a big baritone sax (that is amplified), drums, flute and vocals. Then there is Lorenzo Cassey, Jr. This fellow works out at the drums, bass, organ and does lots of good vocal work in between.

All three constantly shift around from one instrument to another. From the way they keep shifting on stage, I thought Woody Hayes did their arrangements for them.



These three fellows have worked together for three years—and it shows. They have everything down pat. Each song and every set is tight and put together as it should be.

The three of them make—and I mean they work at it—their music as entertaining as possible. This is one group you have to see and hear to actually appreciate and understand what it is all about. Words cannot paint a true picture.

But, after you hear them (which you can do nightly at the Sheraton North) you will get a clear picture and will go back again. Red Top and The Young Family are an exceptional trio which deserves you in the audience.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

"Dames At Sea," a musical is currently on stage at the Barn Dinner Theatre. Next week I will give you a complete review. But, for now, let me tell you this, if you like good old fashioned music, in a good old fashioned musical with plenty of tap dancing, then make your reservations to catch, "Dames At Sea." You will enjoy it... Talking about an evening of enjoyment, make sure you head out to the Holiday Inn East, Broad and Hamilton. They have a great Friday and Saturday night with their Hillbilly Buffet. All of the fellows and gals wear colorful country type outfits. Manager Bob Winebar has turned the place into a real country atmosphere with a wooden fence and bales of hay placed in the main dining room. Then you have Chuck, The Country Music Man. This guy plays guitar, sings and handles the bass drum and cymbols all at the same time. Yep, he and his music sure is country. And, so is the food, with fried catfish, brown breads, country stew, fried chicken and many, many more down home type of country cookin'. It is really different and loads of fun. So head out to the Holiday Inn East this Friday and Saturday... For those of you who head West, make sure you stop on some evening at the beautiful Sherwood Inn. There you will find Michael Brenning on electric piano and Terry Bowen at the drums playing lots of enjoyable music for dining and just plain listening. These two fit into the room with their music and style like a glove on a hand. Their material covers all types of songs, with a heavy emphasis on Country and Western, especially in Michael's style and approach. It is an enjoyable duo. Make sure you see them, Monday through Thursday.

CL Chase Tightens; Hawks, Lions Stay Close

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

With a whole slew of makeup games added to the normally heavy league schedule, last week was a "biggie" for Eastside high school baseball clubs.

City League South leader Eastmoor suffered its first setback of the official '72 season at West Friday, but still held a one game edge heading into this week's action.

AFTER DROPPING a 2-1 heartbreaker to the Warriors in extra innings Tuesday, Walnut Ridge roared back for a pair of league wins later in the week to move within a game of the lead.

Meanwhile, Bexley's Lions were rebounding from an early loss to Grandview with Mid Eight wins over Groveport and Mifflin, and they too were right in the thick of a pennant race as this week's firing opened–a half game back of co-leaders Grove City and Hilliard.

Hartley edged Wehrle 7-6 in its only CCL start of the week, to stay a half game behind frontrunner Watterson, but the Wednesday loss to Bexley hurt Groveport's title hopes, and Whitehall's young Rams finished their first round of OCC activity still looking for loop win number one.

SOME PECULIAR scheduling has the City, Catholic and Metro loops all taking a day off Friday (ostensibly to make room for tournament openers that aren't scheduled till next week anyhow).

Bexley will host London Friday in a key Mid Eight encounter, while Whitehall entertains tough Mt. Vernon.

Here's a summary of where things stand for the frontrunning clubs.

EASTMOOR

Ron Golden's diamond machine clicked off three more wins last week, before a psyched-up posse of West Cowboys ended their victory streak at nine.

Monty Corron outduelled Walnut Ridge mound star Carl Rankin Tuesday, allowing the Scots only four hits over eight innnings till his mates came up with another run for the deciding 2-1 margin.

MONDAY Bob Traphagen had been the beneficiary of some high-powered stick work, as his Warrior cohorts jumped on South workhorse Jeff Skaggs for a flock of early runs and rolled to a 12-4 triumph.

Wednesday was an off day, but Thursday the blue-decked locals rallied to thump OCC co-leader Reynoldsburg 11-5. Traphagen went five innings to get the hill verdict, but sophomore third sacker Craig Passen had to be the Warrior hero–smacking a first inning grand slammer to erase Reynoldsburg's 3-run explosion in the top of that frame.

Then came Friday's ambush at West.

"WE GOT BEAT," said Golden. "They were waitin' for us and we couldn't get anybody out in that first inning–everybody has a bad day, and that was ours."

Cowboy hurler Bob Blanton gave Golden's hitters only four safeties all day, and they weren't quite enough to offset a five-run Bronc rally in the bottom of the first. Monty Hannah, trying to work back into the starting rotation after two weeks of filling in for Mark Kraker at short, was wild from the start–and before Monty Corron could put out the fire it was too late.

The loss dropped E-M's CL South slate to 6-1, with West and Ridge a stride behind at 5-2 and Marion-Franklin still in sight at 4-2.

IT GOES without saying that a win over West would have put the Warriors on easy street–but crying over spilled milk never was a Golden specialty, and the E-M boss had eyes only for the future.

"Our hitting is really coming on--especially Hannah and Corron and Ed Shipp and Fulton at the top of the order," noted Ron. "Hannah's raised his average 60 points in about 10 days."

Eastmoor was slated to meet Mohawk Tuesday in the week's only scheduled action, with a crucial road date at Marion-Franklin looming early next week.

ST. CHARLES

The young Cardinals earned a 3-2 split for last week's crowded five-game card, topping Berne Union and East Knox, losing to Westfalll and splitting a Saturday twin bill with Canal Winchester.

Spectator Sports

Tom Simmons cracked a three-run homer to pace Tuesday's 17-4 romp past B-U. Rhett Plank waltzed to the mound verdict.

FRED MESSMER absorbed a 12-9 defeat Thursday at the hands of Westfall, but returned Friday to stop East Knox 3-1 with two-for-two support from Simmons and RBI singles in the sixth from Craig McDopnald and John McVey.

Saturday's doubleheader was a slugfest, with C-W winning the opener 21-5, and the Cards rebounding 16-4 in the nightcap. Bill Morrisroe was the St. Charles hitting star with a pair of circuit clouts. Messmer got the win to up his record to 3-1.

That left the Redbird season slate at 6-3 for the year, with a Wednesday date at Cardington and Ohio Deaf due in Friday.

COACH DON HENNE reports that his junior-laden lineup is currently hitting a collective .311–paced by captain McDonald's .407. Simmons earned kudos for his week's work with the bat, and Don also was impressed with the way Messmer (just a freshman) had handled his mound assignments.

The Cards drew a first round bye in the Class "A" Sectional tourney, and will meet the Amanda Clearcreek-Jonathan Alder winner at the opposition school next Wednesday.

WALNUT RIDGE

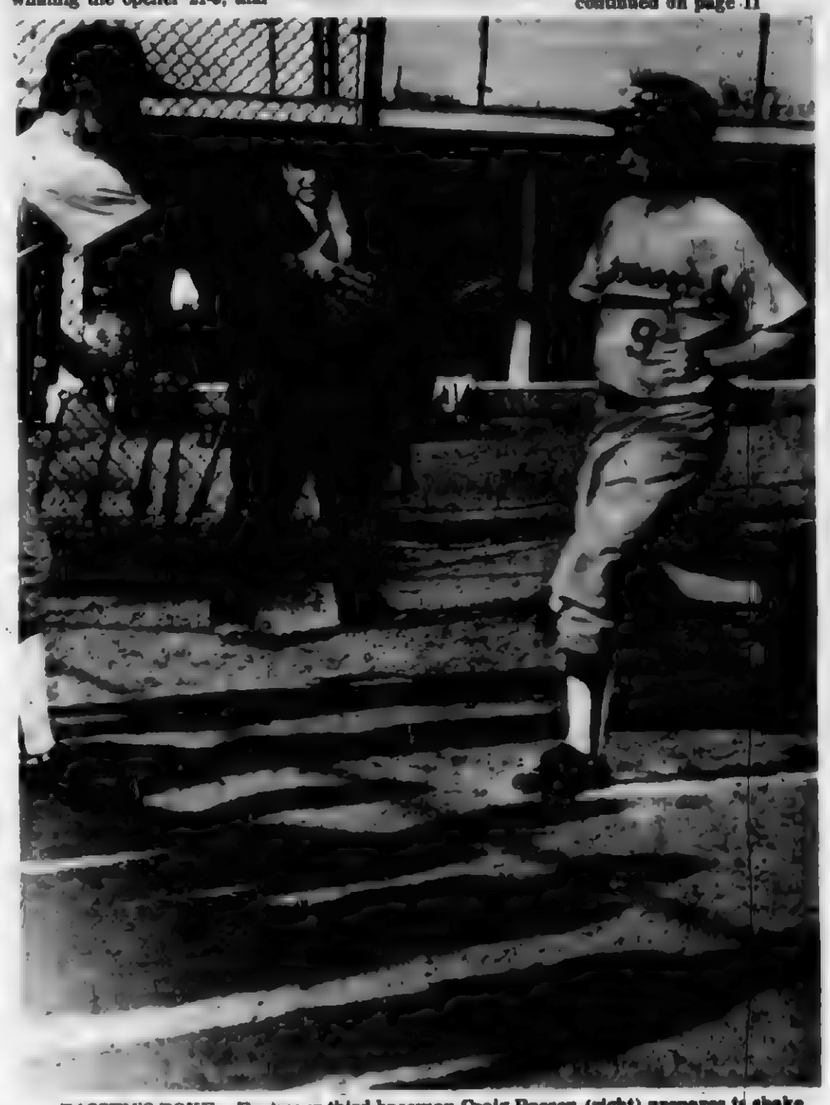
Tuesday he limited Eastmoor to six hits over eight innings, but the sixth one drove in the winning run in a key 2-1 Warrior decision. The loss dropped Ridge to 3-3 and things looked pretty gloomy.



BY FRIDAY evening, however, the picture had brightened considerably.

The Scots made up a

STOP 'N GO – Whitehall frosh catcher Kip Kane dives back safely to first, beating pickoff throw from Reynoldsburg pitcher Randy Shade to first-baseman Dave Starling Friday. Kane, who broke up Shade no-hitter with single to right, scampered to second when ball eluded Starling. Rebuilding Rams (with three other freshmen besides Kane in starting lineup) took their lumps in match with OCC co-leaders, losing 17-2. (Spectator photo by Jack Wittenmeier).

PASSEN'S POKE – Eastmoor third-baseman Craig Passen (right) prepares to shake hands with teammate Monty Hannah after circling bases on the Warrior sophomore's first E-M home run during non-loop tilt with Reynoldsburg last week. Foreground shadows represent three E-M teammates who were on base when Passen connected to give home side 4-3 first-frame lead. Warriors went on to claim 11-5 win in rematch meeting between '71 District co-champs. (Spectator photo by Denny Whalen).

Matmen Dieli, Reinbolt Head For Italy, Junior Olympics

Bishop Ready mat star Bob Dieli captured the 114 pound weight class title at last weekend's National AAU Freestyle Junior Olympic Tournament; held at Ashland College; and thus qualified to represent the U.S. later this month at a series of international meets in Europe. Competition was limited to young men 15-20 years of age.

Dieli, who scored four pins en route to his title, will leave Ashland this Friday for Cleveland, then fly to Rome for a dual meet prior to the International Junior Olympics at Trieste, Italy.

ADDITIONAL dual meets have been scheduled for Vienna and Salzburg, Austria, and another is pending for Munich–site of the Summer Olympics later this summer.

Dieli will return home May 20, and start training for the U.S. Olympic trails along with Columbus matmen Wayne Holmes and Roger Young, all of whom have already qualified.

Bill Reinbolt, an OSU sophomore who finished second in this year's Big Ten meet, took first in the 178 pound class and will also be on the plane for Rome.

Local CP Kegler Win Tournament

A team of local handicapped bowlers was crowned national champion last week at the United Cerebral Palsy Association's 1972 National Invitational pin tournament in Chicago.

The Columbus Wildcats, representing United Cerebral Palsy of Columbus and Franklin County, won out over a field of 10 entries from New York, Pennsylvania, Indiana, Louisiana, Missouri, Oregon and California.

All bowled from wheelchairs with the aid of ramps.

Whitehall Recreation Roundup

The Whitehall Recreation Department is sponsoring archery classes for both beginners and experienced archers at 10 a.m. each Saturday in the basement of the Municipal Bldg.

Instructors Randy and Pat Gidley report that classes will be moved outdoors to North American Park as soon as the weather permits; and that instruction is free of charge, with all equipment furnished by the Recreation Dept.

More adults are needed to fill a separate adult instruction group which will be conducted independently of the youth program as soon as classes move outdoors.

For further information, contact the Gidley's at 861-9706.

Capital U. To Play Nine Grid Games

For only the second time in the school's history, Capital University will play a nine-game football schedule this fall.

Gene Slaughter's Crusaders, who finished with two victories to cap an otherwise disappointing 3-6 campaign in '71, open Sept. 16 at Ashland – the only non-league game on the schedule.

Other schedule highlights include Homecoming (Oct. 7 vs Denison) and the fact that the uusual season-ending tilt with arch-rival Otterbein has been moved up to Sept. 30.

There will be four games played in Bernlohr Stadium as the Crusaders initiate the newly-organized Blue Division of the Ohio Athletic Conference.

The '72 schedule:

Sept. 16 - at Ashland
Sept. 23 - at Marietta
Sept. 30 - Otterbein
Oct. 7 - Denison (HC)
Oct. 14 - at HEIDELBERG
Oct. 28 - BALDWIN-WALLACE
Nov. 4 - WOOSTER
Nov. 11 - at WITTENBERG
-Blue Division games in caps.

Cap's Chickerella Plans Cage Camp

Capital University head basketball coach Vince Chickerella will conduct his second basketball camp this summer on the Capital campus. The first of five one-week sessions gets underway June 25.

Applications are being taken now at Capital's Alumni Gymnasium. There are vacancies in all five sessions and they will be filled on a first-come-first-serve basis.

The five sessions are as follows: June 25-July 1; July 2-8; July 9-15; July 16-22; and July 23-29.

Recognized by his peers as a good teacher of fundamentals and an excellent student of the game, "Chick" has one of the finest coaching records in the nation. During his four years at the helm of the Crusader basketball program, he has compiled an overall record of 76 wins against only 21 defeats.

The camp is open to all youngsters who are in the seventh through the 10th grades. A boy may have completed the 10th grade.

Cost of one week for an on-campus participant is $90. Cost for commuting campers is $60. For further information, contact Vince Chickerella at Capital University's Alumni Gym (236-6911).

May 15-30 Is Prime Time For Hoover Walleye Anglers

Excellent catches of walleyes are predicted at Hoover Reservoir during the next five weeks. The majority of the fish are two years old and will average 15 inches, though other age groups include fish 19 inches and some over the twenty-five inch size.

Angler tag returns indicate that 75 percent of the walleyes are caught from May 1 to June 20. The period of May 15 to 30 has proven to be the peak period, with a majority of the walleye being caught in water 8 to 10 feet deep.

White bass are averaging 11 inches for two year old fish. The white bass grow rapidly and very few reach 4 years of age at Hoover. The best areas to fish the white bass are in the inlet streams, with Big Walnut just below Galena being the hot spot.

Crappie, both black and white, are relatively abundant with a fair population present in the reservoir this year. The crappies are averaging 9 ½ inches. Bluegill and largemouth bass catches should be fair in number during the 1972 fishing season. Prospects of good catches of channel catfish are excellent. The area north of Sunbury Road appears to be the spot to catch the whopper catfish.

Anglers frequenting Hoover Reservoir are reminded of the current size limit of 13 inches for walleye and a daily possession limit of 10. Anglers catching tagged walleyes are requested to turn in the tags at the following cooperating bait dealers near Hoover Reservoir; Red Bank Harbor, Cring Marina and Harry and Dot's Bait Store.

If desired, the tag may be returned directly to Inland Fish Research, 8569 Horseshoe Road, Ashly, Ohio 43003. Prizes are being awarded by these cooperators to the lucky anglers who catch fish with specific tag numbers.

Scots, UA Host Specials; Mid Eight Meets Friday

By DENNY WHALEN
'Spectator Sports Editor

This week's slate of local track specials features a trio of Friday night attractions, including the first league championship showdown of the cinder season.

Bexley's Lions will play host Friday evening to their seven Mid Eight rivals, with Russ Owen's crew looking to avenge a one-point '71 loss to reigning loop king Grandview.

AT ABOUT the same time, Walnut Ridge will be entertaining a six team all-Eastside field in the third running of the Scot special, and Upper Arlington will be flexing its traditionally strong sinews in the 27th UA Relays--against a rock-solid field of Central Ohio's toughest schoolboy thinclads.

MID EIGHT CHAMPIONSHIPS

Bexley boss Russ Owen figures this year's league title will probably be decided in a three-way feud between his Lions, sprint strong Mifflin and balanced Grove City.

Bexley handled the Greyhounds in both a dual meet and at last week's Bexley Relays, but the Cowpunchers were busy elsewhere posting some impressive dash and relay times.

FIELD EVENTS and running prelims will kick things off at 4:30 on the Lion track, with the high hurdles final opening footrace championships at 7:30. Admission is 75 cents in advance for students, $1.25 for everyone at the gate.

Russ figured the existing league records were safe in all field chores but the high jump, where his own twosome of Carl Kraft and Russ Kessler have both equalled or bettered the current 6'1½" standard.

Mifflin star Larry Jackson tied the meet mark with a :09.8 hundred last year, and has done as well in '72; and Harold Young--his Cowpuncher sidekick on a record-threatening 880 relay quartet--is also a good bet to crack the 50 second barrier in the 440.

RUSS CONSIDERED both the mile and two mile records near cinches to fall to Grandview's Tom Brumfield and G-C standout Robin Smith respectively (Smith beat the existing two mile mark on the Lion track just last week).

"We're hoping to get a lot of points in the field events, and then try to hold off everybody through the running," said the veteran Bexley coach. Last year's 52-51 heartbreaker loss to Grandview should be enough to motivate his charges for that extra winning effort this time around.

100 DASH--:09.8, Larry Jackson (Mifflin '71).
TWO MILE--9:44.8, Robin Smith (Grove City '71).

MILE RELAY--3:29.8, Gahanna '68 (Price, Boyd, Bay, Baker).

WALNUT RIDGE RELAYS

Defending champ Gahanna, winner of two Invitational titles already this spring, will be the team to beat when things get popping on the Scot all-weather track at 6:00 Friday evening.

The '72 field is the same as last year's, with Eastmoor, Reynoldsburg, Whitehall and Hartley joining Gahanna and the host Highlanders.

THE FORMAT will include five solo field events, six relays and nine individual running tests, with field chores kicking things off at 6 and footraces commencing a half hour later.

No fewer than nine new meet standards were established in the '71 affair, and plenty of those and the other marks could fall before the evening's activity is over.

Hartley sprint star Art Best established new Relays records in both the 100 and 220 last time, and might just lower 'em a little with stiff competition from Eastmoor's outstanding stable of dash men.

THE POLE VAULT, long jump and discus standards all look shaky, along with the 440, 880 and shuttle relays.

Automatic meet marks will be set in two new events, the four mile relay and 180 low hurdles.

Admission charge will be $1 at the gate.

SHOT--55'11", Caldwell (South).
DISCUS--145'4", Mulberry (Whetstone).

UPPER ARLINGTON RELAYS

Marv Crosten's Golden Bears and arch-rival Worthington will be joined by a sterling group of nine other combatants Friday evening, as the two-division UA spectacular gets its 27th airing.

Worthington will be defending its '71 title in the "Open Division"--which comprises individual competition in the 100, 220, 440, 880, mile, two mile, high and low hurdles. The Bears, fresh from recent triumphs at the Marion-Franklin and Riverside Relays, will also be trying to hang on to last year's "Relays Division" crown (three man teams in all five field events plus the 880, mile and eight mile running relays).

IT WON'T BE all tea and cookies for the Cards and Bears, however, considering the presence of people like Bearcat Relays king Newark, speedy West and Linden, weight-strong Marion-Franklin and Lancaster, Westerville, Delaware, Springfield North and Whetstone in the field.

All field events will begin at 4 p.m., running prelims at 5:00 and running finals (open and relay) at 7:40.

Admission will be $1 for both adults and students.

THE STANDING meet marks are impressive, but Westerville's Dick Retherford and Worthington's Dan O'Rorke are a definite threat to both hurdling standards, while West's long jumpers and the UA high jumpers are capable of topping the current bests as well.

Following are the current UA Relays records:

Lions Rip Records, Win Own Relays

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Local high school field events specialists served notice at Saturday's Bellaire Relays that they've got designs on a goodly chunk of State Meet gold--copping three firsts and three seconds in the prestigious 70-team event against Ohio's top prep tracksters.

Elsewhere on the weekend's cinder scene, West piled up a big 111-89 margin over defending champ DeSales at the third annual Franklin Heights Invitational. Last Wednesday, Bexley's Lions made themselves the favorite for this week's Mid Eight title by outdistancing five foes in the sophomore running of the Bexley Relays.

Tuesday's Hilltop and Arrowhead Relays were too late for our deadline, but here's a look at the top performances in the other cinder specials:

BEXLEY RELAYS

Russ Owen's Lion thinclads captured the second running of their home special with a lot more breathing room than last year--posting a 77-63 margin over runnerup Grove City.

The '72 running was highlighted by no fewer than 11 record-breaking performances--five of them by Bexley cindermen.

DAVE CARRUTHERS clicked off a :15.1 for the high hurdles, Tom Sixt set a new meet mark of 12'6" in the pole vault, Tom Bramlage copped the 440 in :52.2, Carl Kraft and Russ Kessler tied for the high jump crown with 6'0" bests and the Lion mile relay quartet of Bramlage, Bill Whitlock, Mark Abramson and Rick Williams was clocked in 3:34.3 for the Bexley record breakers.

Hartley sprint king Art Best tied his own meet record with a :09.9 in the hundred, then returned to shatter his '71 Relays mark in the 220 with a :22.5.

Tom Brumfield, Grandview's distance standout, lowered meet bests in both the mile and 880, and Grove City's Robin Smith (as expected) got under 10 minutes by a bunch, winning in 9:47.1.

Here's a rundown of the winning performances:

DISCUS--139'1", Jeff Edelstein (Bexley).
LONG JUMP--19'9½", Carl Kraft (Bexley).
HIGH HURDLES--:15.1, Dave Carruthers (Bexley).
100 DASH--:09.9, Art Best (Hartley).
SHOT--47'9", Tom Dineen (Ready).
MILE RUN--4:28.6, Tom Brumfield (Grandview).
880 RELAY--1:31.7, Hartley (Carroll, Radcliff, Bigler, Best).
POLE VAULT--12'6", Tom Sixt (Bexley).
440 DASH--:52.2, Tom Bramlage (Bexley).
LOW HURDLES--:21.4, Bob Marcus (Grandview).
880 RUN--2:02.6, Tom Brumfield (Grandview).
220 DASH--:22.5, Art Best (Hartley).
HIGH JUMP--6'0", Carl Kraft and Russ Kessler (Bexley).
TWO MILE--9:47.1, Robin Smith (Grove City).
MILE RELAY--3:34.3, Bexley (Whitlock, Abramson, Williams, Bramlage).

CL Chase Tightens...

rainout Wednesday, and collected eight runs in the first four innings to swat Central 9-3. John Kennington limited the Bucs to a home run and a single and struck out seven to earn his first victory and complete game of the season.

Then Friday, while West was busy dumping Eastmoor, Jack Stephenson's crew was edging South 2-1 to scramble right back into the pennant chase.

Rankin was the hero again; allowing the Bulldogs one hit in seven frames and firing the third strike past 11 enemy batsmen. The Scots managed only five safeties of their own against Jeff Skaggs, but a nifty final-inning suicide squeeze play got home the winning run.

SCOTT GLENN led off the Ridge seventh with a double, and was replaced on the base paths by speedy Neil Backstrom. Backstrom raced to third on a passed ball, and scampered home when Dennis Mitchell laid down a picture-book bunt.

Jack's crew stands 5-2 for City League South action, and will have the rest of the week to devote to non-loop affairs against neighbor Whitehall (Wednesday) and Upper Arlington (Saturday).

Then, next Tuesday, they'll get a chance to avenge a 9-3 first round drubbing and do something about the current tie for second place when they visit West.

"IT WAS REAL nice of West to get a piece of Eastmoor for us," offered Stephenson--"if we can get a piece of them next week, it'll be even nicer."

He had special mention for mound surprise Dana Oaks, who earned a make-up start against Marion-Franklin 10 days ago and proceeded to shut the Devils down on five hits. "Nice to have a secret weapon like that," chuckled Jack--"with Oaks to back up Rankin and Kennington and Glenn, we've got ourselves a pretty fair stable of pitchers."

The Scot hitters haven't exactly been playing mumblety-peg either lately: Rankin leads the loop currently with an even .500, with sophomore flash Ronnie Marshall right behind at .467 and Kirt Koblens a solid .363.

JOHN MOULETTE is rapidly making a name for himself as one of the area's top base thieves--the sneaky Scot shortstop has pilfered nine sacks in seven league outings so far.

While admitting that a win over Eastmoor last week would have been quite a boost, Jack didn't think the close loss was too damaging. "It was the kind of loss that puts a little gravel in your stomach," said the Ridge boss; "you can feel it grinding at you, and it makes 'ya work a little harder."

BEXLEY

After struggling through three weeks of rainouts and road games for lack of a home diamond, Gene Millard's Lions have found at least a temporary refuge at St. Catherine's--and couple of moundsmen to back up ace Rick Clowson.

Clowson pitched a nifty three-hitter last Tuesday against Grandview--and lost 2-1 when his mates couldn't take advantage of the scoring opportunities they got (and a Bobcat hitter drilled a 3-0 pitch out of the park).

"WE SHOULD HAVE won that ballgame," noted Gene--"it was one of those kind you can just see slipping away."

Not much slipped away the rest of the week, thanks to some fence-busting by Jim Saas and Steve Germain and two solid hill performances by lefty Jim Kaltenecker and then righty Greg Spencer.

Kaltenecker shut out Groveport 9-0 Wednesday behind a 12-hit barrage by the suddenly potent Lion hitters; and Spencer weathered a few difficulties to tame Mifflin 14-7 on Friday.

IN THOSE TWO outings, Germain went six-for-nine, driving in six Bexley runs; and catcher Saas collected four safeties in seven trips, chasing across four more Lion runners.

"Those two really did the job for us," noted Millard, "and Doug Klie kept up his consistent hitting too--he's gotten at least one hit in every game this year."

He also pointed out that Clowson has now given up a grand total of four earned runs in his four complete games on the hill.

BARRING BAD WEATHER (which didn't look exactly unlikely at press time), the Lions faced a big three-game Mid Eight week, hosting Grove City Tuesday and London Friday in regularly scheduled contests and visiting Marysville Thursday for yet another make-up game.

At 4-1 heading into this week's action, Millard's group trailed co-leaders Hilliard and G-C by only a half game. The Tuesday tilt with the Greyhounds is an obvious key to Lion title hopes--a win vaulting Bexley into the top spot.

"I still think it's a four-team race," said the Lion boss--"Grandview is a solid ballclub, and Hilliard and Grove City will be tough to beat. With the league as balanced as it looks, I'd say the champ could still lose a game or two."

IF THE LEAGUE wars aren't enough to keep things interesting, the Lions will open tournament action next Monday at Licking Valley.

'Twas High 'N Tight At Falcon Invite

ALTHOUGH THE very tip of his pole couldn't reach the bar as he prepared another vault Saturday, Westland's Tom Rice (at left) not only reached the bar but cleared it for a record-breaking 14'2" effort at the Falcon Invitational. It was obvious the challenge had be met as a jubilant Rice (below) scrambled out of the foam-rubber pit following his mark - shattering accomplishment. It wasn't a record but you couldn't fault the quarter-mile finish for excitement (picture at right) as Hilliard's Rich Lese nipped West's Lamont Dixon (:52.4-52.6) at the wire. Cowboys weren't headed in final team poin totals, however, outdistancing two-time defending champ DeSales for Invite title. (Spectator photos by Jack Wittenmeier).

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently/turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.
The way they work.

EMERGENCY PLANNING LACKING

Calm Response, Exaggeration Disaster's Key Denominators

Picture this. Tornado hits Columbus without warning. Radio reports your neighborhood devastated, with number of casualties unknown. You left your wife and two small children home this morning, and haven't seen or heard from them since.

What do you do first?

Having studied the social implications of more than a hundred natural disasters since 1963, the two sociology professors have concluded that people will usually react rationally in an emergency.

In an article entitled "When Disaster Strikes (It Isn't Much like What You've Heard and Read About)" which appeared in a recent issue of "Psychology Today," Quarantelli and Dynes shattered a number of popular myths concerning human behavior in a disaster.

AMONG THE most commonly held misconception, the two researchers list widespread panic and shock. Studies reveal that instead of wild flight from the stricken area, most people are reluctant to evacuate their homes. They cling to their families and friends before turning to formal relief agencies.

Furthermore, disaster victims are often besieged by individuals and relief organizations which provide an ample supply of food and clothing.

Dr. Bibb Latane, professor of psychology at Ohio State and co-author of "The Unresponsive Bystander: Why Doesn't He Help?," offers another slant to human behavior in an emergency.

IN HIS book, he contends that a person who witnesses a disaster is often caught in a psychological trap.

On one hand, he suffers guilt if he refrains from helping. On the other, he may be ridiculed by other by-standers if he makes a fool of himself, he may be unduly putting himself in actual physical danger, and his actions . . may be misunderstood.

Indeed, the victim may even sue him in spite of his good intentions. Finally, he leaves himself wide open to the queries of reporters, curiosity seekers, and possibly, lawyers, who may bring him unwanted publicity.

IN MANY cases, Latane found that people escape this dilemma by convincing themselves, with the help of other aloof bystanders, that the situation is not really an emergency.

Further studies by the Disaster Research Center have indicated that the mass media often exaggerate the level of damage in an emergency situation. This is usually because accurate information is difficult to obtain during an emergency and because there is a general tendency to assume the worst.

The victims themselves often take pride in being involved in an historic event, and may exaggerate their role in it.

IN SPITE OF this feeling of self-importance, almost every individual interviewed readily acknowledged that "there's someone worse off than me."

Quarantelli and Dynes pointed out that the media often focus on human interest. While accurate, stories are not always representative of the total disaster situation.

"Most people want to see the human aspects of the tragedy on the evening news," commented Mrs. James Tootle, administrative assistant for the center, "and we're more interested in the organizational response."

ANOTHER aspect of an emergency which the media may have misrepresented, according to Quarantelli and Dynes, is crime. Looting is not a significant factor in most metropolitan disaster situations, and most people are not anxious to take advantage of the stricken. Instead, high morale and community spirit often emerge, with political barriers sometimes being overcome.

The assumption that "it won't happen here" is often the reason for lack of emergency planning, and it is precisely this feeling which will sometimes cause people to intensify the disaster situation.

In spite of a "fair probability" of a tornado or flood occurring in the Columbus area, there is no overall disaster planning here, Quarantelli said.

THE MOST active planning has been conducted by the local hospitals and deals with techniques for handling a large number of emergency patients in a short period of time.

Quarantelli was hesitant in evaluating Columbus' needs for disaster planning.

"I really don't like to say, but experience elsewhere has shown that an overall plan is a necessary requirement for an effective and efficient response to disaster," he said..

Voluntary Enrollment Applications Ready

Applications are now being accepted for the Voluntary Registration Program of Columbus Public Schools.

Initiated at the high school level in 1967, the program allows students to attend a school other than that of their neighborhood when such transfer results in better ethnic distribution at both the sending and receiving schools.

For example, a black student may leave a predominatly black school to enroll in a predominatly white school and a white student may leave a white school to attend one where black enrollment is high.

All school offices have applications for participation in the program and lists of the schools eligible to take part.

Support Award Slated

Candidates for a $5,000 award recognition of "an outstanding act of good citizenship in support of law, law enforcement, or the courts" are being sought by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

The award is being given as part of a country-wide campaign developed by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency to encourage citizen support of the law enforcement bodies.

Information on any private individual who might qualify for this award should be sent to Len Ford, Consultant, Ohio Committee on Crime and Delinquency, 8 East Long St., Room 200, Columbus, 43215.

HOW TO CARE FOR A YOUNG pine tree was the subject of this discussion between William Igel, of George Igel and Company and Sandy Tegtmeier. Igel presented first and second grade students at Groveport Elementary School with a pine tree in honor of Earth Week. The trees were donated by the Ohio Contractors Association with a contribution from the General Electric Credit Corporation.

Students Get Pine Trees

Groveport Elementary first and second graders may be following in the footsteps of Johnny Appleseed—but with pine trees.

The students were each presented with a small tree to plant where they felt the city most needed trees.

The 150 trees were presented to the students by the Ohio Contractors Association through a contribution from the General Electric Credit Corporation.

The presentation was made last week by William Igel of George Igel and Company.

The presentation was made in connection with Earth Week.

BUSING IS POPULAR QUESTION

Project Unite Panel Put On 'Defensive'

By LYNN WILLIAMS
Spectator Staff Writer

Chairman and members of the Search and Solve Teams for Project Unite were put on the defensive when they faced east side residents in the third of nine scheduled public forums last week.

HELLERMAN TOLD the large audience the purpose of the forums was to give parents and community residents an opportunity to express their views of the recommendations made by Project Unite committees.

"We are here to receive opinions and answer questions regarding the 718 recommendations made by you and your fellow citizens who worked on the various committees. We are not here to endorse or defend any of these recommendation, because they're not ours."

Despite Hellerman's opening remarks about the purpose of the meeting, many audience members demanded hard and fast answers for such problems as busing, which was the popular question of the evening.

ONE WOMAN, WHO told the panel she had served on the quality intergrated education committee, said the members who favored the community or neighborhood school concept had been outnumbered by civil rights groups, OSU people and committee members from the League of Women Voters.

She referred to the recommendation calling for the school system to "make a policy statement that full integration is necessary condition for quality education."

"It does not mention whether this is done by helicopter, roller skates or busing, but since the busing issue is still up in the air nationally, I think the board should not act in haste on this issue."

HELLERMAN EXPLAINED that the board of education would get a complete copy of the recommendations and the opinions expressed during the forums on May 30.

"The board has promised to review the recommendations and act upon them individually. We aren't board members and so we can not say what they will do. But they aren't going to accept or reject the report as a whole."

One audience member urged the school board to stay out of the busing issue and get back to "the primary function of the school board—education."

ANOTHER QUESTION asked was "why should the public be asked to finance integration when there was so much federal money available?"

Panel member William Mylett, who worked on the Urban Problems committee, told the audience studies had shown compensatory programs had been unsuccessful across the country and therefore the next step was felt to be integration.

The academic benefits of a pilot program of integration in an elementary school was also questioned.

MYLETT SAID the average ratio of blacks to whites in an integrated school in Columbus was about 28 per cent.

"In a pilot program the desired ratio would be between 20 and 40 per cent blacks," Mylett said. "Fewer than 10 per cent of the Columbus schools which are integrated have that ratio."

He said nationwide studies and the Coleman Report in particular, showed that poor, black or disadvantaged students did better when moved to a better or upper class school system.

"THE COLEMAN REPORT suggests this is the best way to achieve improvement in the performance of the disadvantaged children."

Mylett said the report showed no effect on the white or economically advantaged child.

Some questioned the effect of the teachers, class size, and materials as an influence in performance. Mylett said the report showed that teacher quality, class size and curriculum have little influence and that the switch to a superior or upper class school had the biggest influence.

A NUMBER OF the recommendations referred to in-service training for teachers and several persons questioned if teachers were considered to be unqualified.

Dr. William Hitt, another panel member explained that in-service training programs were any type of program for continuing education after a person entered a profession.

Hitt said there have been many new techniques and changes in the last few years, such as computers, and new evaluation methods.

"The teachers need to know these things and if they've been out of school a number of years, they do not have the needed background. These programs are not voluntary because many of the teachers who need the training most might not take the courses."

HITT SAID THE schools wanted to see teachers become even more qualified and more effective. "Teachers can learn to be more sensitive to the individual student."

One question which drew loud applause from the audience was why some of the people serving as chairmen in the project did not even have children in the Columbus schools. The question was leveled at one panel member but two others also told the audience they did not have children in the system.

HELLERMAN TOLD the group, "Everyone in Columbus and Franklin County is interested in the same things and I don't feel that just because we don't have kids in the schools, we can't be interested."

Frank Brockmeyer said his children attended Catholic schools for religious reasons, but that he had an interest in the Columbus schools through his taxes, and in the labor oranization he represented which hired Columbus school graduates.

Another panel member said, "I asked the same question when I was asked to serve on the committee. I had worked in the California school programs and have lived in this area only two years. I was told they were having trouble getting interested people involved."

Hellerman said that the project had made every attempt to get local people involved in the committees, but that at most meetings the same group of people were present.

ONE MAN IN THE audience asked how the school board would learn about the opinions expressed at the meeting.

Hellerman said all questions mailed in or written out during the forum would be included in the final report.

One woman stood and identified herself as Mrs. Virginia B. Prentiss one of the members of the Columbus School Board and said another board member was also there and they both had attended the other two forums. "We will continue to be present and you may be assured we are listening."

Remember When?

MOTHER'S DAY is almost here. It's a day to remember and honor Mother and show her she is appreciated. But what does this special day mean to a mother? Perhaps it's a time to think back and remember when it all began. Happy Mother's Day! (Spectator photo by Lynn Williams).

EXPANDED TO SECOND GRADE

Board To Continue Non-Graded System

Madison Local School Board members Monday night approved the continuation next year of a non-graded system at Groveport Elementary School and also okayed expanding the program to the second grade.

The program, which was started this year, substitues written and oral reports for letter grades.

IN A REPORT before the board Monday night, teachers and parents serving on a Parent Advisory Board were enthusiastic about the results so far.

Kenneth Sweigart, chairman of the advisory board, said the purpose of the non-graded system was to encourage more positive feelings in the students about themselves in the first grade.

Sweigart explained that the board and some teachers had visited three other school districts using the non-graded system and felt the program was successful in those areas.

"WE ALSO FELT that in addition to the written reports sent home with the students, parent-teacher conferences would also be beneficial," Sweigart said.

"We feel that these conferences aid communication and are one of the most beneficial parts of the program."

Sweigart said the advisory board held monthly meetings and was keeping a close watch on the program.

"WE WANT TO SEE it continued next year but then we wondered about the first graders who had been in the system and what would happen to them in second grade. We felt the system should be expanded to include second graders."

He said that 60 questionaires were sent out to parents regarding the program and that 60 were returned.

"According to the response 60 per cent wanted to expand the program to second grade and 60 per cent wanted to continue the non-graded program next year."

MRS. MILDRED FRIEND reported to the board that parents wanted the reports sent out every six weeks rather than every nine and would like more detailed reports on the skills as well as attitudes and habits of the students.

Another suggestion for changing the program for next year was to increase the number of reading groups. At present students are either placed at high, average or low levels. The change would allow as many as 18 different reading groups.

Board members questioned parents as to how they felt the program was working and if the youngsters were enjoying school more.

ONE WOMAN TOLD the board the system had taken away the fear of school for her first grade son.

One man attending the meeting said the program in his opinion made school a more joyful experience for children.

"There is a definite fear of failing for a child. In this program the child's progress is rated and he is not stamped a B or C or D student."

Board member John Hummell asked what were some of the objections to the program.

SEVERAL OBJECTIONS given were that some parents felt the system lacked motivation and others felt they wanted to compare their child with the rest of the class.

One man with children in the non-graded program said "If a lazy child finds he can do only a little work and still get an A or B he is learning not to work hard. If a student gets an F he is learning he is a failure and so why try."

Most of those present agreed that grades were not a motivation unless the parents made them so.

SUPERINTENDENT Philip Williams recommended the extension and expansion of the program but urged the parents and teachers to keep a careful watch and to keep evaluating the program.

Williams said he felt it was great the children were learning "to learn and not for a grade."

Five More City Schools Win Double Sessions

Columbus Public Schools has determined how it will cope next year with the problems of a surplus of students and a deficit of classroom space.

The proposed reorganization presented by the administration to the board when it met as a committee - of - the - whole yesterday involves busing at the elementary level and three variations to the customary school day in the secondary schools.

West and South High Schools will go on double sessions, joining Walnut Ridge and Mifflin Junior-Senior High which are currently in the situation of having half the student body attend in the morning and the other half in the afternoon.

Junior high schools slated for double sessions for the first time in September are Clinton, Johnson Park and Yorktown. Woodward Park went on the half days sessions involving the seven periods over a five hour period at the beginning of the 1971-72 term.

C.L. Dumaree, deputy superintendent who presented the plan also reported that it would be necessary to place East High and Barrett Junior High on extended schedules, bringing the total to 11 junior high and six senior highs on the plan through which some students arrive and leave earlier than those who come mid-morning and remain until early evening.

Two schools, Buckeye and Everett Junior Highs which are now on extended days, will be able to return to normal next year.

Northland is attempting a plan that has not previously been experimented with in Columbus.

Labeled "a stacked" schedule, the school day will run for 10 hours, with the students scheduled for five hours each, although not necessarily consecutive.

To illustrate the point Dumaree stated a student could conceivably attend school for three or four periods in the morning, and return in the late afternoon to meet the minimum five hour day.

By fall, Dumaree stated, 1900 elementary children will not be able to be housed in the school in their normal attendance area.

The school days of these children will not be altered (unless one counts busing time) and they will be transported to the school nearest their home where they can be accomodated.

The only school subject to busing which is not already in such a program is Oakmont which will send one class to Olde Orchard.

However, at Easthaven an additional four classes will be bused out, putting two each in Scottwood, James Road and Shady Lane.

With public outcry anticipated to the plan, (believed the most desirable of the alternatives faced), Dumaree was able to tell board members that they could assure the public no boundary changes are anticipated at the secondary level.

Furthermore, any changes made in the elementary schools will be very minor.

It was explained that while enrollment is expected to decrease at the elementary level more than it will increase in the upper grades, the leveling off of enrollment does not solve the problem.

It has already been determined that a relatively modest start toward Supt. John Ellis's goal of much smaller first grades will be made with no more than 26 students in one room during their first year in schools.

Mrs. Miller 'Takes Off'

That is the name Mrs. Miller has given her Cherokee 140 which she will fly in the 1972 Angel Derby on May 15. The race, which is the all-women's international air race, is from Ottawa, Canada to Fort Lauderdale.

MRS. MILLER is sponsored by Executive Jet Aviation and her plane is being provided by Central Aviation. The plane has been specially overhauled and repainted for the derby.

"Entering the Angel Derby has been my consuming ambition since I acted as co-chairman of the race when the Derby started in Columbus Last year," Mrs. Miller said.

Mrs. Miller, who has two teenaged sons, will take leave from her job as a quality assurance technican at the Defense Construction Supply Center for the race.

SHE LEAVES FOR Ottawa today and will stop enroute in Poland, Ohio to pick up her co-pilot, Mrs. Coralie Felger.

The first of the 55 entries in the race will leave Ottawa at 9:30 a.m. on the 15th. The other competitors will follow at one minute intervals.

Mrs. Miller, whose racing number is 32, expects to be airborne less than an hour later.

Although the aircrafts are required to stop only once during the race at Syracuse, the port of entry into the U.S., Mrs. Miller said she may refuel at several other airports.

"AS FAR AS I'M concerned happiness is a full gas tank."

The flight plan will take Mrs. Miller from Syracuse to Akron; Louisville, Ky.; Lyersburg, Tenn.; Montgomery, Ala.; and Gainsville, Fla.

The planes may fly only during daylight and it will take Mrs. Miller two days to reach the finish line.

THE ANGEL DERBY is worth $2,500 to the winner with a second prize of $1,500 and third, $1,000.

Both Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Felger are highly experienced pilots having commercial pilot licenses for single engine planes.

Both women are also active in the Ninety-Nines, the international organization for women pilots.

ROBERT L. SCOTT, JR., Executive Jet Aviation's vice president of sales, said, "As a pilot, I know that there is nothing to rival the challenge of an air race. I am sure that all of Columbus will follow Mrs. Miller's race progress with interest."

EJA will issue daily bulletins on Mrs. Miller's progress.

WHPCA Meeting Tonight

A meeting between community representatives and Columbus city officials is scheduled for tonight at the Walnut Hill Country Club, 6001 E. Livingston Ave., at 8 p.m.

The purpose of the meeting is to inform officials of the communities' need for adequate services, such as fire and police protection.

Mrs. William Spencer, member of the Walnut Hill Park Civic Association, said representatives from civic organizations, parent-teacher groups, business and community leaders were asked to attend the meeting.

Mrs. Spencer said the prime concern of residents is locating an emergency squad in the immediate area.

School Fair Planned

The Annual Art and Science Fair at Groveport-Madison Junior High School is scheduled for today and tomorrow in the school gym.

The entries will be judged today and the exhibit will be open to the public tomorrow night at 7 p.m.

Supply 'n Demand

Only a few years ago a college sheepskin opened wide the doorways of business and industry.

Today, many June graduates can be expected to be found pounding the sidewalks.

The campus recruitment program mirrors the lack of eagerness on the part of business to absorb the current crop of inexperienced but degreed job seekers.

Half of the recruiter personnel representing business, industry and government who set up shop on campuses throughout the nation last year simply didn't come to the party during the spring of 1972.

And those who did were increasingly selective.

For example, at a recent conference of such recruiters it was the concensus that the person who hired better have a good story for the home office if someone offered a position was neither black nor female.

Jobs are available, and recent graduates are unlikely to remain indefinitely on the unemployment roles.

Despite the fact they no longer are enjoying a "seller's market" (in which each year the bids for their services automatically rose from six to 10 per cent), most will find an employer ready to take a calculated risk on their untired performance.

But many of these will accept jobs that do not require a college degree.

This means of course that, vocationally speaking, the four years and thousands of dollars spent upon a student's college education was wasted.

Surveys show that 54 per cent of companies state they believe too many of America's youth go to college. On the other hand, almost 70 percent of these same companies concede they will not appreciably step up the number of high school graduates who they will add to the payroll.

When in three years' time recruiters needs for men with bachelor degrees has nose-dived to about 10,000, it is time for the high school graduate to carefully weigh the value of a bachelors before he commits himself to a conventional college degree.

Two-thirds of the nation's employers are suggesting just two years of higher education for many of those who previously earned full diplomas.

While certain skills (such as in the teaching profession) are in appalling over-supply, the critical shortage of trained technicians remains unabated.

The cold fact today is that our universities and colleges are turning out hordes of over-educated men and women and the trickle of graduates from vocational and technical schools cannot fill the slots created by an technological, computerized age.

It's time to bet our educational dollars to groom youth to run in the races where the purses are high and opportunity, rather than disillusionment, waits at the finish line.

Summer Of '72

Let's Clean House

Perhaps the most amazing thing about the snafu of the Cleveland election is that it hadn't happened before.

The justification of the accusations and the counter-accusations may or may not be determined, but one thing is certain.

When election board seats are used as awards to the party-faithful, it is only by the grace of God that competent officials are named.

Furthermore, the patronage extant in the election process --the stronghold of Democracy-- filters down to the precinct level with the worker s selected purely upon the basis of their past service to their party.

The replay of the election yesterday in those Cleveland precincts where residents were denied the right to vote is probably the only immediate solution to a nasty situation--although it is also an exercise in futility with it already pre-determined the votes cast will not be sufficient in number to alter the outcome of the election.

But what is more important is to learn whether the whole debacle stems from a planned disruption at the polls, designed to disenfranchise thousands—or whether the gross inefficiency of election officials from the top level down is responsible.

If the foulup was intentional, those perpetrating the crime must be ferreted out-regardless of their station--and punished to the fullest extent of the law.

If the mess can be attributed to errors of omission and commission, it's time for a thorough house cleaning.

And the attack on the cob-webs hung in boards of election should not be limited to Cuyahoga County.

More than one county board is largely manned by men past normal retirement age who can be suspected of having lost the grip on whatever degree of competency they once maintained.

State law condones the pork barrel approach to the selection of such boards and their election-day employes. This means that, to safeguard against future fiascos, the legislature must initiate some changes.

Name-calling between Gov. Gilligan and Ted Brown (who, as Secretary of State, is Ohio's election chief) is ludicrous and irresponsible.

With both men disclaiming any intention to talk the matter over, the public might well consider extending any house-cleaning efforts to the executive level.

But, be that as it may, the Cuyahoga cross-up cannot be whitewashed away.

Something stinks about the whole mess. Whether it is the stench of conspiracy or the musty scent of bungling boards remains to be seen.

Either way, anti-pollution efforts must be immediate--and complete.

Dog Control

It is all too easy to talk about stray dogs and cats in general and specifically, the Humane's Society's failure to adequately cope with the situation.

But it is extremely difficult to do something about it. However, it appears Robert Barton, the new general manager of the Society, has been barking up the right trees during his short tenure.

Few people, in their harsh criticism of the Society and its shelter, realize that the primary function of a Humane Society is the prevention of cruelty to animals.

Dog control is a separate matter -- logically the concern of local government which, in Franklin County, is being subsidized by a private foundation.

Last year the people-dog ratio locally was 7.7 to one and each of the eight wardens (paid through collection of license fees by the county) was responsible for the policing of about 25,000 dogs and a growing host of felines.

The cost of this control program (which does not include the services of the Society involving placement and clinical and observation services) totaled $143,358.

The county appropriation toward this expense was $96,924, leaving the society to pick up a $46,000 tab from its private income.

Furthermore, 90 percent of the dog control services were incorporated within the City of Columbus which does not contribute a dime to the operation.

In attempting to bring a semblance of order to the program, Barton has started by laying down some ground rules.

The county has been divided into six areas and on a specified day of the week each will be patroled, with concentration made upon the impounding of dogs traveling in packs and investigation of alleged cruelty to animal claims.

No longer will personal grievance complaints involving minimum benefit to the general public be accepted and the wardens will not attempt to round up dogs at unknown localities.

Emergency service will continue on reports of injured animals and attacks made upon farm animals.

Although municipalities and individuals may rue the loss of a handy-dandy dog catcher to solve the problems of a baying hound or a litter of homeless pups, Barton believes the service restrictions are mandatory if instances deserving of priority are to be efficiently handled.

To bulwark his point, he states that in the past a warden has often been handed a list of 140 complaints to investigate in a single day--an unattainable goal with priorities a hit-or-miss affair.

Furthermore, he asks that the city assume its rightful share of a problem that congestion spawns.

Many other cities of comparable size have come to accept the fact that license fees (which locally haven't been hiked since 1929) and the funds of privately-financed humane societies cannot shoulder the burden of a municipal dilemma.

Barton estimates that the initial establishment of an adequate dog control program throughout the county would cost (including the initial cost of 12 vehicles) about $250,000.

This would provide an additional 21 men (at an average of $9,000 a year) and reduce each warden's responsibility to 12.4 square miles and about 7,300 dogs.

Two-thirds of the units would be assigned within the city with the rest scattered throughout the county.

To help finance such a program, it is suggested that the penalty for failure to either license or confine a dog be doubled to $20 and that second and third offense fines be raised to $35 and $50 respectively.

In some communities two-thirds of the proceeds from such fines are earmarked for the Humane Society to operate dog control programs.

Mayor Tom Moody has given an appreciative ear both to the programs put into operation and proposed by Barton.

But it is going to take more than an ear to solve the animal problem in Franklin County.

It is going to take money and a change in philosophy.

As long as children are bitten and property is damaged by dogs at loose who do not respect lot lines, the dog control problem goes far beyond the basic premise that the Humane Society provide a shelter for homeless dogs and cats.

Those who realize this and support the city's participation in funding animal control should see the Society's funds and manpower released for better shelter operation that so many have found deplorable in the past.

Hazard Posting

At least one Columbus builder seems delighted with the latest proposal for regulation of flood plain development anticipated to reach City Council next month.

Ernest Fritsche, who actively opposed a previous ordinance banning all construction in areas which can be expected to flood every ten to 100 years, has labeled the current measure as "more workable."

It allows the erection of "flood-proofed" buildings. This, because of costs, would undoubtedly rule out single family residences, but leave the door wide open to apartment buildings.

The Development Department, when headed by Phil Dolan under the Sensenbrenner administration, consistently fought any residential construction in flood plains-- including the "fringe" areas, supposedly free from the threat of moving water (in contrast to back up or non-turbulent flooding.)

This position was strongly endorsed by Civil Defense officials who have learned the hard way that although people will rapidly leave their place of employment when threatened by high water, they are reluctant to evacuate their homes.

Furthermore, city officials with political experience were well aware that the home-owner or tenant, when disaster hits, vents his wrath upon the government and not upon the developer or his landlord.

But apparently the pressures of those attempting to reap a financial harvest from the development of the banks of the Scioto and Olentangy and Alum and Big Walnut creeks has knocked out the dams of resistance of the more cautious.

Assuming City Council also kowtows to the developers its appears Naders Raiders might have some rich delta soil in which to plow.

Consumer protection legislation and directives orginating with national health officials have gone a long way to discourage public duping and public suicidal tendencies.

If apartments are to rise upon the banks of our streams, should not the public be warned of the dangers occupancy of such quarters entails?

And we don't mean the warning should be in small print, buried in a lease agreement or deed.

Rather, we would like to see it mandatory that every residential structure built upon a flood plain be posted with a permanent sign warning the tenants that the area is subject to flooding.

Maybe, with the demand for housing what it is in Franklin County, the posting would not be a deterrent to the households seeking a roof over their collective heads.

But at least, those sufficiently foolhardy to be entrapped by floods would be willing victims.

Welfare Alternative

A new state law effective last week has placed a chink in the massive monument built toward a Welfare State in Ohio.

Without the signature of Gov. Gilligan (who strenously objects to the legislation), the bill requiring the able-bodied over 16 to accept work assignment or forfeit welfare support is now operating.

Implemented with the provision that checks written by society must be picked up at the Bureau of Employment, the statute is not an unreasonable one.

The obligation to work (if work is available) is limited to the amount of substinence received plus a $30 bonus in appreciation of initiative.

Also, the potential employe is not required to take a job in which he could be categorized as a strike breaker or in which the compensation is below customary wages for like work in the community, the distance from his home is unreasonable, or involves an employer where health and safety regulations are violated.

The law is simply one providing an alternative to a public dole for those previously either unwilling to work or unable to find a market for their often limited competency.

It is highly probable that not everyone who is forced to take a spin at productive labor can be assured, "Try it-you'll like it."

But the majority may find the fruits of financial independence well worth the toil.

And it can be hoped that, with their appetities for independence once whetted, relatively few of the able-bodied will choose to eke out an existence on the meagre support provided by welfare.

Gilligan and his administrators may well take heed of the warning issued by Representative Rodney Hughes, chairman of the House Select Committee on Public Assistance.

He has stated that if the administration further refuses to open its eyes to welfare problems and continues simply to pour more public money into the dole system, the legislature will step in.

W-OHIO TV

A new dimension was added to television viewing recently when the Board of Regents approved allocating almost $.5 million to link together eight existing Educational Television Network stations and four under construction and to extend broadcasting from 4 to 11 p.m.

Gov. Gilligan, who asked for such facilities last year, believes the move will bring quality programming to at least seven million people who have limited opportunity to see television during the daylight hours.

In addition to providing those rural and suburban areas with access to cultural, social, recreational and educational events, the governor sees the network as an instrument with which vital information from different corners of the state can be exchanged by university officials, law enforcement officers and other agencies needing to communicate.

A first in the nation, the plan is exciting with programming limited, according to Gilligan, "only by our imaginations."

It's taken since 1960 for the state-wide hook-up to get off the drawing boards. Unfortunately, it will probably take another decade to wean Ohioans away from the inane fare of commercial television to which they have become addicted.

Shame On You, Sam

According to news from the National Consumer Finance Association, the man meeting his bride at the altar this June has more to lose than his freedom.

If his finacee is a working gal, he will find that his loss of single status will be a costly one when the time comes to settle up with Uncle Sam.

In fact, the "hardships" to be suffered by married couples are such that one bulletin, "Finance Facts", suggests it wise to postpone marriage until after the end of the year—or to make sure that a contemplated divorce is a fait accompli before Dec. 31.

For example, assume our June bride and bridegroom each earn $7,500 a year. Wending their ways through the jungle of income tax as single individuals (with standard deductions) they would be taxed $2,136, but the wedding bands up their liability by $161.

For the more affluent, the "marriage tax" makes "living in sin" an attractive alternative.

A combined income of $35,000 after holy matrimony would be $1,270 more than for a wily pair who bypassed the orange blossoms.

Shame on you, Uncle Sam. It looks as if you have done more to undermine the institution of marriage than communal living, mother-in-laws and "the pill".

Whose Garden Is This?

BY RICHARD L. PAUGH (THROUGH YOUR LOCAL TRAINS.)

Each year, the National Wildlife Federation (NWF) hires the Gallup organization to poll the public on various matters concerning the environment. This year, like the earlier years, brought surprises.

Frankly, each poll "proves" that American citizens are willing to do big things to get the environment cleaned. Yet, that same citizenry keeps buying non-returnables, more cars, and more appliances. They are not equating their own personal lives with the total problem.

FORTY-NINE per cent of those questioned this year said they would prefer to handle the pollution problem by "living more simply", 34 per cent would prefer paying the cost to clean it up, and 12 per cent would like to do both.

In surveys such as the NWF sampling, costs are over-emphasized while the "simpler living" approach is not given full exposure. Most Americans are tied to their automobiles, finding them badly needed to get to work, buy groceries, and generally enjoy life.

The poll asked "would you be willing to pay $100 for anti-pollution gear on your car?" Over twice as many would rather buy a less powerful car.

TO GO IT all one better, the poll should have planted the idea of using bikes if the trip is within a three-mile radius of your home. The idea of constant tune-ups was also overlooked. Just these two schemes, if used by a majority of the population, would reduce travel-caused air pollution by 25 per cent.

A return to simplicity can be fun. A late dinner by candlelight saves electricity, cuts out the need for TV snacks and can be very romantic. A walk to the corner store saves gasoline, finds new neighbors and is very healthy.

And so it goes, the simple approach opens new facets to everyday life.

PHASE II (you'll pardon the pun) of the environmental fight is now underway. Everyone, in the two years since Earthday 1970, now must admit that our planet has dirty feet--even the Chambers of Commerce.

What we must now do is integrate the thinking of the citizenry with the constant judgment of "what will this do to the environment?" When they buy, when they work, and when they play, every waking moment must be guided with an appraisal of the results and by-products.

After the citizenry arrives at this point of development, laws then must be beefed-up so that killing a stream is parallel to killing a human.

DEAR CONSUMER

Getting Your Name Off Mailing Lists

By VIRGINIA KNAUER
Special Assistant to President Nixon
For Consumer Affairs

Has this happened to you?

You go to your mail box expecting a letter from your son with pictures of your granddaughter's birthday party. You sort through six envelopes and find you have nothing but so-called "junk mail."

NOT ONLY do you have a "let down" feeling, but you are annoyed. You did not ask for these mail-order catalogs, magazine subscription offers and all the other advertisements in your mail.

But all of it is correctly addressed to you.

If you want to rid your mail box of all unwanted mail, you should ask the Direct Mail Advertising Association and the U.S. Postal Service for help.

DIRECT Mail Advertising Association represents 1600 companies that send advertisements to persons on their mailing list.

To remove your name from these lists, ask the association for a "name-removal" application form. When you return the form, the association will request all its members (and some nonmembers) to remove your name from their lists within 60 days.

To get the association's form, write Consumer Relations, Direct Mail Advertising Association, Inc., 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

THE ASSOCIATION says that since it usually does not represent local companies and charitable organizations, it does not take the responsibility of asking them to remove your name from their mailing lists.

Also, the association's name-removal service is not designed to take your name off one company's mailing lists -such as a mail-order catalog--without taking it off lists of all companies.

To remove your name from an individual company's list, you will have to make your own special written request to the company.

THE U.S. Postal Service can help you to get your name off all mailing lists used by "smut peddlers." A Federal law protects you and your family from receiving sexually oriented material in the mail.

Ask a clerk at your local post office for a copy of form No. 2201. Fill out the form, including your name and names of others in your family, and return it to the postal clerk.

The Postal Service in Washington will add your form to its list of persons who do not want to receive pornography, and the list will be made available to all mailers of pornographic material.

THIRTY days after your name is added ot the list, any mailer who sends you sexually oriented advertisements is subject to civil and criminal legal action by the Postal Service.

Nit-Picking ?

A national officer of United Way was in town recently and told local United Way and United Community Council officials to stop "nit-picking."

According to Paul Akana, "accountability" should be streamlined and the agencies should evidence greater faith in one another.

He specifically described as "nonsense" the policy of putting each member agency upon the carpet once a year for a 25-minute review of the past year's activity.

Well, Mr. Akana, we cannot agree with you. We hope that UW and UCC agencies aren't unduly torn apart by such nit-picking, but we think 25 minutes is a reasonable price to pay for a slice of the $5 million pie annually sliced by UW agencies.

The UW vice president seemed on firmer ground when he stated that the "customers" of the agencies should have a larger voice in determining the services they receive.

For example, we suspect a lot of agency clients would like to see more money spent on day care centers and well baby clinics and a little less in political action.

But back to the idea of accountability. As long as the American wage earner is solicited for support of UW agencies he is going to ask what happens to his "Fair Share."

And he doesn't consider it nit-picking to inquire.

HUKLE-WILES TEAM

Eastland Picks 'Road Scholars'

The Eastland Joint Vocational School has picked its "Road Scholars" for 1972.

These are the boys who will represent Eastland in this year's Plymouth "Trouble Shooting Contest", according to Mr. Paul D. Keck, automotive shop instructor at the school.

COMPETING for Eastland will be Mike Hukle, (Whitehall) and Gerry Wiles (Groveport).

The team will be sponsored by George Byers and Sons.

The Trouble Shooting Contest will be held at 12:15 p.m., Thursday May 18 at the Columbus Speedway.

THE WINNING team in the local contest will be sent to Indianapolis in June to Compete against other top Trouble Shooters from all parts of the country in the National Championship Finals.

Contestants are competing for more than $125,000 worth of scholarships and awards.

In the contest, participants take a written exam which counts as 30 percent of their team's final score and then they race the clock and the other teams to find and fix several malfunctions deliberately placed under the hoods of new cars. This mechanical challenge counts as 70 percent of a team's score.

PURPOSE of the contest is to recognize and honor outstanding young auto mechanic students and to encourage them to make a career as automobile mechanics.

Trouble Shooting has placed more then 17,000 young men in full or part-time jobs as auto mechanics. Since the contest became a national event in 1962, the Chrysler-Plymouth Division of Chrysler Motors Corporation has made available scholarships for 210 students.

Learning Profitable For Horticulturists

The Horticulture Class at Bishop Hartley High School is out to prove that once again as they plan their fourth annual flower sale for May 13 through 21.

THE SPRING FLOWER Sale is one of two at the school which last year raised approximately $1,500. The money goes back into the Biology Department and for equipment for the school's two greenhouses.

Miss Mary Ann Rees, horticulture teacher, said there will be approximately 25,000 vegetable and bedding plants for sale.

"Some of the bedding plants we have are geraniums, petunias, zinnia, begonia, ageratum, coleus and Hardy mums. In the vegetable plants we have tomato, cabbage, onions, and peppers."

THERE ARE also hanging baskets which will be sold, and replacements for the baskets.

"We are selling the plants in six packs and nine packs as well as mixed and unmixed flats and individual plants.

"The advantage of the packs is that the roots are already pretty well developed and it is fairly safe to plant them outdoors now," Miss Rees explained.

MISS REES SAID Bishop Hartley was the only school in the area to operate a greenhouse on such a large scale.

"The program was started about five years ago and the courses are career oriented. Several of the boys are working part time in greenhouses and florist shops.

"The course gives the students good practical experience and really comes under the vocational classification."

OTHER THAN THE flower sales the class is responsible for the landscaping in the school courtyard.

"The students planted the trees and shrubs and are responsible for the up keep of the area."

Miss Rees said 50 students had already signed up for the course next year and the course would be expanded. .."I HOPE WE CAN go into more house plants and special projects for decorations during various seasons such as Christmas."

Miss Rees said the two greenhouses were built by the students with money raised in previous flower sales.

"We may need another one if the course keeps growing."

GREENHOUSE OWNERS AND florists in the area have been helpful in the development of the course, Miss Rees said. "Many times they will donate extra pots or seeds and act as advisors if any problems arise."

The sale will be open on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on weekends from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

OVER 25,000 VEGETABLE and Bedding plants will be on sale at Bishop Hartley High School during the annual flower sale. Maggie Stadler is making sure the gerasiums are ready for the May 13-21 sale which will be open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. and on weekends 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Money raised will be used by the Biology Department and for equipment for the school's two greenhouses.

St. Charles Stages '1776'

Winner of the 1969 "Tony" Award for Best Musical and the New York Drama Critics Circle Awards, "1776" is a 12-number musical play in seven scenes—presented with a single intermission. It ran for three seasons on Broadway.

ACTION takes place in May, June and July of 1776 in a single setting representing the chamber and anteroom of the Continental Congress in Philadelphia—and certain reaches of John Adam's mind.

The St. Charles' production, planned since November, will be presented Friday and Saturday evenings (8 o'clock) and Sunday afternoon (3 o'clock) in the Campus Theatre, 2010 E. Broad St. Tickets ($1. each) will be available at the door.

Cast leads will be David Lorr (John Adams), Frank Copeland (Ben Franklin), John Albert (Thomas Jefferson), Susan Downey (Abigail Adams) and Vicky Gallucci (Martha Jefferson).

THE ST. Charles' production is directed by Fred L. Smith and (student director) David Nohle. The musical production is headed by Rev. Daniel Pallay (director), Msgr. F. Thomas Gallen (orchestrations) and John Schuster (piano.).

Eye On Eastmoor ...

By PAMELA MORGAN

"I have never seen a school like Eastmoor...so many different departments," says Cesar Brites, AFS student from Brazil. "I would especially like to see such a dramatics department in schools in Brazil.

Cesar is currently attending a small school in Pittsburgh, Pa. I wanted to see a large American school with different minority groups represented. It gives me a more realistic image of America."

During his visit Cesar is staying at the home of two Eastmoor students, Bill and Pamela Morgan.

FOR THE second consecutive year EHS took first place in the Players Club High School Drama Invitational held Apr. 30. Eastmoor's excerpt was from "A Raisin in the Sun" directed by Roger A. Masten. Performing students were Tonyry Connolly, Patricia Sims, Roy Byrd, Eric Farrow, Lloyd Clark, and Constance Cherry.

The "In The Know" team has done it again! It will be in the semi-finals against Bishop Watterson May 18 (7:30 p.m. on Channel 10). For two years Eastmoor has advanced further than any other Columbus Public school in the competition.

Senior Wally Cannon will attend the U.S. Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs. He was nominated by Sen. William Saxbe.

250 SENIORS turned out for the Senior Dinner at the Imperial House last week. Holly Reed was named "Senior Girl of the Year" and "Girl Most Likely to Succeed."

Archie Griffin, in addition to his "Male Senior of the Year" title, earned "Most Athletic." Class clown was Sidney "Nosey" Karmia.

A day of fun at King's Island is scheduled for May 29. A round trip bus ticket may be purchased before May 19 for $3.50. Tonia Kee is the one to see for further information.

The "EHS Arts Festival" is coming May 21. Featured will be the Performing Arts Departments, consisting of theatre arts, vocal, and instrumental departments. In addition, the 3-D and 2-D art students will have their work on display. Tickets may be purchased from the box office for $1.

Gallery Players To Open 'Fiddler On Roof' May 13

Two East Columbus residents will star in leading roles for the upcoming production of "Fiddler On the Roof" being presented by Gallery Players of The Jewish Center.

Julian Barnett, of 2865 Langfield Dr., portrays Tevye the dairyman with Shirley Friedland, of 5150 Longbranch Ln., as his wife Golde in the musical which has drawn record audiences throughout American and 32 foreign countries.

GALLERY Players production of this delightful musical marks the first community theatre presentation of Fiddler in Central Ohio.

Before moving to Columbus 18 months ago, Shirley Friedland was active in numerous productions with the Huntington, Pa. community theatre. Although she has no formal vocal training, her voice is beautifully and naturally expressive as the seemingly-unimpressed - yet - devoted Jewish wife.

Julian Barnett has been with Gallery Players for 10 years, and has acted in numerous productions. The part of Tevye marks his first leading musical role. He is a purchasing agent for a manufacturer of industrial and truck scales.

GALLERY Players will present "Fiddler On the Roof" on May 13-14, 16-17, 20-21 in the Center Auditorium, 1125 College Ave. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. each evening (with the exception of Student Night, May 17).

The performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. that night and students will be admitted for half price. A champagne meet-the-cast reception will be held immediately following opening night and the audience is cordially invited to attend.

Ticket information and reservations can be obtained by calling the Jewish Center (231-2731)

ACT II

By

BETTY DRAGONETTE

Barbara Boylan, director of Curtain Players season closer "Tea And Sympathy," was nice enough to let me watch dress rehearsal last Thursday. Robert Anderson exposes the tragic consequences resulting from society's ancient concept of the traits that comprise masculinity. Using Tom Lee as the victum of unbridled hazing by his peers and house master, Mr. Anderson balances out his script with a most sympathetic house master's wife. If you have never seen this play, the surprise ending may be a bit shocking. But when you think about it, what other outcome could there be?

As the sensitive young Tom Lee, Bill Arthur in his second role in community theater reveals his potential. Bill's real life sister, Sue Link, portrays the one woman who befriends poor Tom Lee.

One of the last minute replacements, Joe Maneri as Mr. Lee, steps up the pace with his every entrance. Tom Davis and Dick Near also came to the rescue at the eleventh hour with their usual capable performances. Others in the cast are Marcel Brdar, Tommy Davis, and Bruce Boylan. Emelene Link serves as assistant director and stage manager.

In spite of tremendous technical problems, if the cast picks up on the director's instructions it will be a good production. Performances continue May 12 and 13 at 8:30 p.m. at 341 N. State Street, Westerville. For reservations call 866-9401.

The Holiday Inn East, at Broad and Hamilton, is the place you should be some Friday or Saturday night. If not, you will miss one of the most delightful experience offered you in a long time. On these two nights, manager Bob Winebar has created truely something different, a Hillbilly Buffet. Now this, in my opinion is a real misnomer, because I do feel that it gives one the wrong impression of the type of food served. The food is great, the atmosphere quite enjoyable.

The food is wonderful down-home, country fixins. It is all home -cooking that grandma use to serve up on the farm. I came away stuffed to the point that I could hardly walk.

I started off my meal with homemade potato soup that was gold with butter. It was out of this world. Then, came the salad bar. You could really make a meal on this alone. And, in all respect to my friend, Sue in Mt. Sterling, the potato salad was the best I ever tasted. There were many, many salads, all yummy, like the green bean salad, the cream slaw and an unusual tasting vinegar slaw.

Dorothy Taylor the gal responsible for all this home cooking, whipped up a dish I have never tasted, Pinto Beans with ham. It tasted almost like bean soup, except you ate it with your fork. Something else, very unusual, was green peas with the whole cocktail onions. Man, what flavor. Savory Beans was another item on the buffet table. This consisted of pork and beans, whole kernel corn, frankfurters and onions. This, too, was excellent.

The meat dishes were beef short ribs with Dorothy's own special sauce. The meat was extremely tender. Also on the table were country fried chicken, salisbury steak, Lousiana catfish, fried, homemade biscuits and apple and peach cobbler.

You will not find any better tasting food anywhere. True, it is not a gourmet buffet. But, you will experience a meal full of flavor and gusto every Friday and Saturday night at the Holiday Inn East.

"Dames At Sea," is the current musical production at the Barn Dinner Theatre. It is a show that you either are going to like or dislike. I don't feel there will be any in betweens. The reason for this is quite obvious. It doesn't have much to do with how good or how bad is the production. But, I believe your reactions will be based on the type of show and material involved.

The music is "old fashion". The tap dancing and all the circa acting of the 30's and 40's may not be to your likening. Then again, you may be like me, and enjoy good, old fashion music with the typical broadway production techniques.

Nostalgia is the mood, with marcelled hair, long frienged dresses adds up to capturing the flavor of yesterday. The plot is very weak. What story line there is has been used thousands of times before. A broadway show is in difficulty, the star becomes ill and a brand new beginner steps in, and you know the rest, a star is born.

Sally Sockwell as Ruby steals the show, both in the comedy and vocal department. She is the one determine to make it big, and is the one who steps in for the ailing star, Mona Kent, portrayed by Alice Hedberg. Sally, and the part she plays is almost a carbon copy of Ruby Keeler. The Dick Powell of the show is played by Michael Fennimore. Dick just happens backstage, bumps into Sally and it is love at first sight. But it is Mona, the arrogant star who sets her sails for Dick and his pocketful of great songs he has written. And, you know the story, "What Mona wants, Mona gets." Not true in this case, no matter how hard she tries.

"Dames At Sea," has a typical they all live happily ever after, ending. Everyone finds a mate and there is one big wedding.

What makes "Dames At Sea,', is the music and the nostalgia. As I said, you'll either love it or be very bored with it. One thing you will enjoy is the fantastic piano work of Andras Vski, who along with a drummer comprise the musical accompaniment. Vski has worked all over Europe and America as a writter, arranger and performer. "Dames At Sea," will be floating around the Barn Dinner Theatre for three more weeks. Paddle out soon.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Regardless of what you may have read about Uncle Benny, Mr. Broad & High, his Benny Klein's still is a great place to go. Currently the Happy Jacks, a trio with moxy, is providing the musical entertainment at Benny's. With Jack Willes on electric bass and vocals, Nick Beech at the guitar and drummer Paul Shuster, you have a trio that works well together. Everyone sings, at least enough to give out with some nice three part harmony. While there is not really an outstanding entertainer, the three of them make plenty of nice, easy going music. On the same bill is a sexy dancer, Marinella. Wow! Gee! Pow! She's great. I think I'll go back again. See you there... A couple of good places to take Mom for Mother's Day is the Columbus Springfield Dinner Theatre where they are holding a special matinee and the Dobbs House Restaurant at the airport. The food is good at both places. But, the entertainment is different. The Dinner Theatre has a hilarious comedy, "The Owl and The Pussycat." The Airport Dobbs House is a restaurant with a glass wall facing the airfield. You can dine, while planes takeoff and land. The kids love it... Everybodys favorite lounge pianoist, Sonia Modes always packs them in the cocktail lounge of the Holiday Inn East. Sonia plays the type of music and in the style that pleases. She is easy on the ears, and eyes, too. Don't forget the VIP East. This is the VIP Restaurant located on Hamilton Road. But, this one serves all of your favorite cocktails, besides good food.. The Keith - Charles Duo are back again at the Lincoln Lodge. These two fellows are strong in the entertainment department... At the Holiday Inn Reynoldsburg, rush out this week and catch Susan Rose. She is pretty thing playing lots of good organ music nightly. Susan will be

Sectional, Loop Meets On Tap

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

The roster of local track and field Invitationals has just about run its course, and we've arrived at the culminating stage of the '72 cinder campaign—league and District competition.

All three enrollment groups will begin eliminations late this week at the Sectional level for next week's District showdowns.

CLASS "A" schools hook up at Walnut Ridge and Delaware, "AA" schools at Northland and Whitehall, and "AAA" clubs at Gahanna and Brookhaven.

The big schools lead things off with field event battling and running prelims on Thursday afternoon, then come back Saturday morning for footrace semis, and wind things up that afternoon with the top six finishers in each event at each site advancing to the District Meet, May 20 at Worthington.

"A" and "AA" schools will follow the same format, but on a Friday-Saturday timetable.

BETWEEN SECTIONAL and District weekends, however, the City League, OCC and Catholic loops will also decide their respective '72 team champs. The CL and Ohio Cap showdowns are Tuesday-Wednesday affairs; Catholic scuffling will be taken care of at one swoop Tuesday.

Here's a rundown of pertinent pre-meet info:

"AAA" SECTIONALS

As a result of some lop-sided competition over the past several years, the "AAA" schools won't be split according to straight geography this time.

UP TILL this year, the schools East of I-71 met at one Sectional and those West of the freeway did the same. The new format divides Central Ohio's 27 big schools according to league affiliations, with half the representatives from each league going to one site and the rest to the other site.

One notable effect of the new system is that arch-rivals Worthington and Upper Arlington won't bump heads till the District finals.

The Cardinals from up North, defending District team champion, will headline the Brookhaven Sectional field along with City League strongboy Marion-Franklin and a well-balanced Newark entry.

OTHERS IN the 13-team cast include host Brookhaven, Delaware, Eastmoor, Groveport, Hartley, Linden, Mt. Vernon, South, Walnut Ridge and Whitehall.

At Gahanna, the Lions will match their record of Invitational triumphs against

It Was This Close All The Way

THE HIGH HURDLES duel (picture above) between Mifflin's Lonnie Robinson (left) and Bexley's Dave Carrothers was pretty representative of the nip-n-tuck battle for team honors between the two schools at Friday's Mid-Eight Meet. Carrothers won the highs in :15.4 but Mifflin took the point lead shortly later and held a slight edge until the last event. Lion high-jumper Carl Kraft (watching as coach Russ Owen check bar height at bottom left) pulled the Lions within two points and a record-breaking mile relay finale effort (3:29.7) put Bexley over the top. Composing that mile relay foursome (at bottom right) were Rick Williams, Bill Whitlock, Marc Abramson and Tom Bramlage. (Spectator photos by Jack Wittenmeier).

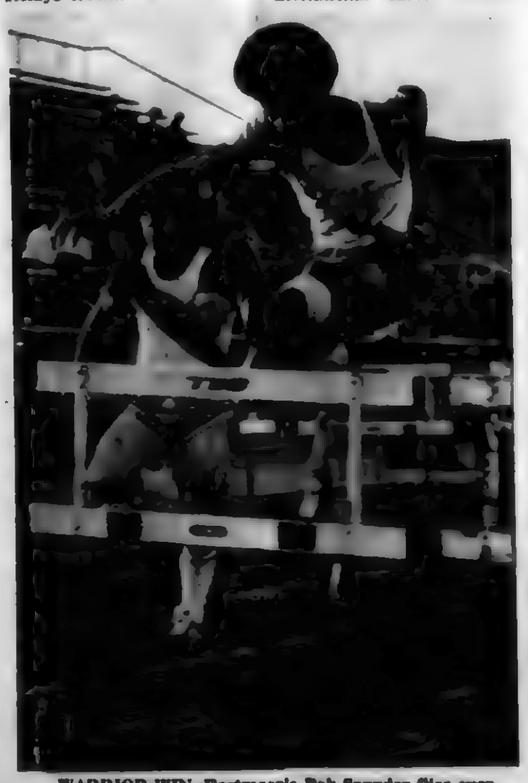
Bexley Mid-8 Champ; E-M Wins At Ridge

Close competition highlighted two of last Friday's three local cinder specials, with Bexley staging a dramatic last-gasp comeback to capture the '72 Mid Eight team title and Eastmoor holding off Gahanna and the host Scots to take home the Walnut Ridge Relays crown.

There isn't quite as much drama at Upper Arlington, but there were plenty of standout performances as Worthington and the Golden Bears retained their respective Open and Relays Division titles.

Here's a rundown of the area's final weekend of Invitational cinder action:

MID EIGHT



Trailing by two points with only the mile relay to be contested, Bexley roared to a league record 3:29.7 clocking in that final event to upend Mifflin for this year's Mid Eight crown.

The Lion quartet of Bill Whitlock, Marc Abramson, Rick Williams and Tom Bramlage pulled off that feat in the first heat of the mile combine, bringing a jubilant home crowd swarming onto the track before Mifflin and the other second heat contestants could get the gun.

ORDER WAS restored a bit later, but the unnerved Cowpuncher foursome wound up dead last, and Russ Owen's cindermen got to whoop it up all over again with a 65-61 championship verdict.

Carl Kraft did yeoman duty in the triumphant team

the super-strong Golden Bears from UA and powerful West. Central's Pirates, led by Dashin' David Jones, will be on hand too—along with East, Franklin-Heights, Grove City, Hilliard, North, Northland, Reynoldsburg, Whetstone, and Westerville.

Field events will kick off competition Thursday at 3:30 (both sites), with running prelims beginning at 4 (Gahanna) and 5 (Brookhaven). The shot, discus, pole-vault, high and long jumps will all have champions and District qualifiers decided before Thursday's action is completed.

Saturday's timetable is the same at both sites; with running semifinals starting at 10 a.m. and championship heats beginning with the high hurdles slated for 1 p.m.

While it's always nice to earn a Sectional trophy, the real significance of the weekend's scuffling will be the number of tracksters from each school who finish in the top six, thus qualifying for next week's District payoff round.

CITY LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIPS

Fresh from only their second victory in 26 runnings of the home Hilltop Relays, West's Cowboys just may be the team to beat when the 13 City League schools get down to deciding a '72 cinder king next Tuesday and Wednesday at Central.

When field events battling kicks things off at 4 p.m. Tuesday, the man to watch will be Marion-Franklin's Wayne Harris—a solid threat to scrap the meet records in both the shot and discus. All five field chores will go to competion on the first day—a new wrinkle for the venerable City Meet.

RUNNING PRELIMS will start at 4:30 Tuesday, and Wednesday's card will feature footrace finals exclusively—with the first starting gun set for 6:30. Admission is $1 per day for everyone at the gate, or 50 cents per day for students if they buy advance tickets at the various school offices.

While West and Linden made strong showings at the Hilltop and Arrowhead specials respectively last week, defending champ Marion-Franklin can't be counted out on the strength of Harris and dazzling miler-half miler Jerry Mounts.

District pentathlon champ John Williams and super-sprinter David Jones are the keys to contention for host Central, while East has individual title threats in long jumper Ron Hairston and hurdler Al Thomas—plus a tradition of strong late-season relay efforts.

THEN THERE'S Eastmoor, with a mile-deep stable of sprinters, standout long-jumping from Wally Cannon, solid hurdlers and a fine shot put point-getter in soph Rick Meindl.

Walnut Ridge, Brookhaven and Whetstone are all strong in the middle and long distance events, and North flash Tom Byers should give M-F's Mounts a run for his money in the 880.

With Central's Jones in top physical shape, the meet 100 and 220 marks could be shaky. Mounts and Byers have both already topped the existing half mile standard, and Mounts might give the mile record a scare. East's Hairston and West's Harold Lee should battle Eastmooor's Cannon for the long jump crown—but Harris looks like too tough a customer in the weight events.

MOST EVERYTHING else appears to be wide open, and the relay finals should resemble a cavalry charge—with the City records not out of reach of a top performance.

Following are the CL Meet standards up to date:

..100 DASH--:09.8, Gullick (East), Bolden (South), Espie (East).
..220 DASH--:21.4, Smith (Central).
..440 DASH--:48.5, Smith (South).
..880 RUN--1:57.4, Kopp (Whetstone).
..MILE--4:23.8, Wchwartz (Walnut Ridge).

..MILE RELAY--3:23.2, Walnut Ridge (Munsch, Springborn, Caner, Barber).
..SHOT--58'5", Caldwell (South).
..DISCUS--169'8", Wiggins (Marion-Franklin).
..POLE B
..POLE VAULT--13'5½", Wallick (Brookhaven).
..HIGH JUMP--6'3⅞", Furry (West).

..TWO MILE RUN--9:54.6, Lewis (Eastmoor).

OCC CHAMPIONSHIPS

Perennial Ohio Cap cinder king Worthington and annual challenger Gahanna will square off at Whitehall next Tuesday and Wednesday in the fourth official league championship meet.

Reynoldsburg, Westland, Westerville, Mt. Vernon and Delaware will be there too—along with the host Rams—and each school has at least one likely winner if previous performances are any indication.

REYNOLDSBURG pole vaulter Chuck O'Morrow has won several Invitational crowns already this season, but will have to be in top form to handle Westland ace Tom Rice—who's already done 14'2" this spring.

Worthington's John Madry and Delaware's Jerome Bohanna should renew their personal battle in the dashes—both have been consistent sub-10 second performers in the hundred.

Whitehall's Terry Burris raised a few eyebrows last week with a 6'6" high jump at Walnut Ridge, and Gahanna sprint and long jump standout Guy Jensen served notice that he's over a pulled muscle with a fine :50.6 quarter mile at the same meet.

All-the-way battling in the pole vault, discus and long jump will lead off Tuesday's opening session at 4:30 with preliminary heats in the running chores starting at 5:00.

THE SHOT PUT and high jump contestants will square off at 4:45 Wednesday, and all running finals commence with the high hurdles at 7 p.m.

Existing meet records weren't available at press time, but it's a safe bet that plenty of them will fall if the weather gods decide to smile.

Bexley . . .

effort, taking first in both the high and long jumps. Tom Sixt copped another Lion first in the pole vault, Jeff Edelstein got second in the discus and shot putter Vince Ingalls wound up third to give Bexley a commanding lead after the field events competition.

But then the sprint-strong Cowpunchers took over, with speedster Larry Jackson winning the 100 and 220 and anchoring a record-tying 1:31.3 victory in the 880 relay. Harold Young added a Mifflin first in the 440, and the Lion lead disappeared.

GROVE CITY star Robin Smith tore his standing league two mile record to ribbons—pounding to a 9:37 flat that was almost eight seconds better than the old mark. Grandview's Tom Brumfield scored an easy win in the mile, with neither Bexley nor Mifflin in the money, and that brought things down to the dramatic finish.

G-C wound up third in the final standings with 46 points, followed by Hilliard (30), Grandview (22), Marysville (7), London (6) and Groveport with three.

WALNUT RIDGE RELAYS

Vince Gahill's Scots came pretty close to keeping the '72 meet title at home, but couldn't match winner Eastmoor and runnerup Gahanna in the final two events.

Both the Warriors and Lions posted 20 points in those tests, E-M winning the shuttles and Gahanna the mile relay while the other finished second. The final standings showed Eastmoor on top by a 92-88 margin, with Ridge a close third at 81.

Hartley's Art Best continued his string of dash triumphs, tying his own :09.9 meet record in the hundred then breaking the 220 standard he set last year with a sharp :22.4.

Eastmoor low hurdler George Hicks and the Walnut Ridge four mile relay quartet set automatic marks while winning those two new events, and the Warrior 440 and shuttle hurdles relay teams also topped previous Rclays bests.

HERE'S HOW the winners finished:

..LONG JUMP--21'9¾", Wally Cannon (Eastmoor).
..SHOT--50'2", Rick Meindl (Eastmoor).
..DISCUS--141'6", Gary Tarr (Gahanna).
..HIGH JUMP--6'6", Terry Burris (Whitehall).
..POLE VAULT--12'6", Chuck O'Morrow (Reynoldsburg).
..FOUR MILE RELAY--18:57.1, Walnut Ridge (Mark Hopper, John Pellington, John Acree, Don Stocker).
..HIGH HURDLES--:15.4, Bob Saunders (Eastmoor).
..MILE--4:37.2, Frank Duff (Gahanna).
..880 RELAY--1:31.4, Hartley (Dan Carroll, Ed Radcliff, Robin Bigler, Art Best).
..440 DASH--:50.6, Guy Jensen (Gahanna).
..220 DASH--:22.4, Art Best (Hartley).
..100 DASH--:09.9, Art Best (Hartley).
..880 RUN--1:58.7, Toby Faulkner (Hartley).
..TWO MILE--10:58.5, Terry Potts (Walnut Ridge).
..440 RELAY--:43.6, Eastmoor.
..SHUTTLE HURDLES--:57.9, Eastmoor.

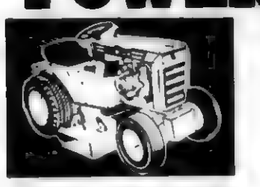
Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.



The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.
The way they work.

Loop Races Stay Tight; Rain Jumbles Skeds

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Things were pretty slow on the Eastside prep baseball scene last week, largely because hot pennant races in the City and Catholic leagues took a breather last Friday.

The Mid Eight scrap was in high gear, however, and Bexley's Lions made a big move by downing Grove City Tuesday and Marysville Thursday—but slipped back to second place behind Hilliard when London came up with a 4-1 shocker Friday.

THE LIONS leapfrogged over G-C with a 4-2 verdict that featured clutch pitching by ace Rick Clowson, then jumped on Marysville for six runs in the 12th inning to post their sixth loop win 12-6. Friday's setback was only number two of the Mid Eight campaign.

Whitehall dropped OCC verdicts number seven and eight in a row, and Groveport also had to swallow a pair of league defeats despite five-hit pitching from freshman Steve Groves in a 2-1 Tuesday duel with Grandview.

Eastmoor upped its CL South chart to 7-1 last Tuesday, as mound star Monty Corron gave Mohawk but one hit and his teammates crashed out 11 safeties in a 10-0 "laugher."

SLUGGING rightfielder Ed Shipp smacked his fourth homer of the year, and upped his RBI count to 30 for all games as Ron Golden's forces maintained their one game edge over West.

Walnut Ridge had the division bye Tuesday, and so sat out a full week without changing their 5-3 league slate.

Hartley's Hawks stayed hot on the trail of CCL frontrunner Watterson with an 8-2 win over Ready, then slugged out an 8-4 non-league decision over Franklin Heights Friday.

St. Charles Cardinals, back in varsity diamond wars after a long absence, upped their record to a spiffy 9-3 with three wins.

MOUNDSMAN Fred Messmer headlined a banner week for the Cards with two complete-game victories—including a five-inning perfect game over Ohio Deaf. His mates backed him with 11 runs, and Fred fanned 11 of the 15 hitters he faced.

Messmer also got the hill verdict in Tuesday's 8-4 comeback win over Hamilton Twp. Craig McDonald tripled in the tying runs in the bottom of the seventh, and Jim Vonau singled him home with the winner.

Bob Dorinsky's solo homer helped the Cards tie up Cardington in the sixth with four big runs, and John Laufersweiler singled home John McVey in the 11th to give Rhett Plank a 6-5 mound decision.

TOURNAMENT play was scheduled to open for all three enrollment classes earlier this week, but it looked doubtful at Spectator press time whether area diamonds would be dry enough for action before Thursday.

With tourney dates already conflicting league schedules, and rainouts making a jumble of everything, it is just about impossible to say who will be playing whom and for what over the next seven day period.

It's a cinch that second round tourney games will completely hamstring this Friday's City Catholic, OCC and Mid Eight cards—that's providing of course that first round games have been played by Friday.

ONLY THING we can report for sure is the following roster of Sectional openers for our Eastside entries: (they'll be played the first day things get dried out).

Class "A"—St. Charles at Amanda-Clearcreek.

Class "AA"—Bexley at Licking Valley

Class "AAA"—Central at Eastmoor - Walnut Ridge at Groveport - Grove City at Hartley - Whetstone at Whitehall

HAWK PICKET LINE — This Hartley diamond foursome represents a different variety of "picket" line—they patrol the far reaches of the outfield for Jack Ryan's CCL-contending Hawks. They are (from left): Mike Roesch, Mike Jenkins, Brian Hughes and Fritz Ritter, and their combined bat and glove work have had a lot to do with the current 4-1 Hawk loop record. Hartley opens Sectional tournament play at home against Grove City this week.

Card Coach Connor Plans Cage 'Day Camp'

St. Charles Prep basketball coach Jerry Connor and assistant Don Henne will conduct a summer cage "day camp" designed to teach fundamentals and one-on-one skills to area youngsters from 10-16 years old.

The camp will be divided into age groups, with no more than 10 boys and one coach per group, and will be staged in three sessions: June 12-16, June 19-23 and June 26-30.

Fee for five days of instruction is $30, with $10 payable at the time of application and the balance due at the first session.

Entries can be obtained by writing Connor at 2010 E. Broad St., Columbus 43209. Deadline for applications is June 2.

SEVERAL EXAMPLES OF WOOD AND IRONWORK AT THE OAK AND IRON SHOP

It All Started In Florida . . .

(EDS. NOTE — Gordon Fulton, owner of the Oak and Iron Shop at 7496 E. Main St. in Reynoldsburg, tells how he got into his present business in today's "Business In Action" story).

The unusual, little shop idea was born in Florida for us.

While visiting St. Augustine we saw several different little handicraft and art shops. But, although there was a lot of wrought iron accessaries used in the restoration area, there was no place to buy such items or have them made.

SINCE I had worked with iron fo several years as a hobby we thought having a shop on that line would be ideal.

While still in the planning stage several things helped to form the final idea for our shop. The first was an enjoyment attending auctions—buying items such as old tools and decorative iron pieces and restoring them to their original condition. The more we went, the more friends would ask us to buy certain things for them.

This developed our idea for the shop too—finding the small unusual pieces that people were looking for or a piece that was a little different to restore and refinish.

WE WERE refinishing these pieces by hand and that was always such a mess. We realized if we were going to do very much stripping and refinishing we had to find a better way and a better place.

Since stripping was the hardest part I checked with several stripping processes around the state. I found that some were as hard on the wood, some were dangerous to use, and some just didn't do a good job. We decided we weren't going to use any of the "fast buck" processes.

We still strip furniture by hand, using "BIX" stripper just as we did before. But now we have a shop with a special area just for stripping. The sprayed-on finish produced a smoother finish so we built a special boothe for that too.

SPRAYING may sound as though we do mass production work, but we don't. Eac piece (after being stripped) dries for 24 hours then it is hand-sanded. It is then sprayed with two coats of lacquer sealer and then two coats of lacquer finish.

Each of these coats must dry and then be gone over with steel wool before the next coat goes on. The only exception to this process is if it is to be stained a different color than the natural wood. Then it takes another full day to dry before we can start applying the finish coats.

Most people feel the natural wood color is best and I fully agree.

WHILE I was looking for a good stripping process I met Paul Dusz who had been in this type of business in Gahanna for several years. After hearing about our ideas for the shop he decided to work with us on stripping and refinishing. This gave me more time for iron work.

In the iron work line we make very unusual accessaries from old and new iron. Some of these include candleholders, bookends, wall hangings, and all sorts decorative pieces that you can't find anywhere else.

We also do reproductions of old wrought-iron pieces. The front of our shop is used as a showroom for he old iron, and newly-made iron accessaries, along with unusual pieces of furniture for sale.

WE DO SOME unusual things with old worn out furniture, like rebuilding an old kitchen cabinet to make an attractive desk and toy storage for a child's room, or mounting your new sewing machine in an old sewing machine base.

I could name more but your imagination is the only limit for making something useful or decorative from that piece of furniture that is beyond repair or past being useful the way it is.

Stop in and see what I have done with my ideas. Maybe we can create something from your ideas.

At Home On The Range

By ELEANOR Joseph

I have noticed that the ringing of the telephone bell to children is just like a gong to a boxer. It signals them to come out fighting.

Whenever I am talking on the telephone all bedlam breaks loose. Forbidden activities begin. One child will start lighting matches, another will punch his brother and the third will stand there and give piercing screams. Callers think they have the wrong number and called the zoo be mistake.

I am not alone though. Many mothers have called me and said, "Wait a minute while I hit Billy!", Whamo-bang-and more crying ensues.

Many times I will suggest I can call back at a more convenient time but I am always assured it is all right. Mama just keeps on boxing the children and yelling on the side, while we are talking. Most of the time I can't remember what we are saying.

I have a friend, whom I admire very much, that solved her problem permanently. When her son started acting obnoxious while she was phoning, she very calmly and without hesitation, poured a glass of cold milk on his head. It is a very good way to cool off a hot kid.

As the children grow older, some of the fighting tapers off and it is easier to use the phone. However, by that time, something new has been added. It is a group known as "teenagers." The telephone is stuck permanently to their ears and an appointment has to be made in order to use Mr. Bell's invention.

I cannot win! Stuffing their mouths with some goodies will keep the noise down for a little while. Here is a mouth-stuffier.

UNTIL MORE RESOURCES APPEAR

Chief Makes No Promises On Squad Addition

By JACK WITTENMEIER

Although the "best things in life are free", they don't include more city services and extra space in the classroom.

That, in a nutshell, was be message city officials and a school board member left with area civic representatives meeting at Walnut Hills County Club last week.

THE CONTINUING, sad saga of service needs outdistancing financial resources was delivered by no less than three city council members, Safety Director Bernard Chupka and Fire Chief Raymond Fadley.

The elected gave plenty of response to the electors' pleas for an emergency squad, more classroom space and a public library but remedies were few and far between.

The meeting, which drew roughly 60 participants, was spured by a recent accident at Oakmont Elementary School–and a wait of some 20 minutes for an emergency squad to arrive on the scene.

CHIEF FADLEY remarked that it had taken him eight minutes to travel from the Hampton-Main station to the meeting site that evening. "And that included several traffic lights," he added. "If I was in a squad, I could have knocked off another couple minutes."

The necessity of spreading the city's eight emergency squads too thin is the crux of the problem, according to Fadley.

"The Hampton-Main squad averages seven runs per day," Fadley said, "and it does cover a very large area. But you're not alone. We've got the same problem on the West Side. The Hampton-Main squad spends a good percentage of its time covering for another squad and that leaves you without a squad."

CHUPKA said that it takes roughly 10,000 people to generate one squad run and that squads are located by incidence of runs.

Three squads service the Downtown, Near East and University areas. Those three average 13,846 runs per year while the city's remaining five squads answer a total of 11,685 calls.

Walnut Hill Park Civic Association member Mrs. William Spencer cited census figures which showed the city area east of Hamilton Road and south of Broad Street has jumped 20,000 in population to 37,492 with projected increases to 83,709 (1975) and 107,000 (1980).

FADLEY NIXED a suggestion that the squad be moved to the new McNaughton Road station, explaining that the squad would be spending a good portion of its time "running back and forth."

The chief admitted he had no up-to-date figures to indicate where the greatest incidence of runs in the Far East are originated.

He added that an OSU survey (to be completed this fall) would supply some answers. "We'll change our squad locations if the survey indicates we should," Fadley promised.

The chief told a questioner that there was no squad at Livingston and Hamilton because "the main incidences of emergencies are not centered in that area.

"WE MUST locate the squads in areas where we get the most calls," he added. "We tried a squad at Livingston and Rhoades and it just didn't run. We can't afford to have the few squads we have sit idle. It's simply a matter of providing the best service possible with what we've got available."

Adding additional squads takes dollars – tax dollars – the chief continued. "I've begged city council for more money, but so have the other (city) departments," he concluded.

Council president M.D. Portman underlined the chief's plight.

"THE NIGHT we (council) discussed plans for the money you're talking about tonight (General Fund budget), there were three people sitting out there.

"I'm not here to scold, but to inform," Portman continued. "But, that night, the chief was standing there alone asking for more budget money."

Fadley reported that the national average for squad response was 44 minutes while 1971 statistics indicated that only 15 per cent of Columbus runs required more than seven minutes response time. The Columbus average at that time was two-to-three minutes.

HE ADDED that the income tax increase had provided three additional squads and three heartmobiles and that the city was one of five municipalities involved in pilot study of the total emergency system.

"Columbus will become a model area, eligible for federal funds," Fadley concluded.

Looking to the future, the chief reported that OSU was also studying the possibility of a county-wide emergency system with a central dispatcher which would improve coverage considerably.

FADLEY ALSO said that plans call for squad training of at least one man on each piece of fire-fighting equipment so the manpower could be rotated and an engine company could respond if the squad was unavailable.

"In the meantime, we're using the three police ambulance cruisers available in the area to supplment the squads at Hampton-Main and Champion-Long.

"That, and looking for land to acquire in this general vicinity, is about all we can do until additional funds become available," the chief said.

MRS. SUZANNE Whitley, president of the Woodcrest PTA, reported she and her group were in their eighth year of attempting to land a library for the Far East Side.

Mrs. Whitley said her group was promised five years ago that the Far East would be a priority location when library funds became available but added that two facilities have been built elsewhere since that time.

"We were told this February that we should prove (via petitions and letters) that we really wanted and needed a library for this area," she said.

MRS. WHITLEY reported that groups from other parts of the city showed good attendance at Library Board meetings to solicit a facility while "less than 10 show up from our area."

Other than a library branch at Courtright and Livingston, the closest area facilities are located in Reynoldsburg and Whitehall.

Mrs. Whitley said that the fact that very few area elementaries house libraries increases the need for a Far East Branch.

This Is For The Birds

MR. AND MRS. Robin Red Breast decided to stay with outdoor living last week even though a compact, efficiency apartment was available in the courtyard of Rosehill School in Reynoldsburg. But, then, who but two birds in love know which love nest is best for the family? There's no doubt but that the youngsters who put out the "For Rent" sign were hoping the family would take advantage of the offer. There might be one hitch in their plan. We wonder if apartment opponents might storm city hall and protest this illegal rezoning? (Spectator photo by Ray Adams.)

BY ORDER OF LEGISLATURE

Residents Will Study School Accountability

A school district's accountability is the topic to be studied by citizens in the Groveport Madison area, along with other state residents.

The "Search For Consensus" was ordered by the state legislature to determine a system for accountability for education.

CITIZEN MEETINGS will be sponsored at which time area residents will have an opportunity to express their views on the status of education in their community and make recommendations for it's improvement.

A spokesman for the Madison-Local district said the area residents will be divided into committees to study 10 aspects of education including; personnel, school community relations, educational organization, equal educational opportunity, student rights and responsibilities, accountability, finance, curriculum, building and facilities and instructional methods.

The meeting is scheduled for May 24 at 7:15 p.m. at the high school.

THE SPOKESMAN said information concerning the program had been sent to all parents of elementary students and had been made available to parents of high school students.

Residents will be placed on committees with members of the administration who will serve as resource personnel.

According to a statement sent to residents by chairman of the local project, Kenneth Sweigart, the meeting is an opportunity "as concerned citizens to have a voice in what we as citizens expect the school to be held accountable for in the way of education for our children."

IDEAS AND SUGGESTIONS made at the May 24th meeting will be sent to the State Department of Education where they and those recommendations sent from all over the state will be compiled.

The recommendations will then be returned to the school district and another meeting will be scheduled.

The same committees will then decide which of the recommendations are relative to education in general. These will go back to the State Department of Education and the deparatment will then select the ones they feel are most valuable.

THE SCHOOL DISTRICTS must then select four of the 10 areas a year and study the recommendations. Reports must be submitted to the department to show that the district is responsive to the recommendations and are trying to meet community needs.

Sweigart, School Supt., Philip Williams, two Board of Education members and two teachers recently attended a regional planning meeting in Athens.

Martin W. Essex, state supt. of Public Instruction said "Completion of these organizational meetings concludes the first level of activity in this Search For Consensus to provide Ohio citizens with a convenient way to express their opinion on the status of education and their recommendations for its redesign and improvement."

ESSEX SAID THAT recommendations obtained from the seminars, on the local, county and state levels, will furnish "vitally-needed direction for the state's effort to draft a statement of goals for education in the Bicentennial Era, and to meet the 109th General Assembly's mandate for accountability in the schools of Ohio."

The district spokesman said if the program is handled properly it could help the administration to "tune into what the community wants and expects."

BOARD MEMBER SAYS:

'Take Your Choice; Crowds Or Taxes'

Columbus Public Schools face the same types of service needs demanded by an ever-growing population but must depend solely on property-tax-conscious voters to relieve the pinch, board member Virginia Prentiss told civic association representatives at Walnut Hills Country Club last week.

Mrs. Prentiss fielded questions about over-crowded area schools but admitted she had no cost-free solutions.

GORDON CHRISTY of WHPCA questioned the quantity of classrooms, split sessions, high student-teacher ratio, busing and yet-empty classes and "buildings not keeping up with population."

"At Oakmount, we have no art, no music, no physical education, no science, no playground equipment and no cafeteria or lunch room. Is the Far East being discriminated against? We know there's been planning but we see no implementation. What does it take for implementation?," Christy asked.

"A building bond issue," Mrs. Prentiss answered.

THE BOARD member admitted that CPS was "far behind" in meeting school space needs, laying the blame on a one-year building moratorium and two recent building bond defeats at the polls.

Mrs. Prentiss stressed that current building plans include a junior-senior high school and 4 three elementaries in the immediate vicinity.

"It boils down to what you, as voters, want – crowded schools or no new taxes," she said.

MRS. PRENTISS said she would look into charges that Oakmont students were being bused out while other students farther away from the school were being bused in. "There is far less busing in this area than the Far North Side," she emphasized.

The board member emphatically disagreed with a charge that split sessions resulted in students being taught only half a day. She said the net result of split sessions is the loss of one study hall, one lunch period and difficulties in working in extra-curricular activities. "It's not ideal, but it's not all bad either," Mrs. Prentiss said.

She explained that state law prohibits use of operating monies for building and added that 89.5 percent of operating funds go for salaries and fringe benefits.

"That's a big chunk," she observed of the latter, "and more than I think it should be."

MRS. PRENTISS added that vocational skill centers for Columbus were a "must" and said help from the state was available for implementation.

"It's an inconvenience but she's getting as good an education, if not better, and not sleeping through study halls," she concluded.

MRS. PRENTISS admitted that the split session technique wasn't the ultimate answer to overcrowding and wouldn't work everywhere. "We make them (split sessions) work out here," she said.

Vanguard Asks Holiday Honoring Malcolm X

The release of students to attend the observation of the birthday of Malcolm X Friday will apparently be left up to individual building principals.

However, the principals' decision probably won't effect attendance at the "liberation ceremonies" scheduled in "Martin L. King" Park, according to the attitude shown by the black students appearing before the Columbus Board of Education yesterday.

THEY PLAN to go–with or without the blessing of school authorities.

The student demands for dismissal of school Friday began the meeting, threatened its disruption during the regular agenda, and received the board's attention again before adjournment.

Representing themselves as members of Black Vanguard a dozen or more students were first heard during the spot on the agenda reserved for audience participation.

A YOUNG man identifying himself as "Simba" read a prepared statement laying claim to Malcolm's birthday, May 19, as a Black Holiday on which the man and his ideas could be honored.

After the students left the assembly room, Supt. John Ellis explained to the board that programs in honor of Malcolm X were planned in several schools.

He also stated that school would not close, and that the same policy that prevails when persons of various faiths (largely Jewish) seek to be excused on religious holidays.

THOSE WHO present a written excuse from home which can be confirmed by the school are free to go.

When asked by Mrs. Virginia Prentice of the board whether the policy would apply to the birthday of Malcolm X, Dr. Ellis stated that the administration did not question the validity of any "religion" professed, as the definitions are not clear cut.

The students apparently overheard, possibly by radio, and were soon back, in an obviously disruptive mood. They demanded to be heard, repeatedly interrupted the proceedings and evidenced total lack of respect for the formalities of the meeting–if not for the board members themselves.

THEY QUIETED down following the threat of Tom Moyer, president of the board, to have them removed from the room–and his promise to hear them out when the agenda had been completed.

At that time Joe Cook assumed the role of principal spokesman and made what Dr. Ellis termed an "eloquent" plea for recognition of the Black Holiday, the ideas of Malcolm X and the need for decentralization of decision making from the board room to the "Black Masses."

However eloquent as the plea may have rung in the board room, it sounded off key after the meeting when it was learned that Cook is not a high school student, but one from Ohio State University.

A BONA FIDE student from East High School who calls himself Joma Kearrm Kanytta vigorously expressed his protest when Dr. Ellis repeated, almost word for word, what he had previously told the board.

However, he indicated the matter will now be left to the judgement of the building principal.

The students also expressed their dissatisfaction with "everyone on the board being white except three" and spoke disparagingly of the board "sitting there all nice and clean with suits and ties."

THE MEETING ended with the black students marching out proclaiming they'd see the board–and the police they claimed to spot in the audience–at Franklin Park.

Hearing Month Is May

"More than 20 million Americans suffer from a serious hearing, speech or language disability," according to Mr. Robert D. Stimpert, executive director of the Hearing and Speech Center of Columbus and Central Ohio, Inc.

Stimpert made the announcement in connection with the observance of May as National Hearing and Speech Month.

"One out of every 20 Americans suffer from some type of language or hearing communication problems," Stimpert noted.

"Communication handicaps can effect anyone, and as soon as they are detected the better the chance for correction," stated Stimpert.

Stimpert urged community involvement to help combat the problems of the communicatively handicapped person. The Speech and Hearing Center of Columbus and Central Ohio 1515 Indianola Avenue, is a nonprofit organization partially supported by United Way of Franklin County.

Its specific purpose is the promotion of detection, evaluation and prevention of hearing and speech difficulties in both children and adults. For information about the Center's services call 294-6403.

COTA Post-Mortem

While the Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) attempts to pick up the flotsam left in the wake of its recent levy failure new voices are speaking their piece.

One of those heard is that of City Council president M.D. Portman who has revived the proposal that the City of Columbus buy Columbus & Southern's stepchild–the CTC.

Such a move would certainly be preferable to a total breakdown of public transportation, but it would serve to perpetuate the present CTC hangup–that of routes which ignore the need for transportation between Columbus and outlaying suburbs.

Furthermore, city ownership would slash the federal funding available to a Transit Authority directing itself to regional problems. The flow in the pipelines from Washington are automatically pinched off when Metropolitan areas attempt to solve their problems on a piecemeal basis.

Currently COTA officials (who have enough money in the treasury to "pay the rent" well into summer) are analyzing the data contained in the election returns which became available only this week.

Once that analysis is complete, the staff will present alternatives to the board–and possibly recommendations.

Until that time, it is considered imperative that all options be kept open.

Speculation that COTA is ready to abandon a regional plan and attempt to build a system to service the core city and the more affluent suburbs where support was evidenced is, at best, premature.

Any deviation from the goal of regional transportation will be only a detour on the long road leading to the concept of mass transit which is at least 15 years away.

Possibily the course sailed by COTA supporters was not charted too well, but any issue that can pull 46 percent of the vote with a new organization and a new thought advanced before a crisis had materialized is a sea-worthy craft.

In the post-mortems that have occupied armchair pundits and transportation officials alike it is recognized the hodge-podge of truth, half-truths and untruths emanating from Langdon Bell of the Ohio Motor Bus Association "firmed up the negative" and wiped out the last two weeks of work that conceivably could have brought COTA to harbor.

But Mr. Bell cannot be held totally responsible for the levy's defeat.

In all probability he only gave those against it an excuse with which to defend their action.

School officials have realized in recent years that support for educational levies is not easily tapped-and that property owners resist inroads upon their pocketbooks until the last ditch.

The last ditch is reached when the individual voter is personally hurting from a lack of service.

CTC is now moving forward with the further curtailment of service, action which it postponed pending the outcome of the election.

Little doubt exists that more service cuts are waiting at the next bus stop. Already CTC has declared a number of its buses surplus and is dickering with Atlanta, Ga., on thier sale.

According to the latest financial reports, two-thirds of the existing routes can be legally eliminated by CTC, on the basis of their being unprofitable.

Perhaps these cuts will provide the rack that will send voters scurrying to the polls in search of a COTA-bottled analgesic.

Many are asking whether the COTA levy will be taken to the polls again in November.

We are predicting that it will not–and should not.

Columbus and its suburbs, generally speaking, have said "No, thank you," and are apt to make short shrift of the issue if placed on the ballot to compete with the school issues (including one from Columbus Public Schools) anticipated in November.

The majority of voters indicated they are not ready to support mass transit.

But with a basic faith in the judgement of the rank and file of voters, we do not think they willingly will let a full-blown crisis develop before coming to the rescue.

Between now and May of 1973, another five percent should be convinced that today's society stagnates without mobility –and call back the big yellow buses they see vanishing before their eyes.

Drug Informers

No one whose vision is not impaired by rose-colored glasses denies that drug abuse has reached crisis proportion.

Any line of attack against the pushers, without whom the social disaster cannot survive, deserves at least a critical look.

Thus the legislation State Rep. Alan G. Norris plans to introduce which would give cash awards to tipsers merits consideration.

In Tampa the "Turn in a Pusher" program resulted in a dozen convictions in the first year of operation.

Undoubtedly, these convictions were well worth the money spent to reward the "civic-minded" persons who were prodded to turn informer by hope of a bounty.

But, obviously, the cost of the program could not be measured by the award money alone.

Leading up to the trails of 12 persons was the investigation of 5,494 calls. Statistically speaking, this means that police time, energy and budget was spent fruitlessly in checking out 499 of every 500 tips received.

And that is a poor batting average in anybody's ballgame.

We concede that the other benefits of the program such as surveillance of several hundred suspects should not be discounted, but it is too late to bring a shotgun approach to a problem where a rifle is needed.

Columbus' narcotic squad still numbers less than 40 men– and its efforts must be directed toward action where the odds of zeroing in on the prey is better than 500 to one.

An even firmer ground upon which to condemn the Norris proposal is the fact that it seeks to stir the greed in each of us rather than responsibility.

Informants are little better than vigilantes–and are prone to do more to promote crime than deter it. Those involved in drug traffic are not playing for matchsticks–and the lives of untrained and self-proclaimed "investigators" are vulnerable.

However, with youth the primary target of pushers, seldom has a problem arisen where public involvement is so relevant.

The average citizen is so far removed from most illicit activities such as burglary rings that he can do little to help.

But in drug abuse, the crime is usually carried out under his very nose.

Rather than grabbing a cloak and dagger, adults can attack the drug problem in their own homes.

A drug pusher without a customer is a threat to no one but himself.

And who can better protect a child from the drug scene than his mother and father?

The role of the parent and concerned citizens can also go beyond the home.

A community effort towards drug education (not only in the schools but for those adults who refuse to acknowledge that drugs have moved from the ghetto) is essential.

Volunteers can help the problem that, neglected too long, began as a grassfire and developed into a holocaust.

Sorry, Mr. Norris, but we can't go along with your bill.

Would you really attempt to purify a river polluted by raw sewage by attempting to seine it with a butterfly net?

Strange Emphasis

Counseling in the fine art of draft evasion in the schools has aroused the ire of those whose ideology differs from that of those who feel conscription is an evil which should be fought through all available means - legitimate or illegitimate.

But the latest effort of the Department of Labor should ruffle every taxpayer in the United States.

The Ohio Bureau of Employment Services has announced that a kit produced by DOL will be made available this fall to every teacher in Ohio.

Entitled "Unemployment is a Social Problem," each of the kits (valued at $100) is purported to have a life span allowing three classrooms of students to learn of the facts of unemployment.

From the description of the kit, released by OBES, it appears it would better be labeled "Facts About Loafing You Were Afraid to Ask."

We are not knocking unemployment compensation. It is certainly a legitimate answer to the immediate problems created when one is temporarily barred from productive labor through no fault of his own.

What irks us is the negative attitude shown in preparing youth for unemployment rather than employment.

The program apparently can extend over 10 classroom sessions.

It may be well to teach youngsters how a "person can protect himself" and provide them with "a knowledge of their rights under the law."

But right now, it seems more logical to spend that valuable school time in helping them equip themselves to avoid unemployment rather than "beat it."

Youth thrown into the world of labor without a marketable skill is bound to flounder – and knowledge of the goodies awaiting him at the front of the line formed to register for unemployment compensation isn't a long-range solution to anything.

Taxpayers money spent for such "education" can only further undermine public confidence in the schools and in government.

The jobless need a roadmap to the employment office the same way a fish needs a lesson to swim.

Warns Of Home Pool Dangers

To the Editor:

At this time of the year with Summer approaching a word to the wise should prevent a drowning of some small tot whose parents otherwise would have been negligent in providing proper protection in keeping with the Columbus city ordinance regulating the construction and use of small swimming and wading pools in residential back yards.

This ordinance (article no. 3381.035 of the Zoning Code) has been in effect since 1955 and reads as follows:

"No person shall locate, construct, install, make, change, maintain, use a private swimming pool or private wading pool UNLESS said pool or the premises upon which it is located is enclosed by a fence or other boundaries no less than 42 in. in height, measured from the ground level, so constructed and of such strength that children UNDER THE AGE OF SEVEN YEARS are unable to pass through.

"Any entrance or exit gate in such fence shall be equipped with a spring latching type lock or catch and shall automatically close by spring action to the locked or latched position or shall be equipped with a lock requiring a key or the working of a combination to open and kept securely locked at all times."

Perhaps the fact that this ordinance was passed as far back as 1955 has caused many parents to overlook the dangers involved in unguarded swimming or wading pools.

However, the recent deaths (in Columbus, West Jefferson, and Cincinnati) of youths four years of age and under should awaken the public to the danger that exists. Today, I saw an unguarded pool at Brown and Stimmel Road in a field next to an apartment complex. The pool has five to nine feet of water in it at present.

It should be understood that when a person buys a portable swimming pool with a depth of 12 in. or over they must report their purchase to the Columbus Public Health Dept. at Town and Washington Streets so that proper instructions can be mailed and the Building Dept. Inspector can issue the necessary permit after the inspection is made.

Neighbors are obligated to report any such violations to the City Health Dept. (Dr. Arnold at 461-8191).

The sorrow and emptiness caused by the drowning of a precious child that could have resulted from the failure to report such swimming pool violations will be a constant reminder throughout one's life of his failure to act. Hence, do not hesitate to take the proper preventative action as soon as possible to correct some other person's oversight or negligence.

Let's all cooperate in protecting our small tots from needless drowning and remember to inform the City Health Department whenever you buy a swimming pool or happen to spot a residence where the protective fencing has not been erected as required by City Ordinance.

Tribute Or Tort?

It's a small wonder that the American Indian is still being kicked around in his native land.

Apparently, he just isn't "with it" and can't tell a tribute from a tort.

Denison University is the most recent example of those sponsoring athletic teams to capitulate to the war cries of those who believe their heritage is being disparaged with use of the Indian as a symbol of their [illegible].

If employing the name of an ethnic group as a rallying cry for a team is a slur, Notre Dame's Fighting Irish and New York's Yankees are in trouble.

And just watch the feathers fly when the word filters up to heaven about those bigots in California known as the "Angels."

Communication

By JACK WITTENMEIER

A former employer of mine had an interesting philosophy on life's priorities which I've never been able to forget.

"The two most important things in life," he would say, "are communication and elimination."

I can't vouch for the latter but, with each passing day, the all-importance of the former grows more distinct.

If Columbus Public School's Project UNITE had to eliminate all the multi-faceted ideas of its Search and Solve teams but one, that one survivor should be communication.

The closer I get to the city's school system, the more obvious the fantastic need for communication between school and public becomes.

Only last week, two very well-intentioned men in leadership positions–revealed in their questions at a public meeting that (a) they did not understand the difference between a school operating levy and a building bond issue and (b) they did not understand exactly what split sessions were, even though the procedure was currently being practiced at their neighborhood school.

Add to that a teacher who got to her feet at a recent UNITE forum and declared she had never heard of Project UNITE, and you can see there's a bit of room for improvement in the communication department.

But sad as this lack of public understanding is, it doesn't come close to some of the abuse taken by UNITE panelists at the city-wide forums.

To me, the audacity of someone questioning why a UNITE panelist was so involved when he or she didn't have children in the system, is nearly unbelievable.

It continues to amaze me how so many critics have crawled out of the woodwork now that Project UNITE has completed its recommendation stage.

Where were all these critics during the OPEN, PUBLIC, EVERYBODY'S - INVITED work sessions?

I would imagine the UNITE panelists are also getting a little sick of the comments that the liberal element "stacked" the work [illegible].

If they did "stack", more power to them. At least they exhibited an interest and concern in a troubled school system.

But I'd like to know how you "stack" a public meeting, open to all, with everyone [illegible].

I've heard an interesting theory about Project UNITE from more than one unofficial [illegible].

If Project UNITE fails in its intention (solving the problems of Columbus Public Schools), school administrators just might be very tempted to say:

"OK, folks – we've given you your chance to set things straight. We asked you to tell us what we should do to improve your school system. Your efforts haven't been any more successful than ours, so we think we'll take another crack at it – on our own."

That's one of the strange oddities about the democratic process. It only works when people work at it.

AS A SENIOR WHAT EVENT OF YOUR HIGH SCHOOL CAREER SEEMS MOST VIVID OR IMPORTANT?

Respondents:
WESTLAND HIGH SCHOOL

The most interesting experience I recall occurred when as sophomore rookies a friend of mine and I could not determine whether a certain teacher was wearing a wig.

I stood in front of her, engaging her attention with a question, while he stood behind her and pulled out, one at a time, six hairs. With never an "ouch" heard, we were assured that she was, indeed, wearing a wig. - DON SRAIL.

The most interesting and rewarding experiences I have had were behind the closed doors of drama classes.

For example in discussing method acting we lay upon the floor, relaxing, beginning with our feet, until feeling and the ability to move left our bodies numb. Conversely we built body tension, again beginning with out feet, and utilizing intense concentration on a wall or light until we were involuntarily shaking, crying or laughing to relieve the tension that was built up. - JUDY HAMMOND.

My most exciting day has yet to come. It will be the day I leave school. It is not that I hate school, but I can't stand the routine.

I know routine is common, but to me school is restrictive and limiting. I cannot do the things I want and school has nothing which I want.

College will be a different story because I'll be doing what I want and there will be no limitation to what I can gain. - KARON PTANHAK

The most important thing in my high school years is what I have gotten out of school, what I have learned.

A person must try to find himself. With his hand upon my life God has led me through some perilous times. If it had not been for my God's patience and care my life would have no meaning.

Now I have a reason to live. Christ took hold of my life and is using it to help influence others to try God's way.

My ambition is to do God's will. I am going to His way, not mine. Jesus has made my way clear by calling me to go into the ministry. Christ demands that we give up our time, our little pleasurers, to serve him.

Many people are struggling over who's going to be the master of their lives. Society is rejected the one that created it, the very one who breathed into us the breath of life. So, I am saying, I am going to accept this God no matter what others say. Christ is MY way, MY truth, and My very life. - BOB REEDER.

The greatest feeling of self-satisfaction I have every experienced in high school came with a letter from the college of my choice, granting me permission to enter in the fall. Admission to college seemed to verify the fact that my academic and social efforts had not been in vain. - MELINDA RAINEY

One event in my high school career really stands out as the most memorable. It happened at the end of our last football season after a heartbreaking loss of 9-8 on a field goal.

I didn't get to play at all that season and I just didn't feel it was worth the hard practices I had endured. The only thing that I got out of that season that really meant anything happened then.

A first string man told me he appreciated what I had done for the team and for him in practice and that he was glad I "stuck it out." That might not sound like much, but I feel it was the best thing anyone could have said to me then and I thank him for having said it. - TOM NORRIS

My most memorable experience was going to the Bahamas over Christmas with a group of Westland High and Norton Middle School students.

Many of the kids that went were unacquainted. After a week of continuous close living we became a family. Everyone respected each other's wishes. It was fantastic. Since our return, a bond of friendship still remains. - JOHN BOLISH.

One day in the midst of my senior year, the math class decided to pull the curtain across the room to divide it in half. We all centered ourselves in the far half of the room and turned out the lights.

We heard the teacher enter the other half of the room and waited for his reaction. Instead of bursting in on us, he acted as if we were there and proceeded with the day's lecture.

When we heard what he was doing we ran back and took our seats. Without blinking an eye he said, "Will the students that are late hurry and catch up with the class?"

He didn't slow down for us, and the end of class said, "I hope the late students can make it on time tomorrow." - LINDA DYER.

I recall the excitement about going to my first homecoming dance. I didn't know very much about what went on at this sort of a dance, and neither did my date. I remember thinking that I had to get all dressed up, and it turned out that I overdid it. Then my date, to top it off, didn't know that he was supposed to get me a corsage. I knew he was supposed to, but didn't think it was necessary to tell him so.

All night both of us felt very awkward. I felt funny because I looked as if I were trying to make myself look older and my date felt like a bum because he didn't get my first corsage. He made up for it though. He sent me some flowers a couple of days later.

We laugh when we think about it now, but then it didn't seem funny at all. - KIM KREPPS

Each time I march with the band out onto the field for a pre-game during football season it seems even more memorable than the time before. It is a rare honor that not everyone gets to experience.

We march out, trying to do our best and outdo the band of the opposing team. Then comes the great part which leaves me with the feeling that all the bad in this world CAN be corrected.

We march into the other band and, standing side by side with a complete stranger, play The Star Spangled Banner. Right after it has ended, we can hear screams and applause coming from both sides of the field. For a moment anyway, two opposing forces (bands, teams and fans) are together and every person, I think, feels a special feeling for everyone around him. - LUANNE BALL.

The most memorable thing about my four years in high school is my acquaintance with a particular teacher. Although I never came to know him well personally, I admired his teaching and techniques and his enthusiasm for his profession and his students.

He seemed to have a unique ability to personally help a student in his class, yet mold all such students together into a coordinated, proficient group. I feel I learned more about people and myself, just by being in his class. - J. RICHARDSON

The most outstanding event I cannot forget last year when, as last year reached its pinnacle and I suddenly found that I occupied a position which commanded some respect among the other youths who attend school. Instead of having to listen to students who were supposedly more intelligent than I, I was in a position of power. Instead of being told what to do, I could now tell other people what to do.

This accomplishment was so exciting to me that I spent days on end dreaming of things to tell those young rascals to do. It was a splendid feeling, and made all those long, hard years of work seem worthwhile. It was wonderful. The feeling was indescribable–it was the best time to be alive.

The only sour sound that resounded through my thoughts was the fact that next year it would begin again. - JOE SHEPHERD.

All The Way To The Top

CAPITAL UNIVERSITY'S Air Force Reserve Officer Training Corps (AFROTC) Detachment 646 came in for some outstanding honors last week from the United States Air Force. Detachment 646 was cited as one of five AFROTC units in the nation to receive the 1972 Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. The citation pointed out "Through an innovative and ingenious recruiting and motivating program involving face to face contact with high school seniors and university admissions staff, the Detachment significantly improved the quantity and quality of the base of highly qualified applicants ..." The official presentation was made by B.B. Cassiday Jr., Brigadier General, USAF, Commandant. Two Eastern area women are members of the Angel Flight attached to the Detachment 646. They are at left Cheri Pottorf (Eastmoor graduate) and Judy McDonald, right, (Walnut Ridge graduate). From left in the photo are Capital Professor of Aerospace Studies Lt.Col. Franklin D. The Barnett Scene

By: Debbi Chambers

A teen dramatics group has begun at Barnett with emphasis on informal drama, improvisation and pantomine. Kinny Lehnert, Brian Murray, Hugh Murray and Greg Duffy are a few of the teens presently working on skits to be presented before the playground seasons begins.

Track and Field classes are winding up at this point. High jumping has been the favorite activity. Outstanding marks have been achieved by the following people: R.D. Spear, 2 feet 9 inches; David Cox, 3 feet 9 inches; Janie Bowsher, 3 feet 5 in.; Billy Swain 4 feet; Julie Weisenberger, 4 ft. 2 in; Lisa Doane, 4 ft.; Cathy Chambers 3 ft. 10 in.; and Debbie Chambers, 4 ft. 6 in.

The ladies Thursday afternoon tennis class has shown tremendous progress in the last nine weeks. First they went through group instruction on the "grip", forehand drive, backhand drive and serve. Strategy, courtesy and scoring were also learned. Now they are working on "getting it all together". Members of the class are: Opel Grant, Rosemary Kirby, Reva Shapira, Ann Mandt, Berneta Daley, Barbara Pyle, Sue Provenzano, Becky Lonzo, Kathleen Szymak and Neva Nolan.

Last Friday some of Barnett's outstanding teens attended the Annual Teen Council Picnic at Blendon Woods. Games, stunts food and lots of fun were the main ingredients. Although Barnett didn't win the Games Trophy the following teens participated, Debbie and Cathy Chambers, Lisa Doane, Kevin Sholtz, Vicki Levin and Patty Carter.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Time Or Day Not Pertinent

To the Editor:

In regards to the letter from Mildred Hoffman (May 3 Spectator), I am astonished to hear that a principal of one of our more affluent neighborhood public schools puts more emphasis on the time of day or day of the week than the emergency treatment of a child who has been injured.

Although I do not condone any child going against school ground regulations (day or night), the issue at hand is the immediate medical service needed.

I have called the squad twice this past year and the squadsmen were a very welcome sight when my family was in dire need of emergency help.

There is a definite need for another emergency squad for the Far East side area. The squadsmen do their very best from the distance they must travel, but – for the injured – it can seem like an eternity.

CLASSICALLY suited for Spring is this striped cotton dress and jacket duet, with precise little silver-buttoned cardigan. Brown-beige and navy-white.

THE LONG way to go for evening...pale beige crepe ruffled shirt combined with brown plaid seersucker skirt, belted and brightened with gilt buckle. RONA FASHIONS available at BEATRICE WEST, 24 S. Third St.

MARIO FORTE AND PATRICK PORTER, the talented design team for RONA, create costumes and dresses geared to the sophisticated American woman who wants simplicity and good taste in her fashion life...the woman who wants a "look" that will take her from morning to night with casual elegance, and for travel.

REFLECTING THE newest fashion trends, silhouettes and colors of the season ahead, they stress easy to wear, easy-care fabrics such as linen-like polyesters, sprightly cottons and seersuckers in paisley and geometric patterns, always with a tri-dimensional effect.

HIGHLIGHTS of the collection are the costumes...coat and dress costumes in woven cotton, in matching but reversed coloring...each piece attractive enough to solo on its own or team with other dresses or coats in a woman's wardrobe.

DRESS AND JACKET COSTUMES for which Rona is famous are in keeping with the classic look...the jackets often cardigan-cut, while the dress beneath has a two-piece look of shirt and skirt, handsomely belted between...topped off with some small whimsical touch like contrasting stitchery, fringe, banding, scarfed in dots, or brightened with the gleam of gilt buttons and belt buckle.

SINCE THE DRESS on its own has regained fashion importance for Spring and Summer, Rona features a great variety...both short and long...slender nautical styles, skirt and shirt looks, and the traditional shirt dress with a new concept of casualness.

City's Bulk Clean-Up Schedule Released

The city has released its tentative schedule for its annual "Bulk Clean-Up Campaign". The city is hopeful its crew of four open-bed trucks and two packer trucks can eventually cover the entire city twice a year.

Notices will be left by the regular sanitation crews the week before the scheduled dates.

RESIDENTS are requested to place those articles which they wish to have removed at the curb or alley on the first day of their designated period.

Anything that can be lifted by two men will be removed, although—where possible—anything to be removed should be in containers or bundled.

Here is the tentative schedule (as applicable to Spectator circulation areas):

July 17-21 - Columbian to Richardson, Sullivant to Broad.

Tracksters Battle For District Gold Saturday

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

To the surprise of just about nobody, Upper Arlington and Worthington walked off with last week's "AAA" Sectional track titles at Gahanna and Brookhaven respectively.

The Golden Bears built a massive 116-67 margin over runnerup East while qualifying 16 individuals and both relay teams for this Saturday's District showdown at Worthington. The Cards weren't quite as impressive, but did wind up with 12 solo performers and both relay quartets in the District meet and an 87-59½ edge over Marion-Franklin.

THE RED DEVILS from down South managed to send eight individual entries on up the ladder, while West and Newark garnered the same number of District berths and Eastmoor notched eight solo and two relay qualifiers to join the list of pacesetters.

As defending team champs, Les Eisenhart's host Cardinals face a stiff challenge from the field-event strong Golden Bears and Marion-Franklin superstars Wayne Harris and Jerry Mounts when things get underway Saturday.

Field chores begin at 1:30 p.m. and continue till the '72 District kings have been crowned. Running prelims get the gun at 2:00, and footrace finals constitute a special evening session starting at 7:45. Admission is $1.25 for everyone, that covers all day.

THE TOP TWO finishers in each event earn a trip to Ohio Stadium for next week's State Championships.

What follows is our own summary of top Sectional performances and probable frontrunners when things get cracking Saturday:

SHOT PUT It's a matter of battling for the second through sixth spots here, barring a monumental upset. Wayne Harris of Marion Franklin is the defending State champ, and hasn't been beaten in a year and a half. He took first at the Brookhaven Sectional with a 56'4" heave, which was nearly four feet better than Jim Tudor (Westerville) needed to win at Gahanna. Best bet for the other State Meet spot is probably Arlington's Scott Miller--he's been over 55' a number of times. Other top performers should be Joe Schleppi and Rick Meindl from Eastmoor and Linden's Tom Pinckney.

DISCUS Here again it's a case of Harris against the field. The Devil star has thrown 179' plus this spring, and was nine feet longer than top challenger Miller in the Sectionals. Worthington's Carl Juckett, Linden's Pinckney and Tom Hall from Westland may battle Miller for second, but it's gonna take a hefty heave to beat Mr. Harris.

HIGH JUMP--Central Ohio has had some uncommonly strong performers this year--but when they meet Saturday it should be a three horse race. UA's Kim Taylor has done 6'7" twice in the last two weeks, and he'll be the man to beat but lanky Whitehall soph Terry Burris cleared 6'6" at Walnut Ridge and Franklin Heights' Doug Baer has improved 6'5" in recent weeks to keep things interesting.

LONG JUMP--Ron Hairston, defending District champ from East, looks like the frontrunner with a 22'9" effort in the Sectionals. Eastmoor's Wally Cannon managed 21'5" last weekend, and has done better, but he faces some stiff competition for the other ticket to Ohio Stadium from West's Harold Lee and Vince Williams and a recooperating Guy Jensen (Gahanna). Lee and Jensen are both potential 23-footers.

POLE VAULT--The "fiberglas flyers" have had a good year around these parts too; and at least four local performers are near-cinches to better 13 feet on Saturday. Andy Horn of Arlington had the top Sectional effort (14'0"), and should battle Westland's Tom Rice for the crown if both are "on". Rice has Central Ohio's top '72 vault, a 14'2" beauty three weeks ago at Franklin Heights. Whitehall's Tom Stever and Chuck O'Merrow from Reynoldsburg should be well in the running up to 13'6"--and either might just pull off an upset win with some extra adrenalin.

Rosemore Tracksters Post Sizzling '72 Cinder Slate

Rosemore Junior High School has been enjoying a most successful track and field season this spring. Thus far, the Lancers have defeated Eastmoor, Mifflin, Delaware and Groveport in dual competition. The only lost sustained to date has been a one-pointer to Worthington Perry.

In addition, the Rosemore tracksters finished second to Worthington at the Gahanna Invitational, scoring 62 points in a field of 23 entries.

JEFF PHILLIPS is the leading Lancer point getter, having scored 99 points so far this season. Jeff was honored at Gahanna as the outstanding performer at the meet. He established a new meet record in the 100 yard dash of :10.25, took first place in 180 yard sprint in :19.1 and won the long jump with a 19'4" effort.

The 440 Relay Team has bettered the school record on two occassions this year with a fastest time of :48.6. Team members include Mark Hunter, Scott Adkins, Don French, and Bill McKee. Garylin Johnson works as first substitute with this unit and was part of the team's first record performance.

Steve Cochrane turns the 440 yard run in :56.2 and Roger Jones steps over the hurdles in :15.2 to add to team balance. Both of the above times are excellent for eighth grade competition.

OTHER TEAM MEMBERS who have contributed to the teams success include: Distance Men-Mickey Crawford, Dan Walters, Tim Bleil, Clay Pickerell and Darrell VanDyke; Quarter milers: Phil Boruszewski and Mark Heffleflinger; Weight men: Don McCann, Tim Collins and Bill Kolarik; Hurdles: Bill Ruck, Ralph Wesney and Mark Meidl; High jumpers: Steve Roberts and Dave Schwenk; Pole Vaulters: Bob Bailey and Mark Wigginton.

The Rosemore Lancer Track Squad, coached by Dick Kane, will finish its competition at the Westerville Invitational on May 18.

From 9:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Saturday Paul Kauderer and his staff at Paul's Barber Salon, 3079 W. Broad (at Westgate), stand ready to offer complete hair service. In the picture at the left are William Cernack, Kauderer and Gavin Shadwick, all trained through the Roffler System. Ttero, rich carpeting, paneled walls and decor make the shop one of the most modern in the city—and one where men, women and children are equally at ease. In the picture at the right Paul is shown with Shadwick in the chair in one of the booths that provide complete privacy. Although the salon accepts walk-ins, Kauderer finds that everyone concerned is happier when an appointment is made. The number is 276-1663. The receptionist will book you at your convenience.

They're All 'Pros' At Paul's

Paul Kauderer is a barber and justifiably proud of his work and that of his colleagues, Gavin Shadwick and William Cernack.

Possibly the root from which this pride stems is the fact that Paul looks upon his work as a profession and not a trade.

Franchized by the Roffler System, Paul and his associates adhere to the premise advanced by Newton D. Baker: "The man who graduates today and stops learning tomorrow is uneducated the day after."

This theory keeps the services at Paul's Barber Salon a jump ahead of most of his competition and, through his association with Roffler's and the know-how gained coast-to-coast, is always confident he has jumped in the right direction.

For example, currently he is predicting slightly shorter styles for men with some ear showing and hair not extending below the collar line, although remaining full.

Preferring to work by appointment, the men at the chairs at Paul's (which is actually two three-chair shops) do not believe in wasting time.

Nor do they believe in endless chatter about sports and politics.

According to Kauderer, the staff believes that when a man comes to have his hair shaped, his primary concern at the moment is his hair and its care and they take the opportunity of the time with the customer to help him make the decisions that will effect his present appearance--and the condition and amount of his hair a decade from now.

Recognizing that hair is 97 percent protein, Paul emphasizes that any product used must be acid balanced to insure against irrevocable damage to its structure. And each product that is used in the shop may be purchased for home use.

Shampooing is routine business at the shop and hair relaxing or "straightening" hair of which resists shaping is a speciality of the house. Facials are available and the type of shaping is entirely up to the demands of the customer.

Razor cuts, shags, ruffled, the Avante look—ask for it at Paul's and it is yours. However, for the man who is seeking a new, but undefined, hair dress, pictures of each style are provided. And then, for the man who wants to be truly different, there are custom cuts, designed for him and him alone.

Paul's also has an extensive line of life-like hairpieces including crown pieces, frontal pieces, and "sliders" which are worn under one's own hair.

The color range seems endless with Kauderer refusing to allow anything but a perfect match to leave his shops.

Although the trade at Paul's could be expected to be drawn from the sophisticated, some of of his customers are anything but that.

These are his youngest customers, mere toddlers—and he welcomes the opportunity to win their confidence and avoid the trauma involved so often in a child's first trip to the barber shop.

Another customer whom Paul welcomes who often find an "off limits" sign posted at other shops is the woman whose primary goal in hair care is expertise in shaping.

Within the privacy of the individual booths provided at Paul's she is as much at home as at a beauty salon.

In a mobile society, more than one man has faced the dilemna of finding a barber in a strange city who can deliver the shaping to which he is accustomed without the painful weeks of trial and error.

This is only one more problem that is automatically solved at Paul's.

Each Roffler is trained by the same exacting standards, attends the same quarterly seminars, participates in the same type of monthly workshops and employes the same techniques.

Thus a Hilltop or Eastside businessman can be assured of a "Roffler" shape whether he flies east or west, north or south.

And that, sir, is almost as convenient -- and considerably less expensive—than taking your favorite barber with you.

RICHARD KERSCHBAUM

Board Names New Grid Coach

A 24-year old Capital University graduate was yesterday named head football coach at Reynoldsburg High School.

He is Richard Kerschbaum, a '69 graduate who played offensive center for the Crusaders for four years and was team captain in 1968.

Kerschbaum has been assistant coach at Columbus Northland High School for two years serving under veteran Frank Howe.

He is a Washington, D.C. high school graduate, is married and his wife is a school teacher at Olde Orchard in Columbus.

Kerschbaum takes over for Bob James who coached the Raiders for two years.

High School Principal Joseph Endry told The Reynoldsburg Spectator he was impressed with Kerschbaum credentials and his enthusiasm.

Raider football fortunes have been on the deficit side with only three wins the past two years.

Capital grid coach Gene Slaughter was high in his praise of Kerschbaum. The veteran Crusader mentor said Kerschbaum was a "walk-on" candidate in his freshman year and made the team. "He's a serious-minded young man and has all the attributes you need as a young coach," said Slaughter. "Reynoldsburg is fortunate to get a man of his calibre. He's the kind of a man that any father should be proud to have his son play under," Slaughter continued.

Bad News For City Linksters

MEET THE five golfers who dominated City League links play this spring by posting a spotless 8-0 card to earn Walnut Ridge the loop championship. The quintet could provide additional "bad news" for CL foes next spring since all will return for more "tour" duty under Scot mentor Bob Holderle. From left are: junior Steve Maynard, junior Dan Drewry, sophomore Doug Kunselman, sophomore Bob Cole and junior Jim Gallagher.

Tracksters Battle . . .

Gahanna last week, while Hartley flash Art Best was topping John Madry from Worthington and Delaware's Jerome Bohanna at Brookhaven in a sub-standard 10 flat. If Jones isn't able to repeat his super :09.6 clocking of earlier in the year, it's gonna be a cavalry charge to the tape between the five speedsters listed above plus South's Byron Johnston and Linden's Jerome Turner -all of 'em can fly.

220 YARD DASH--Hero again, a healthy Jones is the class of the field. The Buc bolter has done 21.7, and anything lower than :22 flat should win handily. He edged Lee with a :22.5 in the Sectional, and South's Johnston was best at the other site with :22.8--but neither of those clockings will win Saturday if the weather is decent. Madry, Bohanna and Turner are all threats too, but look for Jones and Lee in a leaner.

HIGH HURDLES--With defending champ Yale Cline and Worthington star Dan O'Rourke out of the field, the highs should be interesting. Westerville flash Roger Retherford ran away from the Gahanna Sectional field last week with a sizzling :14.1--best in the District this year and plenty good enough to win at Worthington Saturday barring a big improvement by somebody else. The real battle ought to be for second place and the other State Meet berth. East's Al Moore and Worthington's Mike Scott will duel. Brookhaven Sectional winner Ray McCurdy (Linden) and Bob Saunders of Eastmoor, among others, for that distinction.

LOW HURDLES--The condition of defending champ O'Rourke is a big question mark here--the Worthington star has an area best of :19.1 this Spring but finished sixth in a slow Sectional field to barely make it to District competition. Retherford is a strong contender with low :19's, along with Newark handyman Mark Wolfjen, Moore and Delaware's Scott Veley.

440 DASH--East's James Fluellan did :50.8 to win at Gahanna, while Tom Puckett of Mt. Vernon earned the Brookhaven Sectional win with :51.1. If Jensen is fully recovered from a muscle pull, he can beat those times. Don Janssen (Worthington), Jay Richter (UA) and Mary Baylor (Central) are all capable of sub :51 clockings too.

880 RUN--Marion-Franklin distance star Jerry Mounts is the man to beat in the half mile, his 1:57 flat at the Upper Arlington Relays being the area's top '72 performance. But Jerry did no better than third at Brookhaven last week behind Delaware's Dave Davis and Hartley surprise Toby Faulkner; and North standout Tom Byers posted a spiffy 1:58.3 for hh the top Sectional time at Gahanna. Toss in Fred Bruce from Arlington and maybe a "rabbit" or two, and you've got the makings of a real crowd-pleaser.

MILE RUN Mounts rates the favorite tag here again, with a 4:22 best this Spring and a 4.28 to lead all Sectional qualifiers. Rick Duff from Gahanna did 4:31 last Saturday, and there are other darkhorse threats around like Mark Duffy and Mike Chadwell (Worthington), Tom Bachtel (Brookhaven), Arlington's Ed Tate and Newark's Mike Morrison. They're all fine schoolboy milers, but none has Mounts' track record.

880 RELAY West's half-mile quartet has posted the top time of the season (1:30.1) for a AAA school, but Central edged thithe Broncs last week with a 1:31.6 at Gahanna and Eastmoor posted a 1:31.4 to win at Brookhaven. East and South also wore near the front, and everybody will be "loading" their District entries come Saturday. Look for the times to come tumblin' down, with the Broncs, Bucs and Warriors duelling below 1:30.

MILE RELAY--East and Worthington copped the Sectional crowns last week, though neither was able to get below 3:30. The Cards have turned 3:26 this Spring and Gahanna and UA have been around 3:27. Look for that trio to battle for the two State assignments along with "sleepers" East, Linden and Central.

registration foul-up, the top Central District two miler (Grove City's Robin Smith) won't be on hand Saturday to battle for a State Meet berth. Besides a very disappointed Smith, that leaves a wide open scramble for the '72 crown. Tom Anstaff (Arlington) and Marion Franklin's Ernie Watts captured the Sectional titles in 9:51 and 9:50.8 respectively--and things should be every bit that close at Worthington Saturday. Worthington's Bill Earley has done 9:37, and teammate Tracy Mollica has been in the mid 9:40's to rate some notice, and Delaware's Bruce Hambrick was impressive two weeks ago while running away from a solid UA Relays field. It should be a classic distance grind to the wire.

Come see a car with an engine in the front, the back, and the middle.

The car with the engine in the front is called the Audi.
It stops differently, turns differently, moves differently, even uses gas differently than just about every other car in the world. (Sixty one years of German engineering experience has taught us a few things.)
The car with the engine in the rear is the Porsche 911.
A true classic in sports cars. And a classic in engineering. In fact, over the past twenty one years Porsches have proven to be so well engineered, so precise, that they've won more than one thousand major races.
And the car without an engine in the front or the back is the Porsche 914.
We put the engine in the middle so the 914 would hold the road better, corner surer, and brake smoother than almost any other car.
We'll be glad to show what our cars look like in real life. We're very proud of them.
And we'll show you something we're even more proud of than the way they look.
The way they work.

RAMADA INN SOUTH

The country and western musical acts are certainly going over big at the Ramada Inn South. Currently knocking them dead is another C & W act by name of Becky Dunning and Frank Hobson. Becky is a cute little thing with a pair of gams that would bring most men back again and again, even if she couldn't sing. But, that doesn't happen to be the case. Becky has a good country and western voice. Yet, don't think she limits her musical library only to this area. Becky sings all types of music. True, C&W is really her bag, so to speak. In plain language, Becky milks the devil out of a tune. Her voice and style lends itself to country music. When not singing, Becky stands there in a very brief hot pants outfit playing the tamborene.

While Becky may be the prettiest part of the act, she does have plenty of competition in the musical field. Partner Frank Hobson adds a lot of talent. He sings with a tremendous amount of feeling. And, believe me, he does a nice job in the instrumental department as well.

Joining in making the group a rather solid quartet are two talented fellows, Randy Parker and Ted Alsup.

If you dig the country and western sound and music, then don't wait around-run right down to the Ramada Inn South. If this is not your musical desire, then don't go down.

All I can say is that Frank Hobson and Becky Dunning with their two partners are a solid, fast moving act with plenty of good vocals, both solo-wise as well as two and three part harmony bits. I'm not a country fan, but this group could convert me.

MARRIOTT INN

Here is something for both you gals and fellows. It is a weekly style show, held at the Marriott Inn Motel. Now, what's so different about that? Well, it is a style show for both men and women.

Presented every Wednesday, the popular luncheon style show features clothes for guys and gals. Various shops Around Town take part by showing their clothes. Models are professionals from various agencies and stores Around Town.

Marty Adler is the host for the weekly shows and the well-known and well-liked Joyce Jeffries is the commentator. Special guests are featured each week. Several door prizes are awarded also. Besides all of this, the style show is video-taped for broadcast on cable television. Marty does some table-hopping and gives you a chance to be on television.

Besides all the beautiful models and the interesting fashions for men and women, I really enjoy the food. The Marriott serves an excellent lunch, and, of course, your favorite cocktail. Add it all up, and you have a highly entertaining, fun-type lunch in store for you when you stop in at the Marriott Inn on Wednesdays.

If there is a large group I would recommend reservations. By the way, there is no cover charge for all of this. Just the price of your food and beverage.

It is truly a high class, three-ring circus. As far as I'm concerned, it is the most fun luncheon in town.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

There is one melodrama that is such a classic that no one who considers himself a theater buff should go through life without seeing it at least once. The play, of course, is Ned Albert's "East Lynne." And the opportunity to see it is now, May 19th and 20th at 8:30 P.M. at Prairie Players, 6463 W. Broad Street.

This is a melodrama with teeth in it and meat on its bones. Perhaps you would prefer I called it a soap opera because of the involved plot. Our hero, Archibald Caryle, is perfectly cast in the person of David Sting. I have never seen this young man on stage before but I certainly will look for him in the future.

His sister, Cornelia, is played by Elaine Smith and although she plays it straight, she had me rolling in the aisle. Richard Sutton makes a quite proper villain as Capt. Francis Levison; however the leering was a bit overdone for this particular piece.

And that brings us to our heroine, Darlene Loomis as Archibald's bride Isabel. I hope she took director Elizabeth Noblitt's advice about not shaking her head and mugging so much. The lines in this piece make it a very funny production without over-melodramatic actions and reactions.

Others in the cast of this worthwhile presentation are Oscar Smith, Geri Eckle, Don Bender, Jane Widen and Betty Ann Tepelides. Lee Bender is the producer and Joanne Stokes serves as stage manager. For tickets call 279-5313.

On the playbill for "Guys and Dolls" at Welsh Hills Players, 3 Wilwood Ave., Newark, I did not see mention of the orchestra-not that there should have been. These out-of-tune, out-of-step musicians spoiled some of the otherwise good production numbers. A piano, a drum and a bugle would have done just as well, if they were good.

Now that I have the criticism out of the way, a word for the highlights. Diane Disque has got to be the funniest Adelaide I've seen in a long time. And she can sell a song, too.

Glenn McCune, as Benny, joins Price, Reed and the ensemble to give an excellent rendition of "The Oldest Established Floating Crap Game". The rest of the cast is legion and space is not available to print all their [illegible].

Production continues May 16, 17, 18, 19 and 20 under the direction of Bob Stegmiller. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

RAMADA INN EAST

The Martin Edwards Quintet is pleasing the people nightly at the Ramada Inn East. To start with, they have one of the most unique engagements I've seen in a long time. You can catch Martin Edwards Quintet Monday through Thursday from 7 p.m. until 2 a.m. Then on weekends, the well-known Clyde and Hilda shake up the place.

But back to Martin Edwards. This five-some really have it all together. It is a well run, smooth ensemble that keeps moving and moving. They are a versatile group, playing all types of music. You name it and they play it, from the soft dance stuff of years ago to the loud rockin' material of today. All of it is done well.

Almost everyone is a star because they are featured. And, they are featured because each one is top drawer in the talent field. Mary Beth McHugh is the beauty part of the outfit. And, boy, does she sing. This gal is certainly a stylist. Her voice is crystal clear. Mary Beth comes on with an attack so strong that if she were a prize fighter she'd knock you out in one punch.

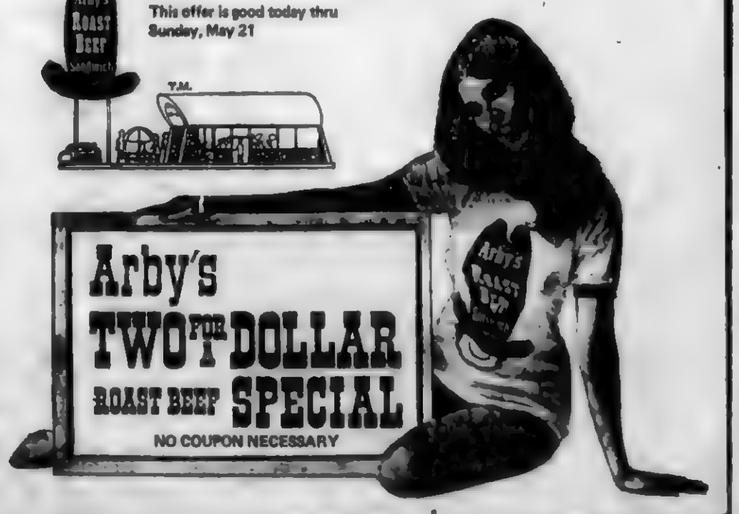
Another member to capture your attention is sax man Jim Maso. All you have to do is plug up your ears and watch. When Jim puts two saxophones in his mouth at one time, you'll sit up and listen, that's for sure.

Then there are drummer Nick McMullen who is no slouch with the rhythm section, Ron Cirko with the electric guitar and last but not least, leader Martin Edwards. This man is a natural, that's all I can say. He plays a handful of organ music, that I know you will like.

Quite a bit of their material is production numbers. The Martin Edwards Quintet is one of the smoothest and strongest groups to come down the pike in a long time. It is a highly entertaining and almost, to a point, fascinating outfit.

Go see them-you will love them so much you will go back again and again.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN



Lots and lots of things are happening Around Town this week. First, get ready for a big time at the Columbus Springfield Dinner Theatre. Make your reservations now for their opening next week of "Pajama Tops." This is a hilariously funny play. There is another surprise in store for you also at the Columbus-Springfield Dinner Theatre. Beginning with this show, all food will be prepared in their own kitchen. No more catering. I don't have the name of the chef yet-all I know is that he is a master at his trade and has worked in Hawaii...If you haven't visited one of the Academy Theatres yet, do it now. The remodeled Carousel and Camelot are out of this world. And, wait until you see the new Forum. They always have first class movies. Go this week and relax...The beautiful Susan Lambi has been held over for another week at the Holiday Inn in Reynoldsburg. She is a well stacked, pretty thing who plays organ and sings. See her, you'll like it...The ever popular Keith-Charles Duo continue to pack them in at the always swinging Lincoln Lodge. This is the place to meet old and new friends and have a good old fashioned time. The entertainment is always tops, and it is always the type to appeal to the thirty plus crowd. Nothing so loud that you can't even hear yourself think...For something that is different in the way of dining that offers very unusual entertainment, head to the Dobbs House at the Airport. Visit their Glass Terrace Dining room with your family. The kids will love the sights. You can dine while watching all the airport activity, including planes landing and taking-off...Red Top and The Young Family have been held over again at the Sheraton North Motel. This place has really caught on this year. And guys, there's a tip. There are always plenty of unattached females around. As I said, it is a popular place...And, for all of you late night swingers wanting a good place to eat breakfast after all the spots are closed, try the Western Pancake House. They have four locations. Some are open all night, every night. Be sure to check the ad in this paper to get the whole low-down...My talented friend, Sonia Modes keeps people happy with her piano stylings Monday through Thursday at the popular Holiday Inn East.

Sweet Adeline, Anyone?

BARBERSHOP harmony will resound in the Ohio Theater Saturday, May 20 at 8 p.m. when Buckeye Chapter, S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A. presents its 22nd annual show. The featured quartet will be the Roaring 20's, (from left Dave Paul, Gary Wolfe, Mike Morris and Mel Balgeman) 8th place finalist in the 1972 international contest. Their versatility is well recognized with their competence with comedy, classical, and modern styles. Quartets appearing from the Buckeye Chapter will be the City Slickers, Credit Cards, and Whatchamacallits. The Society is dedicated to help correct children with speech and hearing problems. To further this goal, a portion of the proceeds will be sent to the Institute of Logopedics which treats children with these defects. Tickets are available at the door or Central Ticket Agency. You Be 'The Chef' In 'Kitchen Korner'

Due to heavy response we have received each year during our annual Cookbook Contest, The Spectator will initiate a "Kitchen Korner" recipe column beginning next week.

We have found in the past that printing favorite family recipes on a once-a-year basis has limited the number of recipes we could use.

So, beginning next week, we will reserve a space in the newspaper just for recipes. We hope that our readers will want to share 'n swap that special taste-treat of theirs with fellow Spectator readers.

So ladies, don't be shy. Send us that family favorite. In exchange, we hope to supply you with another potential "favorite" to grace your table.

Send your favorite to: Kitchen Korner, The Spectator, 3421 S. Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204.

Scout-A-Rama Set May 20-21

At Home On The Range

My washing machine and dryer never treats me with respect. No matter how hard I try to please them they are never satisfied.

I put in water softener and the best detergent, so the washer doesn't have to work too hard, and it is still not happy. Maybe that is because I have never called in a neighbor to look at my white wash or danced around and sang catchy soap commercials. My family would probably call the funny farm to haul me off if they saw me.

My washer is always hungry even though I feed it daily. Sometimes it hides clothes from me–I suppose for days I am too busy to wash. Socks are always dissappearing and I have a pile of single ones because the washer ate the mate. Another favorite food is handerchiefs, those just plain dissappear never to be seen again.

The dryer is a little nicer. However, it has one bad habit, it stops working whenever there is a lot of clothes to be done. I know it hates me as it always does this when there is a load of bath towels in its stomach. Then, I have to drag the heavy wet towels down to the laundermat where the dryers do not have any hang ups.

Last week my son thought he had developed a bump on his leg suddenly. After investigating he discovered a rolled up sock stuck to the inside of his pant leg. Obviously one of the washer's devious tricks. We beat it this time and I am marking one point up for me.

While at the laundermat I read some magazines and discovered this good recipe.

A library associate will visit the home, assist with the selection of reading material and return it to the library when the patron has read the books.

Whose Garden Is This?

BY RICHARD L. PAUGH (THROUGH YOUR LOCAL FB ASSN.)

I was amazed recently to pick up a weekly paper and find that a certain legislator was sending out news releases congratulating himself on the passage of "his" stripmine bill.

True, his name was on the bill but so were 87 others. Frankly, the single individual who had 90 per cent of the work on H.B. 926 was Rep. Sam Speck of New Concord. He is a freshman legislator and a professor of political science at Muskingum College.

It was a personal pleasure to me to be assigned the covering of all 14 months of hard-chair hearings on the reclamation bill. I think I found it necessary to miss only one meeting in all that time. Most of that time, Speck was on hand to guide and protect the bill he wrote. In all those long months I did not observe the above unmentioned lawmaker of the House. In Mr. X's home territory, he is now a hero. Back in the hills of Eastern Ohio, Rep. Speck is having a tough time getting re-elected, even though he is a hero in the real sense of the word.

We know that mining interests coupled with the partisan opposition are going to feed thousands of dollars into an attempt to defeat Speck in the November election.

Meanwhile, there is an increasing groundswell not only to keep Sam Speck (handsome, clean-cut and 33 years old) in the Ohio Legislature, but to groom him for much greater things in the late seventies.

The job of forcing through a decent stripmine law against unlimited money and power will have to go down in the books as a major accomplishment.

The earlier law (1965) had passed only after 72 weakening amendments had gutted it. The 1971 law will work if the current and future administrations want it to work.

Quiet, unassuming Sam Speck did it all. Let's hope his actions will encourage more legislators to wear the green all the time, rather than after the battles for a cleaner globe are over and the walking is safer.

Spectator Newspapers Honored

The Spectator Newspapers was one of only five news media to receive special citations this year from the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children at the annual meeting May 10.

The special citation was for The Spectator's activity during the Easter Seal drive.

Reynoldsburg Editor Ray Adams represented The Spectator at the meeting and awards banquet.

Boaters Beware!

If you own a boat or motor, and you receive an official-looking letter from the "United States Merchant Marine" asking for payment of a registration fee, someone is pulling both your leg and your purse-strings according to the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Rodney Cooper, chief of the Department's division of watercraft, warns that the whole thing is a scheme promoted by "some fast-buck artists trying to bill unaware citizens."

"OHIO BOATERS have only to register with the division of watercraft, as long as they do their boating in Ohio," said Cooper. "And if they go to another state, they should register with that state. There is absolutely no national boat licensing requirement."

Area Nines In Stretch Run

By DENNY WHALEN
Spectator Sports Editor

Last week's prep baseball scene was a hodge-podge of league and tournament contests, with two days of rain thrown in just to keep things interesting. When the Monday firing was over here's how things stood for Eastside institutions:

EASTMOOR – Warriors posted Sectional tourney wins over Central (13-2) and Newark (9-0) behind superb pitching by Monty Corron and well-balanced offense to earn a spot in Tuesday's District semifinals at Whetstone against Hartley.

They also split a pair of league games; losing to Marion-Franklin 3-1 last Thursday, then rebounding behind Bob Traphagen's three-hitter to trounce Central 12-1. Ron Golden's club stands 8-2 in the City South Division– a half game ahead of M-F (7-2) and a full game in front of Walnut Ridge (6-2).

A win over the Hawks Tuesday would put 'em in Friday's District Championship tilt (at Whetstone, 4:30) against the M-F, Upper Arlington winner. By a lucky coincidence, the Warriors didn't have a league game scheduled for this week – so they won't have to hassle with make-ups till at least the middle of next week.

HARTLEY – Hawks rode some fence-busting by Jim Chellis and steady hill work by Mike Jenkins and Larry Woerner to successive Sectional wins over Grove City (11-4) and Northland (8-2) last week–earning the right to square off with favored Eastmoor Tuesday.

An upset earns 'em the same District title shot against either Marion-Franklin or UA Friday.

Hawks took the week off from CCL warfare, still stand 4-1, a half game back of leader Watterson (5-1). Since both clubs are still active in tourney action, loop make-ups should come out about even.

WALNUT RIDGE – Scots got shocked 5-2 by Groveport in their tourney debut, with five errors doing the damage in a nine-inning pitchers duel between John Kennington and Cruiser freshman standout Steve Groves.

They rebounded Thursday to dump West 4-2, and climb right into the middle of the CL South pennant chase. Carl Rankin scattered five Bronc hits over seven innings to get the win; Scots scored all their runs in a wild fourth inning with Ronnie Marshall, Rankin and Scott Glenn doing some clutch hitting and base-running.

This week's league card calls for a showdown with 7-2 Marion-Franklin on Friday–but that one may have to wait till next week if Devils earn District title shot with a win over UA Tuesday.

BEXLEY – Lions won tourney opener 3-1 on a snazzy three-hitter by Jim Kaltenecker; but bowed out of "AA" competition Friday when Circleville capitalized on five miscues for an early lead–then held off a game late-inning rally to win 7-5.

Gene Millard's crew stands 6-2 for Mid Eight action, one game back of loop-leader Hilliard with a crucial make-up tilt against the Wildcats on tap for Wednesday. That one will be sandwiched between league battles against Marysville Tuesday and Grandview Friday--with pennant chances riding on the outcome.

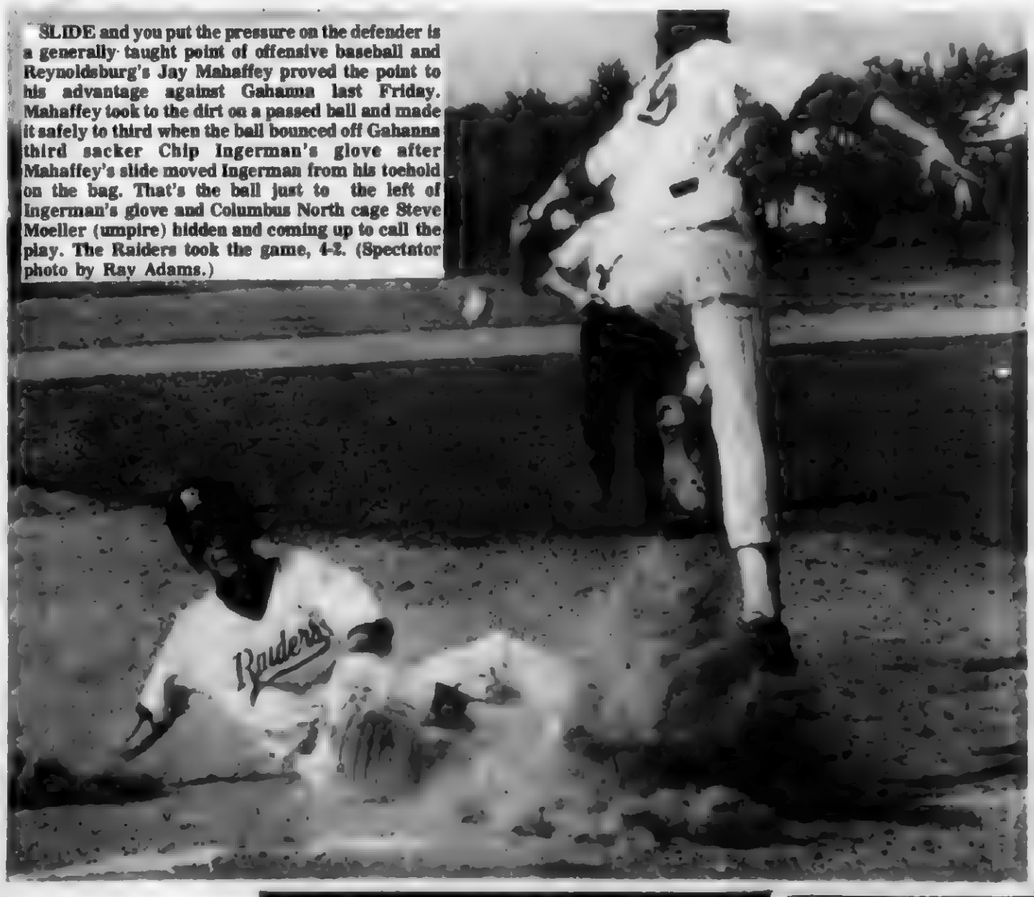
WHITEHALL – The Rams finally got it together last Thursday, edging Westerville 4-3 for their first win in 12 '72 outings. Bruce Gemendin came out of the bullpen in the second inning to choke off a Wildcat rally, and hung tough the rest of the way to earn the mound decision.

Friday, after a first-round bye, John Peters' young club lost their "Cinderella" tournament bid–bowing to City League strongboy Whetstone 7-3. Rams visited Gahanna Tuesday, journey to tough Worthington Friday in a bid to play "spoiler" to Card pennant hopes.

ST. CHARLES – The Cards continued their winning ways last week, smashing Amanda 22-6 to advance to this Tuesday's District Class "A" semis against Canal Winchester.

Bob Dorinsky and Dave Heilman both swatted three run homers to pace the attack, while freshman mound ace Fred Messmer picked up his sixth win against one setback.

Don Henne's crew (11-4) then split a pair of last-inning squeakers in non-tourney play: edging Berne Union 5-4 Thursday on an unearned run in the seventh, then losing 6-5 to West Jefferson when the winning run was forced in on a bases-loaded walk in the final frame.



Sophomore Rhett Plank took both the win and the loss.

This week they can parley a Tuesday win into a District "A" title shot against the North I Sectional champ at Newark on Friday.

Other contests on the slate include road dates against Mifflin and East Knox Wednesday and Thursday and a home date versus Northridge on Saturday.

INSULT TO INJURY – Groveport catcher Ed Bland (34) steps aside as Marion-Franklin's Larry Harper streaks across home plate with the Red Devils final run via squeeze bunt during 13-3 District tourney romp over the Cruisers Friday. Could be the Devils were irritated at G-P's mishandling of fellow City Leaguer Walnut Ridge in earlier tourney encounter.

SLIDE and you put the pressure on the defender is a generally taught point of offensive baseball and Reynoldsburg's Jay Mahaffey proved the point to his advantage against Gahanna last Friday. Mahaffey took to the dirt on a passed ball and made it safely to third when the ball bounced off Gahanna third sacker Chip Ingerman's glove after Mahaffey's slide moved Ingerman from his toehold on the bag. That's the ball just to the left of Ingerman's glove and Columbus North cage Steve Moeller (umpire) hidden and coming up to call the play. The Raiders took the game, 4-2. Cols. Hockey Loop Sets Local Clinics

The Columbus Amateur Hockey Association is planning two neighborhood clinics next week, designed to acquaint local boys and their parents with the league's soon-to-be-expanded youth program.

CAHA spokesman Earl Bechtel reports that three new ice rinks should be completed in the Columbus area by next fall, and that the league hopes to take advantage of a consequent increase in available ice time by expanding its program greatly.

ANY YOUNGSTER between six and 21 can find a spot in the CAHA program, according to Bechtel; and next week's free clinics are a good chance for interested boys and parents to find out more about the sport and the league.

The clinics are set for 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 24 at Jeffrey Mansion for East Columbus residents; and 7:30 p.m. Thursday, May 25 at the Great Western Branch of the Ohio National Bank for Westsiders.

CAHA officials will be on hand to show a movie, talk about the program and accept registrations for the '72-'73 season.

A-AA 'Thins' Collide; Stallions Defend Title

While the biggest Central Ohio high schools are settling on a '72 District cinder king and State Meet qualifiers at Worthington Saturday, the Class "A" and "AA" thinclads will be doing likewise across town at Walnut Ridge.

Defending "AA" team champ DeSales rolled to 111-80 margin over Mifflin at last weekend's Northland Sectional, while Circleville was posting a tight 93-89 edge over Mid Eight champ Bexley at Whitehall.

DESALES TOOK firsts in the shot (Marc Tyler), high hurdles (Bill Hairston), mile (John O'Brian) and 440 (Kent Blackmon) at Northland--but Mifflin sprinter Larry Jackson was the top individual performer with wins in the 100 (:09.9) and 220 (:22.1) and a leg on the winning Cowpuncher 880 Relay quartet.

Meanwhile, at Whitehall, Circleville was edging Bexley in both the mile and 880 relays for its slim point margin. Tiger discus specialist Tom Frericks won with a hefty 161'3½" heave, and quarter-miler Joe McGowan picked up another first for the Roundtowners with a :51.3.

Besides taking second in both relays, Bexley got a 1-2 finish in the high jump from Carl Kraft and Russ Kessler, second and third in the high hurdles by Dave Carruthers and Bill Whitlock, second and fourth in the long jump (Kraft and Bob Sherman) and two more double-qualifier performances in the two mile and 440.

MIFFLIN HAS an edge in individual brilliance, but Saturday's battle looks like a test of balance and depth between Bexley, DeSales and Circleville.

Only Class "A" school of local interest, Columbus Academy, came up with a solid third place finish in the Delaware Sectional--copping firsts in the half mile (Jeff Hoyle, 2:04.1) and 880 relay (Stross, Case, Ritter, Ferguson; 1:34.9).

The Vikings also earned District berths in the high jump (2), pole vault, discus, 100, mile (2), 220, 440, two mile (2) and mile relay. That adds up to 12 individual entries and both relay teams in Saturday's field.

FIELD EVENTS and running preliminaries get started at 10 a.m. Saturday on the Scot all-weather track. Running finals will begin at 1 p.m.--format is the same for both Classes, but events are separate and athletes compete only against people in their own class.

Fishing Report

BUCKEYE LAKE - Bank fishermen are catching channel catfish on cut shad and nightcrawlers fished near or on the bottom. The Maple Swamp area is producing bluegills on wax worms and channels on nightcrawlers. Fair catches of largemouth bass continue to be made in the shallow, vegetated areas of the lake using artificial lures. Outlook - good.

INDIAN LAKE - Very good catches of crappies are being made at most areas of the lake using minnows as bait. Largemouth bass are being taken from the shallow portion of the lake using artificial lures. Bullheads and bluegills are being caught by bank fishermen using wax worms and nightcrawlers as bait. Good catches of white bass are being made from the south bank area using spoons and spinners as bait. Outlook - Good.

KISER LAKE - Good catches of crappies continue to be made all over the lake on minnows and small spinners. Bluegills are being taken on worms and a few on spinners near the beach area. Some nice catches of largemouth bass are reported taken also from the beach area. On May 6, Ralph Uptegraph of Springfield took 3 largemouth ranging between 14 and 17 inches in length. He was using a spinning outfit and a shyster. Besides the nice bass, he also caught crappies and bluegills to round off an enjoyable trip.

A few walleyes were reported taken and fishermen are reminded of the creel limit of 10 and minimum size limit of 13 inches on this species. Outlook - Good.

MADISON LAKE - Shore anglers are taking bluegills, crappies and bullheads on live bait and largemouth bass on spinners and artificial nightcrawlers. Outlook - Fair.

KNOX LAKE - Boat fishermen are reported catching crappies and bluegills throughout the lake on live bait. The crappies are averaging 9 to 10 inches in length and are taking minnows fished 4 to 6 feet deep. Excellent catches of largemouth bass are reported from the upper end of the lake.

HOOVER RESERVOIR - Good catches of channel catfish and white bass are being taken in the Galena area. A few walleyes are being taken by both shore and boat anglers on live and artificial baits. Outlook - Fair.

GREENFIELD LAKE - Many fishermen have been reported taking advantage of the good bluegill fishing at this recently rehabilitated lake. Preferred baits are wax worms, nightcrawlers and small spinners. Anglers are reminded that all largemouth bass caught in this lake must be returned immediately to the water unharmed. Outlook - excellent.

MAD RIVER - Rainbow trout fishing remains excellent with many being taken over 12 inches in length. Preferred baits are salmon eggs, nightcrawlers, small spinners and cheese. Fishing the deeper pooled areas and undercut banks are most productive. Frank Linford and Duane Grazesik, two anglers from Bellefontaine, recently caught 18 rainbows between 12 and 15 inches in length. Outlook - excellent.

CENTRAL OHIO STREAMS - Anglers are taking bullheads on nightcrawlers, sunfish, rockbass, crappies, largemouth bass and smallmouth bass on both live bait and small spinners.

VFW Auxiliary Comes To Westland

'Joslett Brothers' Take Over Council

Randy Vosler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Vosler, 184 Crandall Drive, and Carl Juckett, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Jeckett, 2660 McVey Boulevard, were recently elected student body president and vice-president for the 1972-73 academic year at Worthington High School.

The "Joslett Brothers," as they are now known to classmates, will take over the reins of the school's Student Council May 24 from gratuating officers Rick Kesler and Steve Danglade.

ASIDE from their new positions as Student Council officers, the two juniors have a lot in common. Both are members of the varisty track team, National Honor Society and Varsity "W", and both will represent Worthington this summer at Buckeye Boys' State. Vosler will be 18 December 3 and Juckett will be 18 December 4.

In addition, Randy has maintained a perfect 4.0 grade average to receive the silver key award at the academic honors banquet,is a member of the football team, and active in prom activities.

Carl is this year's junior-senior prom co-chairman, co-captain of the track team, a member of Spanish National Honor Society and a sports columnist for the Worthington News.

VOSLER and Juckett have listed unification of the school through involvement as their primary goal.

"In recent years the school has been somewhat divided," Vosler stated in an interview last week.

"Some students are indifferent, " he continued, "and I hope to bring everybody together."

JUCKETT said he's "tired of kids putting down the high school and down-grading the administration. If more people got involved, they would have a higher regard for the school."

Juckett also feels that all 52 school clubs and organizations must share with Student Council the responsibility of encouraging involvement.

President-elect Vosler stated that he hopes to work with the administration to gear all school activities to appeal to as many students as possible.

VOSLER also said he intends to maintain close communications with the Board of Education and promises "there will be a Student Council officer present at all Board meetings."

The other Student Council officers who were elected with Vosler and Juckett are Carol Rohyans, secretary, Jeff DiCenzo, treasurer, and Beth Haynes, recorder.

Cabinet members chosen by Vosler and Juckett to head the standing committees for next year are as follows: Cindy Evans and Anne Allen, Projects Committee, Juckett and Audrey Bullar, Elections Committee; Dick Calvert, Concerns Committee; and Jane Dillard and Cindy Beaty, Publicity.

White Bass Biting At Hoover, Indian Lake

Excellent catches of white bass are being reported from both Indian Lake and Hoover Reservoir.

While fishing along the south bank area of Indian Lake, Emerson Smith and Jack Hoffman recently landed their limits of white bass by catching 50 each using small silver spoons. Another good spot for white bass fishing at Indian is in the tailwater gabion dam area.

Hoover Reservoir anglers are making very good catches of white bass in the Galena area, where the bass are presently concentrated. Catches of up to 23 per fisherman have been reported. Suggested lures include small silver or gold spoons and doll flies.

Buckeye Lake anglers have had only sporadic success on the white bass so far this spring. Recent concentrations of bass sighted in the lake and the fact that those bass which are being taken are males suggests that the major spawning run may be ahead.

Glass--Unseen Hazard

By VIRGINIA KNAUER
Special Assistant to President Nixon
for Consumer Affairs

Do you remember the Greek legend of Damocles, the courtier permitted to become king for a day?

He discovered that as a condition of occupying the throne he would have to sit all day beneath a dagger-sharp sword suspended by a single hair.

Needless to say, he gave up his royal privileges in a hurry.

You and your family may be subject to a very similar hazard without knowing it. If the glass doors, storm doors, glass panels and shower and bath-tub enclosures in your home are not made of safety glazing materials, you could trip or fall through them--or walk through them, mistaking them for open space--and be injured by broken glass. The result could be disfigurement or hospitalization. Or you might die from loss of blood before medical help arrives.

Worse yet, all these things could happen to your child. U.S. Public Health Service statistics indicate that of an estimated 225,000 Americans injured or killed each year by broken glass, about half arechildren 14 and under.

Too often, people assume that the glass used in household construction is as durable as that used for automobile windows. Unfortunately this is rarely the case.

Safety glazing materials, however, have long been available. These include tempered (heat-strengthened) glass, laminated glass (plastic between two layers of glass), wire-mesh glass and rigid plastics.

Tempered glass in particular is three to five times stronger than ordinary glass and only slightly more expensive. When it does break, tempered glass forms relatively harmless round chunks resembling rock salt.

Building codes in certain areas are being updated, and 22 states have recently enacted glass-safety legislation. But many homes are not protected by these measures or were constructed before they went into effect.

Therefore, you should protect yourself and your family from the hazard of glass breakage by specifying safety glazing materials when building a new house and by replacing broken glass only with safety materials. Of course, you might consider replacing present glass with safety materials before someone has an accident.

But even if you do install safety materials in your home, you don't want anyone walking into them. Decals, screens, well placed furniture and other devices can warn your family and friends about a glass door or glass panel and prevent injuries.

Fortunately, you don't have to give up the benefits of glass to avoid the hazards the way Damocles gave up his royal luxuries to avoid the sword.

For more information, contact the Consumer Safety Glazing Committee, One Gateway Center, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15222, or the National Safety Council, 425 N. Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60611. Or you may write to the Bureau of Product Safety Room 340, Food and Drug Administration, 5401 Westbard Ave., Bethesda, Md. 20016. FDA is currently conducting a program to promote safety glazing legislation in the states.

Walks Set At Parks

The popular series of Sunday bird and wildflower walks will continue through Sunday, May 21 at the Metropolitan Parks. A number of the more than 200 species of birds and 100 types of wildflowers found in the parks are gone for this year but many remain to be seen, heard, and enjoyed. Meet at the Walden Building at Blendon Woods, the trading post at Blacklick Woods, and Cedar Ridge Lodge at Darby Creek at 8 a.m. for the bird walks or 2 p.m. for the flower walks.

Frog Walk: This program, consisting of an indoor session of slides and tape recordings followed by a nocturnal walk along the swamp trails, is set for Saturday, May 20, at 9 p.m. at Blacklick and Blendon Woods and Darby Creek Metropolitan Parks. Bring a flashlight and insect repellent.

Children's Nature Walks featuring "The Park and Its Wildlife" are scheduled for 1 and 3 p.m. Saturday, May 20, at the Blacklick Woods Nature Center.

Will He Be Remembered?

SOMEWHERE in Franklin County lies a soldier in a weed-covered grave whose tombstone is all but blotted out by the undergrowth. He, and others, lie in honored soil where time has taken its toll. Monday is Memorial Day. As the nation's flags fly at half staff and the red poppies, flowers and small flags are placed on other graves we wonder if he will be remembered, or forgotten?

A TEMPORARY SOLUTION

Double Sessions Get Board Okay

Madison-Local School Board members Monday night approved double sessions for the Junior High School for the 1972-73 school year and okayed schedules and curriculum changes.

Double sessions were agreed upon due to overcrowded conditions at the school.

SCHOOL SUPT. Philip Williams said the school could see at least 75 more students enrolled next year.

He said it was difficult on the teachers and on the students in this kind of situation and felt for the present double sessions were the best answer.

Under the schedule as passed eighth graders would attend the morning session and seventh graders in the afternoon.

EACH SESSION would be four hours and 40 minutes long with six class periods. There would be no lunch program.

Teachers on the morning schedule would have a six hour and 45 minute day and those on the afternoon will have a six hour 25 minute day.

Guidance, library, secretarial and administrative personnel would maintain a regular duty day.

UNDER CURRICULUM changes the school would eliminate ability grouping, offer eighth grade physical education as an elective and drop algebra in the eighth grade.

Board member John Stout questioned the dropping of algebra from the schedule.

Williams explained that by offering the subject only once a day, it reduced the flexibility of scheduling and made it harder to balance class sizes.

IT WAS ALSO pointed out that school personnel had been considering dropping the program anyway.

Williams said the students would not be missing anything just delaying the course a year until they get into high school.

Both seventh and eighth graders will take five required courses and one elective course.

FOR SEVENTH graders the electives consists of band, chorus or study hall. For eighth grade students the electives will be band, chorus, physical education or a study hall.

Williams said double sessions would necessitate the spliting of the seventh and eighth graders into separate sports teams rather than varsity and reserves.

He said practice for eighth graders could be after 2 p.m. and for seventh graders after approximately 5:15 p.m.

ITEMS RELATED to the double sessions but just under consideration at the present time include teacher conference periods and tentative class times.

Under the tentative time schedule, eighth graders could begin class at 7:30 a.m. and be out by 12:10 p.m. Teachers for that session would then be on duty from 7:15 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Seventh graders could attend from 12:35 until 5:15 p.m., with teachers on duty from 11 a.m. until 5:25.

WILLIAMS SAID this could only be set up tentatively until bus schedules are arranged.

At an earlier meeting Williams said double sessions were not to be considered a final solution but just as the temporary answer until more buildings are completed.

The school board is presently looking for architects for a new elementary and junior high building.

GAS QUESTIONABLE

Eastland Must Study Fuel Need For School

The Eastland board of education met May 17 and one major item of business that remains unsolved is how to heat the new addition soon to be under construction.

The Columbia Gas of Ohio representatives, James Frost and Rod Matter, who attended the meeting did not give the board any committment from the Gas Company.

THE BOARD would have several alternatives if the Gas Company refuses service. The board could appeal to the Public Utilities Commission or switch to another form of heat, such as oil.

Further study and meetings are planned on the situation.

IN OTHER board action, the board:

- Authorized the clerk-treasurer to invest $145,000.00 in inactive interim funds with the Ohio State Bank at 5 percent interest.
- Received the communications and public relations report for the month of April.
- Approved the final drawings and specifications for the new addition and various remodeling projects.
- Authorized the clerk-treasurer to advertise for bids on all construction projects. Bids are to be opened and tabulated July 11, 1972 at 2 p.m.
- Re-employed non-certificated personnel and established their salaries for 1972-73.
- Adopted additional textbooks for various trade and industrial education programs.
- Approved necessary Student Activity Account Transfers and discussed the monthly report for April.
- Granted a one year leave of absence to William Powell, Carpentry Instructor, who has been named as a candidate to the Ohio Vocational Leadership Supervisory Personnel Development Program, provided that a satisfactory substitute is available.
- Approved additional Adult Education Programs and employed the instructors.
- Received a report that during the 1971-72 school year, 2407 adults have been enrolled in 131 different programs in adult education.
- Employed three instructors for summer equipment maintenance projects.
- Authorized the purchase of a 1972 Chevrolet pick-up truck for use by the Maintenance Department.
- Discussed a work copy for a future policy regarding the termination of a teacher's contract.
- Received reports from the Director of Vocational Education and the Director of Pupil Personnel regarding summer school, the early placement program, enrollment for 1972-73, and the Program Review for improvement, Development, and Expansion in Vocational Education.
- Changed the date of the regular June meeting from June 21 to June 13 due to a conflict with the Buckeye Association of School Administrator's Summer Conference.

Deadlines Advanced

Due to the Memorial Day holiday Monday, The Spectator Newspapers must advance deadlines for May 31 editions.

All news copy must be received by NOON FRIDAY for publication in the May 31 edition. Deadline for all display advertising will also be Friday noon. The classified advertising deadline will be as usual – Tuesday noon.

All Spectator offices (except editorial and production) will close at 5 p.m. Friday and not reopen until Tuesday morning, May 30. Editorial offices will close at noon Saturday.

CPS Student Concerns Aired Before Board

You're talking to the most opinionated group in the world," Dr. Watson Walker warned members of the Student Forum, who appeared before the Columbus Board of Education yesterday to express their concerns.

"But don't give up," Walker said. Telling the teenagers that their efforts might seem like the timeless dripping of water against a stone, he encouraged them with the thought that eventually their efforts would be rewarded, and that, in the meantime, at least they knew the board members were "human beings."

SITTING as a committee-of-the-whole, board members had just received reports from Myron Kirkpatrick, budget director, and from Harold Nester, chairman of the Planning Committee for the Metropolitan Career Center.

Kirkpatrick's report was a welcome one, indicating that Columbus is well on its way to developing Planning, Programming, Budgeting System (PPBS) for the school district, and implementation is at least on the horizon.

Similarly, Nestor's report was enthusiastically received. Working within the framework of board guidelines the committee has developed goals and recommendations that promise to make the facility at Fort Hayes a national model.

HOWEVER, when the students of the Senior High School Student Interest Forum spoke (at board invitation), members were eagerly attentive.

Many, apparently for the first time, were hearing "from the horse's mouth" the things they have long suspected about Columbus Public Schools, its staff and the students.

The Forum was formed early this year at the direction of the board, in an effort to improve student relations and to give the board direct student imput.

TUESDAY'S appearance was the group's first before the board, although they announced they will be back once a month in the future. Together, they represent every high school in the system.

Their concerns are varied--ranging from drugs and sex to curriculum and communication.

Generally named through the student councils of their respective schools, the students probably represent the more conservative elements of the student bodies, but they well expressed the opinions of all students "who care."

TYPICAL OF the dissatisfactions with the faculty were the views expressed by Patricia Grashel, West High alternate, who pleaded with the board to get rid of teachers who teach the same thing, year after year.

"New teachers with new ideas, and we'd be more interested," she said.

Teacher apathy was also mourned. Dave Hamerdoff of Eastmoor asked for further training of teachers, not to improve their knowledge of subject matter, but of how to reach the student who is "slipping away."

WITH THE most stresses on vocational and occupational education, it was strange to hear Bonnie Harlan of Central demand an "overhaul" of curriculum.

A straight A student, she stated she anticipated big trouble in college next year, in competition with students who have already been exposed to philosophy, psychology and other subjects not available to her at Central.

She made it very clear that "one" good English teacher in an entire high school was inadequate.

CECILIA KEETON of Linden-McKinley stressed the importance of drug and sex education before students reach high school, and are already in a life pattern.

"In my neighborhood I know a 12-year-old that is pregnant," she said, "and an 11-year-old junkie."

Bill Weethee of Marion Franklin spoke of the total disinterest of students who are too apathetic to do anything "but just sit and complain."

RON SEIZERT of Whetstone deplored the drug problem at Whetstone where, he states, drugs are bought in the restrooms (a situation pointed out by several other students). He stated that a system of self-policing suggested by the administration just didn't work, with hazing of anyone who reported another student.

Jay Louks at Brookhaven rebutted this to a degree, stating the students known as "The Goodies" (apparently he is one) are talking to known drug users and getting at least superficial results.

MANY ILL

Mental illness occurs at all ages, including childhood. There are about 500,000 mentally ill children in the United States classified as psychotic or borderline cases. Most of these children are suffering from a psychiatric disorder known as childhood schizophrenia.

MANY SEEK HELP

During a one-week period in July 1967, psychiatrists in private practice saw about 49,600 children (under 12) and adolescents (12-17 years). This figure represents about 24 percent of all patients (207,400) seen by psychiatrists in private practice.

The Innovation Gap

The Big Three of automobile manufacturers have never before been stymied by the challenges of competition.

A more efficient internal combustion engine marketed by one merely prodded the others to develop models with more horsepower and one manufacturer's brain storm in design was met with renewed effort at the drawing boards.

But today, faced with the demand to produce cars that will no longer poison the air and safety devices that will prevent a "fender bender" from being a financial debacle and a 20 mile per hour collision a fatality, the automotive giants are--at least superficially--throwing in the towel.

The industry is presenting a united front, contending that present-day technology is not equal to the demands made.

It is easy to concede that the catalytic converters necessary to purify exhaust fumes could not be designed and made ready for the production lines overnight.

But the Clean Air Act was enacted in 1970, and it does not mandate such converters until 1975 models are available-almost 30 months from now.

Whether these converters add $50 or $600 to the cost of a car is actually immaterial. Pollution is an enemy which must be vanquished and mass production, coupled with the pressures of competition, will eventually bring the price of cars so equipped into line.

Similarly, any manufacturer who claims his corporation is unable to build a vehicle which cannot withstand a reasonable degree of impact is insulting the intelligence of the American car owner.

Cars that did not crumple were on the market before World War II--and they can be brought back again.

It is possible that esthetics may have to be sacrificed in the effort to call a halt on highway mortality--and that manufacturers will be forced to share with consumers the cost of saving our environment.

Furthermore, in a nation based upon capitalism, it is not an easy pill to swallow for corporations to jeapordize their profit margins-- or even their image with a model with an ungainly bumper.

But cries of persons such as Henry Ford II claiming that most automobile manufacturing will be shut down in 1975 if further delay is not granted has the ring of insincerity--and the look of a bluff worthy of someone playing their cards close to the vest.

It's impossible to believe that Detroit is suddenly bereft of the technical genius that has thrived since the time of the Model T.

It is high time Ford, Chrysler, General Motors and the others stop the play-acting and get down to the unpleasant, but vital, task at hand.

The histrionics are beginning to pall.

Keeping The Peace

Police Chief Earl Burden, Safety Director Bernard Chupka and the rank and file of the Columbus Police Department came out of last week's OSU campus disturbances smelling like the proverbial rose.

Commendation of the professional conduct evident by officers on the scene and at headquarters by a spokesman of the Columbus Bar Association is an unprecedented tribute to restrained law enforcement.

The discretion displayed by the police was undoubtedly a major factor in keeping the damages to $3,000 and personal injuries minimal.

But the utterances of Harold Enarson, president-elect of the University are less than assuring to those who hope for relative campus peace.

Although declining to "second guess" how the situation should have been handled since he was in Cleveland, Enarson could not have failed to add fuel to the fire of unrest in expressing his personal distaste for conduct of the war in Vietnam.

Publicity on his wire of protest to President Nixon is an open bid for further campus protest.

Emarson's statement that his views are made in a "purely private capacity" does not lessen their impact on students eager for an official ally.

We fully respect the incoming president's right to his personal philosophy, but we question the right of a man in his position to make this philosophy public.

We have no way of knowing whether Emarson's espousal of the anti-war cause would lead him to the extremes taken by Amherst President John Ward West who was recently arrested when he took part in a sit-down strike at Westover Air Force Base.

We certainly hope not--the idea of an OSU president blockading the entrance to Lockbourne AFB is one that should give Columbus police nightmares for weeks to come.

The problem of keeping legitimate--or illegitimate--protests peaceful is a monumental task, and the spectre of Emarson's taking a position on the cheering lines is a frightening one.

Of Fleeting Fame

The take over of the Franklin County Democratic Committee by Nelson Lancione is a fait accompli.

The reign of George Twyford and Dick Ryan is over—but it should not be forgotten.

Not too many years, ago, Twyford was the fair-haired boy of party insurgents who felt the Old Guard of the Democratic Party was out-moded and out-of-step with current party philosophy.

Yet, after Twyford came into power, little was changed.

Lancione now has the opportunity to bring together the various factions supporting him--and those that don't--into a smooth-sailing political machine.

If he fails this responsibility, history will repeat itself, and it will only be a matter of time before a new group, with a new set of initials, attempts to unseat him.

With the appointment of 32 additional committeemen probable with increase of Columbus wards (designed to wrest committee control from the suburbs), Lancione's titular leadership will be firmly entrenched for the immediate future.

But the bigger they are, the harder they fall. And Lancione's very strength makes him vulnerable.

With a lot of reserve horsepower at one's command, one is inclined to be a road hog.

If Lancione misuses his strength to ride rough shod over the concerns of those not in his political baliwick, the dissidents will eventually instigate another rebellion.

Should the Lancione regime be distinguished by something other than its brevity, its leadership best mend the fences and establish the unity of purpose and effort that has been lacking.

Oppression of minority interests can make kings--and just as certainly topple them.

Gun Control

Once again, in the wake of the attempt made on Gov. George Wallace's life, the standards of anti-gun legislation are being inflicted.

Why are the merits of such legislation headlined only after an assassination attempt?

Gun laws, past, present or future, are not going to end attacks on public figures.

One cannot legislate away psychopaths and the person bent on assassination will resort to a sling shot, if necessary, to reach his target.

We do not particularly support the lobbying efforts of the National Rifle Association, which seems to confuse the privilege of unbridled gun ownership with the right to bear arms.

But we cannot see the logic of instituting gun control as a weapon against assassination--or murder.

The attack on Wallace with a high quality, registered pistol employed (similar to that used to murder Robert Kennedy,) tends to show that the Gun Control Act of 1968, at best, makes it easy to trace the source of the assassin's bullet.

Consideration of better gun control legislation is certainly long overdue--but not as a panic reaction to a public tragedy against which neither Congress nor the Ten Commandments can effectively legislate.

May Flowers

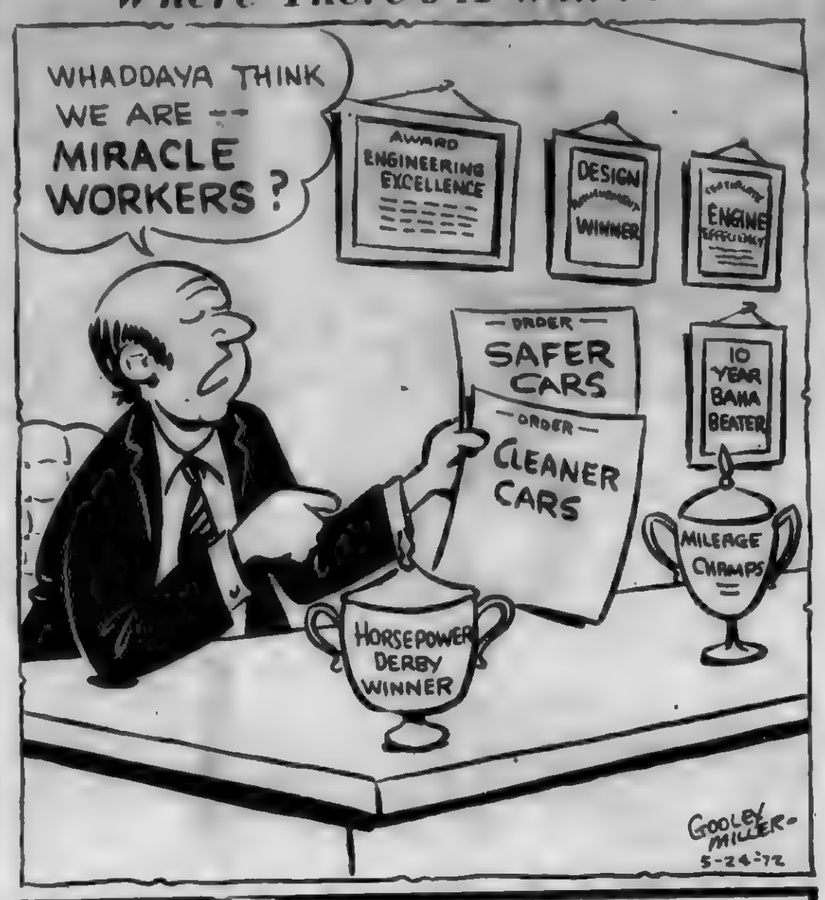
We all know that April showers bring May flowers.

But it remains a mystery just who dunned city workers for a May Flower fund.

With appropriate rites, Mayor Tom Moody laid the fund to rest immediately after taking office last January, but now it appears the body is a restless corpse and has returned to stalk the halls of the Department of Sewage and Drainage.

And Mayor Moody isn't happy with the apperition and is determined it shall return to the grave.

At this point whether some well-meaning party faithful, sadly misreading Moody's allergy to involuntary political contributions, is responsible for the resurrection or whether a wheeling, dealing grave robber is loose is a moot point.



But one thing seems clear.

City workers' faith in the new administration's dedication to a City Hall free of kick-backs is a tremulous thing.

They are too well "conditioned."

Give them a brown envelope and they reach for their wallets.

Where There's A Will . . .

Reader Backs Nixon's Decision

To the Editor:

There are many in our nation who believe that leaving a poor and desperate people to the Communists is a road to peace.

As children of God, how can we possibly abandon our brothers in their time of need? Peace can never be achieved by closing our eyes to the needs of others.

Wouldn't you say peace – true peace – is love, charity and giving?

The cancerous aims of Communism spread, leaving a trail of desparation, leaving a man without his freedom of religion, thought, word or deed, living in constant fear.

In standing by and abandoning this fight for freedom, we are condoning it. We are approving Communism. Compromise with tyranny and it grows stronger.

There are some of us who protest against the United States' so-called "aggresion" in mining Haiphong Harbor. Have the Viet Cong stopped their invasion?

There is a minority here in the U.S. whose voices are being heard in these anti-war protests. There are many of us who are incapable of being heard through newspapers headlines.

Their views are lying dormant in the fear of unpopularity. These are the people who must speak up. You are not being heard.

Only the noisy protesters are influencing Congress as the voice of the people. President Nixon is finding means to an end. I personally salute his leadership and good judgement. Great men are made of deeds like this.

We have elected this man as a leader in a time of difference in opinion. Most of us have varied views within ourselves at this time. Give him the freedom to do the job to the best of his ability. Stop stifling his efforts and allow him to pursue all channels.

The president is not acting alone. He is the one man having the most information. He has a number of advisors and each has influence. I believe that political undermining would have us believe he is acting as a dictator.

We are all to blame for the ununited situation of the United States. These people protesting our aid to Vietnam will be the first to point their finger when Communism grows and pounces on other small, powerless countries one by one.

Can we stand by and watch this? I see its poisonous fruit undermining our own country. I believe its influence is swaying the views in our country, causing restlessness.

We must believe in our elected chief in this crisis. He is not free to pursue all possibilities unless we unite in his support. It is the duty of each and every one of us to, in every way possible, promote unity in our president's views.

We cannot allow our views to be translated by others as indifference. If we each pursue one media, one way of making our position of unity heard, we will win our cause.

I believe this is the right cause. I urge you all to write to the newspapers, Congressmen and every other channel, so that we may encourage the fearful, and influence the undecided.

This is truly an issue on which we cannot hesitate. Your letters are needed now!

Let's Stop The 'Real' Pushers

To the Editor:

Your article entitled "Drug Informers" in the May 17 edition of the Spectator left me with feelings that are difficult to describe.

I became aware of the program, "Turn in a Pusher' when it's message was included in the junior high school bulletin sent home this past winter.

And now, just to add insult to injury, I read where Rep. Alan Norris will introduce legislation that would give cash awards to informers.

Just in case he isn't aware, I would like to remind Rep. Norris that the public does provide funds through taxes designed to protect us from just such evils as drugs.

It is no secret that the Food and Drug Administration has failed miserably in the area of over-the-counter drugs, permitting many to be sold which are either useless or harmful.

And while we are on the subject of drug pushers, when will the Federal Communications Commission do something about the number one drug pusher--television?

People we wouldn't invite into our home are able to come into our living rooms with their subtle (and sometimes not so subtle) brainwash technique of convincing all of us, and particularly children, that there is a simple and quick answer to all life's problems and tensions and it can be found in something you just pop into your mouth.

Some of us are beginning to understand that those people we put into positions of power stack these commissions with men who are not going to compromise their investments or those of friends and campaign contributors.

Another governmental agency which must shoulder responsibility for this malaise in our society is the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Many of us will consider it a joyous day when the Mafia is dealt with harshly instead of Catholic nuns and priests who protest the war.

And so, Mr. Norris, cut the comedy. The situation is rough and none of us are laughing.

We, the people, will cooperate when we are convinced that our public officials have remembered something about "the common good", and will carry out their obligation to us instead to that small percentage of corporate managers who control or own most of the money in this country.

In the meantime, don't indulge in the hypocrisy of turning our children into paid informers against their peers when most of the problem lies with those middle and upper class men who drive home from the office in chauffer-driven limousines.

Who Was Untruthful ?

To the Editor:

I was disturbed in reading your "COTA Post-Mortem" editorial of May 17, in which you characterized my presentation on the COTA issue as being a "hodge-podge of truth, half truths and untruths".

In all my written and oral presentations to the media I presented the basis for my conclusions. COTA concluded the tax levy would generate three million per year for 10 years (30 million), while I made an historical analysis of the growth in our real estate tax base and, projecting the same for ten years, estimated the levy would conservatively generate 37 million dollars.

The very date COTA declared my 37 million figure to be an untruth, I received from the County Auditor a signed statement that the levy would "conservatively" generate $36,725,000. Who was untruthful?

I also demonstrated that one-tenth of the levy would have been sufficient to match federal funding for the acquisition and operate the system with 1-½ million dollars profit as a result of COTA's not paying federal, state or local taxes. This money would go a long way in providing more and better service. Who was untruthful?

We are all for good mass transit, but that does not mean that we should approve an unjustified tax to support it. Just as a housewife should not and would not pay $2. for a quart of "needed" milk, the voters should not and did not pay an exorbitant price for a "needed" transportation service.

Nor does the tone and tenor of your editorial engender confidence in the public's "need" for objective news editorials or lend encouragement to the need for responsible individuals to speak out on public issues.

YOUTH Rostrum

IF YOU WERE TO ADD AND DELETE ONE REQUIRED COURSE FROM THE HIGH SCHOOL REQUIREMENTS, WHAT WOULD THEY BE?

Respondents:
WORTHINGTON HIGH SCHOOL

The required course system presently utilized by the Worthington High School does not indeed provide a "broad base" for students. However, the validity of the theory supporting the "broad base" system is doubtful. During the high school years, many students establish strong field preferences. Hence, there can be no doubt that the present system is not directional enough. It would be preferable, then, to require standard courses in the ninth and tenth grades, along with some open electives. The final two years of high school could then be used to complete a "broad base" system, or be devoted to the individual student's preferred fields. JIM EGAN.

I believe that the fourth year of English should be elective. This would give the student a choice, a chance to plan his needs for the future. Perhaps, a college bound student would elect fourth year where a student who never enjoyed English or one that is going into a business field would not. I believe that the three years of English should be required and should be taken in 9th-11th grades. I think this background is necessary for communicating and understanding English now and in the future. I would not require a replacement but give the student the freedom to choose among courses which he might not otherwise be able to take. -ADELE KRAUS

Required courses should be dropped. However, a student should be made aware of various requirements for entrance in institutions of higher education. Required courses as of now include four years of English, three years of social studies and mathematics and one year each of science and Interdisciplinary studies. This amounts to 11½ credits. Approximately 17 are needed for graduation. This means that two-thirds of the credits required for graduation have been pre-set for the student. A typical schedule would mean four required courses as a freshman and three for the other three years. However, this is not all that one must take into account. One must have two majors (three years of a subject) and two minors (two years of a subject). This imposes the student with at least two required courses in math, science, or history. Hence the percentage of required and pre-set courses is upped to 75 percent leaving little option to the student. -KEN IMBODEN

At present time the physical education program is structured so that gym is taken by freshmen, juniors and seniors for a total or six semesters. Sophomores take Interdisciplinary studies in place of physical education. The six semesters of gym are only attended every other day. Opposite gym days study halls are the only alternative. We are proposing that the requirements for physical education be fulfilled in three semesters by attending classes every day during one's freshman year and the first semester of the junior year. This would condense the required time spent in physical education classes form 3 years to 1½. It would also eliminate the wasted time spent sitting in study halls. The second semesters of junior year, and the entire senior year the student may choose to elect gym or any other course available. By putting this plan into operation, the student will have three semesters free from physical education, using time to its maximum advantage, and giving him the option of choosing the direction his education is to take. -JILL WHITNEY-VALEIE SECKLER

I would remove senior physical education as a required course. I would make it an elective because a senior might want to take this instead of study hall. I feel by the time a student is a senior, he or she should pretty well know the rules for softball, and is able to serve a volley ball correctly. This time could be used for something the individual student would want to do. Students could do an independent study on an area of interest to him, or a group study could be organized. I feel this type of study would benefit the student more for preparing him for college or life in general. -LINDA WRIGHT.

I would change the history program at this school. The class is too formal and nothing important is learned. A better type of class would be a type of rap session where we could talk about more important topics which are taking place now. I have long felt that this is one of the most important areas lacking in Worthington High School. -BOB ERSKINE

If I had the power to get rid of any course, I would remove physical education from the list of required senior courses. I feel that gym, although fun, could be replaced by other classes of much more value. The set-up of the physical education program today tends to waste valuable time which the student could use to channel his other, more important interests into. The students need the class time taken up by gym to place more specialized courses into. -TERESA LIMMERICH

I would drop senior gym class, because we've already had 11 years of phys-ed, and seniors are busy enough to make better use of that time. -DAVID HUTSON

I would remove government and change it to a course in psychology. Government can be taught in another course and a full course is ridiculous. -MARK YOUNG

I don't believe physical education should be required after the sophomore year. From my experience, we don't get much out of it anyway. I feel history should be required, but there should be a choice on the type of history course as there is in the English department. -CINDY VANERMAN

Drop required physical education and make it optional during the senior year. Have more options available for history and English courses, since they are required. They should be kept as required subjects, but more variety should be added. (Students should be allowed to choose which course they want from each of these subjects.) Government should be made optional and not required in the senior year. -DARA LACEY

The required course I would do away with is physical education. I could find a better subject to take than phys. ed., that would be worth more than ½ credit. The school system should get it up so maybe the seniors could choose. It would be optional. There is so much study hall time where some but not all people just sleep. Just wasted time. No credit. -ROSSANA CAVTELA

If there was one course I would get rid of, it would be physical education after the sophomore year. I think that if you would just take it a full year for two years, that is plenty. If someone wanted to take physical education, after the sophomore year, they could. Physical education is just a waste of time, after you get dressed and find out what you're supposed to do, you have about 20 minutes of class until you have to get dressed again. It really doesn't help anyone to stay physically fit. -NANCY DEPAUL

If I could get rid of one required course I would remove physical education. I don't really feel that physical education at this time, is doing much good. It's fun for those that like to play sports, but for others it's a waste of time. I think a much more fulfilling course could be substituted for those that don't want to take physical education. I don't think it's necessary that I should be learning basketball rules or how to canoe, but those that like learning these things should be given the opportunity. -DONNA HEGWOOD

And feelings about the senior physical education classes range from great to putrid depending on the individual. It is evident that some see it as a relaxing period while others view it as a complete waste of time. If a senior is to develop the responsibility needed to be an "adult" shouldn't he at least be able to choose his courses? -FRANK GRENIER

BUSINESS IN ACTION

MEET YOUR PERSONAL SERVICE INDEPENDENT BUSINESSMAN

By profession, William Barenow is an engineer, but as area director for General Business Services he has the answers to your business management problems — whether your own a bar, a florist shop, a corner grocery store or an auto parts shop, are a small manufacturer, or a practicing physician or attorney. The reason behind the failure of small businesses, 88 per cent of the time, is faulty bookkeeping. And according to the Congressional Record, no business which has subscribed to GBS for two years has ever failed. Whether your problems lie within record keeping, billing, tax forms or collections — or whether you simply want to know where you've been, where you stand, and where you're going, Barenow can help—and at nominal fees. Why not give him a ring at his office, 235-6352 or drop him a line at 3823 Dehner Dr. Columbus, 43227?

Daily Bookkeeping Deficiencies Pace Business Mortality Rate

The romance of starting "your own business" spawns 1500 new ventures daily in the United States.

Unfortunately, the mortality rate is appallingly high. Half of them fail to make it through the first 18 months.

What happens to the well-intentioned, hard-working small businessman who falls by the wayside?

In 88 per cent of the instances, the answer is simple bookkeeping.

The owner simply failed to establish the bookkeeping system that could have warned him of financial shoals in time for him to rechart his course.

Increasing public awareness of this fact and the time proven success of General Business Services has made a businessman out of an engineer.

He is Richard E. Barenow, area director of GBS, who offers complete business services to the small businessman.

Franchised by GBS, a coast-to-coast firm, Barenow works with his clients upon the magic of seven words, "How can I really help this man?"

Several years ago the magazine "Nations Business" gave the answer why businesses go broke.

"They keep too many records, or not enough."

It was further pointed out that every new bookkeeper adds something else to the stack of paper work, but seldom eliminates any.

The GBS system offered by Barenow does away with paper shuffling and gives the client a simplified procedure, designed by experts and tailored to his exact needs that, to be kept up to date, requires only 15 or 20 minutes a day of his or a secretary's time.

From this limited effort on the customer's part, Barenow is able to provide him with the records necessary to a successful business—monthly profit and loss statements, a picture of where the business is going and warning signals when trouble lies ahead.

Inventory imbalance, collection problems, faulty capitalization and even the advisability of expansion are mirrored by the GBS systems.

And GBS services do not stop with bookkeeping per se.

The reliability of this service is reflected in the statistic that less than one-tenth of one per cents of GBS clients are ever charged with penalties and GBS then foots the bill.

An optional service Barenow offers is that of collection.

Through the copyright collection system of International Creditors Alliance, the bugaboo of accounts outstanding is minimized.

At an average cost of $1 per account, collections run about 70 percent of slow-moving and delinquent accounts—and customers are guaranteed double their money back anytime collections are not at least four times the cost of the service.

In the first seven years of operation, there were only two "payoffs.")

The computerized billing system that is an optional part of the service offered by Barenow makes the GBS systems particularly attractive to the professional man.

Doctors, lawyers, and others with monthly billings are able to turn over this chore to GBS computers and the problem is instantly solved.

Barenow who once sold his engineering expertise to North American is now selling the business expertise of a national concern to Columbus area businessmen.

But he is selling more than that. The GBS systems is the blue print to profits.

As one small businessman said, "If we ever had a fire, the first thing I'd grab would be our GBS system. Without it, we'd be lost."

Unfortunately, many small businesses who are without the GBS are lost—and don't even realize it.
